Two guerrillas free hostages, land in Libya

TUNIS (UPI) —Two Arab guerrillas who hijacked an Austrian train, took three Soviet Jews hostage but freed them after forcing Austria to agree to stop aiding Israelibound Jewish refugees, landed in Libya Saturday night in a light plane, the Libyan news agency reported.

The agency, in a dispatch monitored here, said the twinengined Cessna landed at the Okba Ibn Nafaa base at 6.30 p.m. (1:30 p.m. EDT). It said authorization for the landing was given by the Libyan government "for humanitarian reasons" after the two guerrillas threatened to blow up the plane in flight.

There was no immediate word of what happened to the guerrillas.

The base at which the plane landed is the former U.S. Wheelus Air Force base, renamed after the Libyan government ordered American servicemen to quit the base.

The end of the guerrillas' odyssey came 32 hours after they seized hostages aboard an emigrant train bringing out Jews from Russia and forced a major political concession from the Austrian government in return for their release.

The Austrian move stirred a storm of criticism in Austria, Israel and other countries. After the Austrians agreed to stop letting Soviet Jews transit through the country, th hijackers released their three Jewish hostages and an Austrian customs man they had also been holding.

Italian officials in Cagliari, Sardinia, had announced earlier they had word from the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafy that Libya would let the Palestinians land.

The hijackers were aboard a small, twin-engine Cesna aircraft given them by Austrian authorities to get them out of Vienna. It hopscotched across the Mediterranean, stopping often to land because of its short range.

Two Austrians were piloting the craft.

In the early hours of the day the guerrillas had freed the three Soviet Jews and an Austrian customs officer at the Vienna Airport. They had seized the four Friday when they held up a train from Moscow at the Czechoslovak border.

The guerrillas released the hostages unharmed after 15 hours, in return for the promise of the Austrian government to stop granting transit facilities to Eastern European Jews en route to Israel.

They then flew to Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, Palermo, Sicily and Cagliari to refuel, seeking landing clearance in North Africa at every stop along the way.

During the 4-½ hour wait on the tarmac at Cagliari, the Arabs threatened to kill the two Austrian crewmen unless given quick clearance to land at Djerba or Monastir in Tunisia.

Later, in a switch of tactics, they said they preferred Libya and were willing to wait at Cagliari until they got "authorization to go to the country of our choice."

Storm of protest against Austria halt of emigrants

VIENNA (UPI) — The Austrian government's decision to stop Soviet Jewish emigrants from using Austria as a way station to Israel provoked heavy criticism within the country and in other parts of the world.

"Chancellor (Bruno) Kreisky gave in to the guerrillas," the mass circulation newspaper, Kurier said. "The decision destroyed Austria's reputation to live up to the challenge of criticial situations."

Two Arab guerillas seized the Moscow-to-Vienna express train Friday and held three Russian Jews and a Austrian customs official hostage. The hostages were released and the two Arab gunmen took off in a small plane toward asylum Saturday.

The Austrian government in return for the release of the hostages will no longer permit Austria to be used as a transit point for Jewish emigrants.

Austrian police Saturday detained four Israeli security men who were attempting to guard Soviet Jews arriving at the same railroad station where Arabs kidnapped three Jews Friday.

Chancellor Bruno Kreisky revealed the detention in an interview. He said all four men were armed.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Premier Golda Meir called the Austrian decision, "astonishing." Other Israeli officials vowed to continue the flow of emigration.

The Israeli government recalled its ambassador to Vienna, Yitzhak Patish. A police spokesman said a reinforced guard has been posted at the Austrian embassy in downtown Tel Aviv in case of demonstrations against the decision.

An Austrian government spokesman said 66,000 Soviet Jews passed through Austria on their way to Israel during the past two years.

The American Jewish Committee in New York hoped the decison would be temporary. "Anything else would be too incredible to contemplate," the committee said."

In Washingon, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash, who called Austria "the Ellis Island of Europe," said the Viennese decision represents "the most serious and short-sighted submission to intimidation and blackmail."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn, said the closing of the transit facilities was a blow "to human rights, which always exceed national boundaries."

Kreisky, in his first statement after the release of the four hostages, said "the main thing for me was to save their lives. Everything else can be repaired."

713 for Aaron

ATLANTA (UPI) —Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, making a dramatic bid to become baseball's all-time home run king before the end of the season Sunday, hit the 713th homer of his career in the fifth inning off Houston's Jerry Reuss Saturday night to move within one clout of tying Babe Ruth's lifetime record.

Fire kills 9 in tenement

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UPI)—At least nine people died in a general-alarm fire that swept a tenement building early Saturday, police and fire officials said.

Firemen searching the wreckage of the half-collapsed, five-story building had recovered five bodies by Saturday evening. The bodies of at least four other persons believed trapped by the fire were buried beneath debris. officials said.

Eight other people were injured and 150 persons were forced to flee their homes in the blaze, which spread to three adjoining tenements.

None of the victims was identified.

Gas available--at higher price

By United Press International

American motorists didn't have any trouble finding gasoline Saturday. All they had to do was grin and bear another price hike.

Pump prices on gasoline jumped anywhere from a penny to 2 ½ cents a gallon in many parts of the country. Other station operators said they were planning to raise prices Monday after checking what the competition was doing.

Some operators indicated that competition would keep the hikes down to about a penny a gallon.

Friday's decision by the Cost of Living Council (CLC) to raise retail gas prices followed widespread protest shutdowns of stations across the country by operators who claimed they were being squeezed out of business by rising wholesale prices.

Cosmonauts down

MOSCOW (UPI) — The two-man Soyuz-12 spacecraft bumped to a safe landing on the plains of Central Asia Saturday, ending a two-day mission that prepared the way for a U.S.-Soviet linkup in space in 1975.

Truck driver stumbles in

UPLAND — A deliveryman making his rounds apparently arrived at a home outside the city Saturday afternoon moments after a 74-year-old man reportedly shot his wife, 69, in the heat of an argument, San Bernardino County Sheriff's spokesmen say.

Willard Connor was found suffering from an attack of emphysema possibly caused by an altercation in which his wife Edna D. Connor, was shot twice in the right chest, officers said. A truck driver bringing oxygen to the home at 2435 N. Fifth Ave. just outside city limits, called police at 1:10 p.m., apparently just after the incident, according to the department.

Mrs. Connor is in "very critical" condition at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, detectives related. Her husband has been booked at San Bernardino County Jail on charges of attempted murder.

West End sheriff's substation personnel gave this account of the shooting:

Conner and his wife apparently were involved in an argument, during which she was shot with a .38-caliber revolver. The deliveryman arrived shortly after that to find Willard Connor standing over his wife in the kitchen. The deliveryman called Upland police, which notified the sheriff's substation, and sent a man to the scene. He called a rescuscitator from the Upland Fire Department and an ambulance.

After receiving aid at the scene, Connor was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital, treated, and released to the sheriff's department.

Officers said they are still investigating the incident.

'I'm innocent target, won't resign'—Agnew

SUPPORT FOR AGNEW

Vice President Spiro Agnew meets with admirers after speaking before the National Federation of Republican Women in Los Angeles Saturday. In a blistering speech, the Vice President reaffirmed that he will not resign his office because of the Maryland Grand Jury investigation of him.

Speech blasts Justice Dept. 'bunglers'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, charging he was the innocent target of embarrassed Justice Department prosecutors who bungled Watergate, declared twice before cheering Republicans Saturday that "I will not resign if indicted."

In a nationally televised speech interrupted repeatedly by applause, Agnew said there were "people who are trying to destroy me politically" with trumped-up charges, and he singled out Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen for what he called "unprofessional and malicious and outrageous" conduct.

Speech excerpts, A-2

Agnew's charge prompted Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson to issue a statement in Washington defending Petersen, chief of the Justice Department's criminal division, as a "distinguished government lawyer (who) is greatly respected by his colleagues in law enforcement."

Richardson pointedly said he assumed full responsibility for Petersen's performance in overseeing the government investigation of Agnew for possible tax, extortion, bribery and conspiracy violations. Evidence involving Agnew went to a federal grand jury in Baltimore, Md., on Thursday.

Laying aside the text of a subdued prepared speech, Agnew told a convention of 2,700 Republican women here that the allegations under grand jury investigation were "outrageous and ridiculous," and that he would fight them to the finish.

"The conduct of high individuals in the Department of Justice —particularly the conduct of the chief of the criminal investigation division of that department —is unprofessional and malicious and outrageous," Agnew said.

Agnew also portrayed himself as a victim of unnamed persons in Maryland, where he formerly was Baltimore County executive and state governor.

At the close of his speech before a convention of the National Federation of Republican Women, Agnew brought the audience to its feet in thunderous applause when he said:

"Because of these tactics which have been employed against me, because small and fearful men have been frightened into furnishing evidence against me —they have perjured themselves in many cases, it's my understanding — I will not resign if indicted...I will not resign if indicted!"

The crowd waved arms, whistled, cheered and clambered onto chairs as Agnew thanked the GOP women for "hearing me out" and declared: "I intend to stay and fight."

Neither the White House nor the Justice Department commented on the vice president's speech.

During his nationally televised half-hour address, which was interrupted 32 times by applause, the vice president said that "for the past several months I've been living in purgatory" because of the investigation and the rumors swirling about him.

"I want to say at this point, clearly and unequivocably I am innocent of the charges against me," Agnew said as delegates broke into a 45-second cheer led by women waving pom-poms.

Expected to announce Monday

Hafif in governor race?

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Hafif has scheduled a news conference for 9:30 a.m. at the Los Angeles Press Club to release the results of a 60-day, statewide organizational effort, which likely will be the basis for his announcement.

"That's probably what's going to happen," said Paul Mandabach, campaign coordinator, when asked if the conference would include a formal announcement by Hafif.

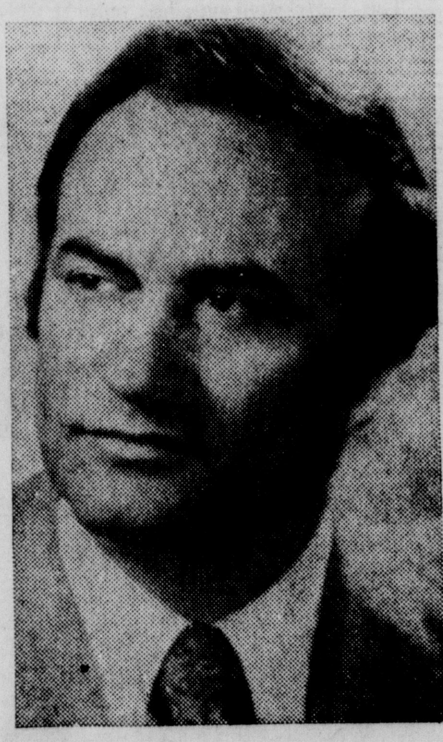
If he does Hafif will become the second person from Claremont to formally declare his intention to seek the state's top political position.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, a former area assemblyman and a government professor at Pomona College, said Sept. 18 he would seek the Republican nomination.

Hafif is one of seven prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination, which will be decided in a primary next June. The others are Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, State Sen. George Moscone, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, Rep. Jerome Waldie, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, Jr., and millionarire businessman William Matson Roth.

So far, only Waldie and Roth have made formal announcements. Alioto is expected to follow suit Tuesday night at a press conference in San Francisco.

Although Hafif is a relatively obscure contender compared to some of the other candidates, he is not an unknown. A nationally recognized attorney, Hafif is a past president of the California Trial Lawyers Assoc., was Los Angeles County Lawyer of 1972, and was recently named national consumer advocate by the American Trial Lawyers Assoc.



HERB HAFIF

During the past two months, he has quietly been touring the state building up grass-roots organizational support for his campaign. He claims that each appearance has drawn from 300 to 800 people, and that he now has the services of over 2,000 volunteer workers.

"If and when I announce, I guarantee that it will have significance, and it will indicate strong organizational strength throughout the state," Hafif told the Progress-Bulletin recently.

He described his campaign as a "people's movement," and he said it would be free of Madison Avenue type "gimmicks."

"We'll leave the $1,000-a-plate dinners to the others, and we'll go after the people," he said.

Until now, his campaign has received sparse coverage by the press, but he says he wanted it that way.

"You are either sincere in starting a people's movement or using people as a backdrop. The public and the press know the difference," Halfif said.

"It's a much more meaningful accomplishment to achieve strong organizational support without press coverage. It then becomes reasonable to seek press coverage of an event—an actual event which has happened.

"I know that's an unorthodox approach, but I believe you can't have organizational efforts and public hokum going on at the same time.

"At this point the people are interested in the new boy in tow," Hafif said. "In past gubernatorial elections, the issue has always been the man."

Officer tried to save life of shot suspect

Gas attendant is kidnaped by motorist, robbed

POMONA — A Pomona service station attendant was kidnaped and robbed early Saturday morning by a man who forced the victim to drive him to Baldwin Park.

Jose Adolfro Gonzales 18, was just closing the Standard Station at 3190 Temple Blvd., when the suspect drove in with a flat tire and asked Gonzales to change it, police said.

The man, described as being 28 to 30 years old, 5 feet and 10 and weighing about 180 pounds, simulated possession of a gun and ordered Gonzales into the car after the tire was changed.

Gonzales was then forced to drive the car to the Baldwin Park area where he was robbed and then forced from the vehicle.

No arrests have been made.

George Murphy's wife dies at 71

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) —The wife of former Sen. George Murphy died Friday night at the couple's home here. She was 71.

A family spokesman said Julie Murphy's death was the result of a lingering heart ailment. Murphy was at his wife's side when she died.

Funeral arrangements were being completed.

The couple met in the 1920s while he was working at odd jobs and she was a struggling young dancer. They married in 1927. Mrs. Murphy taught her husband how to dance and they later formed a vaudeville team.

SHOOTING SCENE

Gunbattle breaks out at Upland home

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — A local resident whose house and cars were hit by bullets during a brief battle between a burglary suspect and police Friday night had high praise Saturday for the officer who vainly tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the dying gunman.

Fay Lamar Perry, 271 Nesbit Drive, whose house sits at the L-shaped corner of Nesbit Drive and the 1200 block of Shelley Avenue, described how Upland Police Officer Robert Smeaton kneeled over the fallen body of Donald Joseph Bose, 45, Banning, and tried to give the injured man first aid.

Perry said that Smeaton tried to suck the blood out of Bose's mouth, ripped off his own T-shirt to try and keep the man's throat clear, and used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in an attempt to keep him alive. Bose was prounced dead at San Antonio Community Hospital.

"I think the officer deserves a commendation," said Perry, who noted that Smeaton told him the first aid was part of his job.

Perry said that he was sitting in his room watching a professional football roundup when he heard "pop-pop" which he thought were firecrackers.

Perry said that his daughter's boyfriend looked out a window and said that a man had run into the shadows of the lawn at the side of the house.

When the boyfriend and Perry's son went out the front door to see what had happened, they were told to go back into the house by officers who warned that the man was armed, he added.

Perry said he herded his two daughters, the boyfriend and his son into the rear of the house where they remained until the shooting had stopped.

The gun battle began shortly after 9 p.m. when Smeaton and Nello Petronzio, a reserve police officer, noticed a car parked at the curb across the street from the Perry house. A large television set was in the trunk of the car.

The officers saw a man in the driver's seat and another man nearby. Smeaton reported that he asked Bose to step out of the car after Bose had given several evasive answers tin response to questions about his being in the area and the television set.

Smeaton said he noticed a gun in a holster on the seat next to the driver.

He said he ordered the man to get out of the car and to place his hands on the hood, but the man got out of the car and suddenly turned and fired three times at Smeaton who was about eight feet away.

Smeaton said he fired three shots as he dived for safety to the street.

Bose then turned and ran toward the Perry house and fell to the lawn. Petronzio, at the rear of the police unit when the shooting broke out, fired four shots at the fleeing man.

Bose was mortally wounded by a single shot which went through the left shoulder and into his body.

Smeaton reported that when he turned Bose over, the man still clutched a .32 automatic pistol.

Police said that Bose had an extensive criminal record and had served time at San Quentin.

Police are seeking the whereabouts of a second suspect, thought to be Bose's companion, who fled the scene during the shooting.

The suspect was described as 5-8, 142 pounds, with brown eyes and brown hair.

Police later Friday night received a call that the Vallentine at 236 W 14th St., Upland, had been burglarized, and the residents were able to identify a large color television set, a stereo system, an electric typewriter, and a check protector as having been stolen.

Saturday morning when police returned to the scene, they discovered bullets had ricocheed off Perry's cars, one at the curb and the other in the driveway, and two bullets had penetrated the wall of the Perry home.

Perry said that the uppermost bullet had been stopped by a wall stud instead of entering the house.

Cheering GOP women call for congressional inquiry

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 2,000 wildly cheering Republican women, responding to Vice President Spiro Agnew's declaration that he was innocent of bribery charges, Saturday called for a congressional inquiry on Agnew's behalf.

"It was the greatest speech I have ever heard," said Ocie Jones, a Georgia delegate of the convention of the National Federation of Republican Women. "I like his fight and spirit."

Shortly after Agnew completed his off-the-cuff speech, in which he declared his innocence of Maryland bribery allegations and said he would not resign if indicted, the convention passed an emergency rersolution.

"Be it resolved that the delegates of this 17th biennial convention request their respective congressmen to grant the request of Vice President Spiro Agnew for a hearing in the House of Representatives."

Agnew shook hands for 10 minutes with a throng of delegates at the Convention Center, who waved hats and carried signs reading, "We love you Spiro," and "Bravo Spiro."

"I think the speech was terrific," said Jane Hanks, president of the Maryland Federation of Republicans. "I think it takes a lot of courage for a man to come up fighting like that."

Charlotte Knox, of Florida, called the speech a "frank, honest, sincere and dedicated statement to the American public."

"The Vice President is being slaughtered by innuendo," said Irene T. Uhl of Maryland. "He deserves protection of his rights.

British expatriate W. H. Auden

Heart attack kills Pulitzer Prize poet

VIENNA (UPI) —W. H. Auden, British expatriate felt by many to be the English world's leading poet of his generation, died alone Saturday in a Vienna hotel room of a heart attack. He was 66.

A touseled-haired man of barbed wit and bitter insight, Auden once turned down a chance to become poet laureate of England to live in a bookcrammed apartment in New York City's bohemian but grimy East Village. He had been a resident of the United States for 33 years—half his life.

"Looking up at the stars, I know quite well

"That for all they care I can go to hell."

A professor, essayist, editor and playwright as well as poet, Wystan Hugh Auden began writing poetry in 1922 because "a friend suggested that I should. The thought had never occurred to me."

His "Age of Anxiety" not only won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1947. It established him as a serious thinker, whereas before he had won only modest fame as a writer with a fast quip both of tongue and on paper.

Auden's death in the Altenburger Hotel came only hours after he gave a 20-minute reading from his works at the Austrian Society for Literature.

A British citizen who attended the reading said there was nothing during it to indicate Auden was ill.

In Paris, British novelist Graham Greene said he was shocked to hear of Auden's death because "to my point of view, he was a young man.

"With Robert Graves, he was one of the two poets writing in English for whom I had the greatest admiration," Greene said. "I have special admiration for his early poetry."

Born in York, England, Auden moved to self-imposed exile in New York in 1939.

Only last year, London newspapers named him as favorite for the post of poet laureate, but Auden ruled himself out of the running by refusing to renounce the American citizenship he gained in 1946.

$4 million deal for sale of landmark Huntington-Sheraton falls through

PASADENA (UPI) —A $4 million offer by a South Korean businessman to buy the landmark Huntington-Sheraton hotel was rejected by the ITT Sheraton Corp. of America, it wes revealed Friday.

An ITT Sheraton spokesman said, "the Huntington is not being sold."

A tentative agreement between ITT Sheraton and Dr. Ro Jueng Park, president and principal stockholder of a Los Angeles-based firm called North American Royal Enterprises, Inc., which has been purchasing real estate in the area, had been reached.

But ITT Sheraton reportedly upped its asking price and Park, who lives in Japan, backed away from the deal.

ITT Sheraton has shown the Huntington to representatives of several prospective purchasers, including some from Japan, in hopes of selling some of its hotel properties so it can put capital into other investments with greater profit.

Oriental chaplain joins S.F. police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Police Department, seeking to attract more Chinese-Americans into law enforcement, has its first Oriental chaplain.

The Rev. Dr. Tso Tin Tam, director of the United Chinese Methodist Church, was sworn in recently by Deputy Chief William Keays who took the occasion to appeal to the Oriental community to provide more patrolman candidates.

The department now has only 11 Chinese-American officers.

Food stamp allotment to go up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government food stamp allotment for a needy family of four will jump 22.4 per cent next Jan. 1 in a congressionally directed move to help the poor catch up with rising food costs.

No formal announcement of the amount of the planned increase has come yet from the Agriculture Department, which administers the food stamp program. But officials confirmed that food price figures for August, which will be used in setting the stamp allotment in January, put the amount due a family of four at $142 a month, compared with the current $116.

Officials said, however, they could not predict how much of the $26-a-month increase would be a clear gain for needy food stamp clients. For at least some of the 12.5 million people currently getting food stamps, part or all of the increase in allotments may be cancelled by a hike in the price they pay for the stamps.

Stamp prices depend on family income. A family of four with less than $30 a month in cash income, for example, currently pays nothing for $116 worth of stamps. At the top of the scale, a family earning $390 a month must pay $92 for the same $116 worth.

Motorist sought in hit and run; cyclist injured

POMONA — A disdainful driver who knocked a 16-year-old youth from his bike in an intersection here, then drove away, is the object of a police search for questioning on hit-and-run.

Officers said Kevin Michaep Reilly, Cypress, was riding lawfully through the intersection of Arrow Highway and Garey Boulevard when a motorist described in his 60's turned left from Arrow to the northbound lanes of Garey and struck the boy's bike. Reilly was unhurt in the collision.

Hooked on the rear bumper, the bike was dragged about 50 feet before the driver climbed out of his car kicked it loose, then drove on without a word, officers report a witness said.

Police obtained the license number of the 1957 Chevrolet, and have determined it belongs to a La Verne resident. They will follow up to determine if it was the car involved, and if the owner was operating it at the time of the incident.

Here are excerpts from Vice President's speech

During the past few months we have witnessed a cavalier attitude toward violations of the essential principle of secrecy in investigations related to grand jury proceedings. Leaks have sprung up in unprecedented quantities, and the resultant publication of distortions and half-truths has led to a cruel form of kangaroo trial in the media, the accusatory stories maliciously supplied by anonymous sources.

The findings of a grand jury —and it is extremely important that this be understood—those findings, called the indictment, are in no way equivalent to a conviction. If indictment were equivalent to conviction, there would be no need within our legal system for a trial. As observers of the legal process will tell you, a great number of indictments result in the full clearing of the person indicted ...

The presumption of innocence applies across the board—to every American, whether businessman, factory worker or Vice President. Every American is innocent until it is formally proven otherwise...

Given the current climate of wild overreaction, it will not be an easy fight.

For the past several months I have been living in purgatory. I have found myself the recipient of undefined, unclear, unattributed accusations that have surfaced in the largest and most widely circulated organs of our communications media.

I want to say at this point, clearly and unequivocally, I am innocent of the charges against me. I have not used my office or abused my public trust as county executive, as governor, as Vice President to enrich myself at the expense of my fellow Americans.

The conduct of high individuals in the Department of Justice—particularly the conduct of the chief of the Criminal Investigation Division of that department—is unprofessional and malicious and outrageous, if I am to believe what has been printed in the news magazines and heard on the television networks of this country.

I intend to use the courts of this country in an attempt to gain permission to examine under oath these people who are trying to destroy me politically through the abuse of the criminal justice system of the United States. If we find in fact that in Baltimore or in Washington individuals employed by the Department of Justice have abused their sacred trust and foresaken their professional standards, then I will ask the President of the United States to summarily discharge those individuals.

Why should a Republican Department of Justice and a Republican prosecutor attempt to get you? Well, I don't know all the answers, but I will say this: That individuals in the upper professional echelons of the Department of Justice have been severely stung by their ineptness in the prosecution of the Watergate case. They have been severely stung that the President and the attorney general have found it ncessary to appoint a special prosecutor, and they are trying to recoup their reputations at my expense. I am a big trophy.

One of those individuals has made a very severe mistake, a serious mistake in the handling of his job. He considers himself a career professional, in a class by himself. But ... not only did he fail to get any of the information about the true dimensions of the Watergate matter, but he also through ineptness and blunder prevented the successful prosecution of high crime figures because of wire tapping errors.

Those are the reasons why he wishes to reinstate his reputation as a tough and courageous and hardnose prosecutor. But I'm not going to fall down and be his victim, I assure you.

Through the cocktail circuit and the rumor mills of Washington, threats by certain individuals were communicated to me as recently as April of this year, in which those people left no doubt that unless I used my high office to cut off the investigation of them that they intended to implicate me in their sordid misdeeds.

I sent word to them that I would have no part of that ... and it was as a result of that— a statement on my part they could not look to me to abuse the constitutional office that I held—that they began to seek and obtain from the prosecutor in Baltimore immunity and limited immunity.

And in case you don't know what immunity is, it means that someone who has already admitted his guilt to a criminal action can escape the full force of his punishment by turning in somebody higher up. And that's exactly what happened in this case.

I want to say just a word about why I went to the House of Representatives. It should be, I guess, obvious that I do not believe I can have a fair hearing either before a grand jury or before any jury in Baltimore. The well has been successfully poisoned. I thought the only chance I would have to have a full hearing on the facts was to appeal to the House of Representatives. Thus far they have decided not to grant me that hearing.

But when I see principal news organs of this country criticize going to the House of Representatives on the basis that I am attempting to hide behind a constitutional shield and suppress the facts, that outrages me because what I want is not suppression of the facts, but the fullest possible hearing of them, widely publicized before he people of the American nation, so they will know exactly what is going on in this case. I am not trying to hide anything.

Walnut school board to discuss bond election

By J. LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Before Walnut school district trustees begin discussion of a schedule for calling a bond election, they will hear a report on the effects of a November election to limit the amount of taxes collected from the public.

In their regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Walnut High, trustees will hear both items near the conclusion of a fairly routine agenda. These topics will be followed by review of a proposed "Joint Powers Agreement" between the district and the City of Walnut to form a common recreation program.

Hard-pressed by rapid growth over the summer, the district has been considering a bond election to support construction. Space is tight at all district schools, particularly at the elementary level, and growth projections for the not-to-distant future may require use of at least two school sites now owned by district financing.

However, a proposed tax initiative supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan, due before the state's voters in early November, could change the district's financial picture. Prior to making a decision on a bond election, trustees will review the effect of Proposition I, the tax initiative, on school disttrict financing.

According to a preliminary summary of construction suggested by district staff if the bond issue were to pass, the first increment of an intermediate school on site "E" would start in Diamond Bar in 1973-74.

Also in that year, the staff suggests purchase of an elementary school site and use of funds to plan for use of the site. In the following year, the summary shows, a second portion of the intermediate school should be built. Relocation of seven portable buildings would also occur, if the schedule were to be adopted, while the district would in the same period file for the first portion of the new elementary school and open planning for Diamond Bar High School.

An alternative to the second-year program, suggests staff, is completion of exisiting elementary schools.

In the third year, 1975-76, staff offers a plan to build the second stage of the kindergarten through sixth-grade school begun in '73-74, purchase another K-6 site, and begin the first stage of the Diamond Bar secondary school. As an alternative, it is suggested that Walnut High be completed.

In the next two years, the bond amount offered by staff for an election figure would, in the schedule outlined, buy another K-6 site, build two schools at that level, relocate portable buildings, open Diamond Bar High to 1,250 students, complete Walnut High (if not done previously), and start plans for one each additional intermediate and elementary school.

For the last year of the building program proposal, 1977-78, the district previously forecast 8,311 students enrolled. Those figures, taken from a report dealing with a recently-defeated transfer of terriorty from Pomona to Walnut, contrast with an estimated 5,488 student population next year.

In 1975-76, the district expects to have 1,535 K-6 and high school students without adequate space if existing buildings are the only ones available. However, intermediate school students (grades seven and eight) would have room for 756 surplus students, according to the transfer of territory report projections.

District staff recommends three possible schedules for the proposed election, which they suggest raise $5,633,405 to match with state funds of $10,455,610.

First possible date for the election would be Jan. 8, 1974; the second, Feb. 5, 1974; the third, Feb. 26.

Cattle rustlers hit, sell on run

RENO, Nev. (UPI) —Nevada cattle rustlers are operating a slaughterhouse on wheels that has meat ready for sale by the time it gets back to town, the State Farm Bureau has reported.

Stolen cows are butchered in a van immediately after stolen and the hide and innards are thrown out along the way, the bureau said Tuesday. The carcass is ready for sale by the time the van is back from a raid.

Off-road vehicle rules would limit desert use

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — In an effort to halt ecological damage, the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is proposing restrictions on the use of off-road recreation vehicles in California desert areas.

The plan, part of a comprehensive land-use program for the state's 24 million acres of desert, would ban off-road vehiiles—motorcycles, dune buggies and four-wheel drive vehicles—from 4.3 per cent or 1,069 square miles of desert entirely.

In nearly 89 per cent of the remaining acreage, off-road vehicles would be limited to using designated roads only or any existing roads or trails.

Only 7.2 per cent of the 16 million acres covered by the plan, or about 1,800 square miles would be completely open to the vhicles.

According to Wes Chambers, associate director of the Desert Plan Program, the unrestricted area is equal to all the developed urban areas in Southern California.

Chambers said the plan, prompted by a presidential executive order requiring off-road use regulations for all federal lands, would become effective Nov. 1.

The Riverside BLM office is receiving comments from interested citizens and groups concerning the plan until Oct. 16 when final action on the proposal will be taken.

Chambers said reactions on the plan are about evenly split between conservation groups who want more closures and recreational vehicle factions who want more areas opened up.

Chambers said the sheer number of people using the desert areas, an estimated 12 million a year of which some 70 per cent use various types of vehicles, is having an adverse impact in certain areas.

"But we're going to be able to handle it," he said of the new plan which will help protect soil, vegetation, historical sites and animal habitats.

He emphasized that all areas affected by the plan would still be open to hikers and horseback riders.

Chambers said enforcement of the plan in various closed areas would be handled through applications of the state's antitrespassing laws since the federal agency has no direct enforcement powers.

In the local area, most of the San Bernardino County desert area will be affected by the plan. Areas to be closed include Amargosa Canyon, Clark Mountain, the Kelso Dunes, Amboy Crater, the Turtle Mountains, the Whipple Mountains and the desert lily area west of Palen Valley.

Open areas include Rand Mountain, Stoddard Valley, Devil's Playground, Melville Lake, Cadiz Valley, Danby Lake and Palen Valley.

Other areas in Inyo, Kern, Riverside and Imperial counties would also be on the closure list.

Interested persons wishing to comment on the plan may do so by writing Neil Pfulb, California Desert Plan Director, Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 723, Riverside, 92502.

Area job-training program enjoying boom in interest

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

The Baldy View Regional Occupational Program (ROP) is enjoying the sweet smell of success.

Launched a year ago by five Pomona Valley school districts specifically to give high school seniors saleable job skills, ROP this fall is offering 25 courses of training in 14 fields.

Twenty-one students signed up in October of 1972 for ROP's first class—nurses assistant training—at Ontario Community Hospital.

This fall ROP training classes are under way in numerous locations in Pomona, Chino, Claremont, Montclair and Ontario.

Every course carries high school credits. Training is on-the-job and teachers are professionals in their fields.

ROP, a separate school district, was parented by Pomona, Chaffey, Bonita, Chino and Claremont school districts. Each supports it financially. The state pays ADA (average daily attendance) into the district on those who enroll.

The 1972-73 program was beefed up to include—in addition to nurses assistant training—clinical laboratory technician aide, personal services-cosmetology, medical-legal secretary, retail sales and auto diagnostics.

Last June, 311 students were enrolled in ROP classes.

This fall high school students throughout Pomona Valley have an opportunity to obtain vocational training in auto body repair, auto diagnostics, clinical laboratory technician aide, environmental landscaping, food services, industrial machine shop, medical-legal secretary and other office occupations, merchandising-retail sales, nursing assistant, cosmetology-personal services, power sewing, service station operation, sheet metal-air conditioning and welding.

Six classes have been opened to accept enrollment of adults over 18.

These classes are auto diagnostics, environmental landscaping, retail nursery, restaurant occupations, personal services-cosmetology and medical-legal secretary.

Anyone interested in enrolling may call ROP at 626-3538 for additional information.

Adults are allowed to enroll in other courses as space permits.

ROP has established career centers in participating high schools and staffs them with teachers to counsel students in the selection of vocational training classes.

ROP director Herb Ellenberg points out that in each training course the combined school districts' facilities and community businesses are used to bring students closer to an actual working environment.

"Courses are started or terminated, based upon student interest and job market availability," he explained.

Educators involved feel ROP is practical, down-to-earth and, for many of its students, a necessity if they are to become self-sufficient and go on into higher education or more advanced training.

"There are few high school students today," Ellenberg said, "who can even go on into a two-year community college without some kind of a job.

"ROP training gives them skills which are marketable."

ROP is administered by its own board, comprised of one member from each participating district's school board. They hold regularly scheduled meetings.

During 1972-73, it was estimated the total cost of ROP would be $146,000. The actual operating cost was $102,101.

Within five years administrators anticipate ROP will train 2,000 students a year.

LA VERNE — A fire of unknown origin destroyed a two-car garage at 2141 5th St. late Friday afternoon.

Firemen are still investigating the cause of the blaze which resulted in about $4,000 damage to the building, its contents and a nearby parked car.

The fire broke out about 3:45 p.m. inside the wood-frame building, according to firemen, and was well under way when firemen arrived.

Back-to-school night at PHS

POMONA — Members of the Pomona High School Parent Teacher Student Association will hold their first "Back to School Night" of the year Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Dances and gymnastics will be performed by students and members of the faculty and the high school's football team will be introduced.

Dances set for over-40 group

POMONA — The Pomona Park and Recreation Department will be sponsoring weekly dances starting Monday for "plus forty" adults at the Palomares Park Community Center.

The Monday evening dances will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Live music will be provided. Admission will be $1.

Y will resume book sessions

LA VERNE — Book review sessions of the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley will be resumed for the year on Wednesday. The first session will be held at 2:15 p.m., in the A Wing Parlor at East Hillcrest Homes, 2705 Mountain View Drive.

Dr. Dorothy Merritt will review several books, including "The Cancer Ward" by Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Russian author who has been much in the news recently.

Charge to YWCA members is $1 for six review sessions. Nonmembers charge is $1 per session.

Herbs are topic for garden club

POMONA — The fine points of herb culture and a film on composting will be presented at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Pomona City Council Chambers.

The meeting is open to the public.

FOLK DANCERS—Two of 45 fifth and sixth graders from Lincoln Elementary School in Pomona are caught up in their folk-dancing performance at the Los Angeles County Fair. A large audience gathered to watch the children and loudly applauded their dancing. The dancers are students of Agnes Manston and James Maynard. They were the only Pomona school children to entertain as a group in the fair's children's pavilion.

Riding academy will open in Claremont

Myers plans to use a new tool for teaching horseback riding — closed circuit television.

Myers, founder of the academy, said that "under our methods of instruction, students learn to ride more quickly because they can see their mistakes with our instant replay television system and can correct them quickly."

A staff of six advanced instructors has developed 12 different curricula for the 12 opening classes, which are two-hour sessions and meet three times a week. Each session will consist of an hour of class and an hour of actual riding instruction.

Myers has built two large riding rings, a quarter-mile race track, and installed lights for night classes and private lessons.

The academy's faculty of six riding instructors includes in the English school Suzanne L. Brooks of Los Angeles; Pamela G. Daugherty of Encinitas; and Susan M. Miller of Portland, Ore., a graduate of the Prolock Vale Riding Academy in England; and Pat Hightower of Pomona; Susan J. Ochoa of Salt Lake City; and Cheryl A. Parker of Rollings Hills and Corona, teaching the western style of riding.

YWCA offers free class in interior decor

POMONA — A month-long series of free interior designing sessions will start Tuesday at the Pomona Public Library.

The home decorating lectures and demonstrations will be sponsored by the Pomona Valley YWCA and be held with one exception, in the library's public conference room from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday.

On Tuesday, the first meeting will feature a presentation by Charles Stillinger of Stillinger Interiors. It will cover the use of color.

On Oct. 9, the meeting will be held in the showroom of Towne and Country Carpets, 520 E. Holt Ave., as owner Gerald McMahon discusses the use of carpeting and other floor coverings.

The meeting on Oct. 16 will feature Marius Perrin of Hottel's Upland Furniture Co. explaining furniture selection.

Miss Verona Darting of Stillinger Interiors will demonstrate methods of framing and arranging pictures on Oct. 23 and also will cover the arrangement of accessory items.

The final meeting on Oct. 30 will feature Mrs. Grace Grody speaking on the subject of wall coverings and window treatment. Mrs. Grody is an interior designer and owner of the Wallpaper Shop in Claremont.

Pupils go bananas over filbert trees

They expect to have about 2,000 pounds, which they will dry and sell for 50 cents a pound at the annual Surrey Downs Filbert Festival. The proceeds will be used to pay for school activities.

The filberts come from 280 trees which are on school property. Everyone from kindergartners to sixth graders armed themselves with sacks, boxes and wastebaskets to gather the nuts as they were shaken from the trees.

Obituaries

Griffith Mortuary in Chino is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Multiple Sclerosis or Cancer societies.

Teacher picked the wrong girl

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Lawrence Pojeski Jr., a member of the school board, contends it isn't fair or legal for teachers to discipline students by lowering their grades.

School Superintendent Philip E. Runkel agrees the practice is illegal and will be stopped.

Pojeski said he could cite several cases but was interested in one in particular which he said "involved my daughter."

Charles Smith

MONTCLAIR — Charles (Bud) Smith of 4753 Kingsley Ave., Apartment B, died Friday at the Los Angeles County USC Medical Center after a long illness.

He was born March 7, 1912, in Muncie, Ind. He had been a Montclair resident for the past four years. He was a retired polisher and buffer for a metal plating company.

Besides his widow, Cecile, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ann Sciortino of Upland and Mrs. JoAnne Noriega of West Covina; three sons, William C. of Chino, Lewis F. of the U.S. Army and Michael P. of Montclair; one brother, George W. of Pomona; and 11 grandchildren.

He was a member of Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont.

Rosary will be recited today at 7:30 p.m. at Draper Chapel, Ontario. Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church. Burial will be in Bellevue Cemetery, Ontario.

Ina Thompson

POMONA — Mrs. Ina M. Thompson, a resident of Pomona for 48 years, died Friday in Park Avenue Hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Thompson was born Aug. 19, 1879 in Texas, came to California in 1925 from Colorado, and had lived in Pomona since that time. She was a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Ed Lee Nolte of Laguna Hills.

Services will be held Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Dr. John W. Black of the Trinity United Methodist Church will officiate. Private entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Once long on power, the Northwest now in pinch

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) —In the early 1930s, when Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River was being proposed, the major question asked by critics was: What could the Northwest possibly do with all that power?

Now, 40 years and nearly twice that many dams later, the Northwest is faced with a power shortage that Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Norton recently said "could be a disaster."

Some industry has been forced by power cutoffs to curtail production since October, 1972, and a major campaign is underway to conserve enough power to prevent further industrial curtailments with their inevitable loss of jobs.

So far more than 1,000 jobs have been affected, mostly in metals plants. Up to 10,000 more jobs are threatened.

The Northwest —Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana—is particularly vulnerable to a shortage of electrical power. Construction of federal dams, beginning with Bonneville in the early 1930s and continuing into the 1960s, created a pool of cheap power that encouraged large use of electricity in homes and drew to the region major electricity using industries, notably electro-process metals and chemicals.

Kilowatt use high

With the cost per kilowatt about half the national average, use in the Northwest is about 15,000 kilowatts per home per year compared to a national average of 7,700, according to the Bonneville Power Administration (BPA), the federal agency which markets power from the federal projects and coordinates the Northwest power distribution system.

Don Hodel, BPA administrator, says the region is likely to be 15 billion kilowatt hours short of enough power to meet its firms' needs during the next 20 months. He has urged a 7.5 per cent reduction in power use.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon declared a power emergency in August and the state utility commissioner, Richard Sabin, ordered utilities to submit plans for curtailments when the shortage hits. Plans from Pacific Power & Light Co., and Portland General Electric Co., range from voluntary turning down of home thermostats and taking fewer baths (to save hot water) to rotating blackouts.

In Washington state, Gov. Dan Evans was given authority by the legislature to set power use priorities in an emergency shortage.

Evidences of voluntary conservation efforts already are showing.

Kill-A-Watt program

The BPA building, once a glowing landmark on the Portland night scene, is dark these nights except for the floor on which the round-the-clock dispatch and computer operations are located. Cleanup crews that formerly worked at night are now sweeping in the daylight.

In Seattle, Mike Sharar, community affairs coordinator for Seattle City Light Co., said cooperation in the utility's kill-a-watt program "has been fantastic." City Light set an example by cutting its own power use 16 per cent.

Seattle First National Bank, whose 50-story building is Seattle's tallest, aimed for a 10 per cent reduction by turning down its combination heating-lighting system, turning off some elevators at off-peak hours and turning off some decorative lighting.

Many shopping center parking lots throughout the region are dark these nights and [illegible] have turned off window display lights and advertising signs.

On Oregon highways every other light has been turned off and in state office buildings handles have been removed from hot water faucets.

Why this year?

PP&L spokesman Barry Richardson said it had effected a 30 per cent saving in power use at its own installation in six states.

Why is the Northwest faced with a shortage of such drastic proportions this year? The answer lies in the weather and the Columbia River and its tributaries.

The rivers, fed by melting snows and rain, provide the major share of the region's power. The season started with a snowpack only 70 per cent of normal. It has since been suffering from the most severe drought in nearly 50 years with rainfall in some places the lowest on record and half the normal amount.

By the end of August the resorvoirs which hold the water that will turn the turbines power until next spring were only two-thirds full.

Aggravating the situation are delays in construction of dams and additional power houses at existing dams and in building nuclear plants.

"The growth in regional population and our burgeoning appetite for electricity have gradually caught up with the capacity of the river system to produce hydroelectric power," Hodel said.

Wind power produces dependable electricity

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —A team of scientists here has developed a new type of windmill which they believe will help ease the world's worsening energy crisis.

One of the windmills is already working and can supply enough electricity for five family homes, including heating.

"The old protest against windmills as a means of producing electricity because they stop when is there is no wind is not really valid," said Walter Schoenball, a 45-year-old West German from Paderborn who heads the "Geneva Group of Scientists."

"Weather statistics show that in most parts of the world there are only three days a month, on average, without any wind at all. And in any case the power generated on windy days can be stored."

Schoenball, a population expert with the United Nations in Geneva, is confident that the new windmill is perfect for supplying energy to remote districts and villages far from urban electricity sources.

Team effort

"Old-fashioned windmills trapped an average of 10 per cent of the wind and a maximum of 30 per cent," he said. "Our windmill makes use of 70 per cent of available wind and even as much as 80 per cent."

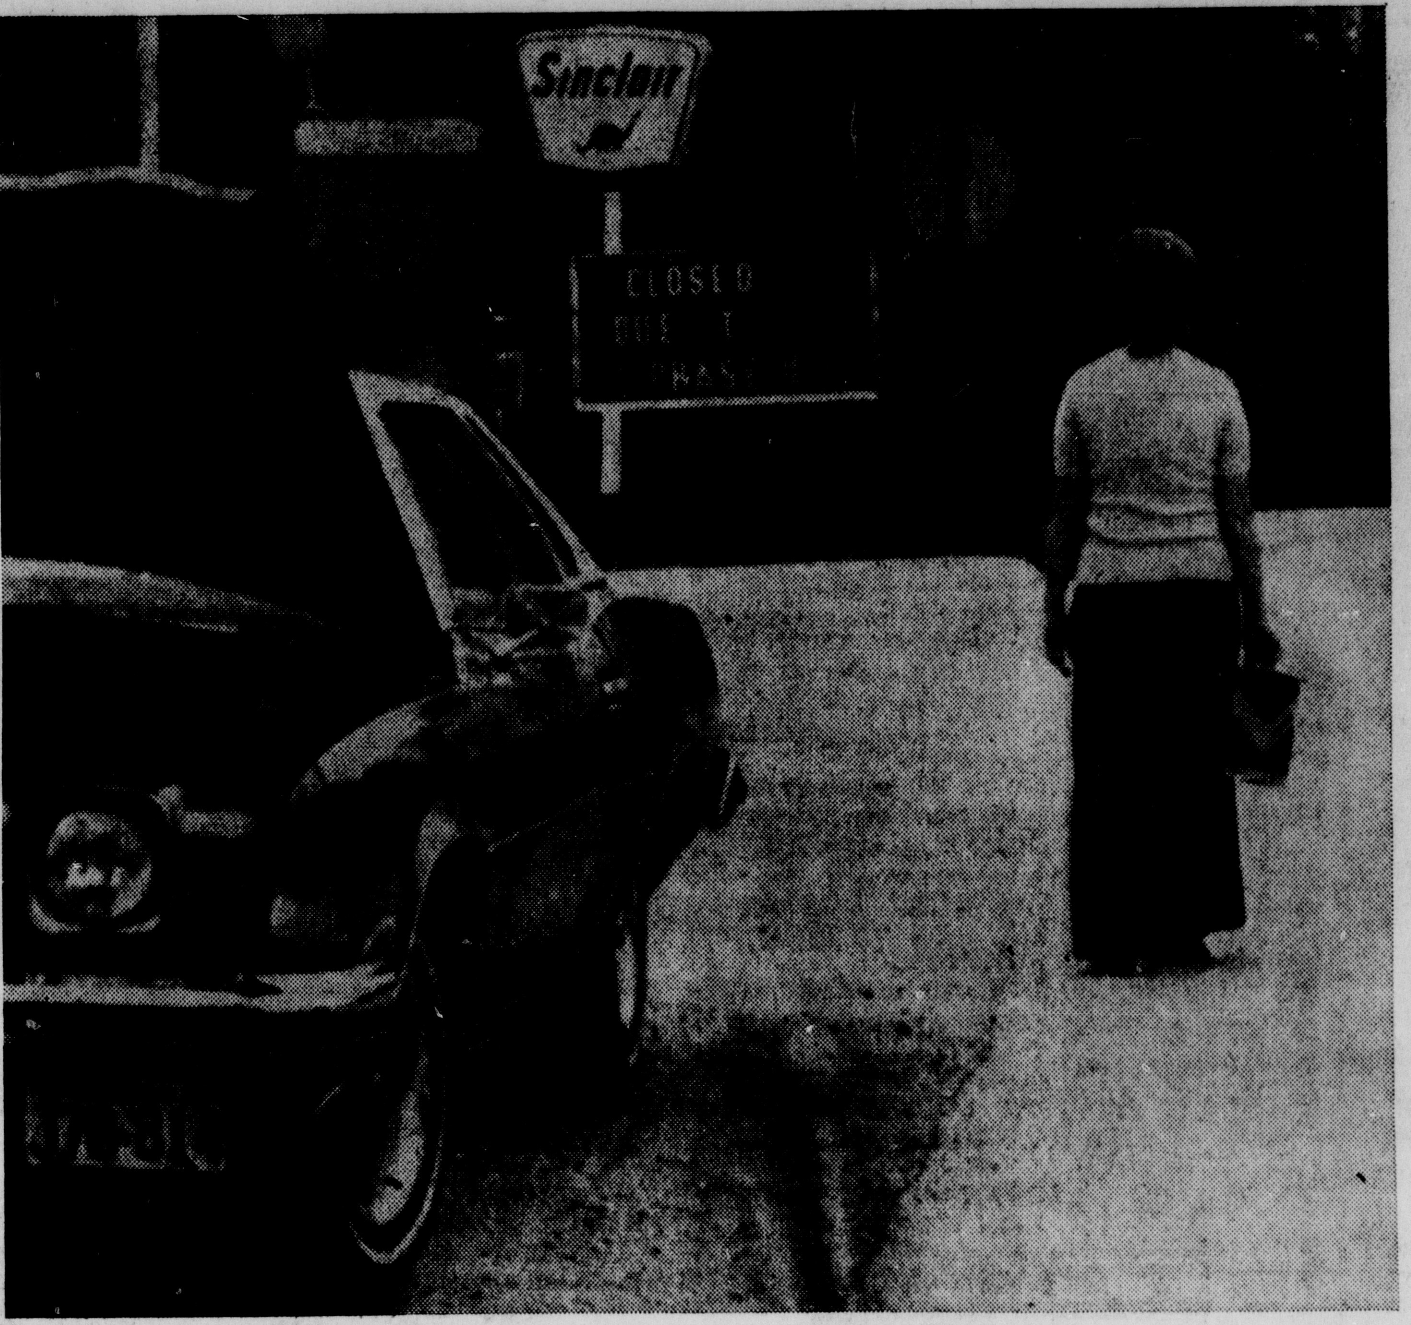
Schoenball, who had the original idea, called on engineering friends to help develop and build the windmill. The generator was designed by Prof. Marcel Jufer of Lausanne University in Switzerland, the electronics system was the work of Jacques Dufournaud of Paris University, the rotor blades were designed and built by Hans Goslich, a German engineer in Solingen, and the hubwheel was made by Maruice Schindler, head of a Geneva engineering firm.

"The world population increases by 80 million people a year and there will be 6.5 billion people in the world by the year 2000," Schoenball said.

"The world's supplies of coal, oil and natural gas will be exhausted within the foreseeable future. Oil in particular will disappear from the earth's upper crust between 1980 and 2000."

Schoenball said he believes nuclear energy from fast breeder reactors will not be available for another 20 years at least and by 1980 only four per cent of world energy needs will be supplied by reactors.

"But one source of energy which always will be available is wind," Schoenball said.



ST. LOUIS GOES DRY — A woman motorist faces a possibly long walk in a search for gas to fill her tank in St. Louis, Mo. Nearly half the 1,500 service stations in St. Louis are closed on a six-day strike in protest of Phase IV rollbacks on the prices of gasoline. Motorists hearing the word scurried to their nearest open stations, and off-duty police were called out to control the traffic jam.

Erma Bombeck

There isn't a family in the world that at one time or another hasn't had a live-in neighbor child.

He's the kid who sleeps in the woodwork, materializes each morning at your breakfast table, spends the entire day with you and the next thing you know you can't really remember where he lives or who he belongs to.

We were sitting around the breakfast table one morning when my husband asked, "How many children do we have?"

"Three," I replied.

"We have four at breakfast," he tallied. "Which one isn't ours?"

I was stumped. One had my eyes, another the same color of hair as my husband but the other two we both could have phoned in.

"Okas," I announced, "will the real Bombecks please stand up."

They exchanged glances dramatically. One slid back his chair like he was going to stand up but didn't. Slowly, the other three rose to their feet.

"If that doesn't tear it," I snarled, looking at Tim who was still seated. "I not only thought he was mine, I just got him toilet trained."

I have often wondered about the mothers of these children who disappear for five or six years to play. Do they ever wonder what they look like? How tall they are? Do they rent out their rooms or keep them available? Do they feel guilty when the list them as a deduction on their income tax?

I think it's flattering when a child joins your family, but there has to come a time when you send him home.

A neighbor child has been with you too long when you postpone your vacation because you can't get anyone to sit with him.

He's been with you too long when his teacher wants to have a parent conference with you.

He's been with you too long when you punish him by sending him to his home.

He's been with you too long when you call his mother and she says, "Huh?"

He's been with you too long when he appears with all of you on your Christmas card.

Tim has been with us too long. The other day a car driven by his father picked him up. Before I realized what I was doing, I was calling the police to report a missing child.

LIVING CHURCH — On the local level, at least, the Russian Orthodox Church is as vital as the church in Rome. Weekday services are well-attended, while on Sundays the churches in Moscow overflow.

Oregon has jitters over new 'soft' pot penalty

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) —Oregon law enforcement officials are nervously awaiting the arrival of Oct. 5, the effective date of a new marijuana law that drastically reduces the penalty for possession and use of the drug.

Under the bill passed earlier this year by the Oregon Legislature, persons caught with less than one ounce of marijuana (enough for about 20 cigarettes) will face a maximum penalty of a $100 fine.

The offense will no longer even be a crime, but will be treated as a violation —the same legal category as a traffic offense.

The 1971 legislature reduced the marijuana penalty to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine, but the new law goes much further and gives Oregon the lightest penalty of any state in the nation.

At the other end of the spectrum are states such as New York where a tough new law sets a maximum penalty of seven years for possession of one ounce of marijuana.

An Assembly-passed bill to lower the penalty in California, where the potential but rarely-invoked sentence is 10 years, died in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The proposal was to lower the penalty to a six month jail sentence and-or a $500 fine.

At its annual convention, the Washington State Bar Association voted in favor of removing criminal penalties for "the simple possession of marijuana by users."

In reducing the penalty for possession of small amounts of marijuana, the Oregon legislature made a clear distinction between the casual user and the persons who grow, process or sell the drug. A 10-year, $2,500 penalty faces those in the latter category and adults who furnish marijuana to minors under 18 years of age face a 20-year prison sentence.

Just being the state with the lightest marijuana penalty would be enough to make law officers and politicians nervous, but the problem is compounded by flaws that were discovered before the new law even went into effect.

The legislators intended the reduced penalty only for marijuana possession, but a second look at the bill after it passed both houses showed that the language was not as precise as it should have been.

Attorney general Lee Johnson advised Gov. Tom McCall that the way the measure was written the term marijuana applies to all forms of marijuana, including hashish, a highly concentrated form of the drug that has a more powerful effect on the user.

Another problem results from the fact that the legislators forgot to change a law which makes it a misdemeanor to remain in a place where drugs are used. Technically, it will be possible for a person caught smoking a marijuana cigarette to receive a $100 fine while a nonsmoker caught in the same police "bust" would face up to a year in jail.

The hashish problem is the more serious, however, and almost caused McCall to veto the bill.

Instead, the governor signed the bill and said he will ask the lawmakers to correct the defect during a special legislative session being called early next year. Between Oct. 5 and the special session there will not be time for hashish distributors "to accommodate their activities accordingly," McCall said hopefully.

Some police officials fear the new law will greatly increase the drug problem in Oregon. Others welcome the change.

"We should devote our time and resources to apprehending and convicting burglars, rapists, murderers, hard drug pushers and the like, not incidental and casual users of marijuana," said one district attorney when the bill was under consideration.

The people using marijuana are not the "black leather jacket crowd," he said. "They are your neighbors and mine and our neighbors' kids."

'Third Rome' flourishes

Moscow's churches can't hold the reverent many

EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer was UPI's Vatican reporter in Rome for four years before he was transferred to Moscow three months ago.

By BARRY JAMES

MOSCOW (UPI) —It was 7 a.m. on a Tuesday at the Russian Orthodox Church of the Resurrection, near the Kremlin.

A service was in progress and the church was full.

It was the same in a dozen other churches I visited on a recent weekday. Every service was well-attended.

A couple of smaller churches were overflowing.

After four years covering the Vatican, I wanted to take a look at the church in the city that used to be known as "The Third Rome."

Church Still Vital

I arrived expecting the church here to be just barely alive after 50 years of atheist propaganda.

To my surprise, it seems—on the local level at least—as vital as the church in Rome.

I cannot think of any church in Rome that could pack in a congregation every day of the week the way some of the backstreet churches do in Moscow. But it must also be noted that Rome has 500 churches for three million people, while Moscow has only 45 working Orthodox churches for seven million. Before the revolution, there were more than 400 functioning churches here.

You would have to go to parts of Spain or Latin America to see the degree of outward piety found in Moscow's Orthodox churches, where women not only kneel but prostrate themselves on the floor, where people are openly moved to tears and where parishioners seek a blessing from their priest as eagerly as many Roman Catholics seek one from a cardinal.

I visited one of the village churches that have been surrounded by the concrete apartment blocks and highways of suburban Moscow. This was as crowded as any of the central churches. The congregation, although poor, has taken care of the ikons and other church decorations. And the music provided by a small choir from hand-written sheets was as good as anything I heard in a Roman church.

Elaborate Ritual

Russians appear to like a show when they go to their candlelit, ikon-filled churches. Orthodox priests say they would not dare cut any of the elaborate ritual or impressive finery from their services, which hardly ever last less than two hours.

The priests dedicate most of their time to providing rich services and doing what little pastoral work they can. Unlike priests in the West, they are barried by law from teaching and social work. As far as the state is concerned, they are no more than licensed liturgists.

The church is strictly controlled by an avowedly atheistic state. Church leaders support Kremlin foreign policy as a price of survival. One Vatican prelate once told me they suffer a "martyrdom of prudence." And Nobel prize-winning author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn has accused the Orthodox leadership of treading too softly.

But churchmen privately recall the bitter persecutions of the past and they say the heroism that Solzhenitsyn is urging on them would cause them to lose the gains they have built up in recent years.

Shackled or not on the political level, the church is at least functioning on the parish level. There are now 80 diocesan bishops, compared with four at the beginning of World War II. The church's four seminaries are insufficient to accomodate all who would like to enter the priesthood.

Official Atheism

Some Bibles are being printed and the church is again manufacturing crucifixes and religious medals for private use.

If the church itself has achieved a degree of safety, individual believers often have to practice their faith at the cost of ostracism and personal danger, churchmen say.

Even so, on weekends congregations include men and young people.

Pioneer News gets the 'inside' stories at prison

CHECKING IT OVER

By MAXINE YEE

(Miss Yee is a United Press International reporter who wrote the following story on a classroom project conducted by L. T. Rogers, Progress-Bulletin assistant city editor, at California Institution for Men.)

CHINO — The office of the Pioneer News looks like any other newspaper office—the desks are old and the typewriters well-used. The paper is understaffed and inexperienced, but what it lacks in manpower and knowhow, it makes up in enthusiasm.

The monthly newspaper has a circulation of 3,000. About 350 copies are sent to persons on a mailing list. The rest are picked up by persons living in a small, homogeneous community located one mile southeast of Chino. It is the California Institution for Men—a prison without walls.

About 2,400 men live within a barbed wire compound of 2,600 acres in the southwest corner of San Bernardino County. Built in 1941, thousands of men have called it home.

Little is known about what goes on behind the wire enclosure except for the stories families bring out with them after visiting hours. But in the past year, items of human interest have found their way to the general public through the staff of the Pioneer News.

It all began when L. T. Rogers, assistant city editor of the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, began teaching a journalism class at CIM, where a good part of his teaching duties includes providing professional guidance to a seven-man newspaper staff.

It was in the capacity of "teacher" that Rogers hit on the idea of giving the staff extra incentive by having the best articles reprinted in the Progress-Bulletin.

His suggestion was accepted by editor Joe Gendron, who said articles accepted by his paper should be "worthy of publication." He also said it would be an opportunity to pick up human interest stories that "develop in a prison community—just as they do in society."

It was in this vein that readers have been able to glimpse the lives and activities of persons living in CIM.

In a year's time, Cuthbert Hoffman, Dave Cadwell, Dennis Blum and Alan Wayne have written articles "worthy of publication."

Hoffman, serving time for grand theft, wrote about a 45-year-old bachelor inmate who credits children for helping him realize life has a purpose. The inmate, William Kogan, is a playground supervisor for children who come to the prison to visit their fathers. He greets the youngsters with a "fast draw" arm movement and is affectionately called the "Pied Piper." "The bird man of Chino" was the subject of a feature written by Blum, an inmate who wants to be a newspaperman.

Edward Louis Stephens is the "bird man" who became "parent" to a tiny wild bird after he found it "helpless and uncared for" in a bush while walking the prison yard. He dug worms for his small pet, named Junior, and even broke bread with it.

Another human interest article was written by Wayne, who told readers about a group of elderly inmates who repaired toys for Christmas.

Wayne painted a picture of greying men, afflicted with the pain of arthritis, but whose main concerns were trying to repair toys for other men's children. Tears glisten and fingers tremble as imprisoned grandfathers apply their full energies to fixing toys.

Unlike the other articles, Cadwell wrote a news story. An attorney before he entered CIM, Cadwell's article reflects his background. He wrote about law libraries installed in each of the three complexes in CIM.

Cadwell quotes Abe Oppenheim, CIM librarian, as saying, "A comprehensive law library such as we now have is a revolutionary concept, and none of us know to what extent it will be utilized by the inmates."

Being a newspaperman in prison has its disadvantages. Rights ordinarily accorded free journalists are denied imprisoned journalists. But these cub reporters take the restrictions in stride.

The content of all the papers must be approved by either the suprintendent of correctional instruction or the administrative assistant and information officer.

What is Hoffman's attitude toward this "press control?"

"I'm in prison, arent't I? I've learned to accept control. It exists, and that's the way it is."

He believes the paper should serve as a "liaison between the staff prison authorities and the yard inmates," and that it should not be an arm to proclaim inmate rights, but rather a tool for education.

"We're not interested in fighting causes," Hoffman said. "We're here to do time, so why should we cause controversy?"

Cadwell said he would like more freedom on the paper, but is also aware of a policy against printing controversial articles. But he too accepts the restrictions.

"You can't accomplish any reform in prison," Cadwell said. "There's no general public in an institutional setting. You just make yourself feel better by letting off steam."

Clarification of plaza Yule ruling sought

POMONA — Robert L. Davis, chairman of the Cultural Arts Commission, will go before City Council Monday at 4 p.m. to question an opinion by the city attorney that religious themes be kept out of Christmas holiday decorations in Civic Center Plaza.

"Our question is, does the city attorney's legal opinion preclude the use of religious symbolism in the lighting and displays?" said Davis.

Davis said the commission had been informed that the city attorney based his opinion on a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that tax money could not be spent on religious displays.

Davis said the commission agreed that holiday decorations and lighting should be installed in the plaza to foster civic pride.

"The commission is most enthusiastic about the general concept and will recommend to the council that a lighting display be rented and set up between Dec. 8 and 26," Davis continued.

Commissioners agreed the decorations should appeal to children and selected "The Night Before Christmas" as a theme to recommend to the council.

In keeping with the city attorney's advice, the commission accepted the opinion that the law "seems to indicate the displays should not contain specifically religious symbols," said Davis.

"The community, however, should be asked to participate in terms of music performances, using whatever themes they wish."

The Cultural Arts Commission met Wednesday night and during a two-hour session heard points of view from members of the city staff, citizens of the community, the chamber of commerce, the Downtown Business Associatin, the Pomona Valley Ministerial Association and a representative from an outdoors advertising firm.

Educator, writer, editor, author

Bell first lecturer in P-B course

DR. DANIEL BELL

Dr. Daniel Bell, who introduces America and the Future of Man as an accredited college degree course for Progress-Bulletin readers, has a long and distinguished career as educator, writer, editor and author.

Since 1969 a professor of sociology at Harvard University, Dr. Bell was a staff writer for the periodical The New Leader as early as 1940 and became its managing editor a year later.

There followed a literary career climaxed in 1948 with his selection to the editorial board of Fortune Magazine, a post Dr. Bell occupied for 10 years. His literary efforts were interrupted for three years beginning in 1945 when Dr. Bell served as a social science instructor at the University of Chicago.

A graduate of City College of New York in 1939, Dr. Bell received his Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1960, while he was serving as associate professor of sociology there. Later he was named professor of sociology at Columbia until 1969, when he accepted the Harvard professorship.

Dr. Bell began to turn his literary talents to the writing of books in 1955 with the publication of The New American Right. Since then he has written such works as The End of Ideology, an analysis of what the author called "the exhaustion of politicial ideas in the fifties;" The Radical Right, The Reforming Of General Education, based on the Columbia College experiment in its national setting; Marxian Socialism in the United States; Toward the Year 2000, and The Coming of the Post-Industrial Society, among others

Acupuncture down on the farm

Sick animals improve with needle

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — Acupuncture, the ancient Oriental art of medicine, is being used effectively on horses and small animals in a clinic conducted at the Rex Ellsworth Ranch.

Dr. Alice De Groot, a veterinarian for several years at the Ellsworth property in this West End area, was approached in March by members of the National Acupuncture Association. The nonprofit group asked if she would be interested in the experimental treatment of animals by acupuncture.

The affirmative response led first to the treatment of horses on the Ellsworth Ranch, but has since spread to animal owners throughout Southern California. One horse was brought from as far away as Ojai.

Dr. Sang Hyuck Shin, clinical acupuncturist, coordinates the team that comes to Chino each Friday morning. He is assisted by Gene Bruno and John Ottaviano. The organization, headed by William Prensky and Dr. David Bresler, a faculty member of the department of anesthesiology at UCLA's Health Services (formerly UCLA Medical Center), has existed for three years. Human beings are also treated.

Those seeking the acupuncture treatment include John and Gladys Bendowski who heard of the clinic and traveled from South Pasadena with their 19-year-old pony Violet in the back seat of their car.

Mrs. Pendowski explained that Violet suffered from a chronic ailment that causes fever of the feet. She had experienced the painful condition for more than five years.

"We found out about it in the Los Angeles Times article. That very day I got so excited, I called right away. We were giving her pain killer. She had to have that in order to get around. She hasn't had any pain killer for two weeks now and this is her third treatment. Her appetite has improved and she enjoys everything so much more," said Mrs. Bendowski.

Law penalizes seller of cigarettes to youngsters

In one of the valley's late evening carry-out shops, recently, I was drinking coffee and reading the Prog when four boys congregated around the cigarette vending machine.

They were between 10 and 13 years old. They were a bit worried about the police but inserted some coins in the machine. One stuffed the pack of cigarettes inside his shirt.

Two patrolmen walked in a moment later and told the boys that it was past 10:30 p.m. and they should go home. The patrolmen evidently had not seen the encounter with the cigarette machine. After the police left, one of the boys returned to buy another pack of cigarettes.

I remained silent throughout the episode but since I was reading Action Line at the time, it occurred to me that you could answer several questions:

What is the penalty for minors who purchase cigarettes from machines? Is a warning against such purchase to be displayed on the machine? (This one had no warning.) What would the police prefer to have onlookers do, given this situation. Should it be called to their attention? — G.B., La Verne.

Since you live in La Verne, although you didn't say in which community the incident occurred, we asked Acting Chief of Police J. L. Baker of La Verne to answer your questions.

He says that Section 308 of the State Penal Code prohibits the selling or furnishing of tobacco products to persons under 18 but does not prohibit the minor from buying or possessing such products.

The only law he knows which deals with possession by a minor of tobacco products prohibits such possession on public school property. The law is part of the education code.

Penalties for selling or furnishing tobacco to a minor range from $25 to $100 fine or not more than 60 days in jail for the first offense to $100 to $300 fine or not more than six months in jail for the third offense.

Failure of a seller to post conspicuously a copy of the law may result in a small fine.

Chief Baker inspected several machines in La Verne and found one machine which did not have a warning posted on it. The owner was contacted and correction made immediately.

"If an obvious minor is observed using a machine, I would surely advise the merchant of such action," states the chief. "If he refuses to accept his responsibility, I would not hesitate to call the local law enforcement agency."

He adds that the tobacco machine in the lobby of the La Verne Police Department was removed some time back due to the problem of trying to supervise its use.

EDITORIAL Opinion

U.N. is delving into world corps.

The sun may never set on the British Empire, but it never goes down on scores of multinational business empires like Mitsubishi, General Electric and Volkswagen.

ITT, for example, has more overseas employes than the State Department, noted Lester R. Brown recently in the National Observer. Standard Oil's tanker fleet is half again as large as that of the Soviet Union. General Motors' sales exceed the gross national product of Switzerland.

In a combined list of 100 countries and corporations according to gross national product and gross annual sales, 59 are nation-states and 41 are multinational corporations.

Small wonder then that the United Nations has launched a year-long inquiry into the multinational phenomenon with the aim of devising some form of monitoring system over the giant enterprises to make them more accountable to governments in countries where they operate.

(Significantly, the initiative for the probe came from the now-deposed Marxist government of President Salvador Allende of Chile, who charged U.S. companies with attempting to subvert his regime.)

Domestically, multinationals are on the defensive against allegations from some union leaders and congressmen that they are exporting Americans' jobs.

Actually, the multinational phenomenon is new only in degree, not in kind. In 1861, 10 years after it was founded, Singer sold more sewing machines overseas than in the United States. It still does.

On the other hand, Dow Chemical Co. did not make its first substantial move into the international field until the early 1950s.

The story of how one company, Clark Equipment, went multinational is revealing.

After World War II, explains board chairman Walter E. Schirmer, Europeans began purchasing replacement parts for Clark lift trucks left behind by the U.S. Army. As Clark's reputation overseas grew, so did its sales. Then local competition appeared and governments began enacting protective tariffs. To protect its market, Clark began to license foreign manufacturers of its products.

Schirmer estimates that one out of every nine of Clark's 20,000 employes in the United States holds a job because of the company's export business. He blames "economic illiteracy" for fears and suspicions about multinationals.

Dow has similar figures: One out of every six of its U.S. employes owes his job to Dow's international business; export sales provide some 15,000 additional jobs in the U.S. for people who supply products and services to Dow and its employes.

Today, however, few multinational companies are truly international; they are still tied in many ways to their home governments. But as they become more and more transnational, the effect on life in the 21st century may be profound. As national companies have contributed to higher living standards throughout the United States, the companies which know no boundaries will do the same throughout the world.

The chief reason many governments and their citizens are disturbed by multinational companies, says Walter B. Wriston, chairman of First National City Corp., is that they represent "today's visible agents of change."

Change is always disturbing.

Everybody wins?

In the light of comments made since the Legislature finally agreed to roll back the unnecessary sales tax increase, everybody won the battle that had been going on between the legislative and executive branches.

The taxpayers certainly did. Governor Reagan got the rollback he had been seeking. And legislators who had at first opposed him now are happily certain that although they had to do an about face on the actual sales tax issue, they gained points in their fight against the Governor's tax limitation measure on the November ballot.

The arguments pro and con are to the average layman somewhat complicated, as political maneuverings can frequently be. But both sides seem confident. The Governor's opponents feel the rollback measure provides complicating factors that will generate public opposition to his reform measure. He, according to aides, is quite confident to the contrary.

One sure winner, so far at least, is the taxpayer.

'TO THE LADIES ...'

JACK ANDERSON

A harum-scarum campaign

WASHINGTON — The two correspondents who doubled as Nixon spies provided the White House last year with a fascinating, running account of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign. Their confidential reports would make a book, which might be called "The Making of a Fiasco."

Under the code name "Chapman's Friend," Seymour Freidin and Lucianne Goldberg dictated reports sometimes twice a day to Nixon aide Murray Chotiner. He distributed copies to White House Chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and campaign director Clark MacGregor.

Freidin followed the McGovern campaign until Sept. 5, 1972, when Goldberg took over as the new Chapman's Friend. We have obtained their reports and checked them with sources close to the campaign. Some say the spy reports are accurate; others claim they are distorted.

But the secret pair gave the White House an account of a harum-scarum campaign, which Freidin called "McGovern's flying circus" and Goldberg described as a "disorganized disaster." Here are typical excerpts:

Almost comic

August 23: "By the end of the Midwest tour, McGovern was saying privately that the operation must be tightened up . . . Some of the strategy sessions were almost comic — in a knot of twos and threes in the fairgrounds at Springfield was an example. Spot decisions were being made on walk-tours . . . It was something of a reminder of the 1968 early swings of (Hubert) Humphrey — bad scheduling, poor crowds and disorganization . . . The liaison between (running mate Sargent) Shriver and McGovern was gossamer at best; nonexistent at worst . . .The entourage is too busy with its own delicious thoughts and wisecracks. It should be carefully noted that jealousies keep growing and some intramural upheavals should not be excluded."

August 29: "The McGovern for President headquarters (in Washington) is a worse firetrap than when it was a citadel for (Sen. Ed) Muskie. It's eight floors of a ramshackle building fit to be condemned; has two wheezy elevators — signs urging people to walk down if descending — and floors that are carved into dozens of tiny cubicles."

August 30: "When the media shows — as it does increasingly — that it does not take McGovern too seriously, his top people get furious. Thus it would seem that scoffing at McGovern's suggestions rather than treating them, point by point, with gravity is a useful tactic."

Brain trust

September 1: "The operations may be summed up in the observations of Dr. Henry Meyers, a scientist who has been asked to prepare national security papers, ideas . . . from the top foreign affairs-disarmament brain trust of McGovern. Meyers told me that he received a paper yesterday—'The collective brainpower of this operation,' as Meyers put it. 'It was 30 pages, single-spaced. It was impossible. Everybody and his brother put his ideas into it, and this was given to me to whip into shape. Then, some of the guys who appealed to me to get involved went home at 4 p.m. — to go swimming.' "

September 6: "After the speech (in Dallas), Chapman's Friend asked some businessmen why there weren't any big Democrats present. One answered: 'Not even a dog catcher would be out there, because he would not be a dog catcher after the next election.' "

September 8, 12:15 a.m.: "The newspapers tell about McGovern's visit to NASA in Houston. It should be noted that astronauts always say 'sir' every other sentence, but they didn't say 'sir' to McGovern . . . Shriver got hell from McGovern for missing a dinner with the Ohio labor leader. It seems he was taking a shower when he was supposed to be eating with the labor leader."

Resignations

September 8, 5:30 p.m.: "Chapman's Friend was standing in the hall when someone said that Gordon Weil had resigned . . . (Press aide Richard) Dougherty forgot himself momentarily and replied: 'You know what the senator said this morning? Every time he hears of another resignation, he feels like he's an astronaut up in a spacecraft and the guy below in charge of oxygen keeps pulling the plug.' Someone said: 'Is this going to keep up? Dougherty: 'Oh hell, if this keeps up, the next one to resign will be George McGovern' . . . In direct contrast to the press plane where a good time is had on trips, McGovern's plane is reported to be like a flying coffin. Occasionally he gets up and walks about half way back to talk to the press but loses his nerve and goes back and sits down."

September 14: "Chapman's Friend reports that there is hard-core disenchantment with McGovern among the press traveling with him because it is such a lackluster campaign. The pool reports have started to refer to him as McGoon."

September 15: "Chapman's Friend had a conversation on the plane with John Gage, a long-time McGovern supporter, who . . . is typical of the extremely well educated, articulate young pople around McGovern. His attitude was that of disillusionment — not so much because of vascillation but because the man had no personal charisma; that he said things that read well in print but when he said them it put you to sleep."

Senator's cold

September 26, 12:30 a.m.: "With the hectic pace of the campaign trail, little sleep, changes in weather, etc., many of the traveling group have been plagued with colds and illnesses for the past week. It has now reached the top. The senator like everybody else has a cold."

September 26, 6:45 p.m.: "During the delivery of his usual speech, McGovern commented on the Nixon pickets that have been turning up. 'Let them send them around,' he said. 'We are happy to have them. We would rather have Nixon paying pickets than to have Nixon pay people to spy on us.'"

October 12: "While in Boston, McGovern did the Jerry Williams Show. As he was leaving, Williams handed him a tape of a Vietnam veteran . . . . On the airplane between Boston and Minneapolis, McGovern put the tape on the loudspeaker and played the voice of this young man. It was a very emotional tape. He talked about going into villages where the napalm burned bodies so badly that they could not be distinguished from animals . . . . McGovern had tears in his eyes when the tape was over. He simply turned around and went into his cabin and laid down."

November 7: "The atmosphere is that of good-humored resignation on the part of McGovern's staff. He has had his whole family and a dog named Upset with him. A newsman from the New York Daily News posted a page from the Harvard Lampoon on the plane . . . which simply says: 'Defeat.'"

"Pssst! My Papa Can Beat Up Your Papa!"

Gossip for today

In this enlightened era, sex segregation is being declared illegal with ever increasing frequency. Already the Supreme Court has ruled that mixed sun bathing in the nude is legal if it is done in out of the way places. As a result of that decision three times as many men and women have been running around nude on our out of the way beaches this year than did last year.

Any day now you can expect some judge to rule that signs over the doors leading into public rest rooms should be changed from HIS and HERS to THEIRS. Already this giant step forward in sex desegregation has been taken in one important area. Aboard U.S. Coast Guard ships, separate bathrooms are no longer required for men and women.

Day by day in every way our sense of propriety is becoming increasingly liberated. And if the Supreme Court keeps on making rulings, in a short time there will be little if anything left of a thing called old fashioned morality. — Which is a downright shame because it works a hardship on our young folks. They are finding it cause it works a hardship on our young folks. They are finding it increasingly difficult to find things to do that will shock their elders.

Speculators control prices of foodstuffs

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — On the face of it, growing and marketing farm products seems a fairly elementary exercise . . . something like "to market, to market, to buy a fat pig."

Only it isn't the way it seems. Sow bellies and soybeans, and other commodities, seldom go from farmer to packer to consumer, at least not right away. Food speculators, who never see the goods, intervene; gambling millions that they will hit it right and be able to guess when their commodity will take a sudden price hike on the market.

These speculators, who have tremendous influence over the economic flow of farm goods, have caused U.S. farm prices to fluctuate wildly.

Further, according to some reports, the government agency responsible for protecting the public from boom or bust price trends, has a long-standing habit of looking the other way.

To offset some of this criticism, the Department of Agriculture's Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) has been busily investigating its way through the summer in an effort to uncover and eliminate possible price manipulations of corn and soybean futures.

Crackdown comes too late

CEA has managed some successes with its hurry-up crackdown. However, as noted by Agriculture's Office of Inspector General (OIG), the damage has already been done and the snowballed inflation of food prices is evidence to that.

OIG has concluded that CEA "did not make adequate analysis, inquiries and conclusions" on trading where strong indications of price manipulation were shown.

In defense of CEA it is necessary to note that the agency is responsible for regulating a business that during the last fiscal year generated $268.3 billion worth of trade. And CEA only has 160 employees.

By comparison, the Securities and Exchange Commission, with 1,656 people, regulated a volume just over $195 million for the same period.

But even when CEA has come up evidence of manipulation, punishment has been lightly applied, or not at all.

One of the nation's largest grain trading companies was found guilty in 1963 of price fixing wheat futures. More than 7½ years later, CEA decided to place the company's top officials on probation. CEA could have banned the company from trading, altogether.

What does all this mean to the consumer? Plenty!

In testimony before a congressional committee, a Missouri farmers association official told legislators that "excessive paper trading" in soybeans contributed to the killing of pregnant sows and the smothering of baby chicks.

Farmers destroy livestock

Why would farmers destroy their obvious means of support? Because excessive speculation had shot the price of soybeans — the principal feed ingredient — from $7 a bushel to $12.90. Farmers could not afford to bring baby livestock to market size at those prices.

In another example of socking it to the public, OIG uncovered a scheme where one contract for a carload of November potatoes was sold and resold 35 times on the final trading day by three brothers for ever increasing prices. This was done right under a CEA agent's nose, who later reported trading was done in "an orderly fashion."

With prices for everything inflated, it is necessary government agencies keep the lid on exorbitant manipulations, where possible. A prime target is the price of food and CEA should be beefed-up or dressed-down to get it on track.

"It had disrupted the proper flow of motor senses to the brain," said Dr. DeGroot. "And its bladder and bowel control had been disrupted. This is his second treatment and already he's showing a marked improvement. He has only had one bowel accident since treatment began. I really didn't think this dog would respond, but he has very nicely."

Dr. DeGroot explained that Dr. Shin has "got involved in this because his father is a veterinarian in Korea. He was very interested in getting acupuncture treatment for animals."

Dr. Alice is convinced of the worth of the treatments because her Irish wolf hound, Quill, lame for several years, had lost his limp.

"Most of the written records available are from China, but there are many from the Maya culture and ancient Egypt. Acupuncture deals with the third vascular system," he said.

Dr. Shin noted that the system consists of 12 meridians, each of which corresponds to a different organ system. Among these, he said, are the small and large intestinals, heart, kidney, bladder, gall bladder, lung, triple warmer and circulation sex, stomach, spleen and governing vessel of conception.

Dr. Alice reported that "improvement has been excellent" in all cases.

Parent education unit to hear psychologist

CLAREMONT — Dr. Thomas Gordon, a licensed clinical psychologist, will speak on parent effectiveness training Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at Taylor Hall, 1717 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

The lecture will be sponsored by the Committee on Parenthood Education. Admission is $1 a person.

Dr. Gordon is president of Effectiveness Training Associates, and has written two books: "Parent Effectiveness Training: The No-Lose Program for Raising Responsible Children," and "Group-Centered Leadership."

His rapidly expanding program on parent effectiveness training is a basic course on how to raise children and has been called "revolutionary" because it shows parents why she should be neither strict nor permissive.

COPE is a nonprofit corporation organized to help parents deal with the challenge of raising physiologically and psycholigically happy, healthy and productive children by providing current child development information and a contact with other parents.

Meals program gains $350, 35 volunteers

POMONA — Meals on Wheels is richer by $350 and 35 volunteers as a result of an opening meeting at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

According to Jim Kuhn, chairman of the Pomona MOW, the donations from individuals and groups ranged from $5 to $100. The money will be used to purchase equipment for the packaging and delivering of complete noontime meals to shut-ins and invalids in Pomona.

An additional 35 volunteers signed up to help with the delivering of bulk meals from the hospital, where they will be pepared, to the First Pesbyterian Church where they will be packaged into individual servings. Other volunteers will deliver the meals to the families. Recipients will pay only the actual cost of the meal.

A tea is planned on Oct. 14 to further interest the public in the program.

November 5 has been set as the kick-off date for the program if enough volunteers and equipment are ready. Persons wishing to receive the meals or those wishing to assist as volunteers may call 623-0010 for additional information.

Youth program

Pomona recreation classes will start

POMONA — The Pomona Park and Recreation Department's fall youth instructional program for boys and girls will begin Monday.

Tap dancing will be offered to all children of kindergarten age and older. Classes will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. and will be taught by Miss Joan Edwards. The fee will be $1. Classes will meet at Washington Park on Monday, Diamond Point School on Tuesday, Arroyo School on Wednesday, Kingsley School on Thursday and Westmont Park on Friday.

Baton twirling, also for kindergarteners and up, will be held at the same hours and will be taught by Mrs. Debra Cahill. Classes will meet at Golden Springs School on Tuesday, Montvue School on Thursday, Lexington School on Friday, with an additional class at Ganesha Park Community Center on Saturday at 10 a.m.

Hawaiian dance for girls 8 and over, and Tahitian dance for girls 12 and over will be taught by Mrs. Diane Ito Warner. Registration will be taken from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at Westmont Park on Thursday and at Washington Park on Friday. A $1 fee will be charged.

A hand-sewing class, the Merry Stitchers, for girls in the fifth and sixth grades, will hold registration each day from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. this week. Registration will be taken Monday at Arroyo School, Tuesday at Madison School, Wednesday at Lexington School, Thursday at Hamilton School and Friday at North San Antonio School.

In 1789, when George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States, and the Constitution that still guides our life had just been ratified, there were less than four million persons in all the thirteen states of the Union.

Of these, 750,000 were blacks, nearly all of them slaves, and could not participate in political society.

It was a young population: The median age was sixteen, and there were only 816,000 males above that age. The overwhelming number of persons were farmers; 95 per cent of the population was rural. Few persons lived in cities.

In all, 200,000 individuals lived in what were then defined as "urban areas"—places with more than 2,500 inhabitants. New York, then the capital of the country, had a population of 33,000.

Because America was a small country, members of the political elite knew each other well. But for most persons, life was vastly different. Living, isolated, in small communities or in sparsely inhabited areas, people seldom traveled great distances, and a visitor from afar was a rarity.

News meant local gossip, and the few news sheets concentrated on parochial events. The ordinary citizen's image of the world and its politics was exceedingly circumscribed.

By 1900, there were 75 million persons in the United States. Almost nine million, or twelve per cent, were blacks. The weight of the country was changing, but the balance was still rural and agricultural. Of the 75 million, 45 million, or 60 per cent of the population, still lived in rural areas.

And of 29 million persons at work, 11 million were in agriculture, the single largest category, and another million in mining, fishing and timber. Only six million persons worked in manufacturing, and of these a goodly number were artisans and craftsmen.

But the westward expansion of the country had come to a halt. The lands that remained for homesteads were limited and often marginal. Industrialization and urbanization were quickening their pace.

Yet, by the turn of the century, there were no automobiles, no radios, no motion pictures. And only 6.5 per cent of the youth finished high school—a figure which itself was double the percentage of only a decade before.

By 1970, two-thirds of the way through the century, there were 205 million persons in the country (25 million of whom were blacks and other non-whites), and of these, 150 million, or 73.5 per cent, now lived in urban areas.

Of about 80 million employed, a little more than 3 million were farmers (a decline of 50 per cent in the decade). The single largest employment was manufacturing, with 20 million persons, but 15 million persons were in trade and 12.5 million in government.

With industrialization and urbanization, an entire new pattern of transportation and communication had appeared. There were now more than 80 million automobiles in the country, and 82 per cent of all families owned at least one (30 per cent of families owned two or more), and 95 per cent of the households had a television set. These had transformed the life-style of the society. But equally striking was the advance in the level of education.

By 1970, more than 78 per cent of youths had graduated from high school, and half of these now went on directly to college. The major feature of the decade was the explosion in higher education.

In 1970, more than 8 million persons were enrolled in colleges, more than 4 million of whom were full-time students in four-year colleges.

So far, I have concentrated on numbers rather than on the character of the people, the nature of the political institutions, or the quality of the productive economy, yet it is growth in number which, in the first instance, provides the primary set of problems for the management of change in the society. And without understanding this fact, there can be little realization of the nature of the social strains we have endured—and face.

Since the end of World War II, there have been three major demographic changes in the United States:

One might be called the population explosion, the second the population implosion, and the third the racial transformation of the central cities of the metropolitan areas.

In the quarter of a century from the end of World War II to the present, more than 90 million children were born. In the single decade from 1950 to 1960, almost 30 million persons were added to the population—a figure as large as the entire population increase in the seven decades from 1790 to 1860.

People required few services in those years. Today "infrastructure" services — roads, sewerage, water, schools, etc.—for a new population cost $18,000 per person. If one multiplies this figure by the population increase, one gains a sense of the magnitude involved in meeting the social costs of new numbers.

But with this population explosion has come a second change as well.

In the nineteenth century, added growth could be absorbed in the segmental expansion of the country. In the last quarter of a century, that growth could only be pyramidal, i.e., piling up on top of existing areas and increasing the density.

For, there was a contraction of agriculture in that same period of time, and 25 million persons left the farms and moved to the cities. Thus, the population implosion has been an ingathering of the American population concentrated in a few places.

And with this transformation — particularly with the expulsion of southern black sharecroppers from the land—we have had a vast migration of blacks to the North. In the last decade, the non-white population of the central cities increased by 25 per cent.

Blacks already constitute a majority in Washington, D.C., in Newark, in Atlanta, and in Gary, and before long seven more major cities in the United States—Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, St. Louis, New Orleans, Memphis and Philadelphia — will be predominantly black.

What I have been illustrating here is what sociologists call a structural change in the framework of society. The transient and the tumultuous engage our curiosities and our passions, they absorb us in the present, but they also blind us to deeper underlying elements that are reshaping the contexts of the society.

In addition to the demographic changes, there are three major structural changes underway that are reworking the fabric of the society.

First is the fact that, in the past thirty years, we have become for the first time a national society.

We have always been a nation, in the psychological sense of possessing a coherent national identity, but not until now have we been a national society. Technological evolutions in transportation and communication have made the social and political shocks of the society, which once were relatively isolated and insulated, register in every part of the society at once.

Television coverage of police dogs snarling at Martin Luther King in Birmingham, Ala., made him a national figure and led to 10,000 persons joining him twenty-four hours later in a march of protest.

The creation of a national society poses the need for national institutions. In the 1920s, we became for the first time a national economy, and the Roosevelt administration had to fashion national mechanisms—in labor relations, regulation of securities and financial markets, fiscal and monetary policy—to manage a national economy.

Today we are struggling to create national mechanisms to meet the needs in health, welfare, and education.

Second, we have become a communal society. This development has taken two forms. One, because of the growth of numbers and the increasing "spill-over" of side effects, we have become aware of dangers to the environment and of the need to regulate air pollution, water resources, solid waste disposal, recreational spaces, and the like. These are tasks, necessarily, for government, from the federal to the local level.

And, in a different dimension, we are more aware of the claims on the community by disadvantaged groups—the poor, the aged, the culturally deprived, the racially discriminated—for redress of their grievances. For these reasons, the role of government has become enhanced.

Third, we are becoming a post-industrial society. We are no longer a manufacturing economy.

It is the simultaneous convergence of these four structural changes—the demographic transformation, the creation of a new, tighter-knit national society, the development of a communal society with new claims, and the emergence of a post-industrial society with new educational requirements — that have posed management problems for the society.

Out of these changes has come the large "youth bulge" of the 1960s, with its strains—the huge migrations, the expansion of the suburbs, the racial transformation of the cities, and the attendant conflicts that have come in their wake.

And on top of these problems was a difficult war that had, for most Americans, a morally ambiguous character.

Can all these problems, simultaneously converging, be managed? It is at this point that the character of the people, the flexibility of the institutions, and the quality of leadership become the decisive questions. And these are the questions for other essays in this series.

National realty group:

Nixon's housing policy supported

CHICAGO — President Nixon's housing policy recommendations recently submitted to Congress has received support from J. D. Sawyer, president of the National Association of Realtors.

"The President's proposal to provide immediate relief to the hard pressed home mortgage market should alleviate an extremely serious threat confronting the home building industry," he explained.

Nixon announced the government would move shortly to allow saving and loan associations to provide an additional $2.5 billion in mortgage loan commitments.

Such credit has been virtually shut off since June because of the diversion of savers' funds into high interest bearing U. S. Treasury bills and other investments, said Sawyer.

"Under the Administration plan, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board will provide forward commitments to saving and loan associations, guaranteeing that money will be available to them at some future date to cover present home loan commitments they could not otherwise make," he explained.

Sawyer also welcomed the Administration's announcement of an attempt to attract $3 billion in private funds into the mortgage market for new housing construction.

"This move will involve a revival of the so-called Tandem Plan of the Government National Mortgage Association, under which the government buys mortgages at prices favorable to the seller, then sells them back to the originator or other investors at discounts sufficient to provide a fair market yield.

"The effect of this strategem is to provide money for FHA-insured mortgages at interest rates below the market level," he noted.

Sawyer said both these steps can be taken by the Administration immediately to help the housing credit squeeze, without waiting for Congressional action on other phases of the Administration's housing plan. Such actoin is not expected before next fall.

"These measures are necessary in the short run," the real estate industry spokesman said, "to help relieve conditions caused by the unprecedented rise in interest rates. Taking a longer view, however, we are especially pleased to see reflected in Mr. Nixon's proposal our recommendation for a plan to provide direct cash assistance to low income families to permit them to choose their own homes, rather than forcing on them new housing, with its inevitable housing project sitgma. We believe this will not only provide more decent housing for those who cannot otherwise afford it, but will have the added virtue of effectively utilizing the nation's supply of existing homes.

"Also welcome is the President's intention to seek legislation which would update and improve the existing laws governing mortgage credit by permitting homeowners to pay fair market rates on FHA and VA insured loans. We believe that such legislatoin would have the effect of helping to prevent wild fluctuations in mortgage rates, while insuring that home buyers would have an adequate supply of mortgage credit payable at reasonable rates. The National Association of Tealtors, has long advocated the enactment of legislation permitting realistic interest rates on government-insured mortgages," Sawyer said.

In commenting on the Administration's announced intention to seek legislation aimed at encouraging more financial institutions to invest in residential mortgages by establishing a sliding scale of tax credits on such loans, Sawyer noted that a National Association of Realtors' spokesman had advocated such a measure earlier in testimony before the Housing Banking and Currency Committee.

Sawyer also strongly backed the President's reaffirmation of his Administration's intention to vigorously pursue a wide range of efforts to enforce fair housing and equal opportunities laws enacted by Congress in 1964 and 1968. In endorsing these government policies, Sawyer noted that the National Association of Realtors has formulated an official Code for Equal Opportunity, pledging its members to "offer equal service to all clients or prospective clients without regard to race, color, religion or national origin, and to refrain from any activity which has the purpose of inducing panic selling."

OLLAMEAE CANFIELD

NORMA RAIGUEL

Realty salesmen cited

Mrs. Raiguel has been a salesman with the Wheeler-Steffen real estate firm in Claremont for the past eight years. She is a charter member of the Pomona Valley Real Estate Toastmasters Club.

Mrs. Canfield is associated with her husband's real estate firm, Charles L. Canfield Real Estate. Their two sons, Charles and Rob are also connected with the firm.

Mrs. Canfield is program chairman for the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, a member of the Pomona Redevelopment Commission, and a member of the Toastmasters Breakfast Club.

Realtors elect new officers

SAN DIEGO — C. Larry Hoag of Downey has been elected new president of the California Real Estate Association, which has 70,000 members.

Other new officers include Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, first vice president; E. Thornton Ibbetson, of Bellflower, treasurer; and Zan L. Beckstead of Chatsworth, executive vice president and state secretary.

The elections occurred during the realty group's annual convention here.

Hoag is president of The Hoag Co., Inc., a real estate brokerage firm, which has divisions in residential, investment, commercial, industrial, property management and insurance fields.

He has been involved in CREA work for the past 20 years and served this year as first vice president.

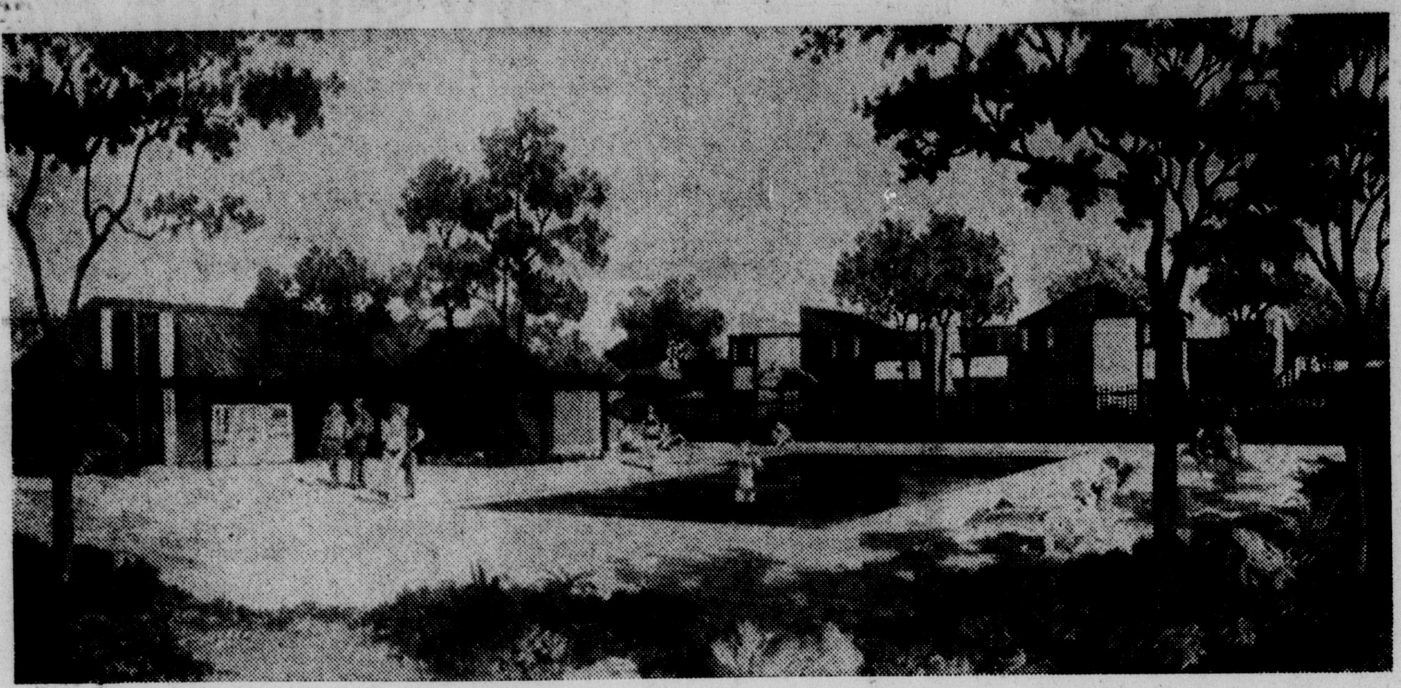
grand opening



SPRING HILL — This luxury rental townhouse complex is holding a grand opening today. The $1.5 million development is located at 410 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

64 family apartments

New Claremont townhouse has grand opening today

CLAREMONT — A $1.5 million rental townhouse complex at 410 S. Indian Hill Blvd. is holding its grand opening today.

The development, with 64 family apartments, was built by the American Housing Guild of San Diego.

"Our concept for Spring Hill was to develop rental townhomes offering residents luxury as well as practical features," said Nancie Larimore, director of consumer marketing.

"We feel we have accomplished our goal by incorporating the most luxurious built-in conveniences for our residents while providing them a totally maintained environment featuring a host of appealing amenities."

The project has a heated pool, outdoor gas barbecues, landscaped grounds and "tot lots."

"One outstanding convenience for mothers is our special closed circuit television system located in our tot lots," said Miss Larimore. "Mothers merely turn their television to a pre-determined channel, which is connected to the closed circuit system, thus allowing her to keep an eye on the youngsters without ever leaving her apartment."

The Spring Hill townhomes offer three floor plans, which include two, three and four bedrooms. They range in size from 1,100 square feet to over 1,400 square feet. The models include:

— The Morninglory, with two bedrooms, 1½ baths and upstairs private balcony off the master bedroom; Wildflower, three bedrooms, 1½ baths, separate dining room, family room, and large dressing area in the master bedroom; Poppy, three bedrooms and den, two baths, fireplace, private patio and dressing area in the master bedroom suite.

"One feature receiving enthusiastic support is the enclosed washer and dryer space located in each unit," said Miss Larimore. "For those residents who don't have a washer and dryer, arrangements can be made to rent them for a monthly fee."

The kitchens include ranges and ovens, dishwashers, luminous ceiling lights, serving counters and large pantries in most models.

The living area has shag carpeting, drapes, wood paneling, drop-beam ceilings, built-in book shelves and fireplaces in some models.

Other features include forced air heating and air conditioning, separate dining and family rooms, enclosed patio areas and garages.

Spring Hill is composed of 10 buildings. The rustic appearance is created by the use of beige stucco, highlighted with contrasts of dark stained rough sawn wood for patios, balconies, decks and fences.

Princess has houses for all families

CHINO — Prospective buyers can find a home that best suits their family size, budget and lifestyle at Princess del Rancho here, said officials.

They have 17 exterior elevations and nine floor plans from which to choose. The three and four bedroom single family homes are priced from $26,950. The homes are located on Mountain Avenue south of the Pomona Freeway.

Features include wall-to-wall carpeting, two bathrooms, and kitchens with ranges, ovens, dishwashers and disposals. The homes also have extra storage cabinets, master bedroom suites with private bathrooms and large wardrobes, concrete patios and two car garages.

The development is close to schools, parks and a shopping center. Furnished model homes are open daily. Colwell Properties, Inc., is the sales agent.

Ready for any financial deal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four call girls arrested in a downtown hotel when they met four policemen posing as businessmen were equipped for any financial transaction.

Capt. Gerald Shaughnessy said the girls entered the officers' rooms Tuesday and carried machines which were to be used for credit cards.

ORCHARD LANE — Among the quality features found in the Orchard Lane condominium development in Upland is a compartmentalized bath, featuring separate cultured marble lavatory with pullman cabinet.

Home size is popular at Carriage

UPLAND — The size of homes at Carriage Square West is a popular feature with visitors, said Dale Ostendorf, sales agent for Key Realty.

"Every home has four bedrooms and two or two and a half baths and a minimum size 2,290 square feet of living area," he added.

"That means every room is large, and there is plenty of room for individual privacy."

The homes, available in one and two story plans, are priced from $45,450 to $47,950. The lots have a minimum of 10,000 square feet, which provides room for swimming pools.

Features include central air conditioning, forced air heating, insulated exterior walls and ceilings, nylon shag carpeting, interior laundry areas, and underground utilities.

Tusks give walrus name

The generic name of the walrus is odoebenus, meaning "He who walks with his teeth," referring to the long tusks. These tusks are used for fighting, climbing and digging food. A walrus can capsize a boat by hooking the tusks into the side of the boat.

So many walruses will climb on one ice floe that the floe will tip and throw them all into the water. A walrus can attain a speed of up to 15 miles per hour while swimming.

Reno reporting linen shortage

RENO (UPI) —There's a sheet shortage in this gamblers' city.

Bob Easton of American Linen Supply said Thursday that textile exports to Japan and China have created a shortage and driven prices up 400 per cent.

"Our problem is trying to conserve the linens we have," Easton said.

He added that he has advised casino hotels to regard linens as more precious than money.

Land titles on convention agenda

LOS ANGELES — Problems and progress in protecting land titles will be discussed today through Wednesday when the American Land Title Association holds its 67th annual convention.

The group is a national association of abstract and title insurance compnaies who search, review and insure land titles to protect home buyers, mortgage lenders and other real estate investors Nearly all title insurers are members.

Speakers will include Edwin O. Guthman, national editor for the Los Angeles Times, and Julian H. Taylor, Bank of America vice president. They will review the state of the conomy.

Members will consider in convention sessions the latest developments in federal efforts to regulate real estate settlement costs and practices. They will also hear presentations on state rating bureaus as regular tools.

Other discussions will deal with joint title plants as means of improving efficiencey and standard forms that provide uniformity in title insurance coverage.

Dr. Norman B. Sigband, of the USC graduate school of business, will conduct a workshop on employee motivation.

He runs a pack of wolves

Afterwards, Raqual Welch said, "You ought to do something about it," and the International Society of Girlwatchers was born. Miss Welch, then Raquel Tejada, was the TV station's weather girl.

"At Raquel's urging, we held a one-time meeting in October of 1960," Beagin said. "We held a series of seminars on watching. A group of stewardesses told the girls what they were doing wrong, and we selected a queen—Jodie Hocking."

The 127 persons who attended the meeting refused to let it die as a one-time shot and Beagin spent much of his spare time making up eyeball lapel pins, membership cards and conducting "watchable" contests. In 1964 a convention attended by 250 men was held and professional girl watching techniques were demonstrated.

Beagin has long since left his engineering post and now conducts lectures and demonstrations throughout the country as well as making television appearances. Jewelry, shirts, ash trays and other items bearing the "watching eyeballs" insignia are on the market for both men and women, and a women's auxiliary is taking shape.

The remark he made which spurred Miss Welch's comment was: "I think the girls in San Diego are great but there are some that don't belong downtown in capris and iron spikes. Some are outright unbecoming."

Now the goal of the society is "to compliment and call attention to well groomed appearances everywhere and make every man a professional girl watcher."

Beagin claims 20,000-30,000 members throughout the world. Most of these come to bouts where Beagan and his girlwatching demonstrations have proved popular.

Members receive kits which amount to pocket-size wallets containing rating cards, watchable awards and an instruction book.

The cards contain 12 rating categories ranging from "lovely" and "M-M-M" to "cold." Most are complimentary but a few are not.

The watchable awards are about the size of a half-dollar and have a sticky back for pasting on the girl's clothing. They read, "presented as a sincere compliment for your lovely well groomed appearance."

The instruction book contains techniques such as "how to watch girls when you're with your wife or girl friend," the wristwatch "watch," and "the shoelace tie."

Among the words of advice on the latter is "timing is of the utmost importance. Be sure to shake the foot with the loose shoelace three or four times in order to set the stage for the full watch."

Periodic contests are held in various areas for the most watchable shopper, sports fan, bowler, bikini wearer and best legs. The prizes are worthwhile but many of the contestants seem to enter primarily for the fun of it. In some cases, such as shopper and sports fan, they don't even know they are entered as they are judged surreptitiously by girlwatchers members.

The society also selected the most watchable woman in the world in 10 categories each year.

"There's always the perennial beauty contest entrant," Beagin said. "What happens to the other girls who are just as attractive and smart looking? Our idea is to seek them out and give them their compliment."

Beagin said there has never been a complaint from the women and no frontal assault from "women's lib."

"We're not doing anything to hurt their cause," he said. "In fact, we're in sympathy with them but we'll fight to the last nailhead against claims that women are not for men to admire and adore.

"That was planned long before we got here. Man is going to be attracted to women and women to men."

TIMELY ART — With women becoming more concerned about masculine observation, Joe Beagin has found a way to scope the scene without blowing it. The founder of the International Society of Girlwatchers demonstrates the "wristwatch watch" at a recent convention.

Mosquitoes hit by new poisons

FRESNO (UPI) —Big, buzzing mosquitoes are a painful fact of life in the San Joaquin Valley.

Because of the vast amount of irrigation and inevitable waste of water, billions of mosquitoes can be produced in a few days in one carelessly flooded pasture.

These mosquitoes (aedis nigromaculis), while not disease carriers, are severe biters and can cause weight loss in livestock and secondary infections in humans and animals scratching the bite.

They become a real nuisance when they move into urban areas, but there is hope a revolutionary type of insecticide may help alleviate the problem.

The compound is a synthetic copy of the juvenile hormone (JH) naturally produced in growing mosquitoes, and a JH insecticide trade named Altosid has been under testing in the San Joaquin Valley for the past three years. Dr. Charles Schaefer, University of California entomologist and head of the UC mosquito control research laboratory here, thinks Altosid may prove an immensely effective tool for mosquito abatement districts in the valley.

The traditional method in insecticide research has been to find toxic materials which would kill a particular insect faster than surrounding life forms, but hormones have presented researchers with exciting new, ecologically sound alternatives.

Scientists who first isolated insect hormones in the late 1960s found that massive doses of natural or artificial insect hormones applied to insects would throw their biochemical systems out of kilter. But surrounding life forms with different hormonal setups remained unaffected.

Altosid is the first synthetic hormone insecticide in history to go from research to testing to preliminary approval for limited public use by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Mosquitoes pass from egg to larvae to pupa to free flying adult in five days, and in order for Altosid to work, it must reach the insects in the middle of this process.

Dr. Schaefer explains how it works:

"At the time the larvae is ready to transform into the pupal stage, if we introduce a large amount of juvenile hormone, or a closely related compound that would cause the same type of activity, the normal transformation of a larvae into a pupa doesn't occur. The larvae transforms into an abnormal pupa and that pupa then dies."

Mosquitoes caught in the pupal stage will also be transformed into abnormal adults and die, but JH compounds are so specific they have no effect on adult mosquitoes.

Schaefer and his associates have been testing Altosid for three years and hope to get full EPA approval and registration for it by next year.

It has proved more than 95 per cent effective on larval and pupal mosquitoes but Schaefer hopes mosquito abatement districts will not immediately adopt its use on a wide scale.

Schaefer says the way to solve the mosquito problem is to eliminate places where mosquitoes breed and he says abatement districts are beginning to tighten regulations against wasting water and letting water accumulate in stagnant pools where mosquitoes can breed.

Marlborough visited by 500 persons

"Advance sales plus visitors on opening day indicate a great acceptance for the kind of homes that Marlborough has developed in Chino," said Ron Carl, vice president of sales and marketing for Marlborough Development Corp.

The homes, priced from $30,990, feature air conditioning, double door entries, vaulted ceilings, carpeting in the living room, hallways and master bedrooms, separate family rooms and fireplaces with gas outlets.

Some kitchens are located on the rear patio for easy access to outdoor living, said Carl. Front yard landscaping plus rear and side yard fencing are provided.

The four model homes — called Aspen, Beechwood, Tamarack and Willow — each have three exterior elevations. A total of 240 homes are planned for the development located on Walnut Avenue near Ramona Avenue.

Business exec sees more U.S., China trading

SEATTLE (UPI) —The board chairman of Boeing thinks that U.S. trade will increase with the People's Republic of China.

T. A. Wilson, just back from a 10-day visit to China where two 707 jetliners were delivered, said Thursday there were no significant business discussions with officials during his trip, but he added:

"We operate under the assumption there will be following orders."

He was speaking of additional sales of Boeing planes to China, which bought 10 model 707s last year in a $125 million deal.

"They are a meticulous, thorough customer," he said. "They are thorough in technical acceptance of the airplane."

Yams get big

The largest variety of yam is grown in America and the Far East. One yam will often weigh 30 pounds or more. They are eaten as food and are also used in the feeding of livestock.

Platinum, one of the most expensive metals used in jewelry making, was once regarded as not valuable in Russia. Poor people fashioned it into crude buttons for their clothing.

Senate votes Rickover to 4-star status

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate voted Friday to elevate Hyman G. Rickover to four-star admiral. Congress moved on its own to promote him in absence of a recommendation by the White House.

The action came two days after the Senate voted, 49 to 47, to allow the Navy to speed up development of the Trident, latest nuclear submarine designed by the 73-year-old Rickover who has spent more than a quarter century nurturing the nuclear Navy.

Rickover has made many friends in Congress for his candor while at the same time creating considerable opposition to him within the service.

Customarily, such promotions as Rickover's are proposed by the President on recommendation of the appropriate service. In this case, Congress acted without receiving any nomination.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the Navy had agreed to support the promotion. The House previously approved it.

Jackson said the one-star rise in rank was "in recognition of the vital contribution of Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover to the national defense and his invaluable guidance in developing the nuclear submarine."

Folsom closes solitary unit labeled unfit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Folsom Prison's maximum security solitary confinement unit has been closed following a report describing it as "unfit for human habitation."

Word of the closure came recently from the Assembly Select Committee on Prison Reform and Rehabilitation. Committee Chairman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, called the action a "progressive step in humanizing our prisons."

Karabian said he hoped the action would be followed by a similar move at San Quentin Prison where he called the situation "even more urgent."

The committee recently released a highly-critical report of the two cell units, saying they were "rodent or insect infested cages, unfit for human habitation."

The closure will not mean an end to solitary confinement at Folsom, however. A committee spokesman said prisoners will be moved to other facilities on the grounds.

Formal dedication

Ceremony charted

Formal dedication ceremonies for two sculptures will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Carolyn Bartel Lyon Garden at Pomona College, Claremont.

The sculptures are "Joie de Vie," the commissioned work of Robert I. Russin, a University of Wyoming art professor, and "Cross Form 1964" by John Mason, a former member of the Pomona College art faculty.

The Russin sculpture depicts two female forms. It is centered in a fountain and pool which, along with the landscaping, is the gift of Mrs. Gladys K. Montgomery of Los Angeles. The garden honors the wife of Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, president of Pomona College from 1941 to 1969.

The dedication ceremonies have been arranged by the Pomona College Rembrandt Club which will meet at 2:30 p.m. in Lyman Hall of Thatcher Music Building on the campus. Mr. Russin will lecture on sculpture.

The dedication will open with remarks by Dr. David Alexander, Pomona College president. Mrs. Montgomery will formally present the Russin sculpture to the college and Mr. Russin will respond.

The presentation of the Mason sculpture will be made by Norman P. Hines, assistant professor of art.

Six viewing and study benches being placed in the garden at the same time are gifts to the college, three from the Rembrandt Club and three from the Women's Campus Club. Mrs. Jo Ann Gardiner, president of Rembrandt Club, and Mrs. Graydon F. Beeks Sr., past president of the Campus Club, will make the presentations.

The afternoon program will conclude with a reception and tea sponsored by Rembrandt Club members. Mrs. Richard M. Sheirich is tea chairman.

Mr. Russin is best known for his Lincoln Monument, a bronze bust of the Civil War president which is mounted on a massive granite structure near Laramie, Wyo. He frequently travels to Europe to select marble for his statues and to work at Italian bronze foundries.

The sculpturer is also widely known as a lecturer and as the author of numerous articles on sculpture techniques. Mr. Russin, designed two fountains at City of Hope Medical Center, one of which, "The Spirit of Life," has become known as the symbol of the center.

The Mason ceramic sculpture, which weighs nearly three tons and is 15 feet long and eight feet high, consists of a series of contiguous panels structured within a modular framework. The centered image of Mason's "Cross Form 1964" is cruciform in shape and has large, chunky masses of spatulated clay poised against an intricate background.

A member of the Pomona College art department from 1960 through 1967, Mr. Mason has had numerous one-man shows across the nation and has executed a number of major commissions in the Southland.

Wine-tasting

Party set by league

Asay's Power House will be the setting for the National Charity League Juniors, Foothill Chapter, annual wine-tasting party to be held Oct. 6 from 5 until 7 p.m.

The power house on the grounds of the Asay home, was the first in the area to generate electricity by using water.

Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served by the members of the organization and their husbands. Wine will be provided with the compliments of Thomas Vineyards and Joseph Filippi Vintage Company.

Mrs. Joel Gillingwators is chairman for the event. She will be assisted by Mmes. John McCallum, William Tangeman, William Lee, Edward Soehnel Jr., Howard Theurer, Fredrick Weis and Gary Wild.

The organization is actively concerned with the problems of a growing community and is especially interested in the welfare of underprivileged children in the area. Members are presently working to help support the Bethel Day Care Center in Ontario. Proceeds from the event will enable members to continue support of their philanthropy.

Garden plot requires care

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee experts say it is easy to use too much fertilizer on garden plots and that such nutrients should be carefully measured.

With the growth of novice gardening, some people are finding problems measuring fertilizer for small plots. So UT specialists suggest a way to do the job without special equipment.

Where the fertilizer rate is recommended at 100 pounds per acre, the gardener should measure out one-half cup of fertilizer for each 100 square feet of garden. Other proportions can be figured from this formula.

Foothill Committee to meet

Henri Temianka, founder and conductor of the California Chamber Symphony, will preview a concert when he addresses members of the Foothill Philharmonic Committee at their first luncheon meeting of the new season Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Clarence T. Stover.

The speaker will demonstrate and discuss works by Vivaldi, Varese, Harris and Beethoven which will be performed the following night in Bridges Auditorium by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. This special concert is underwritten by the Foothill Committee to encourage new audiences.

Mr. Temianka is a noted violinist, conductor, author and professor of music at Cal State, Long Beach. He is particularly interested in young people and is the founder of an orchestra series called Concerts for Youth.

The Foothill Philharmonic Committee includes women from West Covina, Pomona, Claremont to Ontario and is an affiliated committee of the Southern California Symphony — Hollywood Bowl Association. It reached a fund-raising goal of more than $12,000 for the orchestra last year.

Mrs. Lawrence C. Hamilton, Claremont, will introduce the speaker.

College finances suffer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nine of every 10 Chicagoans questioned in a survey feel that inflation and other economic ills directly are affecting the financing of college educations.

The quarterly survey by Continental Bank samples the attitudes of 500 Chicago-area families about their personal finances, business conditions, and how they manage their money. The survey report shows record low levels of consumer confidence about personal finances, current business conditions, and the future economy.

Attention, brides

The Progress-Bulletin Women's Department looks forward to printing the stories of your engagement and wedding.

Please pick up engagement and wedding forms at the newspaper office and return them with the picture you wish used.

Engagement forms are not accepted if they are received less than five weeks before the wedding, and wedding forms should be returned within two weeks after the wedding with a picture of the bride only.

Snapshots, polaroid and color pictures are not acceptable for wedding pictures, although most color photos will be accepted for engagement announcements.

TODAY'S

Women

NOW reacts to tennis win

Women score athletic victory

NEW YORK (UPI) —Does Billie Jean King's victory over Bobby Riggs the other night mean someday there will be females on your favorite baseball or football team?

Does it guarantee little girls will get a turn at bat in Little League and their bigger sisters can be on a coed varsity track team in high school? Or a coed football, swimming, golf team.

Billie Jean, a feminist and on the advisory council of the New York chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW), battled Bobby as much for the women's liberation movement as for anything else.

She had to after a bigmouthed Bobby put down Margaret Court.

For answers to such questions I talked with Muriel Fox, chairman of the national advisory committee of NOW. Also: Judy Wenning, National Coordinator of the NOW Task Force on Women in Sports. And Gloria Steinem, an editor of MS. The magazine some months ago featured Billie Jean on a cover. The cover, prophetic, said —"Billie Jean Evens The Score."

Ms. Fox, a vice president in one of the nation's top public relations firms, said the victory was emotionally thrilling.

"A smart woman athlete bested a smart man athlete," she said.

"Not all women have Billie Jean's physical abilities but women do have brains that deserve bigger pay and better jobs.

"With this victory, people may think of things in the women's movement more important than tennis. The important thing is not how we play tennis but that we've got brains. Billie Jean won with her brains, too. Don't forget that."

Ms. Fox said the thing about the woman's movement is that the name of the game is not tennis.

"It is jobs," she said. "While Billie Jean is the first woman athlete to say loud and clear, I'm a feminist, the main playing field is the office where the women's world and the men's world is segregated.

"The gap can be bridged when the only thing that matters is brains and aggressiveness—traits Billie Jean displayed."

Doesn't luck figure in such success, in tennis or in the office? "No," Ms. Fox, wife of a doctor, said. "I always feel you make your luck with your brains and aggressiveness. And courage—the kind Billie Jean showed in that match."

Ms. Wenning, a former physical education teacher from Greensburg, Ind., and now a psychologist and therapist in New York, sees the victory meaning several things.

"It represents or symbolizes the hard work that Billie Jean King and several other women athletes have done over the last several years to show that women deserve the recognition, the status and the monetary rewards awarded to male athletes," she said.

"It also demonstrates that there is great public interest in the performances given by outstanding athletes who are women.

"The American public has been interested in the kinds of performances that Billie Jean King and other athletes can present but television, radio and newspapers have not presented the events all that much.

"I hope one result will be that more women's events will be covered on television and there will be more women sportscasters and sportswriters covering these events.

"The other thing I think will result ... is that girls and women are becoming more aware of sports as an important part of their lives and are going to be demanding that the programs, facilities and coaching be made available to them in schools, communities and amateur and professional programs—including Little League."

Ms. Wenning believes Billie Jean's efforts demonstrate that sports can be a way for women to enjoy and develop their bodies.

"That is true in whatever sport they choose to participate," she said, "And regardless of whether or not that sport is individual or group, competitive or noncompetitive."

About that coed high football team? Or that baseball team of yours going coed? Ms. Wenning said there is no way of predicting just what the physical capabilities of women will be and whether or not sports will be segregated.

"For a while it will be necessary to make sure programs are provided that will give women a chance to develop the skills and the knowledge that has not been made available to them.

"Some time in the distant future maybe we will be able to have sports based on ability classification rather than sex."

There are women in many fields who might compete with men. Swimmers, tennis players, golfers. Ms. Denning said that among those who have completed the swim across the English channel, women have had the best times.

Ms. Denning said NOW is very much going to bat for girls who want to play in Little League and the organization is supporting a bill before congress—HR 8864, proposed by Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, D-Mich. It calls for the changing of the wording in the legislation creating Little League.

The wording would be changed by adding "and girls" to the sentence now containing the phrase "for all boys."

Ms. Steinem agrees that the victory shows women can withstand pressure. The significance of the televised event, according to Ms. Steinem, is that women, and maybe very young women, saw a woman, a very capable woman under pressure ... performing very well.

"Some of these young women could identify, perhaps, and maybe someday may try to do that well, too," she said.

Ms. Steinem didn't think Billie Jean really matched the "offensive" tricks Riggs hurled before the tennis event.

"The effect of this event," Ms. Steinem said, "is also that it began to take women athletes out of the realm of a joke.

"We are moving to the day when such battles will be between persons and not of the sexes. It will take a long time."

Wilma Scott Heide, president of NOW and a behavioral scientist from Vernon, Conn., put her reaction to the victory in a telegram to Billie Jean.

"Congratulations. Stunning

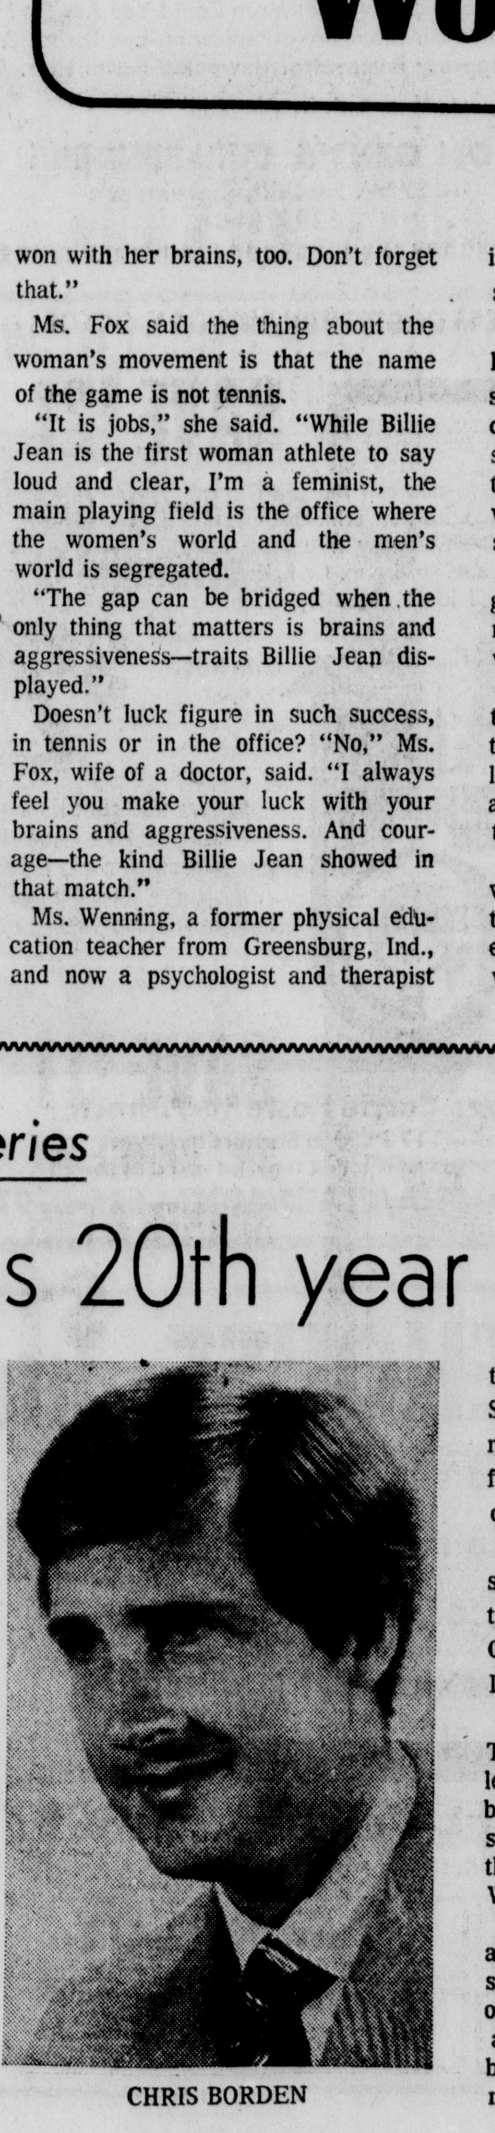
"Glad you noted to millions on television the benefits of the women's movement to all."

Claremont Travel Series

"Bali" opens 20th year Friday

Claremont Travel Film Series will open its 20th year with two presentations of Chris Borden narrating an outstanding picture, "Bali," Friday at 2 and 8 p.m.

A long time favorite of the Claremont audiences, Mr. Borden recently sold his modern radio technique school to devote full time to the production of travel-adventure films. In only a few years he has made 22 films for nationally syndicated television. He was a cameraman on the CBS series, "Animal World," assisted actor Victor Jory in two major documentary productions, produced films for business and industry, and completed five feature-length films of his own.



CHRIS BORDEN

His film, "Bali," has among its highlights warrior-like dancers performing the Kupu Kupu Tjurum dance, the rice fields on the way to Mt. Batucow, Denpasar's market, carabao races, a temple procession, Monkey Forest at Sangeh, temples, Klungklung, a Balinese wedding and the world's wildest funerals as the Balinese prepare their dead with joyous celebration.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is sponsored by the Mt. Baldy Council of the Women's Campus Club of Pomona College and is a benefit project for the Development Fund of the college.

Chairman of the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner. She is assisted by Mmes. Wesley Leighton, Roy Miller, Alfred Ambrogi, Charles Gill, Earle Jones, Jackson Niebrugge, Jules Plaut, Cass Arthur Reed, Stuart Wheeler, Walter Whitney and Miss Esther Ballew.

Season tickets for the entire series, as well as single tickets for this presentation, may be purchased at the box office at Garrison Theater, setting for all the films.Courtesy coffee will again be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance.

What's Going on At Griswold's

Cisto Holquin, our master craftsman of Griswold's Danish coffee cakes, discussed bakeries with me. He said "I've worked in small bakeries and huge shops like Wonder Bread, etc. and I prefer to work in a small shop where I can get my hands in the dough. Then I know what I produce and how it looks. The big shops are mechanized . . . you push buttons and keep machinery going. The breads and pastries are mechanically handled. Here at Griswold's I enjoy seeing my work and I like it when the customer appreciates it".

The newest item in the bakery is DILLY BREAD, made with sour cream, cottage cheese, dill seed, onion and butter. MMM.

Pilgrim Auxiliary sets program on Tuesday

Pilgrim Congregational Church Women's Auxiliary members will hear a talk by Mrs. Jackson Niebrugge on her impressions of the British Isles when the group meets Tuesday. Title of her talk is "People and Places."

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Ralph Rieger, program chairman and the program will be opened with music by Mrs. Charles Weck.

The auxiliary board meeting will be held in the Randleman Room at 9:45 a.m., with the business session scheduled at 11:30 a.m. in Pilgrim Hall.

The luncheon will be prepared by Pilgrim Guild and will be served in the gymnasium at 12:15 p.m. The group will return to Pilgrim Hall at 1 p.m. for the program.

Harvest theme set for OES

"Harvest Hoedown" is the theme for the Tuesday meeting of Claremont Chapter 324, Order of the Eastern Star, at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Miss Maxine Shurtz, worthy matron, will preside when officers for 1974 are elected during the business session.

Mrs. Azalea George will receive special escort and be welcomed into the chapter in an affiliation ceremony. The chapter will also honor Mrs. Hetty Pollock who will be presented her 25 year certificate of membership by the worthy matron.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served in the dining room by the hostesses, Mrs. Sidney Hopkins, Mrs. Vincent Folonis and Mrs. Eva May Hall. There will be a miscellaneous shower for the associate matron, Mrs. Gerald Zimmerman, who will be the official chapter representative to Grand Chapter in Sacramento.

Mrs. Dori Hart has planned decorations and pins-ons in keeping with the theme.

OES chapter to welcome new member

"Harvest of the Heart" will be the theme for the Star of the West Chapter 468, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday at 8 p.m. at the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Betty Clabby, worthy matron, will preside during the election of 1974 chapter officers.

A candiate for membership, Mrs. Pamela Gustafson, will receive the degree of the order. Presiding during the initiation ceremony will be Claude A. Houck, worthy patron.

Special escort will be accorded to deputy grand matron of the 58th district, Mrs. Harold Goodpasture.

Mrs. Eva Middaugh, general chairman of the evening, and her committee will serve refreshments in the dining room at the close of the meeting.

Big payoffs

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Americans received $18.6 billion in payments from life insurance policies and annuities in 1972. That total was 8.1 per cent greater than in the previous year. So reports the Institute of Life Insurance in its latest fact book.

Buffet, fall show scheduled

A buffet and show of fall fashions will be held Saturday at Casa Colina Hospital for the Women of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church and their friends.

The novel setting will highlight the link between the hospital and the community.

Casa Colina Auxiliary helps support a nursery school for children in orthopedic care by putting on luncheons and showing the latest fall fashions from their boutique.

Clothes may be purchased from the boutique in the hospital west wing any week day from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling Ann Morelli, 593-1159.

Make necklace

Make your own necklaces out of string or leather or chains. All you have to add are great buttons or beads.

Interior decorating series set

A series of free interior designing sessions on home decorating is scheduled to begin Tuesday at the Pomona Public Library. Sponsoed by the Pomona Valley YWCA, lecture-demonstrations will be presented by guest speakers who are experts in their fields.

All but one of the programs will be held in the library's public conference room, and they will all be on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

This Tuesday Charles Stillinger of Stillinger Interiors, Pomona, will give a presentation on color sensitivity and how it is used and seen in interior design. He will demonstrate with slides and a "light box" how color is affected by different textures and light sources.

Gerald McMahon of Town and Country Carpets will be the speaker Oct. 9.

Arenas-Oliveros vows said in Chino church

Miss Barbara Lynn Oliveros and Phillip Jose Arenas were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Chino.

The Rev. Francis A. Frankovich officiated at the double-ring rites uniting the daughter of Jack Oliveros of Fontana and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose A. Arenas of Chino.

A gown of embroidered silk organza fashioned with an empire waist was worn by the bride. It was accented with a high neckline and long sleeves encircled with ruffles. Deep ruffles edged the gown and the cathedral-length train.

A band of lace and pearls held the bride's veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, roses and baby's breath.

Miss Susan Bernal was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carmen Bernal, Miss Antonio Castillo and Mrs. Vera Rodriguez, sister of the groom.

Cousins of the groom, Kathy Reyes and Richard Barbosa Jr., were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

The groom's cousin, Steve Arenas, was best man and ushers were Mike Arenas, a brother, Tony Flores, a cousin, and Myron Moreno.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

Subtle textures

SECRETARIAT ANCESTOR? — This representation of a horse drawn on a cave in Lascaux, France, is one of the works of British-born Douglas Mazonowicz which are on display at the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College. The artist will speak on "Cave Paintings" in the Humanities Center auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and at 11 a.m. Thursday. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m. daily.

'Spongy' artist tells technique

CLAREMONT — Artist Ed Ramstead Jr. of Mt. Baldy will demonstrate a sponge technique in acrylic painting at the meeting of the Pomona Valley Art Association at the Claremont branch of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The public is invited to attend. A $1 contribution is requested from members and guests.

Ramstead, born in Alaska, majored in fine arts at Eastern Washington College, and also studied at the University of Washington and Los Angeles State. An illustrator for General Dynamics, he has done work for the U. S. Navy, including paintings of the Alaskan fishing fleets and numerous boats. His paintings hang in the Pentagon, foreign state offices, and many private collections.

He has worked mainly in watercolor, but is currently exploring the possibilities of acrylics.

The program will begin with a slide prersentation of his assignments and commissions, followed by a discussion period. He will then give a demonstration of acrylic sponge technique, which he believes offers many possibilities to the artist.

The Art Association has hug its largest exhibit of all time in the Boiler Room and breezeway of the Graber Olive House at 315 E. Fourth St. in Ontario. Phyllis Small of Claremont, last year's gallery director, supervised the displaying of more than 400 items entered in the show.

Oils and watercolors predominate, but many other media are represented. There is a section for graphics, including etching, reduction prints, wood cuts, lino cuts and others. Metal sculpture is being shown by Ray Bonilla, new member from Glendora. Macrame hangins and accessories by Vera Tyson of La Verne and Eula Mellon of Azusa, and stitchery by Claire Dewey of Claremont are on display. Ceramics, stained glass and other crafts are shown.

Perhaps the most unusual items are the wood inlaid plaques by Ina Penner of Claremont. The designs are worked out in different colors of natural wood veneers, which are painstakingly cut and fitted and attached to a wood backing. This demanding craft, which is more common in southern Italy, is rarely practiced in this country.

The exhibit will continue through Oct. 20. Visitors may also see the Graber Museum of historical local artifacts. Tours showing the processing of olives are available. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily including Sundays. Admission is free.

Chaffey hosts exhibits from 26 artists

ALTA LOMA — The works of 26 professional Southern California artists will go on exhibit today at the Chaffey College Museum-Gallery. The exhibition continues to Oct. 18.

A public reception will be held for the artists from 1 to 5 p.m. today, hosted by the Museum-Gallery Auxiliary.

Show coordinator is Ontario artist Gene Gladfelty whose work will be also on display.

The other six remaiing artists are sculptors: Betty Davenport Ford, Richard Myer, George McCann, Harold Pastorius, Gene Von Hans and Guy Pullen.

Regular gallery hours are 1-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. week days, and 2-5 p.m. weekends and holidays.

"My Ulcer & Arthritis Are Well Now"
Says Mr. D. Rosa: For a whole year I took all kinds of remedies and pills, some which aggravated my stomach yet my arthritis was not better. I got tired of fooling around and getting no help so made up my mind to fly to L.A. and see Dr. Wing. Today my stomach and shoulder are both well without the use of drugs, surgery, shots or hospitalization. I am in fine shape and eating again.
"ULCERATION COLON GONE"
Says T. L. Henson: "I had ulcerative stomach and colon trouble as shown by X-rays. I went to several doctors but did not receive any help. I went to Dr. Wing for 5 weeks and was better. After two months, I went to another doctor. The X-rays showed the ulcerative colon and stomach was cleared up. DR. WING D.C., FAMOUS CHINESE DOCTOR, 1429 S. Vermont, Los Angeles. POMONA, 900 E. THREE ART EXHIBITS will open at the Fine Arts Gallery in San Diego's Balboa Park Oct. 9 One is a collection of Japanese woodblock prints depicting the stations of the Tokaido Road between Edo (Tokyo) and Kyoto, capitals of old Japan. "Dimensions of Polynesia," a view of the islands before Capt. Cook, includes paintings, jewelry, feather capes, household items and tikis. The third exhibit is made up of the landscapes of the late San Diego artist Alfred R. Mitchell.

Mexico seen in artworks at museum

LOS ANGELES — "Mexico's Mexico," an exhibit of works by artists of Mexico and the United States, is now on view at the California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park. It continues through May.

Capturing the richness of the Mexican scenery and the wealth of the Mexican character are the works of Raul Esparza, Mexican painter from Torreon; Adolfo Quinteros, wood engraver from Puerto Vallarta; Ruben Guerrero, jewelry maker from Puerto Vallarta; and Vic Herman, American artist from Southern California.

Raul Esparza will make a large ceramic tile mural reflecting Mexican culture. All artistic aspects of this project, including the modeling of the mural, the firing of individual pieces, and the ceramic coloing, will be done by the artist during the early months of "Mexico's Mexico".

Ruben Guerrero M. Will demonstrate the art of jewelry making.

Pomona library hangs Whittier man's works

POMONA — Two huge paintings by Whittier artist, illustrator and teacher, Stan Sinnett are on display through Oct. 15 at the Pomona public library.

Sinnett, who recently received his master's degree in illustration and design from Cal State Fullerton, is quite pleased with the response his works are receiving from library patrons and words of praise from other artists.

"I had been working small, but for my master's, I wanted to do something big—like bilboards," he said. "These are the smallest big ones I've done." His other works measure up to 8 x 30-feet and are too large to fit in the library.

Sinnett has had a number of recent exhibitions in area group shows, including "The New Masters" held at Syntex Corporation in Palo Alto. He won honorable mention in a show at the Downey Art Museum and second prize for a watercolor at Fashion Square in Santa Ana.

Having worked as a professional illustrrator since 1963, Sinnett teaches adult education classes in drawing and painting for the Whittier School District. He also teaches courses in magazine and advertising illustration for the Hollywood Art Center School.

The exhibit is open for public viewing Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and starting Oct. 7, Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Second art fair benefits Free Clinic

WEST COVINA — The second annual East Valley Benefit Art Fair will be held at Wickes Furniture, 301 S. Glendora Ave., from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. next Sunday.

The Art Fair is a benefit for the East Valley Free Clinic, providing funds for free counseling and medical services to the community.

Artists working in a wide variety of media will exhibit and sell their works, contributing part of the proceeds to the clinic.

National Dog Week reminder for owners

NATIONAL DOG WEEK — It's here. Your are due to read and hear plenty about keeping your dog well, smart and happy, plus a good bit about keeping your neighbors happy by making sure your dog respects their sidewalks and yards, for example. A week a year isn't enough to get all of these ideas across to many people. For a few, every day of the year wouldn't do it.

These people, who shouldn't own dogs in the first place, fall into one or more of the following categories:

(1) They don't maintain their dogs' proper vacination schedule or pay much attention to their health generally.

(2) They overfeed their dogs or they half starve them or they feed them mostly garbage.

(3) They breed their bitches as fast as nature will allow them because "the world deserves to have her puppies."

(4) They have never trained a dog in their lives and don't intend to start now.

(5) They turn their dogs loose — because it is the dog's "right" — occasionally to menace, or more often to mess or to be "messed up" themselves by other dogs — or to be injured or killed by wheels in the street.

Fortunately, most dog owners don't fit anywhere in the above categories. For those who do, we can at least hope that Dog Week is a useful reminder that man's best friend can use a little human help and consideration throughout his life.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Out of not too idle curiosity — we've seen both of them on our hikes — which would be worse, a skunk bite or a fox bite? — E.D.

Dear E.D.: As far as bite wounds themselves are concerned, the fox would do more damage. As far as potential danger is concerned, I'd consider the skunk bite more dangerous. Certainly, under any normal conditions in the wild, you wouldn't be bitten by either one. If, by some happenstance, however, you cornered a fox, it would, in defense, bite. The skunk, on the other hand, would normally tend to use chemical warfare first. Now, both species are well known as carriers of rabies. The skunk with rabies would be more likely to bite than spray. Additionally, if both animals had rabies, the saliva of the skunk is more efficient in transmitting rabies virus than that of the fox. The wisest choice of all, of course, would be to go to whatever length might be necessary to avoid being bitten by either one should you someday encounter an aggressive (and therfore, very possibly, rabid) specimen.

Hank goes for Babe's record today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron remained alive in his race to break Babe Ruth's career home run mark before the season ends Sunday when he drilled his 713th homer Saturday night to help the Atlanta Braves defeat the Houston Astros, 7-0.

The 39-year-old slugger connected off southpaw Jerry Reuss in the fifth inning with two men on base to move within one homer of tying Ruth's career mark. Aaron has one game remaining this season Sunday when he goes against Houston's Dave Roberts, off whom he hit his 712th homer exactly one week ago.

The home run was the second this season and third lifetime off Reuss, and it was the Braves star's 23rd at Atlanta Stadium. The blast was Aaron's 40th of the year and enabled the Braves to become the first team ever to have three players with 40 or more homers in one season. Dave Johnson, with 43 homers, and Darrell Evans, who hit his 41st in the first inning, preceded Aaron into the select circle.

Aaron, who collected three hits in the game and also drew a loud applause with a shoestring catch in the eighth inning, singled in the first and walked in the third before unloading against Reuss in the fifth.

With runners on first and third Aaron drilled Reuss's first pitch on a line over the leftcenterfield fence about 395 feet away.

As soon as the ball was hit the crowd of 17,836 rose to their feet in anticipation and when the ball cleared the fence they erupted like a volcano into wild cheering.

Aaron's father, Herbert, and Bill Bartholomay, the Braves' chairman of the board, led the cheering for Aaron along with former National League president Warren Giles. Aaron's father jumped from his seat and waved both hands in the air excitedly while Bartholomay moved toward the Braves dugout and joined in the wild applause.

The crowd cheered for nearly two minutes and before the game could continue. Aaron came out of the dugout and waved his appreciation to the fans. He had a broad smile on his face.

The homer so unravelled Reuss that Dusty Baker, the next hitter, followed with a long home run to straight away centerfield. Reuss then hit Johnson with a pitch.

Aaron had one more last chance to bat in the seventh inning against reliever Larry Dierker and on a 3-2 pitch he dumped a single into short leftfield.

Carl Morton benefitted from the Braves' heavy hitting to win his 15th game of the season against 10 losses. Morton allowed only six hits.

Roberts' win prepares him for race today

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Kenny Robert's was installed as the consensus favorite for today's $87,000 250-mile main event in the Champion Spark Plug Classics at Ontario Motor Speedway earlier in the week, and he played his role to the hilt Saturday.

Roberts all but dominated the second day of the three-day meet by first finishing second in a five-lap qualifying heat, and then easily capturing first place in the afternoon's 125-mile Expert-Junior Combined lightweight race.

Roberts, who has already clinched the American Motorcycle Association's Expert championship, has achieved his spectacular success at the tender—as far as racing goes—age of 21.

Finishing second to Roberts in the Expert-Junior was teammate Kel Carruthers, who will probably be competing in his last professional race this afternoon.

Roberts gave Carruthers the lion's share of the credit for the youngster's success after the race. "He's taught me everying I know up to this point," Roberts acknowledged sipping a soft drink in the OMS press box. "We were just about even last year . . . and he's not getting any slower."

Roberts' final margin of victory was seven seconds—after going as high as 17 during the race. "We were afraid we were going to run out of gas," Kenny confessed.

Don Castro, after hanging close to Carruthers most of the race, was caught in traffic late and settled for third place finish.

The victory gave Baumann the pole position for today's race, starting on the inside of the five-bike first row, Roberts will start next to Baumann in the number two slot on the first row.

Placing third to Roberts was the popular Canadian rider Yvon DuHamel on a Kawasaki. DuHamel will start in the middle of the first row.

With all that was going on at Ontario Saturday, Roberts couldn't stay in the spotlight all day.

Perhaps the best show was put on by a trio of riders in the second five-lap Expert qualifying race.

Cliff Carr of Arlington, Me., managed tc catch Gary Nixon at the wire to win the heat by less than one wheel-length. Carr and Nixon, both on Kawasaki's, had been involved in a tight duel with Baldwin Park's Gary Scott, piloting a Triumph. Scot placed third — one second or so in back of the leaders.

For bringing up the rear in the three-bike battle, Scott was awarded the inside of the second row for today.

Hurley Wilvert, riding a Kawasaki, gets seventh for his fourth place finish in the second race. Steve Baker, fourth in the first race, will be in the middle of the second row. Paul Smart, defending Spark Plug Classic champ, finished fifth in the second race and will start from the number nine position.

It was also a fairly successful day for one of the AMA's "future riding aces, Wes Cooley.

Cooley, who hails from Placentia, has already earned enough points this AMA's "middle" step—next year.

Cooley won the final race of his Novice career Saturday, a 76-mile lightweight event, on a Yamaha. Cooley also won the second qualifying race for Novices earlier in the day. Keve Stafford, another young Yamaha rider, finished second to Cooley both times.

HEADING FOR SIX POINTS

Try for two costly

Broncs tied by CSLA

P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Cal Poly turned down an opportunity for a near automatic PAT late in the third quarter, and that eventually cost the Broncos the win as they had to settle for a 34-34 tie with Cal State Los Angeles, Saturday night at Kellogg Field.

Poly scored a TD late in the third period to give them a 34-26 lead over the Diablos. Head coach Roy Anderson elected to try for two points rather than one.

The decision was somewhat surprising since Poly's place kicker, Klaus Trettin, had made good on 10-of-10 PAT attempts in the first three-and-a-half games.

Instead, a pass attempt on the try for two fell incomplete and the Broncos had to settle for an eight-point advantage rather than the nine they may have had.

The Diablos came back to make the score 34-32 with 6:19 to play on a 15-yard scoring pass from Rick Holubeck to Ray Jolla. CSLA skipper Foster Anderson, had no choice but to go for two points and hope for at least a try.

His decision was successful and Holoubeck found Jolla free in the corner of the end zone for the two—and a 34-all deadlock.

This game-tying score was set up by Mike Effler's recovery of a Zorn fumble on the CP 39. Eight plays later Holoubeck hooked up with Jolla for the score.

The game began with the teams exchanging touchdowns on successive plays.

Following the opening kickoff, Poly's quarterback Jim Zorn hit flanker Joe Fabian for a 79-yard touchdown pass with Trettin adding his first of three PAT's.

On the ensuing kickoff, former Ontario high star, Claudie Watson returned it 89 yards for a score. CSLA's pass for two fell incomplete leaving the Brocs a 7-6 margin.

Following a fumble recovery by CP's Vince Dell' Aguila on the Bronco 46, Zorn lofted an aerial which Fabian gathered in completed a 56-yard scoring play. The extra point made it CP 14, CSLA 6.

The Diablos then mounted a drive that ended with halfback Gary Hoskins bolting over from the eight. CSLA's try for two again fell short. Midway through the second period a Bronco march of 80 yards on eight plays was capped off by Zorn's 49-yard TD run to give Poly a 21-12 lead.

But the Diablos came right back with Hoskins scoring from the one to climax a 67-yard drive in seven plays.

CSLA's Holoubeck reciprocated the favor by scoring on a 61-yard scamper around right end to keep the Diablos close. CSLA trailed 28-26 with 12:37 left in the third period.

Singer collects No. 20 after going 11 innings

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)— Winston Illenas singled with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the 11th inning as the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 4-3 Saturday night.

California pitcher Bill Singer, who went the route, became the 12th pitcher since 1900 to win 20 games in both the American and National Leagues.

Singer, who won 20 games for Los Angeles in 1969, allowed the Twins 11 hits in becoming only the third pitcher since World War I to win 20 in both leagues. Cy Young was the first to accomplish the 20-win feat. Gaylord Perry turned the trick last year with Cleveland after winning 20 with San Francisco.

Singer joined teammate Nolan Ryan as a 20-game winner this year and completed his 19th game, a career high. He became the fifth California pitcher to win 20 games in a season and the 12th in the A.L. this season, a league record. The Angels, meanwhile, clinched fourth place with the victory.

Singer, who had trouble with his control all night, was hurt by his wildness in the third inning when Rod Carew led off with a walk, advanced to second on a groundout and scored on a bad hop single over short by Craig Kusick.

The Angels came back with three runs in the last of the third on a leadoff single by Dave Chalk, a hit batsman, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and Bob Oliver's three-run double. The Twins tied it in the sixth on Glenn Borgmann's two-run single to center.

Five-way tie still possible

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's still a longshot but if the results of seven games break the right way in the next two days, there will be a five-way tie for first place in the National League East.

This is what has to happen for the tie to occur:

Chicago sweeps four games from New York on Sunday and Monday.

St. Louis loses to Philadelphia on Sunday.

Montreal beats Pittsburgh Sunday.

Johnson's touchdowns pace UCLA

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Senior halfback Kermit Johnson ran for three first-half touchdowns Saturday, building a commanding UCLA lead that held up for a 34-21 victory over Michigan State.

The Bruins scored only once in the second half but claimed their second victory in three outings, both over Big Ten teams.

Johnson, UCLA's leading ground-gainer going into the game with a 7.5-yard per carry average and total output of 169 yards, also lost the ball on fumbles three times.

It was a close game until midway through the second quarter, when Ray Burks scored on a 48-yard pass from quarterback John Sciarra, an impressive stand-in for starter Mark Harmon. The touchdown put UCLA ahead 13-10 and the Bruins never gain trailed.

On the ensuing kickoff, Michigan State's Tyrone Wilson fumbled on his own 18-yard line and UCLA scored on its first play from scrimmage, with Johnson going around left end for 18 yards.

With the exception of a 37-yard field goal by Michigan State's Dirk Kyrt, there was no scoring in the second half until late in the fourth quarter.

With less than a minute to play, UCLA defensive back Jim Bright intercepted a Charlie Baggett deep in his own territory and returned it 73 yards to the Michigan State 2. Harmon carried it in on the next play.

Then running Spartan back Mike Holt, playing in his first game of the season after recovering from a shoulder separation, received the kickoff and scored on a 95-yard run with seven seconds remaining.

Michigan State's first half scoring consisted of a one-yard run by Wilson and a 44-yard field goal by Kyrt. The Spartan record is now 1-2.

USC settles for 7 - 7 tie

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES—USC won't have a perfect football season in 1973.

But the Trojans are still undefeated. For that, they should be thankful.

A speedy Oklahoma team, using the game as a crusade because of its runner-up spot behind USC in the final 1972 pools, gave the Trojans all they could handle before 84,016 fans at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Saturday night in a 7-7 tie.

Oklahoma won everything but the game and completely dominated the statistics, rolling up 339 yards total offense to USC's 161. As excpected, O.U. stayed with its Wishbone offense in running for 330 yards in 63 carries. Quarterback Steve Davis completed only one pass in six attempts for nine yards, but the Sooners really don't need to throw to roll up the yardage.

To show how Oklahoma dominated the game, it had 69 offensive plays to USC's 53. Fullback Waymon Clark, who was voted the Offensive Player of the Game, led the Sooners with 126 yards on 26 tries while Davis had 102 on 21 and speedy Joe Washington contributed 84 on 12, an average of seven per play, in a spectacular performance.

USC clearly showed it isn't the offensive power it was in 1972. The Trojans gained 102 yards on the ground on 37 attempts, with quarterback Pat Haden completing seven of 16 passes for 59 yards. Anthony Davis, who ran only one play in the first half because of a slight injury, ended up with 57 on 14 tries.

Ex-Bonita High star Allen Carter made his first appearance in the season for the Trojans, returning a kickoff 12 yards and catching a pass for minus five.

The visitors had to be content at snapping USC's 14-game win streak. The Trojans, who are bound to drop from their No. 1 spot in the weekly rankings, still had the honor of having not been defeated in 20 outings.

"A tie is a tie," USC coach John McKay said after the deadlock. "You can't win football games if you don't cadence and can't count correctly. We did not play well offensively . . . some of the credit has to go to them and some of the fault was of our own making."

The Trojans were guilty of numerous off-sides penalties in a sloppy performance for the defending national champions.

"The tie leaves us with a sort of empty feeling," Oklahoma's rookie coach Barry Switzer said. "Those were the national champions out there that we tied. I believe we gave them their touchdown and we earned ours."

USC certainly had its chances to grab an early command of the game, recovering two Oklahoma fumbles deep in Sooner territory in the opening minutes of the contest.

But the Trojans couldn't cash in despite getting the ball on the OU 33 and 42 yards lines. That served as an early indication things were going to be tough against the Big Eight visitors.

It was then time for Oklahoma to be frustrated.

The Sooners drove 72 yards on 10 plays later in the first quarter to the USC 15 only to have Rick Fulcher's 32-yard field goal try go wide.

USC scored its touchdown with 9:57 left in the second quarter when Haden passed 15 yards to high school buddy John McKay Jr. in the end zone four plays after Tom Bohlinger recovered Clyde Powers' fumble on the Trojans' punt at Oklahoma's 25 yard line. Chris Limahelu's kick made it 7-0.

Oklahoma, who failed on a second field goal attempt later in the second quarter, quickly tied the score on its first offensive series of the second half when Steve Davis climaxed a 70-yard drive with a two-yard run around the left guard for the first touchdown against the Trojans this season.

Fulcher's extra point made it 7-7 with 7:18 remaining in the third quarter.

Neither team was able to even get within field goal range the rest of the way.

But it appeared USC might pull it off late in the fourth quarter after defensive end James Sims caught Davis for a key loss when it appeared Oklahoma might march into Trojan territory. After the punt, Haden drove USC 27 yards to the Oklahoma 45, but hope died when Haden was tackled for a five-yard loss on a third-down play, forcing SC to punt with 2:28 left on the clock.

Oklahoma celebrated the tie by running out the final minutes with the ball ending up on the Sooner 37 when the gun sounded.

Vikings pick up first win of '73 season

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Garey High wound up with more heroes Saturday than Wyatt Earp had notches on his six-shooter. In upending Ramona 22-6 for their first win of 1973, the Vikings got key performances from very nearly the entire squad.

The final score is a little misleading, as the contest was a tight defensive struggle most of the way, with the first score coming late in the third quarter. Garey held off the most serious threat in the first half, after Ramona had penetrated to the Viking 15 with less than a minute left in the half.

The Viking secondary broke up two pass attempts by the Rams quarterback George Dickerman, and a hurried field goal try with 10 seconds showing fell short, the two teams going into the locker room knotted at 0-0. Earlier, Viking John Jones had made a crucial fumble recovery on the Garey 15 to turn away a first quarter Ramona threat.

The Viking passing attack, which sputtered in the opening half with a minus five yards net, came alive and put Garey on top in what proved to be the key play of the game late in the third quarter. Quarterback Scott Roque found running back Stanley Webster open over the middle and hit him with a short pass. Webster did the rest on his own, darting, twisting and finally blazing his way 76 yards to pay dirt. The Vikings clicked on a two-point conversion, as Dana Hutchison blasted into the end zone, the 8-0 lead was one Garey was not to lose this night.

Ramona made things interesting for a while early in the final quarter, as Dickerman and Don Reese connected on a 33-yard TD toss. But defensive back Marcus Thomas made a key stop on Dickerman on his two-point try to tie things up, and the Vikes were never again threatened.

Cougars run past Sagehens, 45-25

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Manpower. According to the dictionary it is "personnel available and competent to serve.'

It is something that wins football games and it is something that Azusa Pacific has in abundance while Pomona Pitzer definitely lacks it.

As a result, the Cougars were able to roll to an easy 45-25 victory Saturday over the host Pomona squad as Azusa breezed to a big 31-7 lead at the half.

The big key to the Azusa Pacific attack this season is its ability to strike both through the air and on the ground. Going with the running game first against the outmanned Sagehens, AP found this so successful that quarterback John Tully only attempted six passes in the first half, three in each quarter.

The biggest roar for the Cougars was supplied by UCLA transfer Jim Farmer who carried the ball 11 times in the opening 30 minutes of play, netting a huge 169 yards, including a 42 yard scamper at the end of the first half for the fourth AP touchdown.

The Cougars scored the first two times they had the ball as former Garey High star Keith Hartley booted a 38-yard field goal in the opening two minutes and then Tully plunged over from the one, four minutes later.

After Pomona crawled to within three late in the first period on an 8-yard scoring scramble by reserve quarterback Steve De Windt, Azusa Pacific put the game away with a 21 point explosion in the second quarter.

The second half was a battle of Larry Cenotto's arm for Pomona against reserves for Azusa Pacific and Pomona showed that it is not going to be completely out of any game this year, thanks to Cenotto's passing.

The Sagehens' junior leader threw the ball 36 times Saturday, completing 19 for 294 yards and two touchdowns when the Cougars were in a pass prevent defense.

But Azusa more than countered with its strong running attack which netted 330 yards as Farmer, playing only the first half had 169, Dennis Koupal 126 and Richard Woods 63 to lead the way.

Owls, Panthers fall in conference tests

San Bernardino and Saddleback remained in contention in the Mission Conference football race Saturday night with victories over Chaffey and Citrus Colleges.

San Bernardino ended a two-game losing streak with a 31-9 victory over the Panthers at Chaffey Stadium, recovering five fumbles, and finding holes for running back Tim Cunningham, who gained 195 yards rushing on 29 carries, including a 63-yard TD run that broke Chaffey's back in the third period.

Dennis Farrell netted 109 yards on 25 carries for the Panthers, and quarterback Mark Tundis added a third quarter touchdown to Mike Jakobic's 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, but it wasn't enough.

Citrus lost the ball four times on interceptions and twice on fumbles as Saddleback emerged as the team to beat in the Mission, 17-0.

Aundre Holmes led Saddleback on the ground with 161 yards on 19 carries, including an 87-yard touchdown run.

An 18-yard field goal by Dan Brennan, and Joe Jones five-yard run accounted for the rest of the scoring.

Owls quarterback Bill Strycual threw all four interceptions, while completing only 6 of 17 for 123 yards.

CO, Tigers suffer narrow setbacks

Covina edged Charter Oak, 13-12, and Mater Dei exploded in the third quarter to hand Chaffey a 38-26 loss, in two non-league high school football games Saturday night.

Covina and Charter Oak battled evenly on the ground, but two missed touchdown conversions on runs proved to be the deciding factor in the Colts' victory on their home field.

Tailback Nick Howard carried 25 times for 132 yards and both of Charter Oak's touchdowns on short runs of five and eight yards.

The Lancers had to play catch-up from the outset as running back Bob Waldusky returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown for Covina.

John Erwin took over from there, netting 98 yards rushing on 21 carries, and the deciding TD on a one yard plunge.

Chaffey scored two quick touchdowns in the second quarter to narrow the deficit with Mater Dei to 19-14, but short yardage runs by Steve Martindayle and Jim Gardea pushed Mater Dei into an insurmountable lead in the third period.

Martindayle carried 17 times for 108 yards and three touchdowns in the victory, outdueling his counterpart at quarterback for Chaffey, Mike Scanlon, who carried 10 times for 71 yards.

Specialamente scores upset

POMONA — Longshot Specialamente raced to a two length upset victory in the $32,950 Pomona Handicap Saturday as the 14-day season at the Los Angeles County Fair come to an end.

Rudy Campas, who last year lost the mount on the Pomona Handicap winner Easter Hero, because of a suspension, was aboard the C & D stable-owned four-year-old who sprinted clear on the far turn and held his advantage to the wire.

As the second longest shot on the board, Specialamente returned $39.00, $13.00 and $4.80. Specialamente, claimed for $25,000 last May, boosted his earnings for his current owner to $39,655 and boosted Hector Palma to the top of the trainer standings.

Balcony's Babe, lone mare in the field, was second a nose in front of Knightlander. Harbor Prince, winner of the Afflerbaugh Handicap last Saturday and favorite in the Pomona Handicap, finished last. Balcony's Babe paid $5.40 and $3.40, and Knightlander returned $3.80.

Although their Balcony's Babe had to settle for second in the Handicap, Mr. and Mrs. Eb. and E. W. Johnston completed their most successful meeting ever at the County Fair. Their horses won two stakes, earned parts of the purse in several others, and banked a record total of $50,920. The Johnstons were winning the owner title at the Fair for the eight time.

THE UNBEATEN Golden State Warriors used a balanced scoring attack to roll to their fifth straight pre-season victory, a 127-77 crunching of the Los Angeles Lakers in the second straight game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Saturday night.

THE LOS ANGELES Kings defeated the Minnesota North Stars, 2-1, Saturday night in an exhibition Hockey game at the Kings' training camp in Victoria, B.C It was the first time in 21 games between the two teams that the Kings have defeated Minnesota.

Leos score slim victory

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — The La Verne Leopards used the running of Curtis Frick and a stingy defense to post a 16-15 triumph over the U. S. International University Saturday night at Bonita High.

The Leopard defense was dominating in the first half allowing only three yards to the U.S.I.U Westerners. However one play proved too much for them to handle.

Leading 7-0, the Leopards had the Westerns backed up to the Westerner five-yard line. On third down and 15, Kerman Machado hit Vince Zarkovich on a screen pass and he promptly ran it 95 yards for the tying touchdown.

La Verne scored the first points of the night about midway through the first quarter. The drive started on the Westerner 35, and Jeff O'Connor had returned a punt 15 yards.

On the second play of the drive, it looked as if Leopard quarterback Marty Mercurio would be dropped for a big loss when he was forced to scramble all the way back to his own 25.

However, he was able to get away from the rush and connect with end Ralph McDaniel for a 14-yard pickup. Two more first downs put the ball on the one-yard line.

Mercurio failed to score on first down, but Frick then scored on a plunge on the second down.

Frick played an outstanding game, picking up vital yardage when it was needed. On the night he totalled 77 yards on 25 carries, with most of the yardage coming in the second half.

The field goal was set up by 79-yard drive after the Westerns missed a 60-yard field goal attempt.

The big play of the drive was when Mercurio faked a punt and hit Joe Edmonds with a [illegible] strike to keep the drive alive.

The Leopards ran four straight times for the score, with Mercurio going in from the six with the winning touchdown.

The Westerners attempted to come back with a touchdown at about the eight minute mark of the final stanza. Collie Cann scored it from the one after he had earlier in the drive scampered for 34 yards.

La Verne outgained USIU in the yardage department [illegible] Westerners halfback Cann played a brilliant game in a losing effort, rushing for 194 yards on 16 carries.

Dodgers end season with 3-2 victory

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Rookies Jeff Zahn and Greg Shanahan paired up to pitch a four-hitter and Tom Paciorek stroked a two-run homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers closed out their 1973 season with a 3-2 win over the San Diego Padres Saturday night.

The Padres, whose future residence is still to be decided, have a make-up game with Pittsburgh hanging should a contest be necessary to determine the National League's Eastern Division title.

The Dodgers' winning run came in the sixth on a walk to Willie Crawford, successive singles by Bill Buckner and Steve Yeager and an error by centerfielder Ivan Murrell.

Zahn, making his first major league start, worked the first five innings to gain his initial win. Shanahan finished up to gain his first save.

Dave Roberts and Dave Hilton both hit homers for San Diego's scores.

Roberts' homer in the fourth inning was the first inside-the-park homer ever hit in San Diego Stadium.

Stags stun Whittier, 28-0

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

The Stags, upended 35-7 by San Diego in their opener, scored with 35 seconds left in the first half and added three more in the final quarter to complete the rout over Godfrey's Poets.

"I think this is one of my most satisfying wins ever and certainly the biggest since I've been here at Claremont-Mudd," said Zinda with a big grin.

"It was a tremendous team victory, especially since we had some guys quit," he continued.

Zinda hesitated to single out any individual for honors because so many were outstanding.

To name a few, there were sophomore quarterback Jaime Opatrny, kicker Tony Bailey and fullback Mike Graber on offense. Sam Reece, Brian Buchanan, and Naaman Haynes led a great defense and both lines did a terrific job on the Poets.

Graber was the workhorse with 34 carries for 100 yards and a touchdown. Opatrny, who completed only two of 10 for 14 yards last week, hit on seven of 16 of 120 yards and a touchdown and ran for another.

Reece, the 6-0, 190 pound defenseve end, was credited with 11 tackles and a fumble recovery. Buchanan, 6-2, 215 pounds of hungry tackle, had six tackles, two assists, and recovered a Whittier fumble in the end zone for a touchdowm. Hayes came out late for football this year.

Bailey, a junior from Los Angeles, kicked all four extra points and did yeoman work on kickoffs.

Whiitier, perhaps overconfident after rolling to victores over Azusa Pacific (16-6) and La Verne (20-7), made its first mistake by electing to kick to C-M after winning the coin toss at the beginning of the game.

The Poets had had intercepted seven passes and recovered five fumbles in their first two games and obviously felt they could handle the Stags.

Although the Stags didn't score until the half was nearly over, it meant that Whittier, trailing 7-0, had to begin the second half by again kicking off to Claremont-Mudd.

And it was the Stags who were the defensive giants this day. Quarterback Jim MacDonald, who was the leading passer among conference quarterbcks with 23 completions in 46 aattempts for 300 yards, hit on only eight of 24 for 93 yards, but was intercepted five times.

Jim Root, who gained 100 yards in 16 carries against La Verne last week, was held to a paltry 17 yards in seven carries.

C-M drove 75 yards in 11 plays for the first score with Opatnrny going over from the Whittier three for the score. During the drive, Opatrny had completsion of 13 and 26 yards to Jon Begerow and Jon Warren.

The score came with 35 seconds left in the half. After Bailey's kick, the game remained 7-0 until 55 seconds in the fourth quarter when it was Haynes' chance for heroics.

Jim Webster's punt from the 33 yard line went right through the hands of Pat Barnhittis hands at about the four and rolled into the end zone where Haynes fell on it for a touchown.

David Perez' intercepted a MacDonald pass at the Whittier 24 and returned it to the 22. Opatrny passed to Warren at the 13 and on the next play Graber went around right end for the TD.

After taking a Whittier punt on the Poet's 47, Optarny need only two plays and a 15 yard personal foul penalty against Whittier to score the final touchdown.

Aztecs play tonight at San Diego Stadium

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two of the nation's unheralded powers, San Diego State and Kent State of Ohio, tangle in a rare Sunday night game at San Diego Stadium.

Kent's Golden Flashes are 2-0 on the season, including a 35-7 victory over Ohio University last week. San Diego's Aztecs opened their season last week with a win over Utah State, also by a 35-7 count.

Quarterback Greg Kokal directed Kent to the Mid-American Conference title last year as a sophomore. In fact, the club featured sophomores, including Olympic sprinter Gerald Tinker, who has snared nine passes for 189 yards.

San Diego was the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ and scored a 14-0 win over Kent State, but most of that team has left, along with Coach Don Coryell.

Under Coryell, the Aztecs were noted for their passing. New coach Claude Gilbert has patterned his offense after the University of Houston and relies on big-yardage, first-down plays to set up passing opportunities.

Bertelsen, McCutcheon lead Rams attack against 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Jim Bertelsen and Larry McCutcheon spearhead a potent Los Angeles Rams running attack today against the pass-oriented San Francisco 49ers in a NFL West showdown.

In past seasons, the 49ers have usually been favored but lost. In their first 1973 meeting, the 49ers again are slight favorites.

The reorganized Rams, under new coach Chuck Knox, wasted no time this season in vaulting atop the NFL West with an impressive 2-0 record including a 31-0 shutout of Atlanta last week. Meanwhile, the 49ers have been struggling with a 1-1 record following a 36-34 win over the Denver Broncos.

But whenever the Rams and 49ers collide, past records are usually of no consequence. Since 1968, the Rams have compiled an 8-1-1 record against the 49ers and in a preseason mismatch this year, Los Angeles prevailed 38-10.

Knox has built a potent running attack around Bertelsen, McCutcheon and Larry Smith. They have helped the Rams net 487 yards rushing in two games. In contrast, the 49ers have 229.

San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan has been drilling his defense all week on ways to stop Bertelsen and McCutcheon. But that leaves Rams quarterback John Hadl, who has a flock of top-flight receivers in Harold Jackson, Jack Snow, Bob Klein and Dick Gordon, in addition to his backs.

This marks the 1973 home opener for the 49ers. The game is a sellout and will be televised locally.

The game marks the 49er debut of newly acquired receiver Danny Abramowicz, who was obtained earlier in the week from the New Orleans Saints. He will team with Gene Washington and tight end Ted Kwalick as the prime 49er receivers.

Nolan said John Isenbarger will start at flanker but Abrmowicz would see lots of action.

"In all the years I was with New Orleans, I never played in what you could call a crucial game and here in my debut I'm already involved in a big one," said Abramowicz. "I don't think we're going to lose Sunday. This 49er team is really fired up."

Jack Youngblood and Merlin Olsen are the cogs in the Rams' defensive line which also contains Larry Brooks and Fred Dryer.

"I have a score to settle with Youngblood," said 49er tackle Cas Banaszek. "He beat me a couple of times in our preseason game and I'm anxious to make amends."

Poly wins twice in water polo

Cal Poly University claimed water polo victories over Cal State Hayward and Pomona-Pitzer Saturday afternoon.

The Broncos defeated Hayward, 9-5, in the Poly pool as John Roche led the scoring with three goals. Later at Pomona-Pitzer, Poly erupted for a 21-5 victory as Doug Swancoat scored six goals. Bill Edwards accounted for three for Pomona.

Only the Buckeyes have an easy time

College Football Roundup
By United Press International

Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan, Penn State, Notre Dame and Tennessee all remained unbeaten in college football action Saturday but of that top 10 group only the Buckeyes had it easy.

Second ranked Nebraska had to rely on a touchdown by Tony Davis with only 2:48 remaining in the game to subdue suprisingly stubborn Wisconsin 20-16, while Michigan struggled past heavy-underdog Navy 14-0, Penn State eased Iowa 27-8 and Notre Dame scrambled to edge Purdue 20-7 before a national television audience.

Only in Columbus, Ohio, where Woody Hayes' Ohio State Buckeyes were waltzing to a 37-3 rout of TCU, did a top 10 team look the role. But the Buckeyes' victory was dimmed by the loss of workhorse fullback Champ Henson, who suffered a knee injury and will be out for the season. Still, the Buckeyes got a 68-yard touchdown gallop from Archie Griffin and a pair of TDs from quarterback Cornelius Greene.

And in the feature game among the day action, Tennessee finally delivered a victory over Auburn to its coach Bill Battle. The ninth-ranked Vols, sparked by defensive men Hank Walter, a linebacker, and Eddie Brown, a safety, prevailed 21-0 over the 13th ranked Tigers. Walter scrambled 38 yards for one TD and Brown's interception set up another in the key Southeastern Conference showdown.

Fourth ranked Michigan got touchdowns from Chuck Heater and Ed Shuttlesworth in downing Navy. The wet field conditions hampered the Michigan attack, but also may have cost the Wolverines their lofty rating.

Penn State, cruising along to its third win of the season, was also a heavy favorite against Iowa. But after quarterback Tom Shuman threw a pair of TD passes in the first quarter and fullback John Cappalletti ran for another, the Nittany Lions were content to coast the rest of the way against the winless Iowans.

Notre Dame, which routed Northwestern 44-0 in its season opener a week ago, had a far more difficult time of it against Purdue. Trailing 7-3 late in the second quarter, the seventh-ranked Irish broke into the lead for good when soph Art Best scored from nine yards out. Best, who set up Notre Dame's first TD with a 64-yard gallop off the first play from scrimmage, wound up with 126 yards for the day.

Posting the biggest rout of the week was Oklahoma State, which fired home 35 points in the third period alone and then went on to slaughter thoroughly outclassed Southern Illinois, 70-7. Fullback George Palmer scored two of the Cowboy touchdowns and eight other teammates divided the rest.

Elsewhere, 15th (tie) ranked SMU belted Virginia Tech 37-6, 15th (tie) ranked Missouri defeated North Carolina 27-14, 19th (tie) rated Miami (Fla.) edged Florida State 14-10, Arkansas nipped Iowa State for its first win 21-19, UCLA whipped Michigan State 34-21, West Virginia upset Illinois 17-10, Georgia Tech topped Clemson 29-21, Georgia held off North Carolina State 31-12 and Pittsburgh bested Northwestern 21-14.

Secretariat beaten by Prove Out

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prove Out, owned by the same Hobeau Stable that beat Secretariat with Onion in the Whitney Stakes, humbled the Triple Crown winner at Belmont Park Saturday as he overtook the champion in the stretch and pulled away to win the $108,200 Woodward Stakes by four and a half lengths.

Secretariat, starting for the first time since he set a world record in winning the $250,000 Marlboro Cup two weeks ago, took the lead from Prove Out shortly after reaching the back stretch. It was at about the same spot that Secretariat went to the front in the Belmont Stakes and went on to become the first Triple Crown winner in 25 years.

Once in front Secretariat appeared to have the race at his mercy. He had been bet down to 3 to 10 and coasted along in front until the field swept around the final bend and into the home stretch.

There Prove Out, responding to the urging of Jockey Jorege Velasquez, ranged up to challenge Secretariat on the inside and Secretariat gradually fell back in the run for the wire.

Prove Out a 4-year-old son of Graustark, steadily pulled away to finish the 1½ miles in 2:25 4-5 over a sloppy track.

His time failed to threaten the track record of 2:24 set by Secretariat in winning the Bemont Stakes by 31-lengths but it was fast enough to get the job done and reward his backers with a $34.40 payoff. There was only win betting.

Because of the sloppy track trainer Lucien Laurin scratched Riva Ridge. West Coast Scout also was withdrawn, reducing the field to five.

Cougar 2nd was third but wasn't even close. The cat was 11 lengths behind Secretariat. Amen 2nd was fourth with Summer Guest fifth and last.

Onion came off a track record performance to beat Secretariat in the Whitney Stakes early in August.

In his last race at Belmont Park Prove Out equalled the 1:40 2-5 track standard for 1 1-16 miles. Since then the colt finished a poor seventh in the Chesapeake Handicap at Bowie a week ago. But Prove Out hit the fence in that race and trainer Allen Jerkins decided the colt deserved another chance.

Those who bet on Prove Out were backing Jerkin's judgment more than anything else. For Prove Out but never before had won a stakes race and his first was worth $64,920. The purse topped the $55,903 Prove Out earned in his 30 previous races.

Gate posts of western wood should be set at least four feet deep, in gravel or concrete.

Monzon wears down Bouttier for victory

PARIS (UPI) —Carlos Monzon of Argentina floored JeanClaude Bouttier of France three times in the last three rounds Saturday night to carve out a unanimous 15-round decision over the Frenchman and retain his world middleweight boxing title at the Roland Garros Stadium.

Displaying a shrewd blend of aggression and ringcraft, the 31-year-old Argentine wore down his challenger as the fight progressed.

Monzon allowed Bouttier to carry the fight to him for the major part of the contest.

Then when the Frenchman began tiring, Monzon turned to the offensive, hammering Bouttier with short punches, especially right hooks—the most fearsome weapon in his arsenal.

It was the Argentine's eight successful defense of his title since he won it from Italy's Nino Benvenuti in November, 1970.

Monzon paced the fight superbly. Conserving his strength, he allowed Bouttier to stalk him around the ring, frequently using the ropes to weave out of trouble.

Recreation

The Pomona Baseball Commission holds their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the Arroyo Elementary School auditorium. Chairman Dick Babineau will rap his gravel at 7:30 p.m.

A baseball meeting in October may not seem important; however, such is not the case. Even though the youth baseball season is over six months away, many of the successes or failures for 1974 will depend on progress made in the fall and winter.

Two of Pomona's youth baseball organizations are faced with financial woes. One may have to close their doors to over two hundred youngsters. These are a couple of the matters to be discussed Tuesday.

Pomona's new and growing semi-pro baseball organization is asking for membership on the Commission. The group provides baseball for a large number of the area's young adults.

Victor Carrasco is the president of the semi-pro organization and will make the presentation. He will be supported by Bob Duran and Tom Encinas.

The most pressing business before the Commission is the plight of the Northwest Little League. Outgoing President Frank Nava and a small band of hard workers have kept the league together the past couple of years.

Parental support needed

The league's problems are simple. They have plenty of kids who want to play, most of the sponsors, but little parent support. Those who have carried the load either want out or at the least more help.

The main reason for holding the meeting at Arroyo School is the Northwest League's situation. Executive committee members are hopeful that those interested in perpetuating the organization will find the meeting easy to attend.

Unless new support is found, the league will fold. The decision on that is to be made in November. Hopefully Tuesday evening's attendance will eliminate that possibility.

Each league has two representatives on the Baseball Commission. There is also a five-man Executive Committee that is elected every January. The regular meetings are on the first Tuesday of every month.

A myth has been allowed to develop that says only those representatives and Executive Committee members may attend the meetings. That is simply not true.

The Commission is open to the public and specifically the baseball enthusiast. It's a plain fact the larger the attendance, the more accomplished.

Volleyball leagues organize

The organizational meeting for the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department's fall volleyball leagues takes place Thursday evening at City Hall. Interested players and team representatives will meet in the Boards and Commissions room on the second floor at 7:30 p.m.

There are are three divisions; six man, six woman, and coed. Players must be at least 16 years of age or a sophomore in high school.

Both the six man and six woman leagues will play on Tuesday evenings in the Palomares and Simons Junior High School gyms. The coeds, composed of three men and three women, play on Thursdays at Palomares.

The entry fee is $16 per team. This covers the cost of officials and awards. Fees will be accepted Thursday with a deadline of Oct. 8.

This is a great program for a club, neighborhood group or a small company. It is good physical activity and most of all fun.

Coryell wins with '50s style weapons

By United Press International

Don Coryell, a man who's supposed to be behind his time in pro football, may actually be ahead of everybody else.

Coryell, the new coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, is a man who doesn't seem to understand pro football, 1973 style.

This is the era of cautious, conservative, don't-make-a-mistake, grind-it-out-on-the-ground football. It may make for dull football but it's the trend these days.

Coryell, though, seems to be right out of the '50s when pro football used to be called "basketball on grass" because of the emphasis on passing. He believes in throwing the football and trying to outscore his opponents instead of trying to give up fewer points than his opponents.

In Coryell's first two games as a Cardinal coach, his defense has given up 50 points. Imagine, 25 points a game! No contending team can afford to do that.

But, take a second look. There are the Cardinals with a 2-0 record and they're challenging the Dallas Cowboys today with first place in the NFC Eastern Division at stake. The winner of this division has gone to the Super Bowl for three straight years.

When the Cards outscored the Eagles 34-23 in their opener, not too many eyebrows were raised. After all, that was against the Eagles. But last week, the Cards went against the Washington Redskins. George Allen's Redskins. The Redskins who allowed 20 points in three playoff games last year.

The Cards played the Redskins' game for a half, battling to a 7-7 deadlock. But in the second half, the Cards exploded for a 34-27 triumph. Jim Hart, the quarterback who's long been the target of the boo birds in St. Louis for erratic passing, completed 17 of 28 passes for 286 yards and a touchdown.

Maybe Coryell is starting a new trend all by himself.

Dallas is 2-0 but the team escaped with a victory over Chicago only because a fourth down gamble by Bears' coach Abe Gibron backfired. The Cowboys' second victory was a lackluster triumph over New Orleans but it's difficult to get up when you're playing a team that was bombed in its opener.

Besides St. Louis and Dallas, only three other clubs—Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles—have perfect records after two weeks of action.

Pittsburgh is almost a sure bet to make it 3-0 when the Steelers go against a Houston team that has lost its first two games.

But both Minnesota and Los Angeles have rugged games coming up against the defending champions in their respective divisions.

Aussie women field hockey team at Poly

POMONA — The Australian national anthem — along with the Star-Spangled Banner — will be heard on the playing fields of Cal Poly Tuesday when the Australian women's national field hockey team meets the number one team of the Los Angeles Field Hockey Association (LAFHA) in a 3 p.m. match sponsored by the LAFHA and the Cal Poly physical education department.

The area of play is located on campus between the football field and the tennis courts.

Two Cal Poly physical education faculty are in the starting 11-woman LAFHA lineup — Judith Brame and Carolyn M. Lewis, both assistant professors in the department. Dr. Mary Jo Oliver, also assistant professor of physical education, is in charge of match arrangements.

The Aussie women's team, which has been touring Europe and the United States, is of international calibre, according to Dr. Oliver, and the teams in Tuesday's match will not be of equivalent strengths. But, she believes, it will be a good show, with the coup d'etat coming if the LA team can score against the Australians.

Dr. Oliver calls field hockey "the ultimate in endurance in women's sports." The game, played on a 100-yard field, is divided into two 35-minute halves, with a five-minute break between, and no time outs and no substitutions.

Cal Poly's physical education curriculum includes a class in women's field hockey, taught by Dr. Oliver, which constitutes the university's field hockey team. Although the team competes with other schools, the games are considered class projects rather than intercollegiate competition.

Unitas will hit another milestone

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Diego Chargers quarterback John Unitas needs only two yards against the Cincinnati Bengals today to pass the 40,000-yard career passing mark but Coach Harland Svare feels Unitas must do better than that or the Chargers are in trouble.

San Diego's running game, its prime weapon last year, has been sputtering this year as fullback Cid Edwards first suffered from a sore foot and then a severely bruised shoulder. If he should not play, San Diego will have to go with Robert Holmes, picked up only recently as a free agent.

Unitas passed for 175 yards in three quarters against Buffalo as the Chargers were ineffective on the round.

"Our running game just hasn't come around," Svare said. "It's a combination of a lot of things and we're constantly working on them."

The Bengals have had no trouble moving the ball as Essex Johnson is averaging 8.5 yards a carry and 245-pound rookie Booby Clark has been effective both running and receiving in short-yardage situations.

Quarterback Ken Anderson has passed for 372 yards and has only been intercepted once.

The Chargers have the home field advantage, but the Bengals should be tougher with field goals. Horst Muhlmann is a proven kicker while the Chargers have yet to make a field goal this season.

Putting title goes on the line today

ANAHEIM — Another battle of the sexes, a la Bobby Riggs-Billy Jean King, may be shaping up at the National Open Putting Championships this weekend on the 12,000 square foot putting green at Disneyland Hotel Golf Center.

Although there has been no hint of bitter argument leading up to the championship competition, former PGA champion Jerry Barber figures to be top contender in the pro phase of the tourney which also includes Bernice Kramer, LPGA pro at Disneyland Golf Center.

Since male and female pros will be in competition against each other in the same tournament, 5-foot-10 Bernrice could wind up battling for the title against Barber, five-foot head pro from Griffith Park Golf Course.

The putting championships are being held in conjunction with the four-day National Golf Show and Seminar which started Thursday at the Disneyland Hotel Convention Center.

A field of 100 finalists will be eligible to participate in today's 36-hole final round for the title.

In addition to the pro phase of the tourney, there also will be amateur flights open to both men and women and a flight for blind golfers. John Pitcher, winner of the Orange County Putting Championships, will be one of the contenders for the amateur title.

Net proceeds from the golf tournament will be earmarked for installation of putting greens for the blind and to aid the National Recreation Fund for the Blind, according to Eaton.

Miss Tynar wins amateur title again

WALNUT (UPI) — Pam Tynar of Ontario shot a five-over-par 79 Thursday to capture her second straight Southern California Women's Amateur golf tournament with a 54-hole total of 237.

The 21-year-old Cal State Fullerton senior finished two shots ahead of Gail Chow of Montebello and 16-year-old Terri Heacock of El Toro.

Miss Tynar's other rounds at the Pomona National Golf Club were 81 and 77.

'Faraday and Company'

What will they have left when the gimmick's gone?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The gimmick of NBC-TV's new "Faraday and Company" series, a periodic 90-minute private eye entry that arrived Wednesday night, is this:

Private detective Frank Faraday (Dan Dailey), escaping from a Latin American jail after 28 years of wrongful imprisonment, returns to the United States where he must deal with a modern world he has never known and which includes a 27-year-old son he didn't know existed.

Well, all right, let us consider what we had in the Wednesday premiere, and what the gimmick can do for the series as it goes along.

First of all, Dan Dailey is always a pleasure to have on screen—a very versatile performer: Fine actor in drama, melodrama or comedy, and, from way back, a nifty singer and dancer as well. He doesn't sing or dance in "Faraday and Company," so far as I know, but it wouldn't hurt, what with private eye variations hard to come by.

Anyway, in the debut, Dailey makes his escape from that jail, sporting a shaggy beard that would be the envy of Rip Van Winkle—and, by the time he arrives back in the U.S.A., he is clean shaven, with a trim haircut, snappy suit—and he is all ready to pursue his consuming dream of 28 years: To find the killer of his partner.

The U.S. government, checking him out, has managed to bring him together with his son (James Naughton), who, of all things, is a private eye too. The mother, it seems, was Faraday's secretary and girlfriend (Geraldine Brooks), and she is still around too, and still looks pretty good, and everybody wants to know why Faraday just doesn't forget the past and the killing of his partner, and enjoy himself. But if he did that, NBC-TV wouldn't have a series, the cast would have to be out looking for other jobs and the world would be deprived of another private eye television entry.

So he goes after the villains, and of course he flushes them out, and all those people who have been telling Faraday to just go and enjoy himself have begun to respect him and maybe understand him.

Indian show scheduled at Great Western

LOS ANGELES — Two fine lines of American Indian pottery, the Nampeyo and Santa Clara Black, will be featured at the American Indian & Western Relic Show at Pow-Wow at the Great Western Exhibit Center Oct. 12-14.

Marie Tafoya, a Santa Clara Indian, born on her tribe's Santa Fe, N.M. reservation, and one of the most talented of Santa Clara Black potters, will demonstrate her skills at the show, also exhibiting some of her newest creations.

A Los Angeles resident for the past 12 years, Mrs. Tafoya has the raw clay (mixed with white sand) dug from her native Santa Clara Canyon and sent to her in Los Angeles, where she molds the jars into various shapes and sizes. She returns the pottery to Santa Fe, where it dries for three days, then after careful sandpapering, polishing by pumice stone and painting, it is ready for firing. This is done over an open fire of twigs from the pima tree, which gives the finished product its deep, mirror like black coloring.

The Nampeyo pottery, produced in limited quantities, is made by the female descendants of Mampeyo Vesco Loma, a Hopi in Arizona. In 1873 Nampeyo, wife of John Loma, ran across some beautiful pottery excavated from a prehistoric Hopi dig. Entranced with the designs and qualities of workmanship, she developed a style of decoration, using many of the motifs and elements from the wares that had been unearthed. Her six daughters, Fannie, Nellip Elva, Tonita, Iris and Neva, are carrying on her work, with excellent results. The methods of making the Nampeyo pottery are well-guarded family secrets.

Naples, Fla., was planned as a winter resort since its founding in 1886.

UCLA plans 2 evenings of Bartok

LOS ANGELES —UCLA will devote Oct. 13 and 14 to the life and music of 20th Century Hungarian composer, Bela Bartok.

Bela Bartok Jr., oldest son of the composer, and Gyorgy Sandor will hold a concert-dialogue in Royce Hall at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 13. In Schoenberg Hall at 8 p.m. Oct. 14 an all-Bartok concert will be given by pianists Michael Zearott, Ralph Grierson and Irma Vallecillo, violinist Stanley Plummer, and percussionists Kenneth Watson and Robert Winslow.

The number of feathers on a sparrow vary from 1,300 to 2,600.

Eskimo film set for Montclair Theater

MONTCLAIR — "The Legend of Amaluk," a true-life adventure film, opens an exclusive limited engagement at the Montclair Theater Wednesday.

The movie tells the tale of an Eskimo youth bent on proving his manhood in order to win the hand of his sweetheart and the respect of the elders of his tribe.

Lorne Greene unfolds the tale of the young Eskimo who faces tremendous odds and experiences incredible adventures against the awesome ice-bound Arctic.

Over three years in the making, the production has been photographed in color by Frank Whaley and Jack Steely on location in Alaska.

Leo S. Rosencrans' script demanded authenticity, so director James P. Connor used real Eskimos as actors. Produced by two-time Academy Award Winner Jerry Fairbanks, "The Legend of Amaluk'" is a tribute to the hardy, resourceful Eskimo people.

Largest seals from Africa

The largest fur seal is the South African or Cape fur seal. The male measures up to 9 feet in length and his weight varies from 450 to 700 pounds, depending on the season. It can consume over 20 pounds of fish at one meal, but the average is about 3½ pounds.

Blaze damages Hacienda home

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — An electrical short was blamed for a fire Thursday which did $3,500 damage to the garage of the home of James Bailey here at 2580 Turnbull Canyon Road. The fire, which was doused by firemen within 10 minutes, was confined to the garage but some heat damage was done to the house. The blaze was shortly after 4 p.m.

LUTE VIRTUOSO — Morris Mizrahi, guitar and lute artist, will present a recital in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. The young musician, a former pupil of Pepe Romero, is also a teacher and a collector of old lute manuscripts. He will perform on both the lute and the guitar.

Lute, guitar recital slated at Bridges Hall of Music

CLAREMONT — Morris Mizrahi, guitar and lute virtuoso, will present a program of music spanning more than four centuries at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College.

This will be the first of some 50 concerts presented by the Pomona College music department during the 1973-74 season. Admission is $1 for adults, and 50 cents for students.

Mizrahi will divide his program between guitar and lute. The lute portion includes music by such great Renaissance lutenist composers as Francesco da Milano, Anthony Holborne, and the Elizabethan John Dowland, as well as a presentation of the perennial favorite, variations on "Greensleeves."

The guitar segment will feature works by J.S. Bach; Fernando Sor, known as "the Beethoven of the guitar;" Issac Albeniz and Francesca Tarrega, Spanish virtuosos' Claude Debussy, and Hector Villa-Lobos. The scheduled Debussy work is "The Maid With the Flaxen Hair."

Mizrahi has studied with Pepe Romero, Alirio Diaz, and Oscar Ghiglia. He divides his time performing both in the concert hall and movie studio, teaching, collecting Renaissance lute manuscripts, building such instruments as his own harpsichord and dulcimer, and studying Eastern philosophy.

Debt wiped out

The Treaty of Versailles ordered Germany to make damage payments to the Allied Nations in the amount of $33 billion at the end of World War I. Only a few payments had been made by 1929 when the amount was reduced to $16 billion. In 1934 the debt was canceled completely.

Antiques seen as investment potential

PARIS (UPI) —Investors seeking a profit haven from the world monetary crisis and rampant inflation have turned to buying antiques and sent prices soaring by as much as 100 per cent on European markets.

The booming demand for antique paintings, furniture, statues, books and curios is a reaction, dealers say, to the current uncertain situation, with most currencies bobbing up and down and widespread inflation taking an average seven per cent chunk out of investment capital.

Gerald Schuur, a French specialist, cited "the precarious position of the dollar and concern about European currencies" as the chief factor in rising antique prices.

"More and more people are realizing that antiques are immutable and impervious to inflation," said one dealer on the Quai Voltaire, site of some of Paris' fanciest shops. "I have been able to get for most articles 25 per cent more than they would have brought last year."

At this summer's Florence, Italy, Antique Biennale, prices were up "at least 50 per cent and even 100 per cent for good items," reported Francine Rheims, antique correspondent for a Paris newspaper.

"This hardly believeable rise in prices," she added, "has not at all slackened demand. On the contrary, lack of confidence in the falling dollar and lira has only spurred Italian buyers on."

The clincher is London, the acknowledged mecca for international antiques sales. The auction house of Sotheby reported gross sales of 44 million pounds ($110 million) for the season ended last July. This represented an increase of 76 per cent in volume over the preceding year.

The same was true of another major London firm, Christie's, which saw its turnover rise by 70 per cent over 1971-2.

Why arbutus?

Arbutus blossom were used on carvings for bridal and engagement rings because arbutus was believed to mean "Thee only do I love."

Blue chips show upswing

NEW YORK (UPI) —Wall Street, optimistic about the continuing decline in short-term interest rates, extended an advance through a second consecutive week on the New York Stock Exchange with heavy trading marked by an outpouring of institutional funds.

The advance carried the Dow Jones industrial average ahead by 19.20 points to 947.10. That increase, coupled with last week's jump of 41.54, gave the popular index of 30 blue chips its biggest upswing of the year.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was ahead 1.23 to 108.43 for the week, and the NYSE index gained 0.78 to 58.51.

Buying covered a wide range, as it did the previous week. Steels, motors, chemicals and oils were the favored issues, again at the expense of the glamor issues.

Advances outpaced declines by an almost 3-to-1 margin, 1,356 stocks gaining and 478 declining in value. There were 1,991 issues traded.

Trading volume continued heavy, reflecting institutional interest in adjisting portfolios for the end-of-quarter report to shareholders. Turnover for the week totaled 102,109,830 shares, close to the previous week's 105,783,060 that was the heaviest trading in more than a year and a half. The same week last year, volume was 69,635,800.

"It's still an institutional market," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "It's not a speculative market."

Gordon described the market's upward momentum as "anticipatory action" toward an eventual relaxation of the Federal Reserve's monetary restraints. Other analysts agreed. Investors were encouraged during the week by a decline of about 1.5 percentage points in U.S. Treasury Bills, a major indicator of the course of short term interest rates.

A small St. Louis bank and a banking group in Michigan cut into the prime rate category late in the week, each chopping fractions from the prevalent record 10 per cent. None of the major banks followed their example, however, and both analysts and leading bankers generally described their action as premature and insignificant for the time being.

"But the major factors remain interest rates and federal (monetary) policy," said Gordon. "The other complex factors such as Watergate, the money exchange rate and even --to a degree —the inflation rate have peeled off as major influences."

A 6.17-point decline Friday in the Dow, its first setback after seven consecutive advances, was attributed to profit taking after the averages had hit 953.27 the previous day. That weekly high marked the first time the Dow had closed above the 950 level since May 8.

The decline Friday, said an analyst, "should not be interpreted as meaning the market has lost or is losing its momentum."

DuPont, advancing on expectations of sharply higher earnings, recorded the biggest net gain of the week. It moved ahead 11 ¼ points to 183 ½. Monsanto gained 2 ⅝, Dow 2 ⅛, Allied Chemical 2 and Union Carbide 1 ¼ in the sharply higher chemical group.

Eastman Kodak, a glamor leader of the chemicals, was off 2 ½ to 130 ¼.

Other glamor issues also fell back. Corning Glass was off 5 ½, Xerox and Honeywell 4 ⅛ each, and Walt Disney 2 ½. Avon Products fell 9 ½ to 100 in the week's biggest net loss. After the close Friday, the company said it expects slower sales in the United States and is doubtful about increased earnings.

Coastal States Gas was the most actively traded issue, even though it did not resume trading until Thursday after a 3 ½-month suspension. The issue opened on a block of 400,000 shares at 8 ⅛ and ended the week at 12, up 4 ½ on 1,688,800 shares.

The Securities and Exchange Commission had suspended Coastal States in early June to investigate its statements on natural gas reserves and its ability to fulfill contracts. On Friday, a Coastal States unit received a recommendation for a rate increase from the Texas Railroad Commission.

Federal National Mortgage Association was the second most active issue, moving ahead ¾ to a high for the year at 22 ¾ on 1,192,700 shares. Gulf Oil Corp. was third at 25 ⅜, gaining 2 ⅛ on turnover of 1,049,000 shares.

Poisonous problem

Cattlemen howling over coyotes

Livestock men report they kill an estimated $1.5 million worth of sheep and lambs each year. They want a ban on poisoning coyotes lifted.

Animal protectors contending the "slaughter of the coyote" amounted to 84,000 of the wolflike beasts in seven western states last year, believe that the sheepmen are exaggerating.

The object of their dispute was described a century ago by Mark Twain as "a long, slim, sick and sorry-looking skeleton, with a gray wolfskin stretched over it, a tolerably bushy tail that forever sags down with a despairing expression of foresakeness, and misery a furtive and evil eye, and a long, sharp face, with slightly lifted lip and exposed teeth. He has a general slinking expression all over."

They range through Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, and parts of California, Nevada, Kansas, Idaho, Oregon and Missouri.

The dispute over how many sheep they kill has prompted one University of Nevada-Reno researcher to become a shepherd living with the flocks and performing autopsies on any dead animals. He's still in the field without any conclusive findings.

Marcellus Palmer, president of the Utah Woolgrowers Association, said there's no question about coyote kills, citing a Utah State University study taken two years ago which showed losses of 48,000 head a year.

"A lot of people will argue with those figures, but no one will refute them," Palmer said.

Hal Perry, a field representative for the Humane Society of the United States, said it was "hard for us to believe there is as much of a problem as some people say there is.

"There were 84,000 coyotes killed last year in the seven western states," Perry said. "How could we need to kill more?"

Larry Decker of the Interior Department's Division of Wildlife Services said that while the number of kills seems to be down in some areas, "we feel the total losses are up."

Since President Nixon banned the use of poisons in predator control in 1972, it has been harder to control coyote populations in sheep-raising areas, Decker contented.

He said steel traps snares and aerial and ground hunting are effective, "but a handful of men with toxic chemicals could do just as well."

Perry said Missouri has controlled its coyote population for some time without the use of poisons, and questioned whether statistics from other states showing the growing number of predator kills among sheep flocks were based on hard evidence.

The poison dispute has turned recently to a device known as the M-44 cyanide pellet gun —a small pipe set in the ground with a trigger device attached and cyanide inside. When the coyote pulls on bait attached to the top of the pipe, the cyanide is fired killing the animal.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, sponsor of a bill which would legalize the pellet guns, argued that the device is selective— killing only canines.

Environmental groups favored other means to control coyotes.

Tom Garrett, Washington representative of Friends of The Earth an environmental group says special insurance and more sheepherders could be more effective.

He said sheepmen have cut back on the number of shepherds since predator control programs have been developed.

"With more sheepherders, the flocks would be better tended and there would be less need for absentee controls," he said. "We think the federal government should take a role in this."

Garrett said a federally sponsored insurance program would allow sheepmen to better absorb losses during bad years and would lessen the need for large control programs.

If Agnew's untouchable, Waldie mulls impeachment

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Rep. Jerome R. Waldie will seek impeachment proceedings against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew if the courts rule the vice president cannot be convicted while in office or if Agnew uses legal tricks to delay any possible trial.

The California congressman, who is seeking the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Thursday he would have "overwhelming" support for an impeachment resolution if either of the circumstances arise.

If the courts rule Agnew is legally untouchable while in office, Waldie said, the only recourse would be impeachment. The same would be true, he said, if Agnew used legal maneuvers to delay court proceedings for an undue amount of time, effectively avoiding prosecution while in office.

If the grand jury in Baltimore returns an indictment, the case should be settled in the courts within six months, Waldie said. Any legal actions extending that amount of time would be inappropriate, he added.

Coins as an inflation hedge

By MORT REED

In a rapidly-expanding economy, coins are becoming more and more attractive as insurance against inflation. At such a time, publication of a comprehensive guide is particularly useful.

In "COINS: An Investor's and Collector's Guide," I have brought together four internationally known coin experts to provide the collector-investor with proven formulas for long or short-term investments.

This collective approach is a departure from conventional publication practices, but I have long felt that such a multi-view directory was necessary. Since the represented authors are each experts in their respective fields, the reader is provided with an aggregation of the best-qualified opinions in the field, rather than a sigle author's viewpoint. In the world of coins, there simply is no single, ultimate authority.

The 403-page book is clearly written and includes 817 illustrations to assist the reader in identifying each coin discussed.

Part I concerns the mechanics of coin collection — for fun, for fun-profit and for profit alone. It further distinguishes between single-coin collecting, consecutive-series collecting, and the modern concept of type collecting.

The investment activities of individual coins of each type are traced over the past 20 years. The entire United States commemorative coinage issue for the same period is profiled and problems of storage and handling usually faced by the inexperienced collector discussed.

"The Economics of Coin Collecting," Part II, includes a range of critical topics by recognized experts. James F. Ruddy writes about coin grading. Q. David Bowers writes about how to invest successfully in rare coins. Max Humbert provides guides to investments in modern-world--proofsets and commemorative issues and David W. Akers provides information about investing in gold coins.

Besides these distinguished experts, I received full cooperation from the Bureau of the Mint, the U. S. Secret Service, COINage Magazine, COIN WORLD, the Numismatist and Presidential Art Medals, Inc.

If any apologies are due from me, as the author, it would have to be not for any lack of expertise but for waiting so long to put this work into print.

Numismatist vs Coin Collector

Technical differences do exist between numismatists and coin collectors, although one is rarely challenged in his use of either term. Occasions do arise, however, when the distinction does prove useful.

Numismatics is simply the science of coins and medals. We apply the word "coin" to those pieces struck for circulation as money while the word "medal" signifies a piece not intended for a circulating medium but struck in commemoration of a person or event of national importance.

For that reason, one may be numismatist without owning as much as a single penny, just as a coin collector may find fulfillment in the hobby without scientific or mechanical support.

FOR ABOUT WHAT IT COSTS FOR RIDING LESSONS, WE CAN SEND A KID TO COLLEGE.

If you can afford to give your children the best, and often most expensive, things in life, you're lucky.

Take riding lessons. A two-year-old gelding, stable fees, riding habit, and lessons can easily cost $2,000. And that blue ribbon at the horse show would probably be worth every penny it cost.

But there are some families that aren't so lucky. Families whose incomes are so low that meat on the table is a rare luxury. Families who watch their children approach college age with the certain knowledge that there will be nothing for them after high school but marriage, babies, and forty years of labor.

Barring a miracle.

The United Negro College Fund is trying to make the miracle happen. We support 40 private, predominantly black colleges that help 45,000 students break out of the urban ghettos and rural backwaters of this country and into 20th century America.

We know there's a place for them. We know we can help them find it. All we need is money.

$2,000 will turn a kid into a crackerjack rider. But it will also send a kid to college for a year.

Please. Send a check for $1.00, $20.00, $100.00 to the United Negro College Fund.

A Mind is a Terrible Thing to Waste.

Give to the United Negro College Fund.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE INVITING BIDS FOR CASH CONTRACT NO. 4175 PARKWAY TREE PROJECT NO. 10

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on October 23, 1973, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the planting of trees and the furnishing and placing of tree well covers together with non-metallic pipe, concrete removal, cast in place porous concrete and other incidental and appurtenant work, including plant maintenance. This work will be authorized by the County at intervals during the contractual period by means of several "Notices to Plant". Said notices will be issued for planting of twenty (20) or more trees. This project is estimated to cost less than $22,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done. The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

"A Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

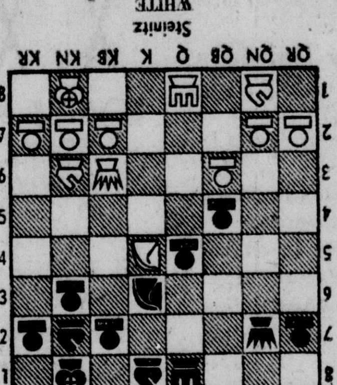
Chess 'hustlers' teach a lesson

By SHELBY LYMAN

Chess is a great leveler. Class, race, age and even sex may recede into relative insignificance as two persons engage over the chessboard.

Yet, the juxtaposition of opposites sometimes leads to the dramatization of psychological quirks, as "background" differences assume central importance.

Steinitz
WHITE



Zukertort
BLACK
(Diagram 1)

For example, the impoverished chess expert will "hustle" an eager and more affluent "patzer". The expert will not only pick up a wager or two but will take pleasure in demonstrating a superiority over his higher status adversary who has wandered into his domain.

The "patzer" on the other hand, though he may lose money, will occasionally win a game and has many near misses which spur him on masochistically to new encounters with his nemesis.

(Diagram 2)
BLACK Botvinnik

Smyslov
WHITE

The person who is hustled has a rare experience in his firsthand knowledge of a usually unapproachable chess talent. His familiarity teaches him or deludes him to think that he too would be a stone's throw from greatness if he were to make the effort.

Those not given to such extravagant pleasures may enjoy a milder form of conceit, i.e., second-guessing world champions. Here are four positions in which a famous champion "blunders." Try your luck at seeing what they missed.

(Diagram 1)

In 1886, the great Steinitz, playing Zuckertort, made the move 1) NxQBP?? thinking the black queen pawn was pinned. What is black's reply? Answer: 1 . . . PxN!. which simply wins a piece. For if 2. QxQ, . . . RxR mate follows. While 2. RxR allows . . . NxR defending the black queen.

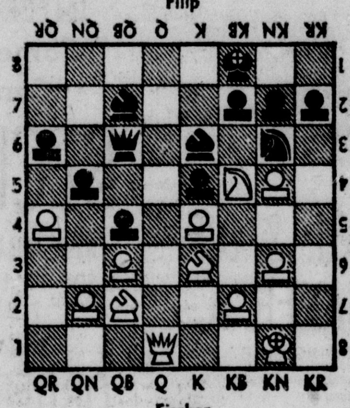
(Diagram 2)

In 1958, Botvinnik, playing Smyalov played 1 . . . K-Q3? After white's 2. R-N6 check, black played 7 . . . K-B4. He intends, now that his king is safe from checks by the rook, to push his pawns. But he had to resign after Smyslov's next move. What is it? Answer: 3. K-Q3, threatening 4. P-N4 and checkmate.

(Diagram 3)

In this position from the 1959 Candidates Tournament, the young Fischer could have won a pawn. How? Answer: 1. Q-R5. Black's . . . K-N1 does not work. Why? Answer: QxN! followed by a knight fork.

(Diagram 3)
BLACK
Filip



Fischer
WHITE

(Diagram 4)

Perhaps the worst blunder of all is by Taimanov against Fischer in 1971. Here Taimanov played 1) FxP? ??? to the astonishment of all. What's Fischer's reply? Answer: Q-Q5 check (double attack). Taimanov resigned as he shamefacedly realized that Fischer would meet . . . R-B2 with 2. R-R8 check which wins the rook.

Lymanism

If it is true, as Fischer has said, that with proper training he should be able to beat the Chinese at ping pong because of his longer arms, then it is most likely also true that sitting closer to the board, they should win over him at chess.

Girl friend falls in love with his father

By JEAN ADAMS

DASHING DAD: (Q.) At first Donna and I got along great. Then after we had been going out for about two months, she wanted to meet my parents.

I didn't want her to because they sometimes act sort of stupid. Finally I made a deal with them for the four of us to go out to a restaurant. That was wrong. My father is not very smart, but he is very good looking and can really sweet-talk girls and women.

The minute Donna saw him she fell in love with him.

On every date she asks about him. She wants to know when we are going out with my parents again. My father thinks it is all kinda cute. So does my mom.

To me it is horrible. For two months Donna loved me. Now she loves my father! Help! — Ugh in Utah.

(A.) Is Donna going out on dates with your father? No, she is going out with you. Is she kissing him goodnight? No, she is kissing you.

She admires your father but YOU are her boy friend.

Let her see your parents now and then. She will get used to them and they will get used to her. Matters will fall into place. She may continue to have a high regard for your father, but she will still be your girl friend.

TWO FAITHS: (Q.) I am 15 and Timothy is 16. He is of one faith and I am of another. His faith forbids him to marry me and mine forbids me to marry him. We don't want to marry. We just want to be friends.

But my mother is very nervous when he comes over to my house. We have to sit in the living room with the light on bright and I can't go outside to tell him goodnight. What should I do? — Miriam in New Jersey.

(A.) Don't just sit. Circulate. Take Timothy into the kitchen and fix a snack. Invite your mother and father to join you. Encourage them to get to know Timothy better. Familiarity breeds tolerance. We are less afraid of anyone we really know.

No United States president has been an only child.

WARNING
ASSEMBLY BILL 2112
Adds Sec. 976 and 977 to the 1964 Civil Rights Law

prohibits with certain exceptions, discrimination because of sex. Since some occupations are considered more attractive to persons of one sex or the other advertisements are placed under the Male or Female columns for the convenience of readers. Such listings are not intended to exclude persons of either sex.

This newspaper strives to protect its readers against fraud, deception or injustices. Advertisements which require cash bonds or investments in stocks, samples, equipment should be investigated thoroughly. All advertising statements must be accurate. All ads pertaining to sales must carry the word sales and must relate some nature of work involved and not designed to mislead the reader. Any ad requiring a tuition for study courses is not considered a help wanted ad and should be in classification 6 "Educational."

NO HELP WANTED AD CAN STIPULATE OR INFER A DEFINITE AMOUNT WHEN starting pay is commission basis. Report any exception to this rule to Classified Advertising Manager. NA 2-1201

SOLITUDE

ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I keep a plastic holder with a squeeze top filled with salad oil to use when a squirt is needed for greasing a pan or when only a teaspoon, or tablespoon or two is required. This holder stands in a small jar top so there are no drips down the side to soil the shelf. — RUTH T.

DEAR POLLY — We use those tubes the new-style potato chips come in as holders for silverware to be taken on a picnic or a camping trip. — FLOSSIE.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I use a tiny paintbrush and bright-colored enamel to "dot" the spots where my sewing machine is to be oiled. I do not have to look for the places each time and then wonder if I have missed one. — KAREN.

DEAR POLLY — My four-year-old loves to practice writing numbers on an old calendar. Those with large squares for each date are particularly good. There is more room below the printed numbers for the child's own numbers. He has his model numbers pre-written and this is a great way to make use of old and extra calendars. — SUSAN

DEAR POLLY — When lifting a thumbtack from the wall or elsewhere, slip a paper clip under it as a lever for lifting. This is great when short or delicate fingernails are a problem. — LARRY.

DEAR POLLY — Labels so often fall off of medicine bottles. I run some clear nail polish around the edges of each label. They stay on and are easier to read, too. — P. C.

DEAR POLLY — Rather than simply granting a set weekly stipend as an allowance for each child, we've changed to piece-work wages for household chores done. I have the projects and prices paid worked out so the least-desirable jobs pay the most. During the three years we have been doing this we have seen some get nothing at all and others get all the pay because they did all the work. Now the children seem to be doing the work in accordance with their abilities and foresight. — MR. J. E. W.

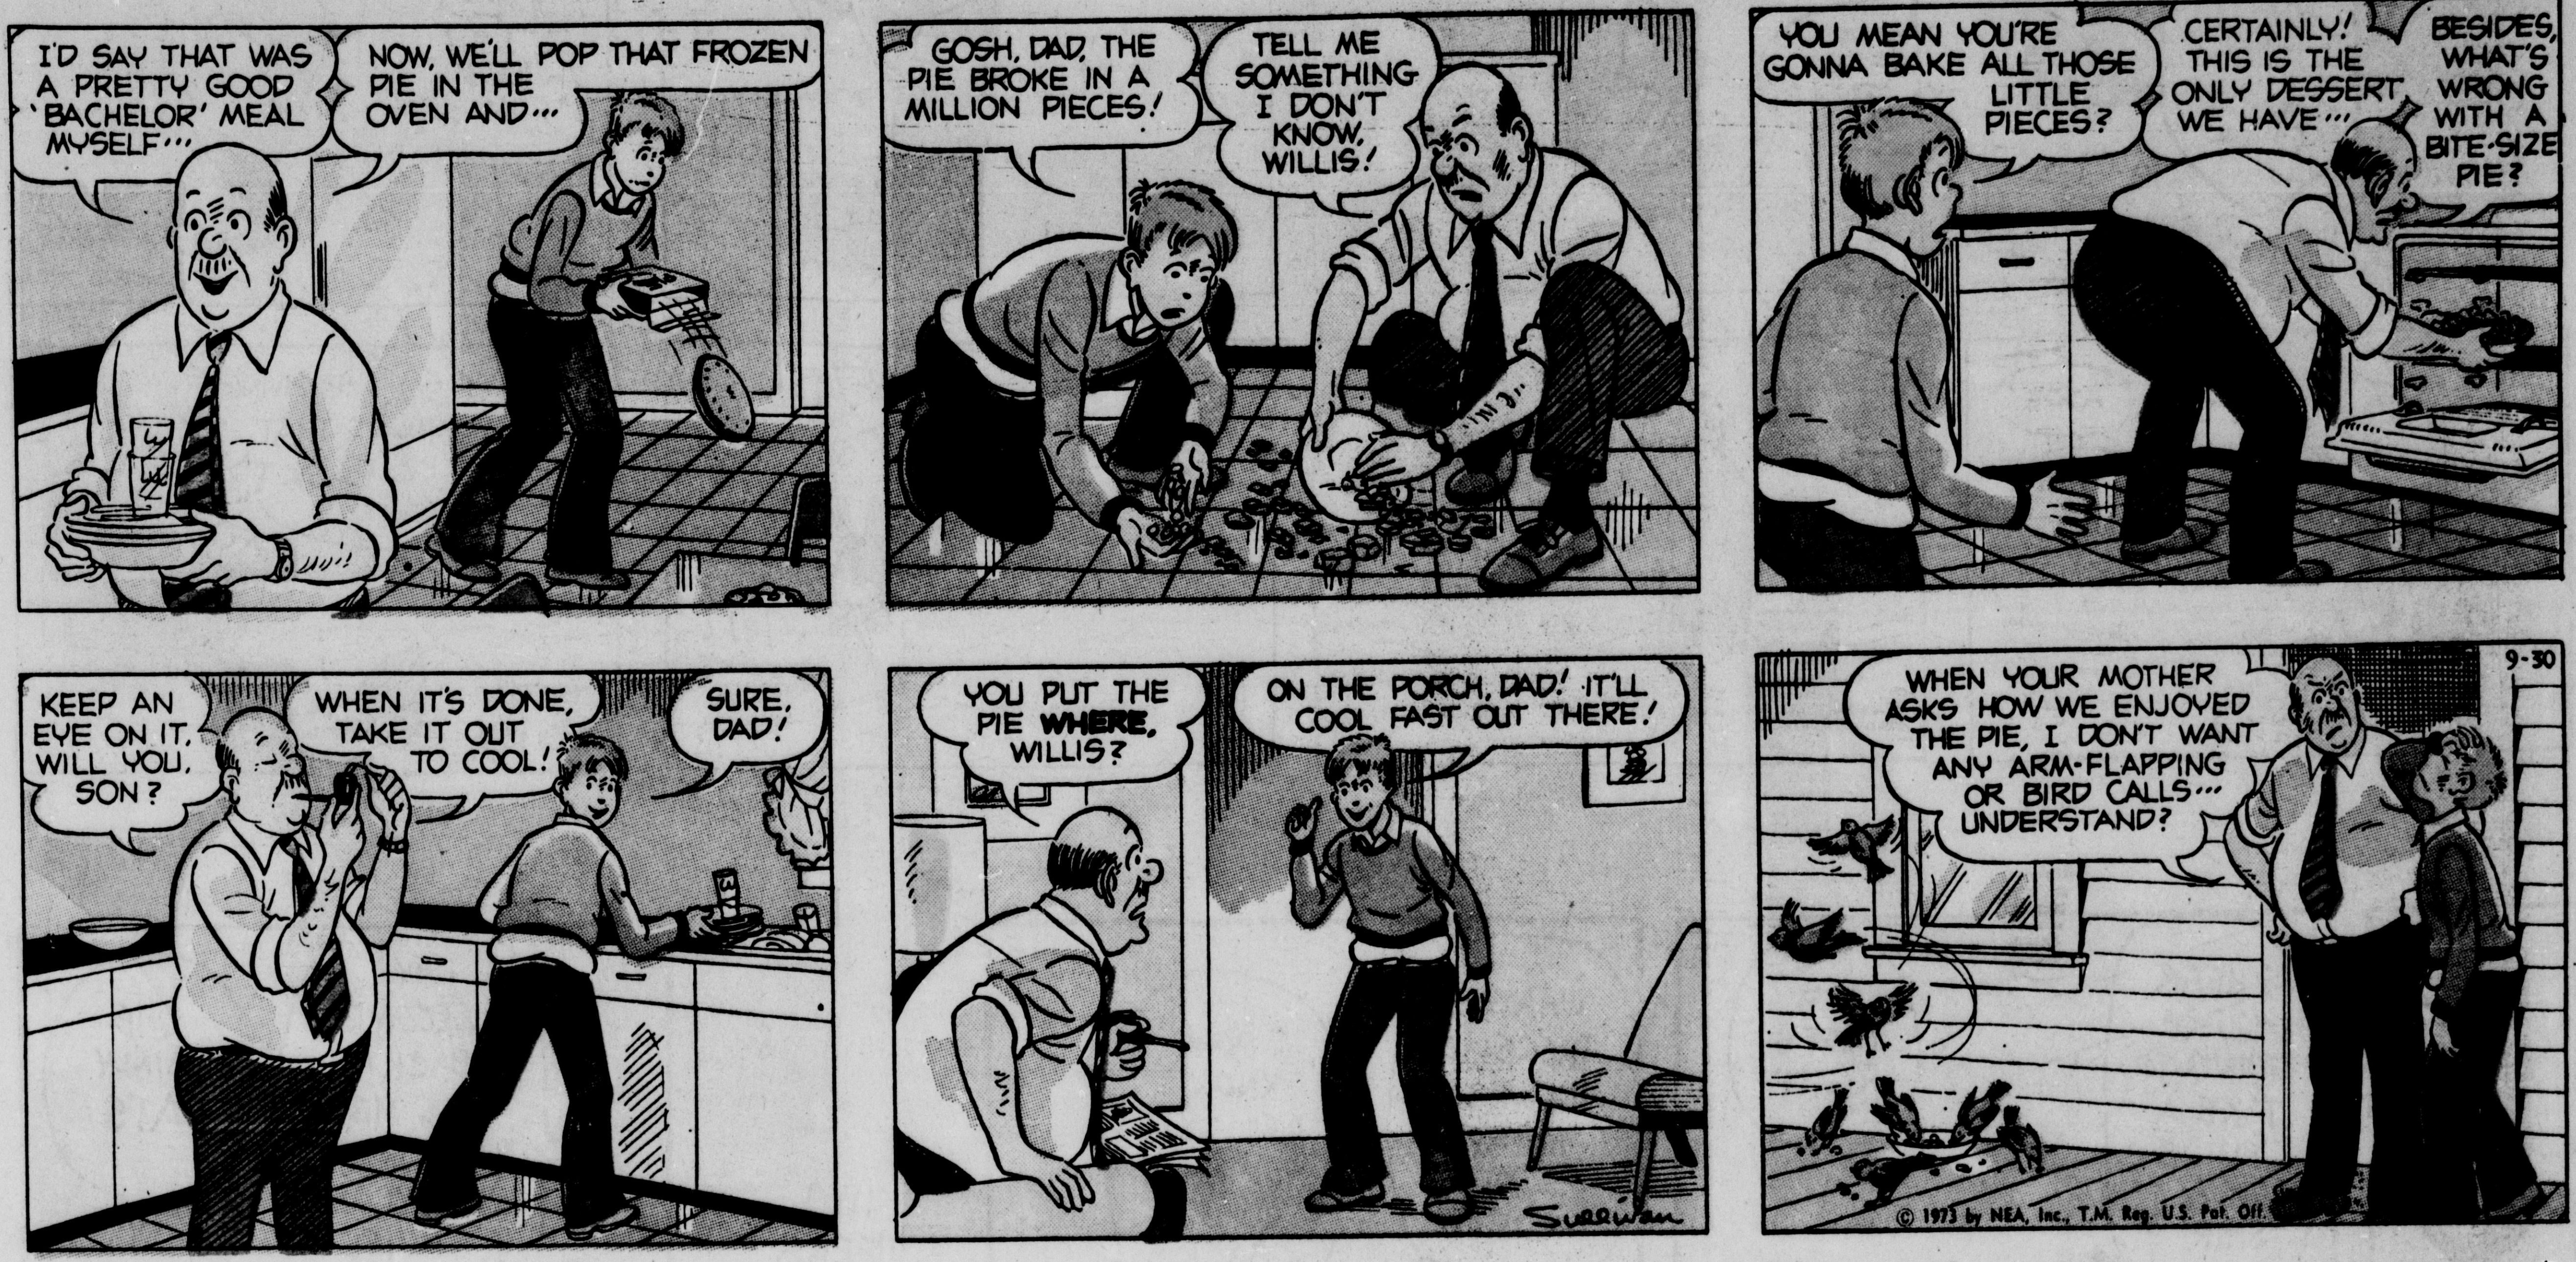
OUT OUR WAY

By ED SULLIVAN



I'D SAY THAT WAS A PRETTY GOOD 'BACHELOR' MEAL MYSELF...
NOW, WE'LL POP THAT FROZEN PIE IN THE OVEN AND...
GOSH, DAD, THE PIE BROKE IN A MILLION PIECES!
TELL ME SOMETHING I DON'T KNOW, WILLIS!
YOU MEAN YOU'RE GONNA BAKE ALL THOSE LITTLE PIECES?
CERTAINLY! THIS IS THE ONLY DESSERT WE HAVE...
BESIDES, WHAT'S WRONG WITH A BITE-SIZE PIE?
KEEP AN EYE ON IT, WILL YOU, SON?
WHEN IT'S DONE, TAKE IT OUT TO COOL!
SURE, DAD!
YOU PUT THE PIE WHERE, WILLIS?
ON THE PORCH, DAD! IT'LL COOL FAST OUT THERE!
WHEN YOUR MOTHER ASKS HOW WE ENJOYED THE PIE, I DON'T WANT ANY ARM-FLAPPING OR BIRD CALLS... UNDERSTAND?

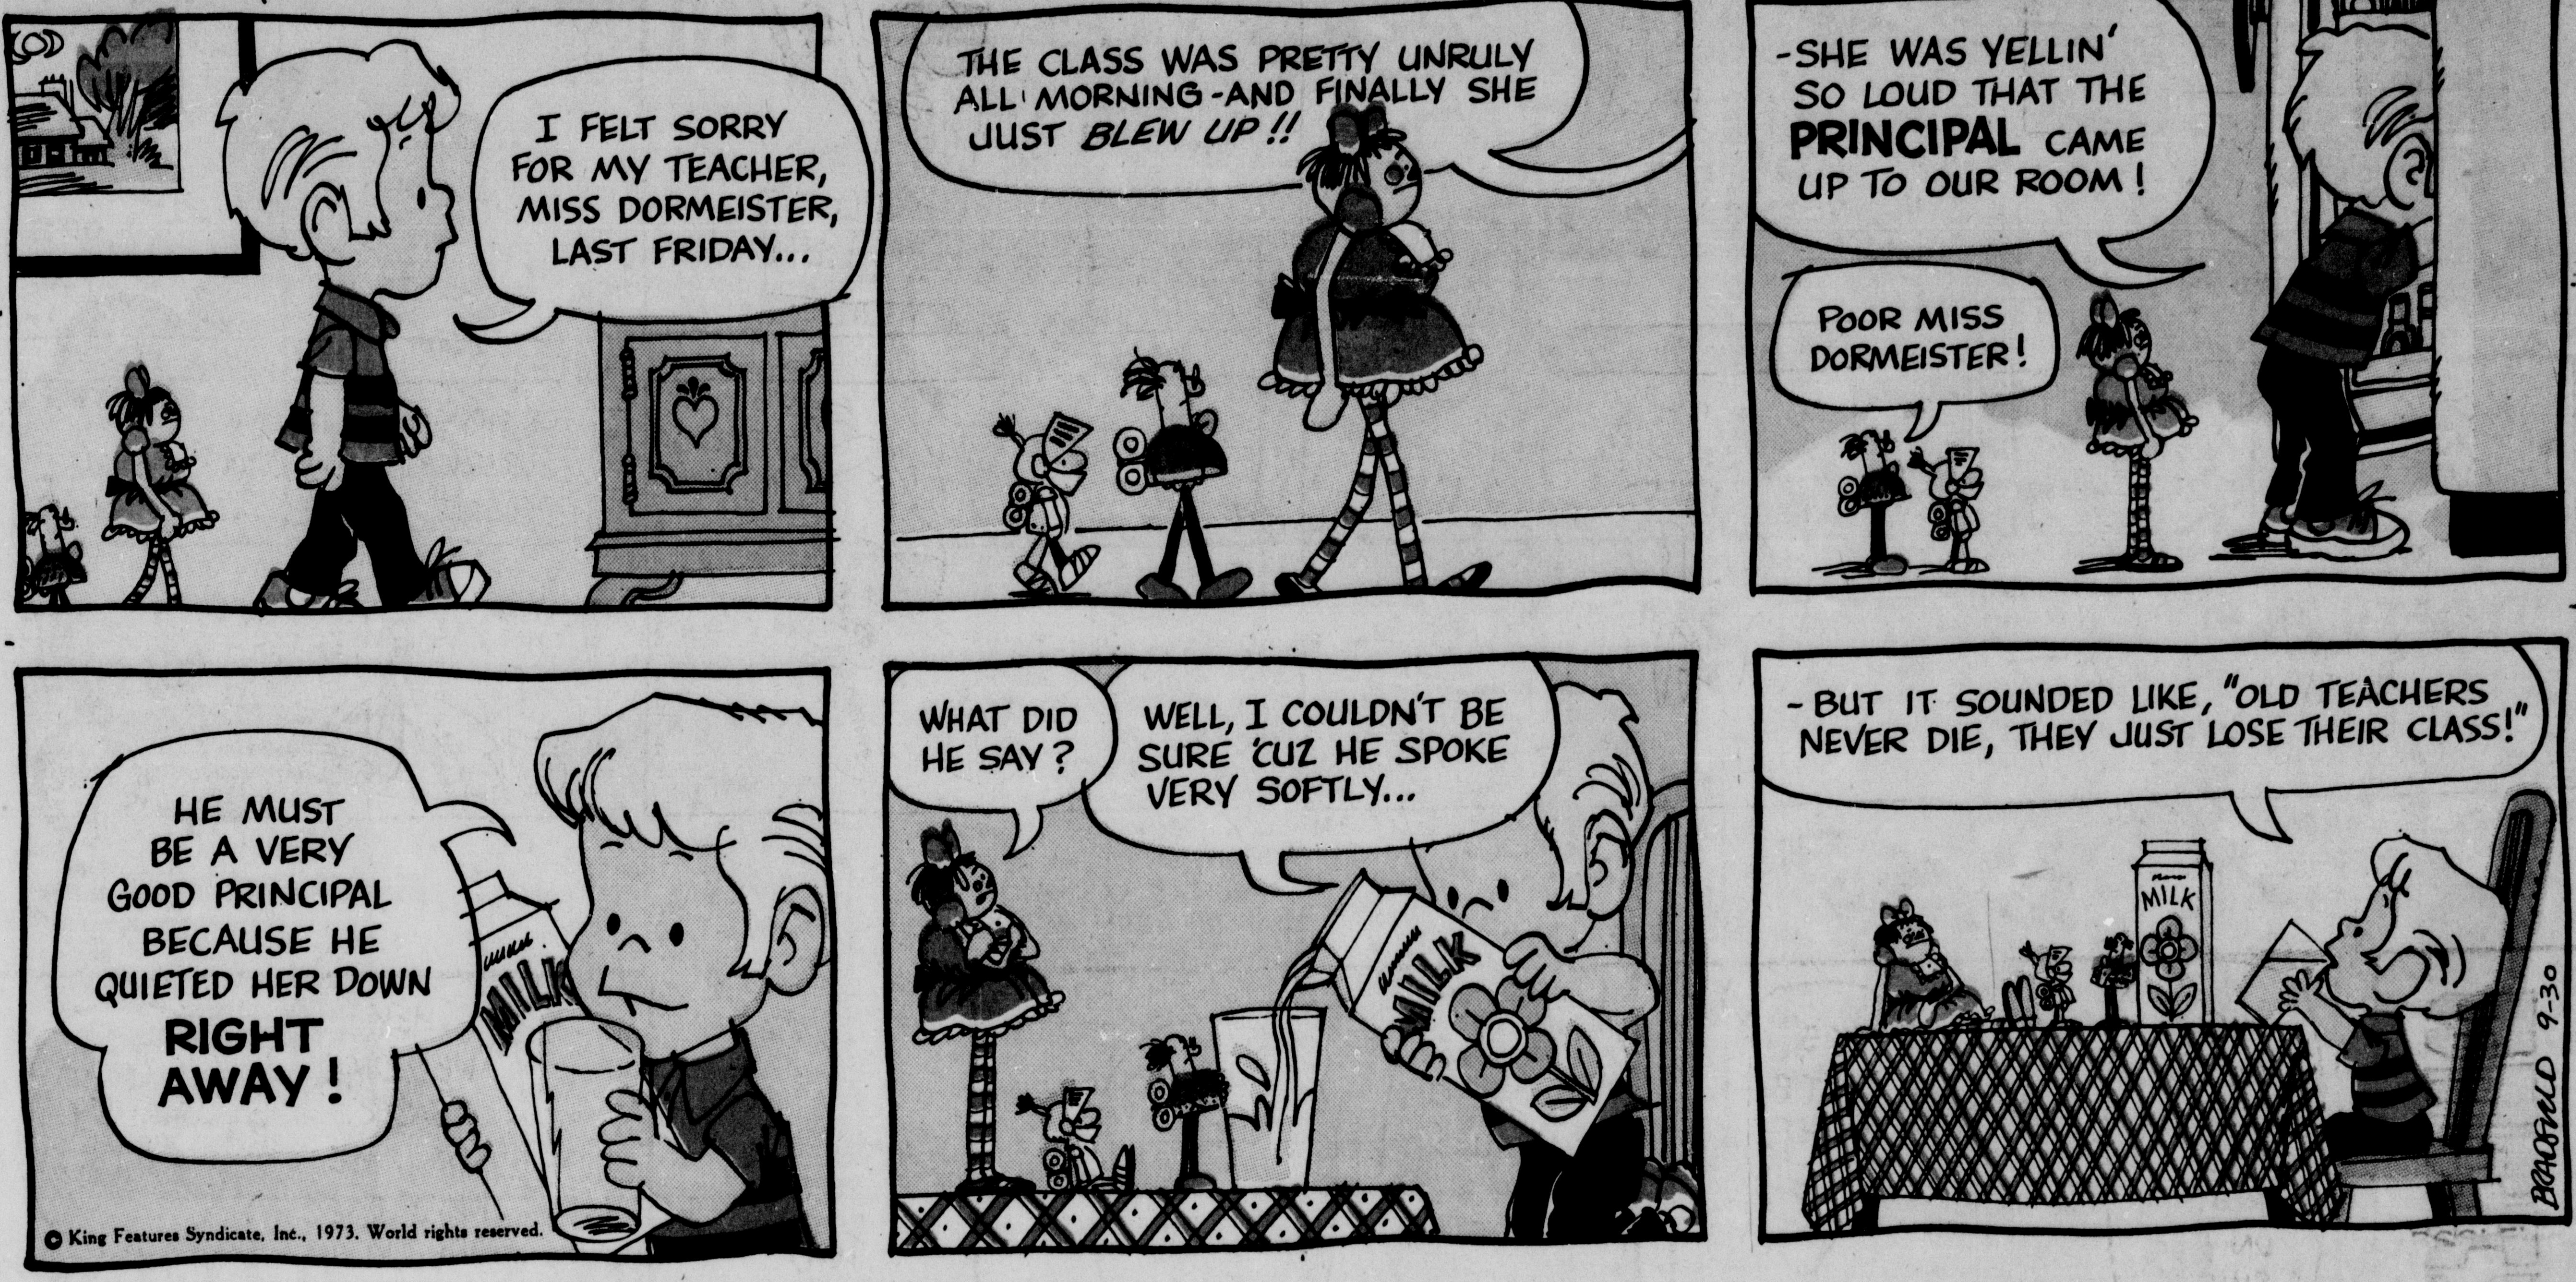
DOOLEYS WORLD

BY R. BRADFIELD



I FELT SORRY FOR MY TEACHER, MISS DORMEISTER, LAST FRIDAY...
THE CLASS WAS PRETTY UNRULY ALL MORNING-AND FINALLY SHE JUST BLEW UP!!
-SHE WAS YELLIN' SO LOUD THAT THE PRINCIPAL CAME UP TO OUR ROOM!
POOR MISS DORMEISTER!
HE MUST BE A VERY GOOD PRINCIPAL BECAUSE HE QUIETED HER DOWN RIGHT AWAY!

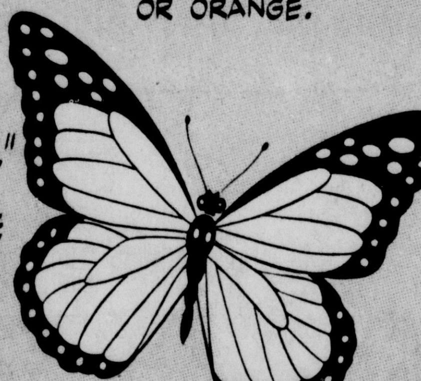
NATURE COLORS

BUTTERFLIES

NO ONE KNOWS EXACTLY WHY BUTTERFLIES ARE NAMED "BUTTERFLIES." SOME PEOPLE THINK THAT THE NAME CAME ABOUT BECAUSE SO MANY HAVE THE BRIGHT YELLOW COLOR OF BUTTER.



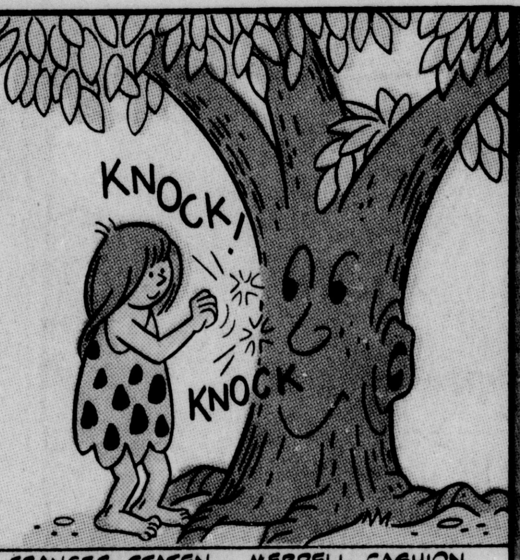
COLOR THE MONARCH BUTTERFLY YELLOW OR ORANGE.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

JACKIE ALLARD OF LEWISPORT, KY, ASKS:

"WHY DO PEOPLE KNOCK ON WOOD ?"

MANY PEOPLE STILL THINK THAT KNOCKING ON WOOD WILL KEEP AWAY BAD LUCK. THIS SUPERSTITION BEGAN LONG AGO. EARLY-DAY MAN IMAGINED TREES WERE THE HOMES OF SPIRITS. KNOCKING ON WOOD, TO WARD OFF BAD LUCK, BEGAN AS AN APPEAL TO THE TREE'S SPIRIT. THE PERSON ASKING A FAVOR OF THE SPIRIT WOULD TOUCH THE TREE AS HE SPOKE HIS WISH. ANOTHER POPULAR IDEA WAS THAT KNOCKING ON A TREE WOULD KEEP A JEALOUS SPIRIT FROM OVERHEARING GOOD NEWS AND TRYING TO CHANGE IT.



KNOCK!

SERVEL

THE BARGAIN THAT COSTS A LITTLE MORE!

Servel air conditioning IS a bargain—a bargain that costs a little more. You save in the long run. Because Servel builds only quality heating-cooling systems you can purchase one with the assurance that it will last with a minimum of maintenance. AND THAT'S A REAL BARGAIN!

For All-Year® comfort, a Servel heating-cooling system has important benefits that you should expect from quality equipment. It helps extract moisture, dust and pollen so the air you breathe seems fresher. And it maintains temperature settings and circulates air quietly and efficiently.

Servel is the only manufacturer to offer a 10-year warranty at a slight additional cost.

Dr. Frank G. Slaughter Writes: What's Wrong With U.S. Health Care?

Actress Barbara Rush: "I've Always Wanted To Be Independent!"

"At Home"—Ideas For Your Bedroom And Family Room

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR REP. PETER RODINO (D-N.J.), sponsor of a bill to keep Attorneys General from taking part in presidential-election campaigns*

Charges of illegal activities aside, why all the fuss over former Attorney General John N. Mitchell's work as a Nixon campaign adviser? Didn't Bobby Kennedy do the same thing for his brother?—M. O'Dell, Teaneck, N.J.

● Yes, and when the late President John F. Kennedy appointed Bobby Kennedy as Attorney General, some members of the bar expressed doubts about the wisdom of that appointment. In recent years, there has been a growing tendency for our nation's top law-enforcement officers to view themselves as the Attorney General of the President and of the President's political party. This tendency is a dangerous one, no matter who is President.

FOR JACQUES COUSTEAU, underwater explorer*

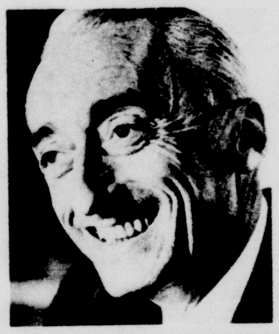
I have often wondered why you didn't include a search for the fabled Loch Ness monster among your many searches. Do you have any plans in this direction?—Dorothy Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● No, because I don't believe there is such a thing as the Loch Ness monster.



FOR BARBARA EDEN

I read that you lost your baby under tragic circumstances two years ago. Is that true?—S. K., Council Bluffs, Iowa

● Yes—and it helped me learn how very dear life is. It was a hard experience: My baby died in the seventh month, but I had to carry it a full month more before the doctors would terminate pregnancy. The death came about because the umbilical cord collapsed. I hadn't even known such a thing was possible. Since then I've heard of other cases.

FOR HOPE LANGE

I have always admired you for your ladylike quality. How have you managed in a business that is known to be tough? —B. E., Prescott, Ariz.

● I think everyone has his own concept of what being ladylike means. If you are referring to a quiet, timid sort of attitude, then you are very wrong—I probably have the foulest mouth around! I find using four-letter words a marvelous relief for pent-up tensions and anger. However, I would never use such language around anyone I didn't know.

FOR SEN. CHARLES H. PERCY (R-Ill.)*

I see you're sponsoring bills to "improve" our prisons. Isn't it time to get tough instead?—F. S., Marion, Ind.

● If we're serious about trying to alleviate the crime problem, then it's time we take a long look at the system, which is producing failures seven times out of ten. I think we should reshape our approach to criminal justice. Both the "soft on crime" and "hard line" approaches are just traps. None of these approaches has worked or will work.

FOR REDD FOXX, TV star*

I have heard you mention the name "Elizabeth" several times on your "Sanford and Son" show. Who is Elizabeth?—Martin Piotrowski, Mt. Morris, Mich.

● The Elizabeth that I refer to is supposed to be Fred Sanford's late wife. I took the name from an old friend, now deceased. She was Elizabeth Cobb, who was married to saxophone player Arnett Cobb, a great friend of mine.

FOR ANN CORIO of "This Was Burlesque"*

How do you explain the fact that so many women want to see burlesque shows?—Mrs. J. J., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Women make up 70 percent of my audience, and the reason is pretty basic. These women never went to burlesque shows before. They had heard about them from their husbands, but they were not allowed to go. When I brought burlesque to theaters in the round and made the show respectable, they began to come. Now they are beating the men to the front seats.

FOR JEANE DIXON

What do you think will be the outcome of the gas shortage? —Cheryl Chesebrough, Merced, Calif.

● I feel that the gas shortage is going to continue to be a problem. At the moment it is a manufactured shortage, but we will have an energy crisis for real later on.

FOR CURT GOWDY, sportscaster*

I have heard that Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins, who is in the six-figure salary bracket, regrets he never graduated from high school. True?—John Davidson, Green Bay, Wis.

● Yes, and he's going to school right now in order to get a diploma.

FOR R. BUCKMINSTER FULLER,
architect, inventor and author*

Where did you come by the words "livingry" and "killingry"?—L. L. S., Chicago, Ill.

● There is a word, "weaponry," covering lethal weapons of humanity. I found no word covering the inventions in support of human living, so invented the word livingry. I also invented the word killingry as the negative of livingry, feeling that the word killingry is a little more dramatic than weaponry—it makes the idea of arms manufacture a little less attractive.

U.S. Medical Care: What's Wrong?

Dr. and Mrs. Frank G. Slaughter in the garden of their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

With 52 published books, all but five of them novels, and sales of over 50 million copies in 20 countries, Dr. Frank G. Slaughter of Jacksonville, Fla., is one of the most prolific authors of our time and probably the most widely known writing doctor in the world. An honor graduate of Duke with an M.D. from Johns Hopkins at 22, he holds the coveted Diploma of the American Board of Surgery, is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the AMA, and was surgical chief for one of the Army's largest hospitals at Camp Kilmer, N.J., during World War II. In his first novel, "That None Should Die"—a world best seller begun in 1938 and published in 1941 by Doubleday—he envisioned universal medical care provided by private group clinics through health insurance for three population groups, as follows:

(A) Low Income Group — Medical care taken care of by local and state governments by paying the clinics at average cost rates for each patient treated . . . (B) Medium Income Group —eligible for a system of health insurance collected from their incomes (as in a tax) and turned over to an insurance commission in each state . . . (C) High Income Group—will receive whatever accommodations they wish to pay for at the clinics. The patient may arrange insurance himself. Dr. Slaughter's newest novel, "Convention M.D.," will be published by Pocket Books in October.

In the third quarter of the twentieth century, medical science in America has reached a peak of quality never before attained by any country. Characteristically, too, we spend far more on health than any nation, roughly $83 billion in 1972, or 7.6 percent of the Gross National Product. With that, plus a standard of living unequaled in history, we should be the healthiest nation on earth. Yet judged by nearly a dozen indexes, the U.S. ranks below many nations that spend less than five percent of their GNP on keeping well.

What's wrong with America's health-care delivery system? A lot of people are asking that question. Fortunately some have not only diagnosed the trouble but also prescribed a promising form of treatment.

The ideal goal of a medical-care delivery system has been described by Dr. William G. Anlyan of Duke University as "medical care within a maximum of one-hour availability for every American." The record of the present non-system is far below this ideal, however, and since the Depression, commission after commission, both private and governmental, has sought ways to improve it. Almost all came up with the same answer: The product is superb, but the delivery vehicle is a one-horse shay that has changed but little—and not all of that for the better—since Colonial days.

The answer to the basic problem of medical-care delivery was blueprinted 35 years ago by this author in a novel called "That None Should Die," and it was blueprinted again in mid-April of this year by the prestigious Committee for Economic Development in a report titled "Building a National Health Care System."

Briefly stated, here are the problems:

- The U.S. is saddled with too many hospital beds that aren't needed, but has too few doctors to serve the beds that are necessary.
- Too many scalpel-happy surgeons are charging high fees for operations that aren't necessary.
- Too many doctors have located themselves in cities where they aren't needed but where the financial rewards are very good indeed, and too few live in other places where the pay is low but the opportunity to save lives and alleviate human misery is unlimited.
- Too many days of unnecessary hospitalization have increased health-insurance rates but done little to increase the availability and the quality of vital emergency care—the kind of care that gives serious-accident patients from the nation's highways less chance of survival than were given to a soldier wounded in Vietnam.

Traditionally, medicine in the U.S. has always been, and still is to a large degree, a "cottage industry." "Solo practice," "free-choice-of-physician" and "fee-for-service," the cornerstones of this long-since-antiquated structure, have become millstones, threatening to drown the nation's third largest industry in a flood of exorbitant cost, inefficiency, over-duplication of services and wasteful use of both manpower and equipment.

Strong words? Yes. But no stronger than the medicine needed to cure a sick medical-care delivery system.

Doctors have their share of blame but much of the waste and inefficiency in the national medical-care structure can be laid at the door of American hospitals. By the 1960's there were already enough hospital beds to care for every U.S. citizen who needed hospitalization. The generosity of the federal government through the Hill-Burton Act and the desire of congressmen to see that each one's district got a lion's share, however, caused America to be dotted with hospitals—enough hospitals to hold five people per 1,000 population by 1970. Actual occupancy is 3.3 persons per 1,000. Even worse from the standpoint of medical-care efficiency, hospitals today tend to compete with each other, often ruinously, by putting in equipment that is rarely used and then not always properly.

> "The cornerstones of this long-since-antiquated structure have become millstones, threatening to drown the nation's third largest industry in a flood of exorbitant cost."

The Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease Resources found in a recent study that for professional staffs to maintain their skills, a hospital should be used for no fewer than four to six open-heart operations a week. Yet hospital after hospital over the country has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on equipment for open-heart surgery, deep X-ray and cobalt-therapy machines, scanning units for nuclear medicine, and other sophisticated instruments. The truth is that one center could handle all the traffic for that area. In fact, if the average businessman ran his business as the community hospital is run, he'd go bankrupt.

Still another area of unnecessary expense and, deplorably, sometimes unnecessary death, is the operating room, the heart of any hospital. A long list of operations is posted every day but nobody asks if a particular operation is necessary, probably because between one-fourth and one-half of them are not. Only after a patient has died does the Death Committee, which all hospitals should have, try to fix the blame.

Do you doubt me? Then listen to this. English cities average roughly half the number of surgeons that are found in American cities of the same size, yet the quality of English medicine is widely acclaimed. In the Kaiser Foundation prepayment group clinics, the largest of the type in this country, roughly half as many operations are performed as in the average community hospital in the same area. And when the United Mine Workers instituted a prepayment health-insurance system with "fee-for-service," the union was flooded with bills for elective operations—until a requirement was added that every pre-operative diagnosis must be confirmed by world-renowned master engraver H. Alvin Sharpe

PROSPECTOR

The first one-ounce PROOF INGOT ever to be struck by The Hamilton Mint in .999 Pure Silver and Solid 24 Kt. Gold on Pure Silver

This is the first ingot in a dramatic new series—"Profiles of the West"—and only those who subscribe now will have rights to purchase all future issues.

The Hamilton Mint is privileged to offer a rare masterwork of original medallic art, commemorating one of the most familiar figures in American Western folklore. Titled "The Prospector," this is the first ingot ever created by H. Alvin Sharpe, the only master intaglio engraver working actively today.

One of the foremost living engravers, Mr. Sharpe's works are appreciated and eagerly sought after by numismatic collectors worldwide. His international reputation and popularity, coupled with the fact that this is an historic "first" in his long career, will undoubtedly result in an unprecedented demand for "The Prospector" among the thousands of collectors who see this announcement. And only those who act promptly will be able to take advantage of this exclusive opportunity.

An Original Limited Edition Masterpiece

Each proof ingot will be struck directly from the original hand-engraved die, superbly conceived and executed by Mr. Sharpe expressly for The Hamilton Mint. "The Prospector" will be struck in proof finish—the finest quality of minting available—in two strictly limited precious metal editions: just 10,000 ingots in .999 Fine Silver (the purest obtainable), and only 5,000 ingots in Pure 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Silver. Only one individual proof ingot will be minted per customer, and once these limited editions are fully subscribed, Mr. Sharpe's original die will be donated to a leading museum of Western art for permanent exhibition. Because medallic works of art created by Mr. Sharpe and The Hamilton Mint are in constant demand by collectors all over the world, it is imperative that you order today—to insure yourself an opportunity to obtain this first ingot and the charter subscriber option to secure the others to follow in this series. "The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost.

Guaranteed Purchase Price

As a subscriber, your ingot will be struck exclusively for you, and will be accompanied by a signed Certificate of Authenticity from The Hamilton Mint attesting to its limited-edition status. Despite the fact that prices of silver and gold have doubled in the last few years in the International Metals Market—and will continue to soar, according to leading economists—The Hamilton Mint has established a guaranteed purchase price of just $10.00 for the .999 Pure Silver ingot, and just $17.50 for the 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Silver ingot . . . and because The Hamilton Mint has committed for a sufficient quantity of Silver and Gold in the current market to fully cover each subscription, these prices will also be maintained for the remaining ingots in the "Profiles of the West" series.

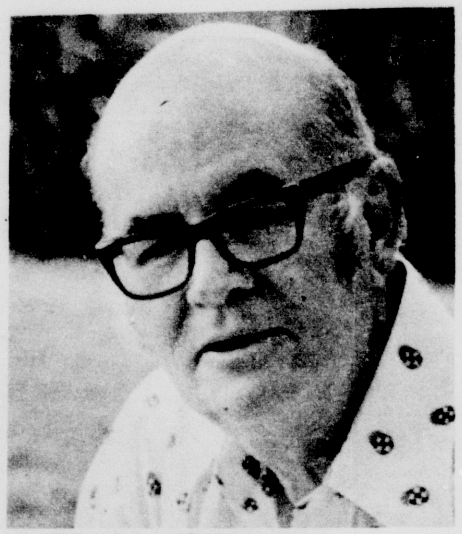
Please act promptly. Once the total number of ingots in "The Prospector" issue have been subscribed, no further applications can be accepted by the Mint. Because of the enormous anticipated demand on the part of collectors for Alvin Sharpe's work, we urge that you complete and return the subscription form today in order to avoid disappointment!

INCLUDED FREE

"The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost. Your pouch serves to protect the ingot against damage as well as providing you with the same type of authentic container for valuable silver and gold as used by the original Prospector's of the old west.

U.S. Medical Care: What's Wrong?

Continued



Dr. Slaughter: "Groups are increasing rapidly, from 400 in 1946 to 6,300 in June, 1973, a clear trend that will no doubt accelerate."

by another physician. After that here's what happened: Hemorrhoidectomies dropped 35 percent, appendectomies 60 percent, and hysterectomies 75 percent. At the average community hospital in the average American town, the only license a doctor needs to operate is a license to practice medicine.

Besides sending patients to hospitals more often than they should, many doctors also allow them to be kept there longer than is necessary, increasing substantially the already exorbitant cost of medical care. On a typical day in 1970, 3.3 persons per 1,000, roughly 600,000 persons all told, were hospitalized, at an average cost in 1970 (higher now) of $81.01 for the day. But if each of those patients had been discharged one day earlier—as is the case in Kaiser Foundation hospitals—the saving in medical-care cost would have been over $48 million.

Does America need to spend more money on health care, as several bills before Congress propose? The evidence says not.

The annual bill of $88 billion for medical care of all kinds adds up to about $400 per person, $1,200 for a family of three. Yet the Johns Hopkins Institutions are providing care of the highest quality to the residents of Columbia, Md. This is done through a prepaid university group clinic—at a cost of $65.55 per month for a family of three or $786.60 a year. This figure is only about two-thirds of the present per capita national expense for health care and disease prevention. The truth is that Americans are already spending too much for medical care and getting too little for their money. Moreover, the man in the street is beginning to realize this bitter truth.

National polls taken in 1971 and 1972 showed that three out of every four people were dissatisfied with the present system, although out of a total 1970 census of roughly 205 million, 181.5 million are covered by some form of medical insurance. Polls and most analytical studies also show that the health-insurance-buying public prefers group medical practice to solo practice. So it isn't surprising that groups are increasing rapidly, from 400 in 1946 to 6,300 in June, 1973, a clear trend that will no doubt accelerate.

Most people polled also said they wanted a doctor of their own at the clinic that took care of them. The number of doctors who are listed as general practitioners declined from 66.10 percent in 1940 to 16.3 percent in 1970. But in the ideal clinic, each subscriber's family is assigned to a family-practice physician designated as a "Primary Health Care Agent." And since about 75 percent of the subscriber complaints can be handled on an ambulatory basis by this specially trained physician, the medical-care system could thus be streamlined remarkably. Then the 25 percent who have more serious complaints can be directed to the specialist—usually in the same building—best able to treat them.

The clinic family-practice physician can fill an even greater need, too, by virtue of his training in the science of "predictive medicine." A color photograph of the eye, magnified 200 times, not only reveals arteriosclerosis and impending glaucoma but can identify a tendency toward diabetes as much as ten years before a coronary attack develops, and the new science can also discover many other possible causes of later disability.

Yes, the medical-care delivery system is sick with a chronic illness of long standing, but the diagnosis is clear now. And since they are the very heart of the system, it behooves the doctors of America to present a new application of Luke 4:25, "Physician, heal thyself."

KRAFT

Squeeze it for speed and convenience in the kitchen. It's great for cooking. For sautéing, basting, measuring.

Squeeze it because it's high in polyunsaturates. If you're on a low cholesterol diet, Squeeze Parkay really makes sense.

Or, just maybe, squeeze it because you like to squeeze it.

Super Solutions For Bedrooms and Family Rooms

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya looks at two very important parts of the house. She says, "Although we spend a third of our lives in bedrooms, they always seem to be the rooms we decorate last. And as for family rooms, too often they're still a junk depot for furnishings that have lost favor in other rooms." How to change all that, and not have it cost a fortune? Study these room settings.

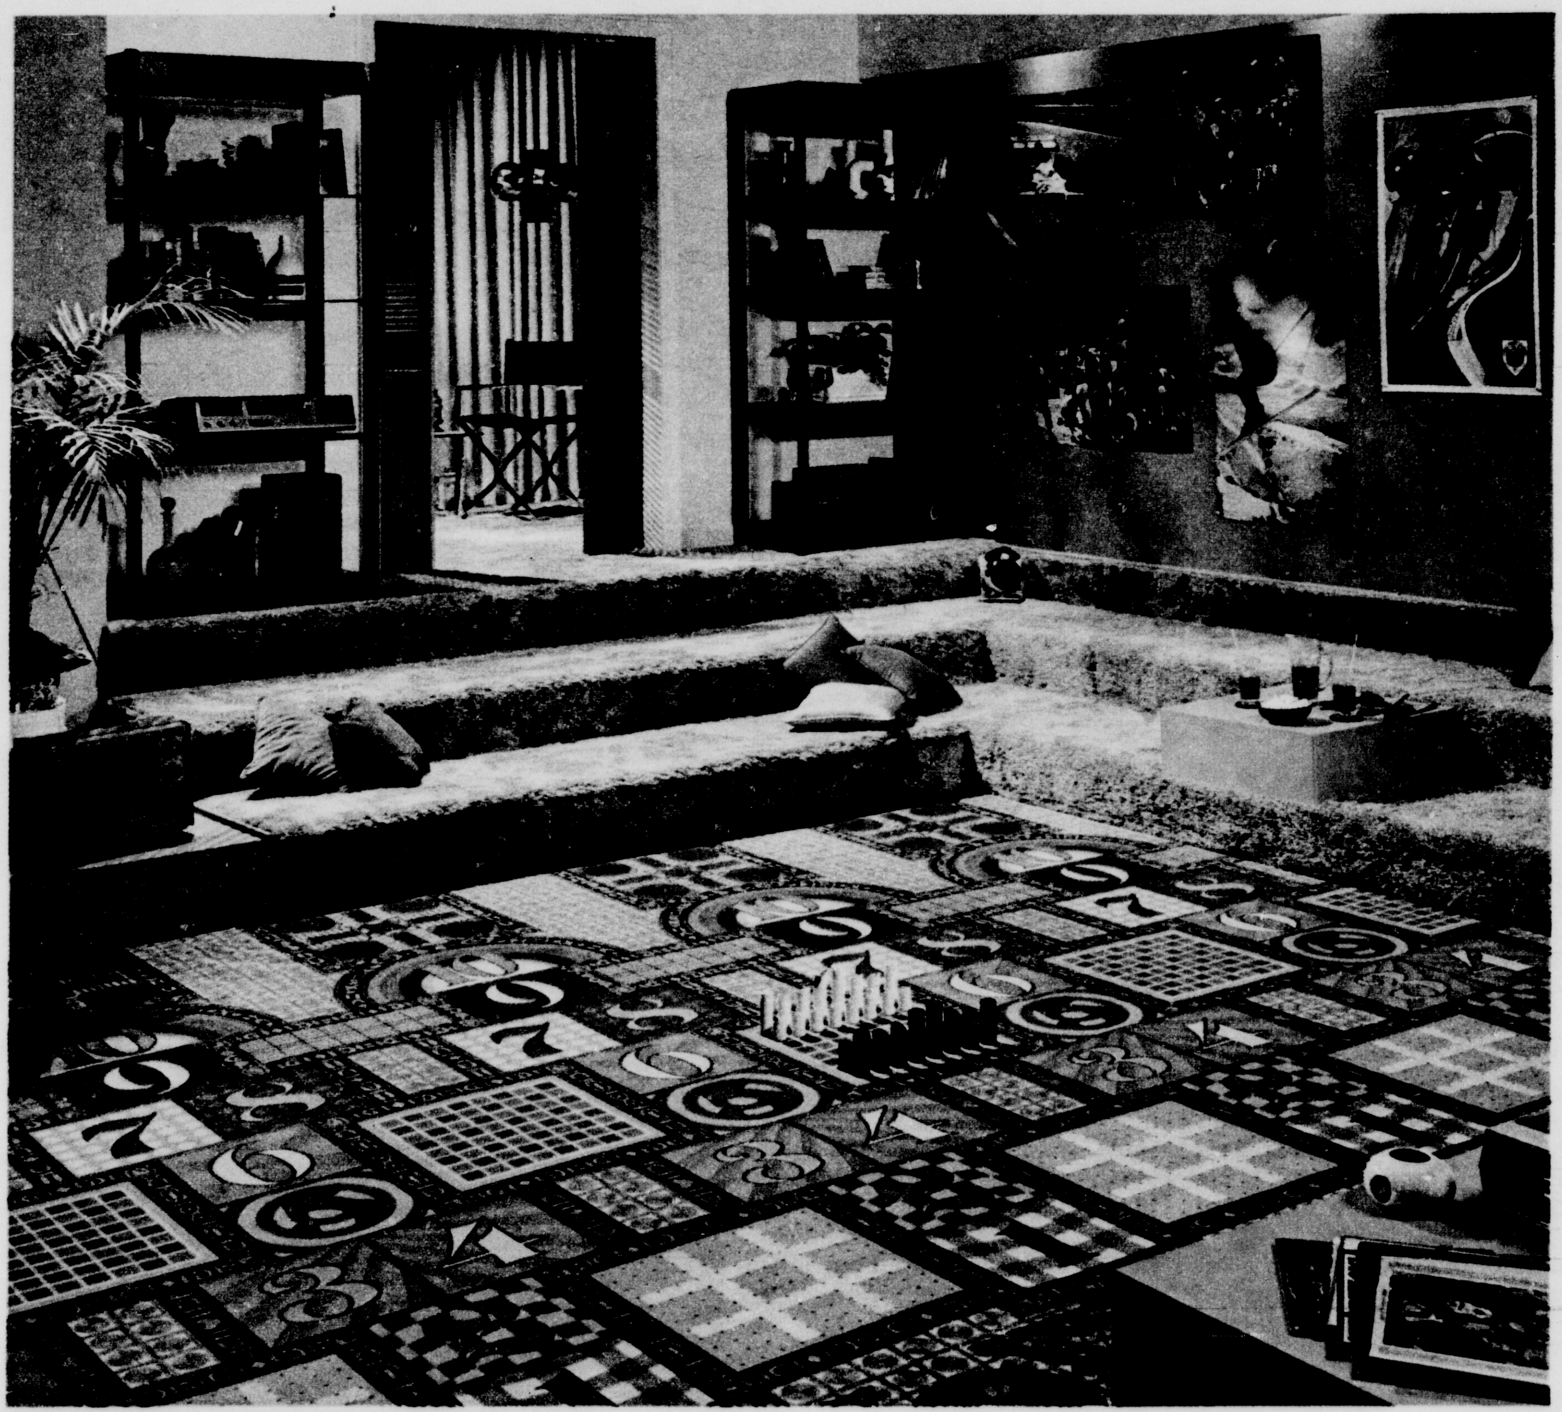
Solution: Bedroom as a Retreat

This kind of room, which invites you to shut out the world, is a well-functioning entity. The bed, outfitted with a Simmons mattress, is tucked under a wall-hung upholstered headboard. The floor-to-ceiling units house stereo speakers or provide storage. Decorative catalysts: the bold meld of flower-printed fabric by Bloomcraft and Wunda Weave nylon carpeting, both Scotchgarded. Stereo by Magnavox. At the window: hairpin-lace Roman shades you can make yourself. Send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope with 25 cents in coin to: Coats and Clark, Inc., Box 495, Dept. FW 9-73, Fair Lawn, N.J. 07410.

Solution: Built-In Seating Makes Room for People

Here's a family room where the fun never stops. The carpeted step-up seating eliminates furniture, with the exception of two étagères for stereo equipment and bric-a-brac. The focal point is the printed carpet by Jorges. Used wall-to-wall or as an area rug, it's a board for 16 games, from checkers to backgammon. (A game-components kit, with instructions and pieces, is available where the carpet is purchased.) The rug, of soil-hiding Antron nylon with high-density latex foam-rubber backing, also sets the scene for TV and musical background magic by Magnavox.



Who needs furniture in this bright, come-alive room, a haven for snacking, lounging and games galore?

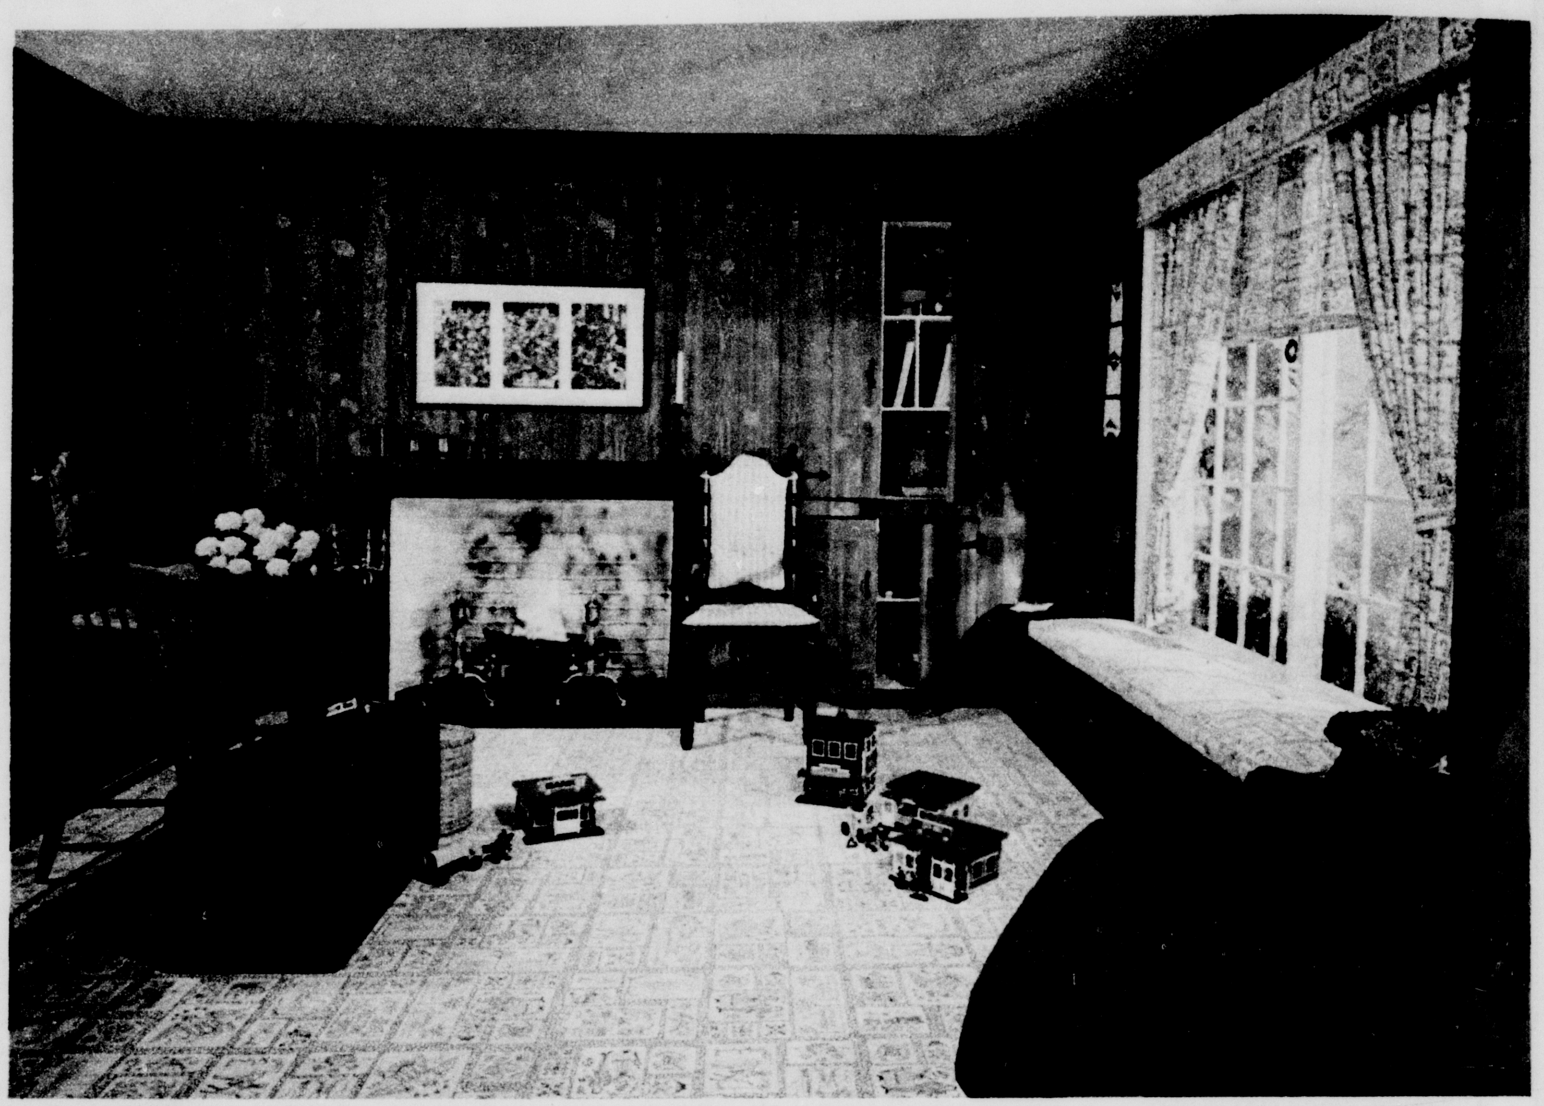
Now—An Elegant Place To Take Off Your Shoes!

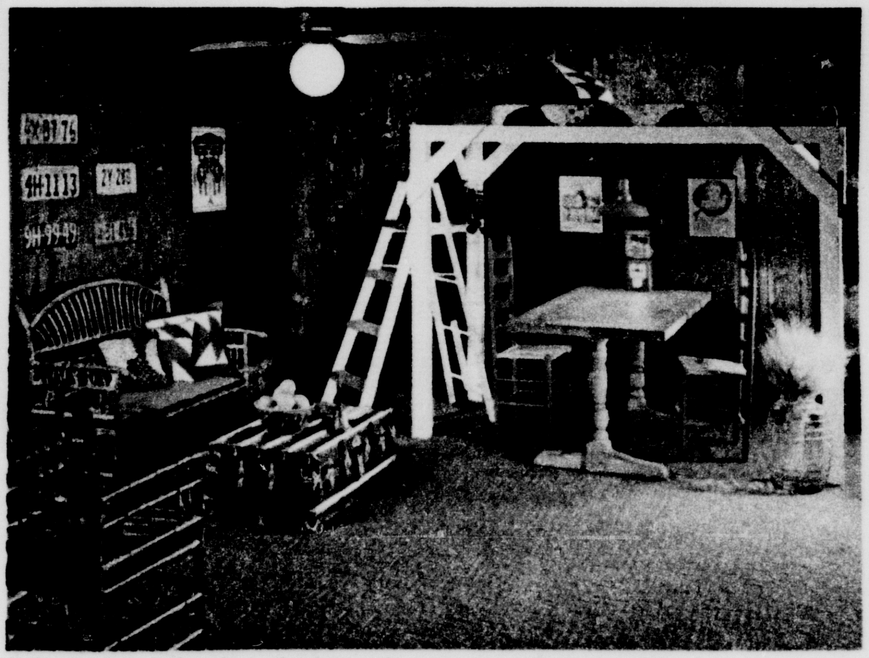
Once called the rec or rumpus room, to which you relegated the kids, and perhaps locked the door in the process, the family room has since come of age. Technology is the reason. Easy-care materials and multipurpose furniture have made possible elegant environments that adults can revel in. Ideally, a family room should be a spot not only for music-listening, TV-watching or hobby work, but be a successful entertaining room. Its design should be cheerful, versatile in function, easy to keep orderly and comfortable. It also can give family members a chance to express their personalities—by displaying artwork, other hobby creations or personal sports pictures and trophies.



Design a convertible family room that's all fun and function—with easy-to-move-aside furnishings for more floor space.

Solution: Room for All Ages

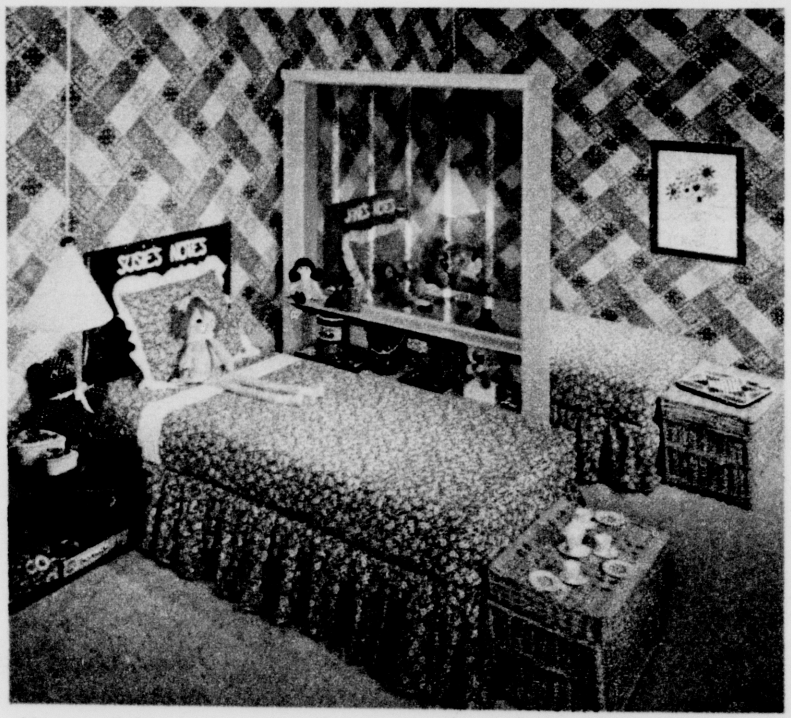
For those who are not inclined to have a separate family room, why not revamp the living room into a multipurpose area to serve all generations equally? As a playroom, games pull out of storage built into textured Masonite wall paneling. Durable vinyl asbestos tile flooring, "American Sampler" by GAF Corporation, resists paints, crayons, even scuff marks. When adults get priority, Monopoly makes way for TV or chess. Light, easy-to-move furniture regroups for charades, sweeps away for dancing. Remodeling of this 12' x16' room (for four paneled walls, new floor and matching fabric) was under $200. Room designed by Edmund Motyka.



Let your teenager plan a bedroom for more than just sleeping.

Solution: A Living/Sleeping/Dining Environment

A teenager who wants room to entertain friends in his own quarters might choose to have his bed built aloft. This practical project is simply a sophisticated version of the bunk bed. (Restless sleepers should not overlook adding a removable side railing or panel.) The room's "early attic" charm blends a butcher block table, rattan furniture and a well-traveled trunk. Nostalgic barn-siding paneling by Evans shows off a series of old advertisements and a collection of license plates. The richly colored carpeting is of Enkaloft filament nylon from Jorges.



How to divide a room for kids who have to share it.

Solution: Privacy with a Colorful Divider

The pot on the left has the remains of the morning's oatmeal.

The unretouched picture on the right is the same pot after it has been scrubbed with the brushless water action of one of our Potscrubber dishwashers with Power Scrub™ Cycle. Nothing else was done to this pot. No prescraping. No rinsing. We washed it along with a full load of 88 other dirty dishes, glasses and silverware.

You'll get the same results as we have if you'll follow our simple loading diagrams for different sizes and types of loads.

That's why we can give this guarantee:

"Buy any one of our Potscrubber* dishwashers with a Power Scrub Cycle from a participating GE dealer before December 31, 1973. If you're not fully satisfied with its performance (and you'll be the judge) notify the dealer within 30 days of your purchase. He'll take back the dishwasher and refund your money. No questions asked."

In addition to pots and pans, you can also safely wash fine china and crystal.

We make a line of Potscrubber models to fit into a lot of different kitchens. Three built-ins. Three front-load convertibles, portable now, can be built in later.

These are some of the reasons why more people use GE dishwashers than any others.

We also have a quality feature just as dependable as our Potscrubber.

CUSTOMER CARE... SERVICE EVERYWHERE

Customer Care... Service Everywhere.™ This is our pledge that wherever you are, or go, in the U.S.A., you'll find a qualified GE serviceman nearby. Should you ever need him.

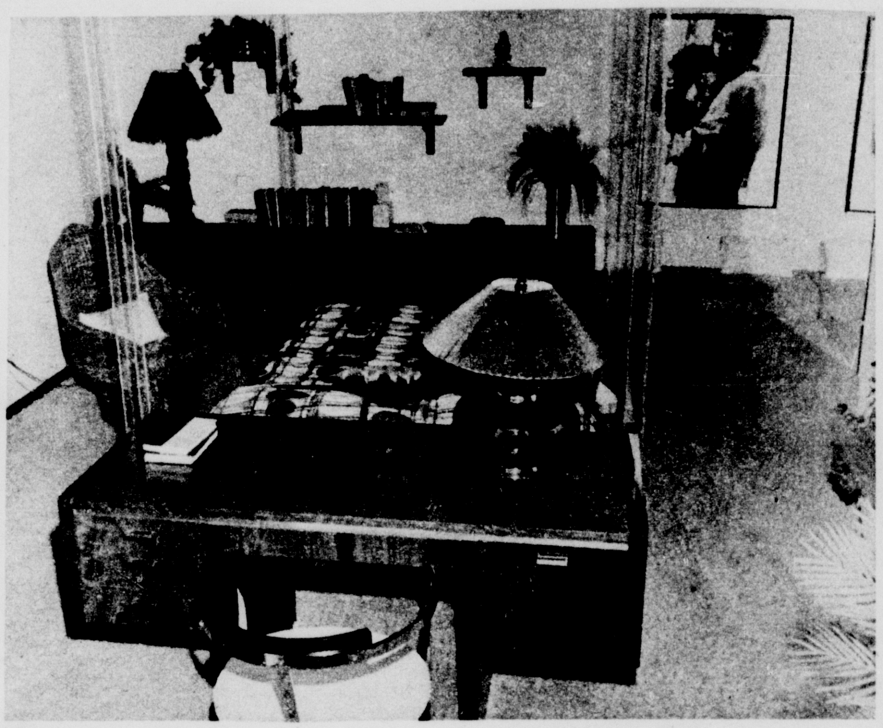
Wake Up to These Bedrooms!



Rules are meant to be broken—as in placing a bed in the center of the room.

Solution: A New Place to Put the Bed

A four-poster bed in the middle of the floor? Why not, when it frees the space around you. Designer Carol Jensen—in one of the model homes in Palm Coast, a new development in northeastern Florida—departs from the traditional approach of positioning the bed against the wall in this 14′x17′ bedroom. The Lucite posts in a canopy frame make the bed a conversation piece—while a desk is utilized as the headboard. In the far-right corner, a cozy reading nook is established with two carpeted steps shown at right angles to the mirror.

The bedroom is a room apart—private, designed for the relaxing, quiet pleasures of reading or listening to music. Bedrooms can be among the most attractive rooms in the house, but too often they are left to the last in decorating because of the idea that guests are not likely to see them. But we spend one-third of our lives in our bedrooms, and they should offer the most in physical comfort and visual charm, according to the individual tastes of their occupants.

If the room is shared by husband and wife, choose a color scheme both can live with. Arrange the furniture to make sleep restful: If you can't stand a trace of light, try not to have the bed face a window. Plan to include a comfortable chair, a good reading light, bedside tables of adequate size—within easy reach.

Colors in the bedroom can be lighter, more delicate, since traffic is minimal. The decor may be highly personal, even a bit fanciful. A special touch of drama is added to the master bedroom when the bed is king-size (besides the enormously added comfort) or a four-poster with modern or traditional leanings.

Don't overlook the importance of good-quality bedding. It's like trying on shoes. The only way to judge is to lie down and stretch out on the mattress—right in the store.

If you're thinking of revamping your bedroom and tossing out some pieces, or starting from scratch, you have other options besides buying a matching "set." There are many dresser and nightstand substitutes to be discovered in campaign chests and armoires, étagères, semainiers (seven-drawer chests) and other case goods, such as wicker or a painted piece, that provide ample storage space and more character.

In determining how to outfit the children's room, your surest bet (if they're at least age six) is to listen

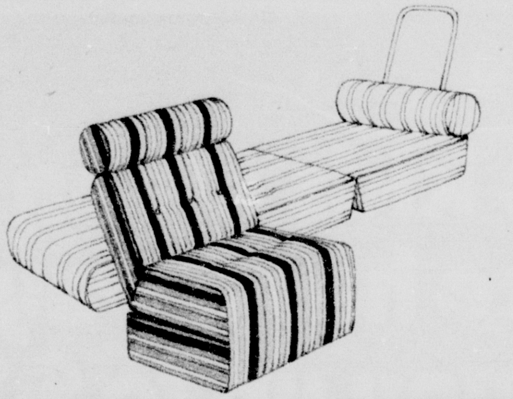
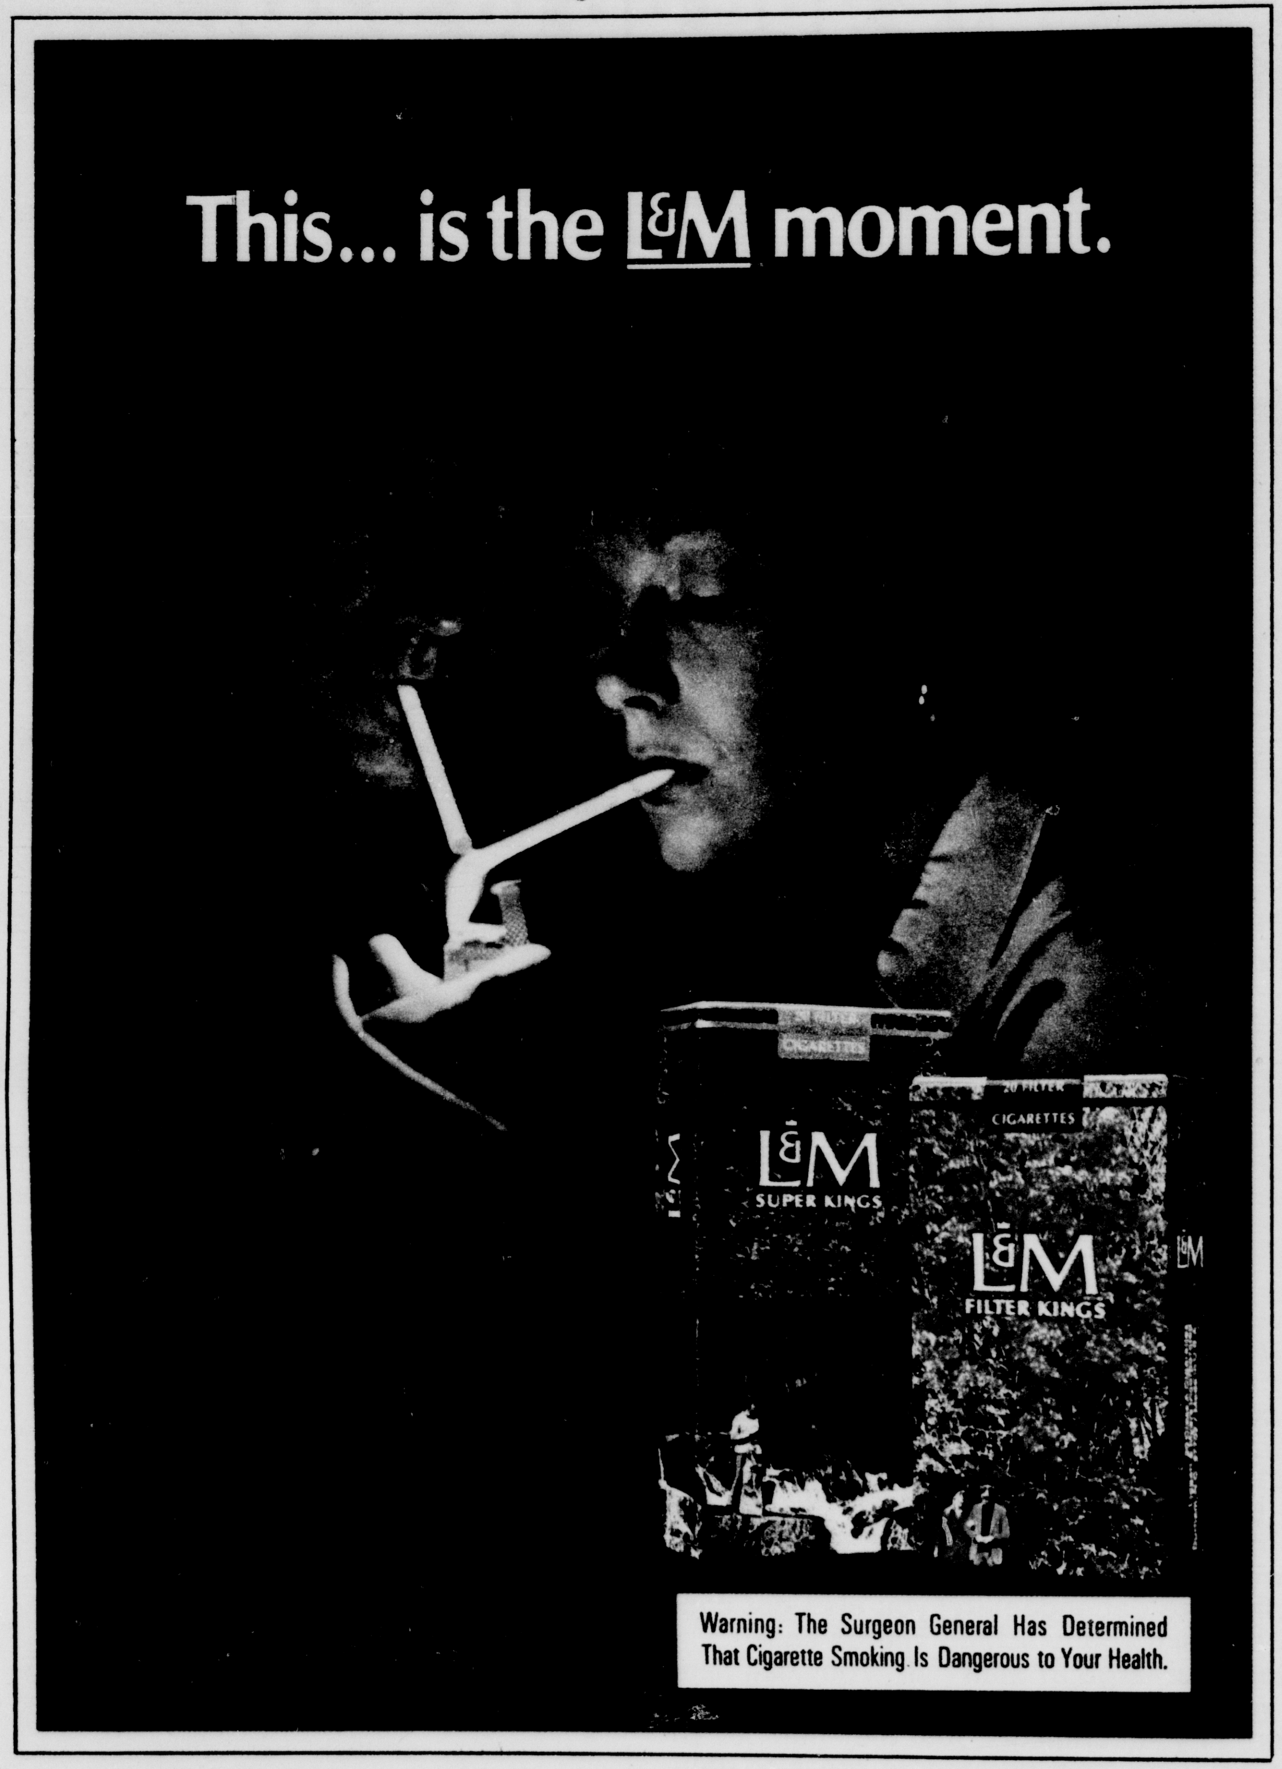
Good Buys for Your Home

Settle back. This is an armchair guide to some of the best buys you will find in home furnishings this season. What is a "best buy"? We believe it's money well spent for what you get in return, not calculated on price alone. Whether you're looking for occasional furniture, an accessory, or a major piece, FAMILY WEEKLY's experts have culled the market for you, presenting the best in each category.

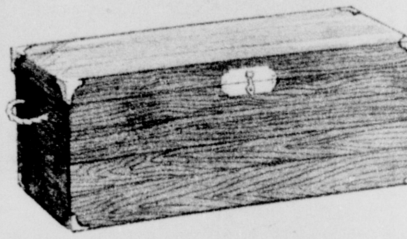


It Leads a Double Life

This versatile chair-bed is a boon for the unexpected overnight guest or when the children want to have their friends sleep over. Folded up, the contemporary chair—with its foam inner core—provides ample seating and is lightweight enough to move about for conversational regrouping. Folded down, the pillow headrest adjusts automatically on the chrome frame to convert into a comfortable daybed. "Nap-Sack" by Domani. Under $130.

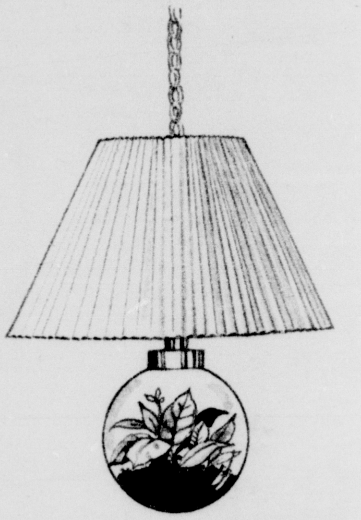


Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.



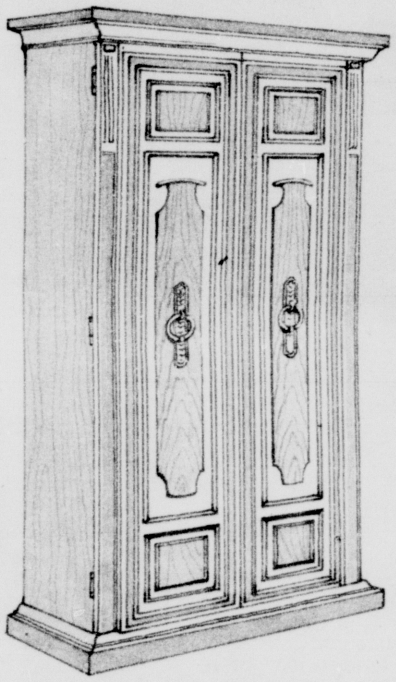
Sea Captain's Chest

Why not a chest as a coffee table or at the foot of the bed, like this design adaptation of an old sea captain's chest? It's pine finished on pine veneers and solids with brass-tipped corners and latch, and authentic rope pulls. Its interior is finely finished. Bassett. Under $130.



Terrarium Lamp

Why didn't someone think of this before? An enclosed planter benefits from the light of this smartly designed lamp, topped with a white pleated-vinyl shade. Each unit comes complete with a booklet of instructions, a two-quart Black Magic dry-planter mix, a bag of charcoal for drainage and decorative white gravel. Watering is at a minimum. Sunset Lamps. About $40.



Storage Solved with Style

Knights of old had their storage problems, too. The armoire was originally designed as a cabinet to house their armor. This trimmer style, rescaled for modern-day living, is fitted with two large shelves (one of which has a removable center divider to accommodate a TV set or stereo), three shirt compartments and two tray drawers. It's ideal as a bedroom unit or for linens in the hall. It measures 40"x 20"x70", and is available in a sable tone or antique white with umber and salmon striping. Basic-Witz. Approximately $288.

Elegantly Appointed

The classic tufted Tuxedo sofa is one of today's most wanted styles because it mixes so well with other furnishings. Traditionally it is covered in leather or suede, making its cost prohibitive. This version, 92 inches long, with luxuriously tufted seat and back and deep cushioned arms, is made in easy-care vinyl. (A love seat, 67½ inches long, is also available.) Berkline. About $385.

to their ideas. Children are less interested in how the room looks as a whole and more interested in how each part works. For example, a teenage girl will almost invariably ask for a bed that can be set against a wall, with bolsters and pillows to convert it into a sofa so she can entertain her friends. Do remember children's needs change rapidly. If you're careful and use a little sophistication in the basic color and design treatments for their rooms, you'll avoid a yearly redecorating problem.

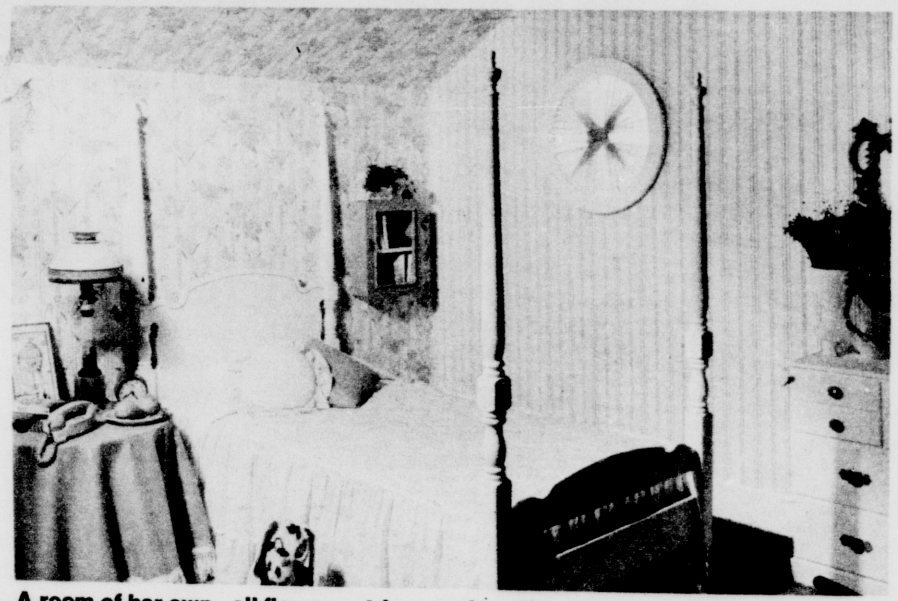
Solution: Mix Bold Patterns with Quiet Textures

A conventional master bedroom charges to life with the addition of striking geometrics—not wall covering, but sheets stapled to the walls! Further catalysts: coordinated window shades, a solid-color textured rug and sleek, low bedroom furniture of vinyl veneer laminate around recycled wood particleboard. The stain- and heat-resistant furniture is by Sierra Permaneer. The sheets and bedspread are designed by Yves St. Laurent for Fieldcrest.



A room of her own—all flowers, stripes and eyelet—carved out of the attic.

Solution: Create a Room at the Top

To a teenager, a bedroom of her own is a necessity—even if just to keep the tranquillity for the rest of the family. This airy attic is a colorful, yet practical, niche, whose design aim is to work with the architecture of the room, not to camouflage it. Birge fabric-backed vinyl wall covering is easily installed up one wall and over the ceiling to balance the adjacent stripe. This pattern is strippable to accommodate teenagers' changing whims, scrubbable to compensate for grimy fingers. Do-it-yourself bull's-eye window is of sheer fabric stapled into place and fastened with a velvet bow.

In the following two months you will receive your second and third sets of recipe cards for the same low price of just $1.00 each plus postage, handling, and local tax. If you are completely satisfied, you will thereafter receive three sets of recipe cards a month for the next seven months, until your 24-set library is complete. You will always be billed at the same low price of $1.00 per set plus postage, handling, and local tax, and the sets are in every case sent to you on approval. You may also cancel the entire arrangement at any time. When your Betty Crocker Recipe Card Library is complete, you will have more than 1,000 recipes at your fingertips to meet every home and entertainment need.

Offer may not be repeated this season in this publication.
Offer limited to one per household. Available in Canada—priced slightly higher.

Gloria's Easy Company Chicken Wings*
Hot Buttered Corn on the Cob
Tossed Green Salad with Tomato and Avocado
Old Fashioned Biscuits
Butter or Margarine
Simple Cheese Tarts*
Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

GLORIA'S EASY COMPANY CHICKEN WINGS

- ½ teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 teaspoon instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 cup (2 sticks) margarine, melted
- 1 box (8 ozs.) salted cheese crackers, finely crushed
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 3½ lbs. chicken wings

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Line two shallow 15x10½x1-inch pans with aluminum foil.

2. Stir garlic powder, instant minced onion and paprika into melted margarine.

3. Combine cheese cracker crumbs, salt and pepper in heavy paper bag.

4. Dip chicken wings first in margarine mixture, then in cheese cracker crumbs, coating completely.

5. Place chicken wings on prepared baking pans and bake for 40-45 minutes, until golden brown.

Makes 6-8 servings

SIMPLE CHEESE TARTS

- 1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 12 vanilla wafers
- 1 can (21 ozs.) cherry, pineapple, blueberry or peach pie filling

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Line 12 medium-size cupcake cups with fluted paper baking cups.

2. In medium bowl with electric mixer blend cream cheese, sugar and eggs. Beat well.

3. Place a vanilla wafer in bottom of each paper cake cup. Fill each with about 2 tablespoons cheese filling. Bake 10-12 minutes. Filling will be firm.

4. Cool for 45 minutes on rack. Spoon pie filling on top of each tart. Refrigerate.

Makes 12 tarts

Why do you smoke?

With what you've been hearing about smoking these days, you probably wonder sometimes why you smoke at all.

Yet you enjoy it.

And the chances are you don't want to give up any of that.

Which brings us to Vantage.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who don't entertain the idea of giving up cigarettes because they find cigarettes too entertaining.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who have come to realize that most cigarettes that give them the flavor they want also give them a lot of the 'tar' and the nicotine that they may not want.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who've found that most low 'tar' cigarettes don't give them anything at all.

The thing that makes Vantage special is that its filter is based on a new design concept that gives smokers the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine.

Now we don't want to suggest that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find.

It isn't.

But it sure is the lowest one that will give you enjoyment.

And that's why you smoke. Right?

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Barbara Rush: "I've Always Wanted to Be Independent!"

"I don't think I suffered any more than any other girl, but I have been hungry and I have had to work."

Barbara Rush: "I don't spend in a whole year what I used to spend on one dress . . ."

We met at her elegantly furnished Beverly Hills home. She looked as beautiful as she did when she first came to a dinner party at my house 20 years ago. Her life has never been easy; she's now married to her third husband. And she's never really made it to the top of her profession, never quite reached stardom. Yet she seemed better adjusted than most women in Hollywood.

Family Weekly: You have worked with some of the top names in films, and you have a reputation for being one of the most competent actresses in Hollywood – yet you've never really been a star. Do you mind?

BARBARA: No, I don't. In this business it's the breaks that count. I still don't know why some girls become stars and some don't. Besides, I like the English approach, where Laurence Olivier doesn't mind doing bit parts. He once said there is no such thing as small roles, only small actors. What's more, I prefer television to the movies nowadays. I make more money doing guest shots and leads in TV films than most movie actresses do.

FW: What do you look for in a movie script?

BARBARA: One good scene. Or at least one really good moment. I call it the magic moment –that one scene, no matter how brief, that I can do something with. Which is why I took the lead in Disney's "A Son-In-Law for Charlie McCready." It has what I was talking about. In fact, it offers more than one good moment.

FW: How many children do you have?

BARBARA: Two. My son Christopher, who is 22, from my marriage to Jeff [the late actor Jeffrey Hunter] and Claudia Lynn, who is 11, from my marriage to Warren [publicist Warren Cowan].

FW: Do they live with you?

BARBARA: My son doesn't–he goes to school and works in a restaurant, and occasionally comes to see his mother! Economically he is very independent. He doesn't want anything from me.

FW: Did he inherit this independence from you?

BARBARA: Certainly. I've always wanted to be independent! I think every woman should be.

FW: When did you first feel that way?

BARBARA: It dates back to my childhood. I don't think I suffered any more than any other girl, but I have been hungry and I have had to work. The one thing my father insisted on was that I get a good practical education, which included shorthand and typing. My father taught me to be self-reliant. And I agree with him. That's all that you really have in life–yourself.

FW: Have you had to rely on yourself through your life?

BARBARA: A good part of it. Like when I went to college, I worked for a lumber company, a real estate company, and a lemon-packing company in Carpenteria..

FW: Did you have to pay your own way through college?

BARBARA: Sort of. I had a scholarship to the Pasadena Playhouse that took care of my tuition and books only. For room and board I lived with a doctor's family and took care of their baby. The Playhouse gave me five dollars a week for clothing and sundries. I learned to survive on breakfast and dinner, and walked three miles each way from home to the Playhouse to save on carfare.

FW: You are married now to sculptor James Gruzalski. Have three marriages disillusioned you about marriage, or the way of life in Hollywood?

BARBARA: I don't even know what the Hollywood way of life is. I suppose it is parties, seeing

If you use a laxative more than once a week...

Here's real relief from constipation

If you've been taking magnesia, salts, oils or harsh chemical laxatives once a week or more and you're still not satisfied–here's a better way to end constipation worries. Take gentle, effective Serutan. It's different!

Unlike other laxatives that may cause irritation or griping, Serutan, taken daily, forms a soft gel which moistens food wastes and shapes them into a well-formed stool. Serutan produces the proper amount of bulk needed to help bring peristaltic stimulation to your sluggish colon. This is utterly different than forcing your system with harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out. You can take gentle Serutan every day because it is a pure vegetable hydrogel and contains no harsh roughage, no chemical laxatives. Take Serutan every day to get regular–and keep regular.

Delicious Fruit Flavor

Serutan is available in delicious fruit flavor. Get Serutan fruit flavor or unflavored powder, or toasted granules. When you read Serutan backwards, it spells "natures." And nature's way is best.

At Last! A Record & Tape Club With No "Obligations" —Only Benefits

Other record and tape clubs make you choose from just a few labels. They make you buy up to 12 records or tapes a year. And if you don't return their monthly IBM cards, they send you an item you don't want and a bill for up to $8.38! But Record Club of America has BANISHED AUTOMATIC SHIPMENTS FOREVER. You get only what you want . . . when you want it. And because we are NOT OWNED . . . NOT SUBSIDIZED . . . NOT CONTROLLED by any record or tape manufacturer anywhere, you always get the world's lowest prices on records and tapes of ALL LABELS.

Incredible Introductory Offer

Yes, now you can take your choice of any 6 Stereo LPs or any 5 Stereo Tape Cartridges or Cassettes shown here—worth up to $36.88—for just 99c (plus the Club's standard mailing and handling fee) when you join at the low $5 Lifetime Membership fee. That's right, you get any 6 LPs or any 5 Tapes shown here plus Lifetime Membership (never pay another Club fee) with absolutely NO OBLIGATION TO BUY ANYTHING EVER! And this is just an introduction to the kind of Giant Savings Club members enjoy everyday on records and tapes of ALL LABELS. You can cash in on the same Giant Savings—GUARANTEED DISCOUNTS UP TO 81%—the instant you join.

Get LPs On All Labels For $1.69 Or Less . . . Tapes $1.99

Receive with your Special Introductory recordings incredible "BUY 1, GET 2 FREE" offer on 100's more Top Hit LPs and Tapes! New super-discount FREE or Dividend offer every 28 days. the same people over and over again. If it is, I don't do that any more. I used to, when I was married to Warren. Today I have a much more normal family life—like baseball games, and football, movies and friends. I work hard, and I like to look at television. I enjoyed the Watergate coverage, for instance.

FW: Do you still believe in marriage?

BARBARA: Not any more. I think a lot of the new ideas are sensible. The time when a woman should be married by age 23 is over. I think the final emancipation of women has come.

FW: What happens to the woman who has children?

BARBARA: I think the social pressure is off that as well. It's healthy. I know a lot of normal men who have never married, and today there are a lot of normal women who don't want to get married either.

FW: Do you think this emancipation is based on sexual liberation only?

BARBARA: No. I think it has a great deal to do with economics. Today a woman can support herself. Even getting married to give a child a name is gone, as far as I am concerned. It is interesting to see how many fathers are raising children as well.

FW: Then what do you think is the important thing in life today?

BARBARA: To grow, to develop. You don't stop when you are 20.

FW: And how do you go about that?

BARBARA: By reading. By educating yourself. By becoming more tolerant of other people. A lot of my friends have stopped doing that, which is one reason I don't like to see them any more. That is also the reason I'd always like to act—to get better in what I like to do, what I think I am good at. I am very lucky to have a job I really enjoy. Everything else, like clothes, cooking, is just a hobby. If I had a choice, next to acting the most important things would be reading and music.

FW: You once said that this was not a time to raise children. What did you mean by that?

BARBARA: The family unit is so split today, it is hard for parents to control their children. There are too many outside pressures. When I grew up, the kids always came along for dinner when the parents were invited. Today this hardly ever happens. The kids have their own activities. A lot of their values have changed. In Beverly Hills it is hard to get them away from a materialistic attitude. And, worst of all, the kids are constantly exposed to drugs.

FW: Did you have a drug problem with your children?

BARBARA: Yes, with my two stepdaughters and my son. But they got over it.

FW: How do you feel about drugs?

BARBARA: I don't approve. As a result, sometimes I've gone to certain parties in Hollywood where I've felt like an outsider. I don't like to see people all spaced out. I think it's a waste of life.

FW: Do you believe in any form of escape?

BARBARA: Not artificial escape. That's why I don't drink or smoke. I have never had a drink in my life.

FW: How do you feel about clothes?

BARBARA: I got them out of my system when I was married to Warren. We used to go to Paris every year and see all of the collections and waste a lot of money. Today I dress simply, comfortably and inexpensively. I don't spend in a whole year what I used to spend on one dress when I was married to Warren.

FW: Is there anything, aside from acting, that you still want to do?

BARBARA: I love traveling. I wanted to become a spokeswoman for Pan Am, but Pan Am decided they didn't need a spokeswoman.

FW: Why was that so appealing?

BARBARA: Because I thought I could travel for nothing, or for a discount.

FW: If you could live your life over again, would you still become an actress?

BARBARA: If I lived my life over, I would become an airline stewardess for a couple of years so I could travel all over the world. But at least in that respect I've been lucky in my career because I've had a chance to travel quite a bit! fw

Death Row

"We have halted capital punishment for even the worst kind of criminal; yet, this year, we will execute 17,000,000 innocent animals whose only crime was being born unwanted."

--Belton P. Mouras

This is the final day. If these pets aren't adopted by four o'clock they will be put-to-sleep . . . forever.

WHY? They're surplus. Excess. They must die by four o'clock because there are more pets than there are homes. Five out of every six puppies and kittens born die in one tragic way or other. MILLIONS are destroyed in pounds; more millions are abandoned to starvation, disease and highway slaughter. And on top of the terrible toll paid in animal life, it costs you, the American taxpayer, $500,000,000 annually just to keep from being overrun by stray cats and dogs.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? Planned pethood. Animal birth control. Until veterinary science discovers a pet "pill," the only sure way to keep pets from breeding unwanted litters is a spaying operation which some people can't afford. There's a desperate need now for low-cost spaying clinics—and accelerated pet contraceptive research.

Something must be done. The consequences of doing nothing are horrifying: bigger-and-bigger pounds to kill more-and-more animals, and restrictive laws banning pets from cities. Who wants to contemplate the future day when pets are outlawed—when man has no other animal companion but himself?

YOU can change this grim forecast. Join us to halt surplus breeding NOW.

It's almost four o'clock.

This child has a devoted mother, good clothes, balanced meals —and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

PETE STRUDWICK
Runner without feet

"I'm the only man alive who has run marathons over mountains . . . and does it without feet!" So says Pete Strudwick, 41, born with stumps for hands and feet as a result of German measles. In his four years of running he has conquered Mt. Kennedy in the Canadian Yukon and Mt. Williamson in California. But his toughest race was up and down Pike's Peak—27 miles of muscle-ripping trail with 15,000 feet of altitude change. One-third of the 229 entrants dropped out. Pete got to the top, but it took him 45 minutes longer than permitted. The judges ruled him ineligible to run back down. Pete argued with them for 20 minutes, and finally just took off, coming in at the finish line after 8 hours and 14 minutes of running. Pete didn't win Pike's Peak, but even in losing, he explains, "Running is an act of living for me. It's kept me from feeling sorry for myself. And this encouragement is what I call out to other runners around me. This reaching out to others has made me stronger."

Are persistently fat women different from other people? According to some studies by the Obesity and Metabolic Research Program of TOPS, a non-profit weight-control organization, they are definitely different. Though they think of themselves as outgoing and sociable, they actually feel lonely and rejected, dissatisfied and tense. Their mothers, they think, are much more productive than they are, yet they seem to reject emulation of their mothers' achievements. Long-term fat women see themselves as quite feminine, but they don't feel attractive to men because of their size. One researcher, Dr. Raymond J. McCall of Marquette University, adds that "often the girls' eating is not so much a response to appetite as a response to emotional tension. They eat to tranquilize themselves." His solution? Physical exercise. "It's just as good a tranquilizer as eating, and, for overweight people, a much healthier one."

MICK JAGGER
Like a very little kid?

The Rolling Stones, close-up: "You felt their isolation; it encircled all of them in a whirl of light and noise. It was like a soreness in the corners of their eyes that made them appear to be in need of coddling, Jagger especially. He always seemed as if just about to cry. Really break down and let loose like a very little kid, and he never really did, and you knew he never would, wouldn't like you seeing him that way, though maybe with his friends he was different, though you doubted that. The only tender moments I observed were between members of the band. Their wives and girl friends were mommies and they treated them accordingly, with distance and contempt. . . . But they seemed to know each other much too well to put up with anything less than respect, regard, and awareness of each other's needs. They shared in an attitude that one notes in convicts or reform school boys." From "Uptight with the Stones," by Richard Elman (Scribners, $5.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

COLLECTING MY WITS

My wife is a splendid accumulator,
In fact, I believe there is no one who's greater.
Some collect stamps, whereas some collect pottery,
Some collect tickets for any old lottery.
Some collect photos to show they've been places.
Some collect paintings, and some collect vases.
My wife collects everything—that includes wrappings,
Old letters and string and all manner of trappings.
With all she collects, our poor home is a clutter,
And I have been known on occasion to mutter.
But wait just a moment, that's not quite correct;
She's not a collector—no, things just collect.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'SERIOUS COMEDY'

Adam's Rib, a sparkling new romantic comedy about present-day marriage airs Fridays at 9:30 PM on ABC. The starring roles of Adam and Amanda Bonner are played by Ken Howard and Blythe Danner, both of whom won Tony Awards in 1970, and who also played husband and wife (Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson) in the film musical "1776."

The half-hour series, which is based on the memorable Metro-Goldwyn Mayer motion picture with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn released in 1949, concerns two attractive and successful young people. They are both attorneys; he is an assistant D.A. and she is a junior partner in a respected law firm. Both Ken and Blythe are great admirers of Tracy and Hepburn but emphasize they are not trying to pattern their performances after the famous pair.

About Tracy, Ken Howard told TV Week: "I saw him in everything. He's my favorite all-time actor, a brilliant performer, but that doesn't mean I'll attempt to duplicate his interpretation of the part."

In answer to her feelings about Hepburn, Blythe asks, "Who could ever fill those shoes?" She hopes fervently that viewers won't compare her and Ken with the famous stars of the film. "They were incredible and I don't think we'll see the likes of them again," she says.

Peter Hunt, who produces the series as well as alternating direction with Gary Nelson, says he likes the term 'romantic comedy' to describe the series, "because it evokes the quality of such great filmmakers as George Cukor and Billy Wilder. "Also," Hunt adds, "our aim is to make Adam's Rib in the tradition of those unforgettable movies 'The More the Merrier,' 'The Awful Truth' and the original 'Adam's Rib'."

Peter Stone, who wrote "1776," created the teleseries based on the motion picture by Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin. Stone's many other credits include the film "Father Goose" for which he won an Academy Award. A unique aspect of the series, according to Hunt, is the fact they deal with serious subjects in a light, humorous fashion. "But," he states, "we never belittle them in any way. We intend to deal intelligently and humorously with controversial subjects as they are germane to society in 1973-74."

Hunt stresses the fact that Adam and Amanda, who are deeply in love, are very much in favor of the institution of marriage which has come under attack during recent years. He believes it does have to undergo some changes, however, particularly as it concerns the new liberation of women. With equal force, Hunt emphasizes that Adam's Rib is not a women's lib show. "Women and men have come up against certain problems and I think we are just at the beginning of a number of changes in the country and a re-evaluation of conditions. Not having either a routine job, nor being 'the little woman waiting at home," Amanda is a threat to Adam both on a professional and a masculine level. He is baffled at times," says Hunt, "but only because he, like most men, has been conditioned to look at women in a particular way."

Adam and Amanda will sometimes oppose each other in court—and sometimes at home—but their differences of opinion will not affect the love and respect they have for each other.

Adam's Rib is the first television series for Hunt, Blythe and Ken but their paths have all crossed before. Hunt worked with Ken in summer stock and with Blythe in an off-Broadway play. Ken and Blythe first met when they both won Tony Aards in 1970—Ken for his work in "Child's Play" and Blythe for "Butterflies Are Free."

The cast of talented supporting players includes Dena Dietrich (known to millions of TV commercial watchers as Mother Nature) as Amanda's secretary, Grace; Ron Rifkin as Roy, another assistant D.A. associated with Adam; Edward Winter as Amanda's law partner, Kip Kipple, and Norman Bartold as the District Attorney.

An unusual facet of the series is that more than 50 per cent of its writers are women. Says Hunt: "Women in some ways are more serious than men and Adam's Rib is a serious comedy. We establish a serious base and then treat it lightly."

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

As I have stated many times, rarely do I review movies. I simply don't feel anyone is qualified to tell the public what he thinks is good or bad. In most cases film reviewers are arrogant and often misinformed. Worse yet, they are writers with little or no knowledge of what it takes to make a film. Since I started in the motion picture business as a child actor in 1935 and have written scripts, produced several unimportant films, directed one short subject and spent over 15 years in a film editing room (the place where a movie is literally made or broken), I think that I, more than most reviewers, have the ability to give a sound, honest review. Since reviewing is part of our culture, the following is what I think about a certain picture.

THE NAKED APE, produced by Universal Studio and Playboy Productions, is one of the most interesting and exciting films I have seen in many a day. A very difficult picture to make, APE maintains pace, humor and poignancy and is intellectually stimulating on several different levels. Johnny Crawford and Victoria Principal play the leads. They are such an attractive couple that they remind one of the good old days when Van Johnson played opposite Phyllis Thaxter or William Powell did his thing with Myrna Loy.

THE NAKED APE is a motion picture that traces man's development from ten million years ago to tomorrow, nailing down his basic relation to the animal kingdom, his sex habits, and his territorial instincts to finally show him as a sexually motivated, naked, hunting ape. The photography, by John Alonzo, and the editing, by Robert L. Wolfe, are flawless and the portions of the film done with animation more effective than anything I've yet seen created.

After the credits and main title rolled by I started to get the feeling that the film was going to be confusing, but before three or four minutes had passed I was completely oriented and, for the first time in many years, I didn't find myself squirming and looking at my watch. It seemed the film was over almost before it started.

I've read some reviews of this film that weren't terribly flattering or complimentary. I don't like to disagree with my colleagues, but I'm wondering if some of them viewed the picture after maybe downing a couple too many. Or, possibly, some of them just aren't as smart as I've always believed them to be. Oh, well, it really doesn't make a hell of a lot of difference. As I said at the beginning of this column, no one has the right to review anything because a review, after all, is only an opinion. It's just too bad that opinions can very often make or break a movie.

JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR, a Norman Jewison-Robert Stigwood-Universal musical production, has launched an earthly superstar in Carl Anderson, who portrays Judas. This Carl Anderson is so dynamic that he makes Jesus (Ted Neeley) more gentle and believable!

Carl Anderson lives in Washington, D.C. One of four sets of twins among eleven children, he is single—a Pisces with a water bed and into photography. An Air Force communications technician for two years, until he won a world-wide Air Force Talent Contest which provided him the opportunity to communicate by singing. Anderson is quite vocal against all ideas (if offered) to become, per se, another superfly SHAFT fat cat.

"Well, would you like to do another musical?" I asked. His reply was candid. "Yes, but I wouldn't want to be typecast as a singer." "Speaking of typecasting," I said, "how could you identify as Judas with a white Christ?" "Race had nothing to do with it. Norman Jewison cast me as Judas because he thought I was the best Judas who auditioned. Both blacks and whites auditioned for the part. He didn't cast a "black" so to speak, he cast Carl Anderson."

Anderson has the potential to transcend labeling. However, he bears striking resemblances that make you envision another Ira Alderidge, the famous Shakespearean performer of about a century ago. In fact, the first thing to pop into my mind when I saw a few frames of JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR was "Belafonte, move over!" When I told him this, Carl laughed heartily. "That's why I grew this beard and longer hair. Often in Washington, D.C. I was chased, or mistaken for Belafonte." I sighed. Just as Black Moses Isaac Hayes turned on fashions, Carl Anderson is sure to open more chests than Dr. Barnard!

Two guerrillas free hostages, land in Libya

TUNIS (UPI) —Two Arab guerrillas who hijacked an Austrian train, took three Soviet Jews hostage but freed them after forcing Austria to agree to stop aiding Israelibound Jewish refugees, landed in Libya Saturday night in a light plane, the Libyan news agency reported.

The agency, in a dispatch monitored here, said the twinengined Cessna landed at the Okba Ibn Nafaa base at 6.30 p.m. (1:30 p.m. EDT). It said authorization for the landing was given by the Libyan government "for humanitarian reasons" after the two guerrillas threatened to blow up the plane in flight.

There was no immediate word of what happened to the guerrillas.

The base at which the plane landed is the former U.S. Wheelus Air Force base, renamed after the Libyan government ordered American servicemen to quit the base.

The end of the guerrillas' odyssey came 32 hours after they seized hostages aboard an emigrant train bringing out Jews from Russia and forced a major political concession from the Austrian government in return for their release.

The Austrian move stirred a storm of criticism in Austria, Israel and other countries. After the Austrians agreed to stop letting Soviet Jews transit through the country, th hijackers released their three Jewish hostages and an Austrian customs man they had also been holding.

Italian officials in Cagliari, Sardinia, had announced earlier they had word from the Libyan government of Col. Moammar Khadafy that Libya would let the Palestinians land.

The hijackers were aboard a small, twin-engine Cesna aircraft given them by Austrian authorities to get them out of Vienna. It hopscotched across the Mediterranean, stopping often to land because of its short range.

Two Austrians were piloting the craft.

In the early hours of the day the guerrillas had freed the three Soviet Jews and an Austrian customs officer at the Vienna Airport. They had seized the four Friday when they held up a train from Moscow at the Czechoslovak border.

The guerrillas released the hostages unharmed after 15 hours, in return for the promise of the Austrian government to stop granting transit facilities to Eastern European Jews en route to Israel.

They then flew to Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, Palermo, Sicily and Cagliari to refuel, seeking landing clearance in North Africa at every stop along the way.

During the 4-½ hour wait on the tarmac at Cagliari, the Arabs threatened to kill the two Austrian crewmen unless given quick clearance to land at Djerba or Monastir in Tunisia.

Later, in a switch of tactics, they said they preferred Libya and were willing to wait at Cagliari until they got "authorization to go to the country of our choice."

Storm of protest against Austria halt of emigrants

VIENNA (UPI) — The Austrian government's decision to stop Soviet Jewish emigrants from using Austria as a way station to Israel provoked heavy criticism within the country and in other parts of the world.

"Chancellor (Bruno) Kreisky gave in to the guerrillas," the mass circulation newspaper, Kurier said. "The decision destroyed Austria's reputation to live up to the challenge of criticial situations."

Two Arab guerillas seized the Moscow-to-Vienna express train Friday and held three Russian Jews and a Austrian customs official hostage. The hostages were released and the two Arab gunmen took off in a small plane toward asylum Saturday.

The Austrian government in return for the release of the hostages will no longer permit Austria to be used as a transit point for Jewish emigrants.

Austrian police Saturday detained four Israeli security men who were attempting to guard Soviet Jews arriving at the same railroad station where Arabs kidnapped three Jews Friday.

Chancellor Bruno Kreisky revealed the detention in an interview. He said all four men were armed.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Premier Golda Meir called the Austrian decision, "astonishing." Other Israeli officials vowed to continue the flow of emigration.

The Israeli government recalled its ambassador to Vienna, Yitzhak Patish. A police spokesman said a reinforced guard has been posted at the Austrian embassy in downtown Tel Aviv in case of demonstrations against the decision.

An Austrian government spokesman said 66,000 Soviet Jews passed through Austria on their way to Israel during the past two years.

The American Jewish Committee in New York hoped the decison would be temporary. "Anything else would be too incredible to contemplate," the committee said."

In Washingon, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash, who called Austria "the Ellis Island of Europe," said the Viennese decision represents "the most serious and short-sighted submission to intimidation and blackmail."

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn, said the closing of the transit facilities was a blow "to human rights, which always exceed national boundaries."

Kreisky, in his first statement after the release of the four hostages, said "the main thing for me was to save their lives. Everything else can be repaired."

713 for Aaron

ATLANTA (UPI) —Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, making a dramatic bid to become baseball's alltime home run king before the end of the season Sunday, hit the 713th homer of his career in the fifth inning off Houston's Jerry Reuss Saturday night to move within one clout of tying Babe Ruth's lifetime record.

Fire kills 9 in tenement

HOBOKEN, N.J. (UPI)—At least nine people died in a general-alarm fire that swept a tenement building early Saturday, police and fire officials said.

Firemen searching the wreckage of the half-collapsed, five-story building had recovered five bodies by Saturday evening. The bodies of at least four other persons believed trapped by the fire were buried beneath debris. officials said.

Eight other people were injured and 150 persons were forced to flee their homes in the blaze, which spread to three adjoining tenements.

None of the victims was identified.

Gas available-- at higher price

By United Press International

American motorists didn't have any trouble finding gasoline Saturday. All they had to do was grin and bear another price hike.

Pump prices on gasoline jumped anywhere from a penny to 2 ½ cents a gallon in many parts of the country. Other station operators said they were planning to raise prices Monday after checking what the competition was doing.

Some operators indicated that competition would keep the hikes down to about a penny a gallon.

Friday's decision by the Cost of Living Council (CLC) to raise retail gas prices followed widespread protest shutdowns of stations across the country by operators who claimed they were being squeezed out of business by rising wholesale prices.

Truck driver stumbles in

UPLAND — A deliveryman making his rounds apparently arrived at a home outside the city Saturday afternoon moments after a 74-year-old man reportedly shot his wife, 69, in the heat of an argument, San Bernardino County Sheriff's spokesmen say.

Willard Connor was found suffering from an attack of emphysema possibly caused by an altercation in which his wife Edna D. Connor, was shot twice in the right chest, officers said. A truck driver bringing oxygen to the home at 2435 N. Fifth Ave. just outside city limits, called police at 1:10 p.m., apparently just after the incident, according to the department.

Mrs. Connor is in "very critical" condition at San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, detectives related. Her husband has been booked at San Bernardino County Jail on charges of attempted murder.

West End sheriff's substation personnel gave this account of the shooting:

Conner and his wife apparently were involved in an argument, during which she was shot with a .38-caliber revolver. The deliveryman arrived shortly after that to find Willard Connor standing over his wife in the kitchen. The deliveryman called Upland police, which notified the sheriff's substation, and sent a man to the scene. He called a rescuscitator from the Upland Fire Department and an ambulance.

After receiving aid at the scene, Connor was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital, treated, and released to the sheriff's department.

Officers said they are still investigating the incident.

'I'm innocent target, won't resign'—Agnew

SUPPORT FOR AGNEW

Vice President Spiro Agnew meets with admirers after speaking before the National Federation of Republican Women in Los Angeles Saturday. In a blistering speech, the Vice President reaffirmed that he will not resign his office because of the Maryland Grand Jury investigation of him.

Speech blasts Justice Dept. 'bunglers'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, charging he was the innocent target of embarrassed Justice Department prosecutors who bungled Watergate, declared twice before cheering Republicans Saturday that "I will not resign if indicted."

In a nationally televised speech interrupted repeatedly by applause, Agnew said there were "people who are trying to destroy me politically" with trumped-up charges, and he singled out Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen for what he called "unprofessional and malicious and outrageous" conduct.

Speech excerpts, A-2

Agnew's charge prompted Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson to issue a statement in Washington defending Petersen, chief of the Justice Department's criminal division, as a "distinguished government lawyer (who) is greatly respected by his colleagues in law enforcement."

Richardson pointedly said he assumed full responsibility for Petersen's performance in overseeing the government investigation of Agnew for possible tax, extortion, bribery and conspiracy violations. Evidence involving Agnew went to a federal grand jury in Baltimore, Md., on Thursday.

Laying aside the text of a subdued prepared speech, Agnew told a convention of 2,700 Republican women here that the allegations under grand jury investigation were "outrageous and ridiculous," and that he would fight them to the finish.

"The conduct of high individuals in the Department of Justice —particularly the conduct of the chief of the criminal investigation division of that department —is unprofessional and malicious and outrageous," Agnew said.

Agnew also portrayed himself as a victim of unnamed persons in Maryland, where he formerly was Baltimore County executive and state governor.

At the close of his speech before a convention of the National Federation of Republican Women, Agnew brought the audience to its feet in thunderous applause when he said:

"Because of these tactics which have been employed against me, because small and fearful men have been frightened into furnishing evidence against me —they have perjured themselves in many cases, it's my understanding — I will not resign if indicted...I will not resign if indicted!"

The crowd waved arms, whistled, cheered and clambered onto chairs as Agnew thanked the GOP women for "hearing me out" and declared: "I intend to stay and fight."

Neither the White House nor the Justice Department commented on the vice president's speech.

During his nationally televised halfhour address, which was interrupted 32 times by applause, the vice president said that "for the past several months I've been living in purgatory" because of the investigation and the rumors swirling about him.

"I want to say at this point, clearly and unequivocably I am innocent of the charges against me," Agnew said as delegates broke into a 45-second cheer led by women waving pom-poms.

Expected to announce Monday

Hafif in governor race?

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

Hafif has scheduled a news conference for 9:30 a.m. at the Los Angeles Press Club to release the results of a 60-day, statewide organizational effort, which likely will be the basis for his announcement.

"That's probably what's going to happen," said Paul Mandabach, campaign coordinator, when asked if the conference would include a formal announcement by Hafif.

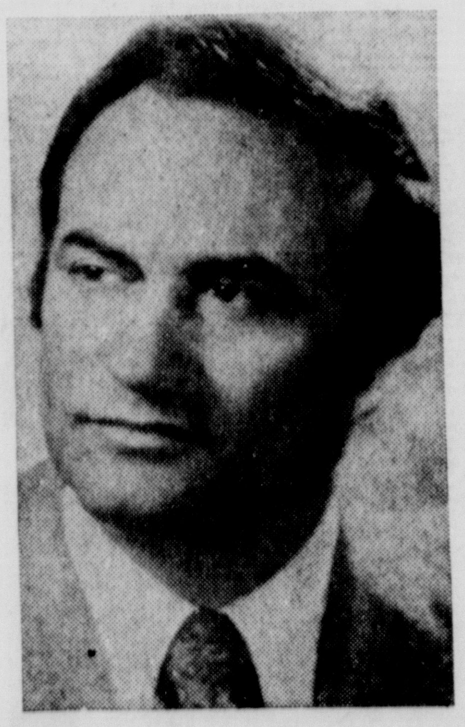
If he does Hafif will become the second person from Claremont to formally declare his intention to seek the state's top political position.

State Controller Houston I. Flournoy, a former area assemblyman and a government professor at Pomona College, said Sept. 18 he would seek the Republican nomination.

Hafif is one of seven prospective candidates for the Democratic nomination, which will be decided in a primary next June. The others are Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, State Sen. George Moscone, San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto, Rep. Jerome Waldie, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown, Jr., and millionarire businessman William Matson Roth.

So far, only Waldie and Roth have made formal announcements. Alioto is expected to follow suit Tuesday night at a press conference in San Francisco.

Although Hafif is a relatively obscure contender compared to some of the other candidates, he is not an unknown. A nationally recognized attorney, Hafif is a past president of the California Trial Lawyers Assoc., was



HERB HAFIF

Los Angeles County Lawyer of 1972, and was recently named national consumer advocate by the American Trial Lawyers Assoc.

During the past two months, he has quietly been touring the state building up grass-roots organizational support for his campaign. He claims that each appearance has drawn from 300 to 800 people, and that he now has the services of over 2,000 volunteer workers.

"If and when I announce, I guarantee that it will have significance, and it will indicate strong organizational strength throughout the state," Hafif told the Progress-Bulletin recently.

He described his campaign as a "people's movement," and he said it would be free of Madison Avenue type "gimmicks."

"We'll leave the $1,000-a-plate dinners to the others, and we'll go after the people," he said.

Until now, his campaign has received sparse coverage by the press, but he says he wanted it that way.

"You are either sincere in starting a people's movement or using people as a backdrop. The public and the press know the difference," Halfif said.

"It's a much more meaningful accomplishment to achieve strong organizational support without press coverage. It then becomes reasonable to seek press coverage of an event—an actual event which has happened.

"I know that's an unorthodox approach, but I believe you can't have organizational efforts and public hokum going on at the same time.

"At this point the people are interested in the new boy in tow," Hafif said. "In past gubernatorial elections, the issue has always been the man."

Officer tried to save life of shot suspect

Gas attendant is kidnaped by motorist, robbed

POMONA — A Pomona service station attendant was kidnaped and robbed early Saturday morning by a man who forced the victim to drive him to Baldwin Park.

Jose Adolfro Gonzales 18, was just closing the Standard Station at 3190 Temple Blvd., when the suspect drove in with a flat tire and asked Gonzales to change it, police said.

The man, described as being 28 to 30 years old, 5 feet and 10 and weighing about 180 pounds, simulated possession of a gun and ordered Gonzales into the car after the tire was changed.

Gonzales was then forced to drive the car to the Baldwin Park area where he was robbed and then forced from the vehicle.

No arrests have been made.

George Murphy's wife dies at 71

A family spokesman said Julie Murphy's death was the result of a lingering heart ailment. Murphy was at his wife's side when she died.

Funeral arrangements were being completed.

The couple met in the 1920s while he was working at odd jobs and she was a struggling young dancer. They married in 1927. Mrs. Murphy taught her husband how to dance and they later formed a vaudeville team.

SHOOTING SCENE

Gunbattle breaks out at Upland home

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — A local resident whose house and cars were hit by bullets during a brief battle between a burglary suspect and police Friday night had high praise Saturday for the officer who vainly tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the dying gunman.

Fay Lamar Perry, 271 Nesbit Drive, whose house sits at the L-shaped corner of Nesbit Drive and the 1200 block of Shelley Avenue, described how Upland Police Officer Robert Smeaton kneeled over the fallen body of Donald Joseph Bose, 45, Banning, and tried to give the injured man first aid.

Perry said that Smeaton tried to suck the blood out of Bose's mouth, ripped off his own T-shirt to try and keep the man's throat clear, and used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation in an attempt to keep him alive. Bose was prounced dead at San Antonio Community Hospital.

"I think the officer deserves a commendation," said Perry, who noted that Smeaton told him the first aid was part of his job.

Perry said that he was sitting in his room watching a professional football roundup when he heard "pop-pop" which he thought were firecrackers.

Perry said that his daughter's boyfriend looked out a window and said that a man had run into the shadows of the lawn at the side of the house.

When the boyfriend and Perry's son went out the front door to see what had happened, they were told to go back into the house by officers who warned that the man was armed, he added.

Perry said he herded his two daughters, the boyfriend and his son into the rear of the house where they remained until the shooting had stopped.

The gun battle began shortly after 9 p.m. when Smeaton and Nello Petronzio, a reserve police officer, noticed a car parked at the curb across the street from the Perry house. A large television set was in the trunk of the car.

The officers saw a man in the driver's seat and another man nearby. Smeaton reported that he asked Bose to step out of the car after Bose had given several evasive answers tin response to questions about his being in the area and the television set.

Smeaton said he noticed a gun in a holster on the seat next to the driver.

He said he ordered the man to get out of the car and to place his hands on the hood, but the man got out of the car and suddenly turned and fired three times at Smeaton who was about eight feet away.

Smeaton said he fired three shots as he dived for safety to the street.

Bose then turned and ran toward the Perry house and fell to the lawn. Petronzio, at the rear of the police unit when the shooting broke out, fired four shots at the fleeing man.

Bose was mortally wounded by a single shot which went through the left shoulder and into his body.

Smeaton reported that when he turned Bose over, the man still clutched a .32 automatic pistol.

Police said that Bose had an extensive criminal record and had served time at San Quentin.

Police are seeking the whereabouts of a second suspect, thought to be Bose's companion, who fled the scene during the shooting.

The suspect was described as 5-8, 142 pounds, with brown eyes and brown hair.

Police later Friday night received a call that the Vallentine at 236 W 14th St., Upland, had been burglarized, and the residents were able to identify a large color television set, a stereo system, an electric typewriter, and a check protector as having been stolen.

Saturday morning when police returned to the scene, they discovered bullets had ricocheed off Perry's cars, one at the curb and the other in the driveway, and two bullets had penetrated the wall of the Perry home.

Perry said that the uppermost bullet had been stopped by a wall stud instead of entering the house.

Cheering GOP women call for congressional inquiry

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 2,000 wildly cheering Republican women, responding to Vice President Spiro Agnew's declaration that he was innocent of bribery charges, Saturday called for a congressional inquiry on Agnew's behalf.

"It was the greatest speech I have ever heard," said Ocie Jones, a Georgia delegate of the convention of the National Federation of Republican Women. "I like his fight and spirit."

Shortly after Agnew completed his off-the-cuff speech, in which he declared his innocence of Maryland bribery allegations and said he would not resign if indicted, the convention passed an emergency rersolution.

"Be it resolved that the delegates of this 17th biennial convention request their respective congressmen to grant the request of Vice President Spiro Agnew for a hearing in the House of Representatives."

Agnew shook hands for 10 minutes with a throng of delegates at the Convention Center, who waved hats and carried signs reading, "We love you Spiro," and "Bravo Spiro."

"I think the speech was terrific," said Jane Hanks, president of the Maryland Federation of Republicans. "I think it takes a lot of courage for a man to come up fighting like that."

Charlotte Knox, of Florida, called the speech a "frank, honest, sincere and dedicated statement to the American public."

"The Vice President is being slaughtered by innuendo," said Irene T. Uhl of Maryland. "He deserves protection of his rights.

British expatriate W. H. Auden

Heart attack kills Pulitzer Prize poet

VIENNA (UPI) —W. H. Auden, British expatriate felt by many to be the English world's leading poet of his generation, died alone Saturday in a Vienna hotel room of a heart attack. He was 66.

A touseled-haired man of barbed wit and bitter insight, Auden once turned down a chance to become poet laureate of England to live in a bookcrammed apartment in New York City's bohemian but grimy East Village. He had been a resident of the United States for 33 years—half his life.

"Looking up at the stars, I know quite well
"That for all they care I can go to hell."

A professor, essayist, editor and playwright as well as poet, Wystan Hugh Auden began writing poetry in 1922 because "a friend suggested that I should. The thought had never occurred to me."

His "Age of Anxiety" not only won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1947. It established him as a serious thinker, whereas before he had won only modest fame as a writer with a fast quip both of tongue and on paper.

Auden's death in the Altenburger Hotel came only hours after he gave a 20-minute reading from his works at the Austrian Society for Literature.

A British citizen who attended the reading said there was nothing during it to indicate Auden was ill.

In Paris, British novelist Graham Greene said he was shocked to hear of Auden's death because "to my point of view, he was a young man.

"With Robert Graves, he was one of the two poets writing in English for whom I had the greatest admiration," Greene said. "I have special admiration for his early poetry."

Born in York, England, Auden moved to self-imposed exile in New York in 1939.

Only last year, London newspapers named him as favorite for the post of poet laureate, but Auden ruled himself out of the running by refusing to renounce the American citizenship he gained in 1946.

$4 million deal for sale of landmark Huntington-Sheraton falls through

PASADENA (UPI) —A $4 million offer by a South Korean businessman to buy the landmark Huntington-Sheraton hotel was rejected by the ITT Sheraton Corp. of America, it wes revealed Friday.

An ITT Sheraton spokesman said, "the Huntington is not being sold."

A tentative agreement between ITT Sheraton and Dr. Ro Jueng Park, president and principal stockholder of a Los Angeles-based firm called North American Royal Enterprises, Inc., which has been purchasing real estate in the area, had been reached.

But ITT Sheraton reportedly upped its asking price and Park, who lives in Japan, backed away from the deal.

ITT Sheraton has shown the Huntington to representatives of several prospective purchasers, including some from Japan, in hopes of selling some of its hotel properties so it can put capital into other investments with greater profit.

The Huntington opened in 1907 and long was the winter home of the rich.

Oriental chaplain joins S.F. police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Police Department, seeking to attract more Chinese-Americans into law enforcement, has its first Oriental chaplain.

The Rev. Dr. Tso Tin Tam, director of the United Chinese Methodist Church, was sworn in recently by Deputy Chief William Keays who took the occasion to appeal to the Oriental community to provide more patrolman candidates.

The department now has only 11 Chinese-American officers.

Food stamp allotment to go up

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government food stamp allotment for a needy family of four will jump 22.4 per cent next Jan. 1 in a congressionally directed move to help the poor catch up with rising food costs.

No formal announcement of the amount of the planned increase has come yet from the Agriculture Department, which administers the food stamp program. But officials confirmed that food price figures for August, which will be used in setting the stamp allotment in January, put the amount due a family of four at $142 a month, compared with the current $116.

Officials said, however, they could not predict how much of the $26-a-month increase would be a clear gain for needy food stamp clients. For at least some of the 12.5 million people currently getting food stamps, part or all of the increase in allotments may be cancelled by a hike in the price they pay for the stamps.

Stamp prices depend on family income. A family of four with less than $30 a month in cash income, for example, currently pays nothing for $116 worth of stamps. At the top of the scale, a family earning $390 a month must pay $92 for the same $116 worth.

Motorist sought in hit and run; cyclist injured

POMONA — A disdainful driver who knocked a 16-year-old youth from his bike in an intersection here, then drove away, is the object of a police search for questioning on hit-and-run.

Officers said Kevin Michaep Reilly, Cypress, was riding lawfully through the intersection of Arrow Highway and Garey Boulevard when a motorist described in his 60's turned left from Arrow to the northbound lanes of Garey and struck the boy's bike. Reilly was unhurt in the collision.

Hooked on the rear bumper, the bike was dragged about 50 feet before the driver climbed out of his car kicked it loose, then drove on without a word, officers report a witness said.

Police obtained the license number of the 1957 Chevrolet, and have determined it belongs to a La Verne resident. They will follow up to determine if it was the car involved, and if the owner was operating it at the time of the incident.

Here are excerpts from Vice President's speech

During the past few months we have witnessed a cavalier attitude toward violations of the essential principle of secrecy in investigations related to grand jury proceedings. Leaks have sprung up in unprecedented quantities, and the resultant publication of distortions and half-truths has led to a cruel form of kangaroo trial in the media, the accusatory stories maliciously supplied by anonymous sources.

The findings of a grand jury —and it is extremely important that this be understood—those findings, called the indictment, are in no way equivalent to a conviction. If indictment were equivalent to conviction, there would be no need within our legal system for a trial. As observers of the legal process will tell you, a great number of indictments result in the full clearing of the person indicted ...

The presumption of innocence applies across the board—to every American, whether businessman, factory worker or Vice President. Every American is innocent until it is formally proven otherwise...

Given the current climate of wild overreaction, it will not be an easy fight.

For the past several months I have been living in purgatory. I have found myself the recipient of undefined, unclear, unattributed accusations that have surfaced in the largest and most widely circulated organs of our communications media.

I want to say at this point, clearly and unequivocally, I am innocent of the charges against me. I have not used my office or abused my public trust as county executive, as governor, as Vice President to enrich myself at the expense of my fellow Americans.

The conduct of high individuals in the Department of Justice—particularly the conduct of the chief of the Criminal Investigation Division of that department—is unprofessional and malicious and outrageous, if I am to believe what has been printed in the news magazines and heard on the television networks of this country.

I intend to use the courts of this country in an attempt to gain permission to examine under oath these people who are trying to destroy me politically through the abuse of the criminal justice system of the United States. If we find in fact that in Baltimore or in Washington individuals employed by the Department of Justice have abused their sacred trust and foresaken their professional standards, then I will ask the President of the United States to summarily discharge those individuals.

Why should a Republican Department of Justice and a Republican prosecutor attempt to get you? Well, I don't know all the answers, but I will say this: That individuals in the upper professional echelons of the Department of Justice have been severely stung by their ineptness in the prosecution of the Watergate case. They have been severely stung that the President and the attorney general have found it ncessary to appoint a special prosecutor, and they are trying to recoup their reputations at my expense. I am a big trophy.

One of those individuals has made a very severe mistake, a serious mistake in the handling of his job. He considers himself a career professional, in a class by himself. But ... not only did he fail to get any of the information about the true dimensions of the Watergate matter, but he also through ineptness and blunder prevented the successful prosecution of high crime figures because of wire tapping errors.

Those are the reasons why he wishes to reinstate his reputation as a tough and courageous and hardnose prosecutor. But I'm not going to fall down and be his victim, I assure you.

Through the cocktail circuit and the rumor mills of Washington, threats by certain individuals were communicated to me as recently as April of this year, in which those people left no doubt that unless I used my high office to cut off the investigation of them that they intended to implicate me in their sordid misdeeds.

I sent word to them that I would have no part of that ... and it was as a result of that— a statement on my part they could not look to me to abuse the constitutional office that I held—that they began to seek and obtain from the prosecutor in Baltimore immunity and limited immunity.

And in case you don't know what immunity is, it means that someone who has already admitted his guilt to a criminal action can escape the full force of his punishment by turning in somebody higher up. And that's exactly what happened in this case.

I want to say just a word about why I went to the House of Representatives. It should be, I guess, obvious that I do not believe I can have a fair hearing either before a grand jury or before any jury in Baltimore. The well has been successfully poisoned. I thought the only chance I would have to have a full hearing on the facts was to appeal to the House of Representatives. Thus far they have decided not to grant me that hearing.

But when I see principal news organs of this country criticize going to the House of Representatives on the basis that I am attempting to hide behind a constitutional shield and suppress the facts, that outrages me because what I want is not suppression of the facts, but the fullest possible hearing of them, widely publicized before he people of the American nation, so they will know exactly what is going on in this case. I am not trying to hide anything.

Walnut school board to discuss bond election

By J. LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Before Walnut school district trustees begin discussion of a schedule for calling a bond election, they will hear a report on the effects of a November election to limit the amount of taxes collected from the public.

In their regular meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room at Walnut High, trustees will hear both items near the conclusion of a fairly routine agenda. These topics will be followed by review of a proposed "Joint Powers Agreement" between the district and the City of Walnut to form a common recreation program.

Hard-pressed by rapid growth over the summer, the district has been considering a bond election to support construction. Space is tight at all district schools, particularly at the elementary level, and growth projections for the not-to-distant future may require use of at least two school sites now owned by district financing.

However, a proposed tax initiative supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan, due before the state's voters in early November, could change the district's financial picture. Prior to making a decision on a bond election, trustees will review the effect of Proposition I, the tax initiative, on school disttrict financing.

According to a preliminary summary of construction suggested by district staff if the bond issue were to pass, the first increment of an intermediate school on site "E" would start in Diamond Bar in 1973-74.

Also in that year, the staff suggests purchase of an elementary school site and use of funds to plan for use of the site. In the following year, the summary shows, a second portion of the intermediate school should be built. Relocation of seven portable buildings would also occur, if the schedule were to be adopted, while the district would in the same period file for the first portion of the new elementary school and open planning for Diamond Bar High School.

An alternative to the second-year program, suggests staff, is completion of exisiting elementary schools.

In the third year, 1975-76, staff offers a plan to build the second stage of the kindergarten through sixth-grade school begun in '73-74, purchase another K-6 site, and begin the first stage of the Diamond Bar secondary school. As an alternative, it is suggested that Walnut High be completed.

In the next two years, the bond amount offered by staff for an election figure would, in the schedule outlined, buy another K-6 site, build two schools at that level, relocate portable buildings, open Diamond Bar High to 1,250 students, complete Walnut High (if not done previously), and start plans for one each additional intermediate and elementary school.

For the last year of the building program proposal, 1977-78, the district previously forecast 8,311 students enrolled. Those figures, taken from a report dealing with a recently-defeated transfer of terriorty from Pomona to Walnut, contrast with an estimated 5,488 student population next year.

In 1975-76, the district expects to have 1,535 K-6 and high school students without adequate space if existing buildings are the only ones available. However, intermediate school students (grades seven and eight) would have room for 756 surplus students, according to the transfer of territory report projections.

District staff recommends three possible schedules for the proposed election, which they suggest raise $5,633,405 to match with state funds of $10,455,610.

First possible date for the election would be Jan. 8, 1974; the second, Feb. 5, 1974; the third, Feb. 26.

Cattle rustlers hit, sell on run

RENO, Nev. (UPI) —Nevada cattle rustlers are operating a slaughterhouse on wheels that has meat ready for sale by the time it gets back to town, the State Farm Bureau has reported.

Stolen cows are butchered in a van immediately after stolen and the hide and innards are thrown out along the way, the bureau said Tuesday. The carcass is ready for sale by the time the van is back from a raid.

Off-road vehicle rules would limit desert use

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — In an effort to halt ecological damage, the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is proposing restrictions on the use of off-road recreation vehicles in California desert areas.

The plan, part of a comprehensive land-use program for the state's 24 million acres of desert, would ban off-road vehiiles—motorcycles, dune buggies and four-wheel drive vehicles—from 4.3 per cent or 1,069 square miles of desert entirely.

In nearly 89 per cent of the remaining acreage, off-road vehicles would be limited to using designated roads only or any existing roads or trails.

Only 7.2 per cent of the 16 million acres covered by the plan, or about 1,800 square miles would be completely open to the vhicles.

According to Wes Chambers, associate director of the Desert Plan Program, the unrestricted area is equal to all the developed urban areas in Southern California.

Chambers said the plan, prompted by a presidential executive order requiring off-road use regulations for all federal lands, would become effective Nov. 1.

The Riverside BLM office is receiving comments from interested citizens and groups concerning the plan until Oct. 16 when final action on the proposal will be taken.

Chambers said reactions on the plan are about evenly split between conservation groups who want more closures and recreational vehicle factions who want more areas opened up.

Chambers said the sheer number of people using the desert areas, an estimated 12 million a year of which some 70 per cent use various types of vehicles, is having an adverse impact in certain areas.

"But we're going to be able to handle it," he said of the new plan which will help protect soil, vegetation, historical sites and animal habitats.

He emphasized that all areas affected by the plan would still be open to hikers and horseback riders.

Chambers said enforcement of the plan in various closed areas would be handled through applications of the state's antitrespassing laws since the federal agency has no direct enforcement powers.

In the local area, most of the San Bernardino County desert area will be affected by the plan. Areas to be closed include Amargosa Canyon, Clark Mountain, the Kelso Dunes, Amboy Crater, the Turtle Mountains, the Whipple Mountains and the desert lily area west of Palen Valley.

Open areas include Rand Mountain, Stoddard Valley, Devil's Playground, Melville Lake, Cadiz Valley, Danby Lake and Palen Valley.

Other areas in Inyo, Kern, Riverside and Imperial counties would also be on the closure list.

Interested persons wishing to comment on the plan may do so by writing Neil Pfulb, California Desert Plan Director, Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 723, Riverside, 92502.

SALES — Saleslady Doris A. Sumner, right, uses Progress-Bulletin classified ad section to instruct her ROP merchandising-retail sales class on job-hunting techniques. Left is Herb Ellenberg, ROP director. Miss Sumner has 41 students enrolled in two classes. Classes are held at Pomona Buffums'.

FOOD SERVICES—Teacher Carl Bruun shows students how to make cream puffs and eclairs from the same batter in his ROP food service class, being taught in the cafeteria of the District Education Center in Pomona. Students are trained as cooks, waiters, kitchen helpers and waitresses.

COSMETOLOGY—These four girls from Chaffey High School in Ontario are enrolled in ROP training classes in cosmetology being taught at Richard's, 200 N. Euclid Ave., Ontario. From left, they are Brenda Tomley, Debbie Duncan, Denise Friedley and Debbie Friedley. Course leads to license exam.

Area job-training program enjoying boom in interest

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

The Baldy View Regional Occupational Program (ROP) is enjoying the sweet smell of success.

Launched a year ago by five Pomona Valley school districts specifically to give high school seniors saleable job skills, ROP this fall is offering 25 courses of training in 14 fields.

Literally hundreds of teenagers are involved in this training.

This fall ROP training classes are under way in numerous locations in Pomona, Chino, Claremont, Montclair and Ontario.

Every course carries high school credits. Training is on-the-job and teachers are professionals in their fields.

ROP, a separate school district, was parented by Pomona, Chaffey, Bonita, Chino and Claremont school districts. Each supports it financially. The state pays ADA (average daily attendance) into the district on those who enroll.

The 1972-73 program was beefed up to include—in addition to nurses assistant training—clinical laboratory technician aide, personal services-cosmetology, medical-legal secretary, retail sales and auto diagnostics.

Last June, 311 students were enrolled in ROP classes.

This fall high school students throughout Pomona Valley have an opportunity to obtain vocational training in auto body repair, auto diagnostics, clinical laboratory technician aide, environmental landscaping, food services, industrial machine shop, medical-legal secretary and other office occupations, merchandising-retail sales, nursing assistant, cosmetology-personal services, power sewing, service station operation, sheet metal-air conditioning and welding.

Six classes have been opened to accept enrollment of adults over 18.

These classes are auto diagnostics, environmental landscaping, retail nursery, restaurant occupations, personal services-cosmetology and medical-legal secretary.

Anyone interested in enrolling may call ROP at 626-3538 for additional information.

Adults are allowed to enroll in other courses as space permits.

ROP has established career centers in participating high schools and staffs them with teachers to counsel students in the selection of vocational training classes.

ROP director Herb Ellenberg points out that in each training course the combined school districts' facilities and community businesses are used to bring students closer to an actual working environment.

"Courses are started or terminated, based upon student interest and job market availability," he explained.

Educators involved feel ROP is practical, down-to-earth and, for many of its students, a necessity if they are to become self-sufficient and go on into higher education or more advanced training.

"There are few high school students today," Ellenberg said, "who can even go on into a two-year community college without some kind of a job.

"ROP training gives them skills which are marketable."

ROP is administered by its own board, comprised of one member from each participating district's school board. They hold regularly scheduled meetings.

During 1972-73, it was estimated the total cost of ROP would be $146,000. The actual operating cost was $102,101.

Within five years administrators anticipate ROP will train 2,000 students a year.

Valley briefs

Fire destroys garage in L.V.

LA VERNE — A fire of unknown origin destroyed a two-car garage at 2141 5th St. late Friday afternoon.

Firemen are still investigating the cause of the blaze which resulted in about $4,000 damage to the building, its contents and a nearby parked car.

The fire broke out about 3:45 p.m. inside the wood-frame building, according to firemen, and was well under way when firemen arrived.

Back-to-school night at PHS

POMONA — Members of the Pomona High School Parent Teacher Student Association will hold their first "Back to School Night" of the year Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Dances and gymnastics will be performed by students and members of the faculty and the high school's football team will be introduced.

Dances set for over-40 group

POMONA — The Pomona Park and Recreation Department will be sponsoring weekly dances starting Monday for "plus forty" adults at the Palomares Park Community Center.

The Monday evening dances will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Live music will be provided. Admission will be $1.

Y will resume book sessions

LA VERNE — Book review sessions of the YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley will be resumed for the year on Wednesday. The first session will be held at 2:15 p.m., in the A Wing Parlor at East Hillcrest Homes, 2705 Mountain View Drive.

Dr. Dorothy Merritt will review several books, including "The Cancer Ward" by Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Russian author who has been much in the news recently.

Charge to YWCA members is $1 for six review sessions. Nonmembers charge is $1 per session.

Herbs are topic for garden club

POMONA — The fine points of herb culture and a film on composting will be presented at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Pomona City Council Chambers.

The meeting is open to the public.

FOLK DANCERS—Two of 45 fifth and sixth graders from Lincoln Elementary School in Pomona are caught up in their folk-dancing performance at the Los Angeles County Fair. A large audience gathered to watch the children and loudly applauded their dancing. The dancers are students of Agnes Manston and James Maynard. They were the only Pomona school children to entertain as a group in the fair's children's pavilion.

YWCA offers free class in interior decor

POMONA — A month-long series of free interior designing sessions will start Tuesday at the Pomona Public Library.

The home decorating lectures and demonstrations will be sponsored by the Pomona Valley YWCA and be held with one exception, in the library's public conference room from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. each Tuesday.

On Tuesday, the first meeting will feature a presentation by Charles Stillinger of Stillinger Interiors. It will cover the use of color.

On Oct. 9, the meeting will be held in the showroom of Towne and Country Carpets, 520 E. Holt Ave., as owner Gerald McMahon discusses the use of carpeting and other floor coverings.

The meeting on Oct. 16 will feature Marius Perrin of Hottel's Upland Furniture Co. explaining furniture selection.

Miss Verona Darting of Stillinger Interiors will demonstrate methods of framing and arranging pictures on Oct. 23 and also will cover the arrangement of accessory items.

The final meeting on Oct. 30 will feature Mrs. Grace Grody speaking on the subject of wall coverings and window treatment. Mrs. Grody is an interior designer and owner of the Wallpaper Shop in Claremont.

For further information persons may call 593-2845 or 620-2038.

Obituaries

Marion B. Miller

POMONA — Marion B. Miller of Yucaipa, a former resident of Pomona, died Friday at a Colton hospital after a long illness.

Miller was employed by Emerson-Pryne Electric Co. while residing in Pomona.

He is survived by his widow, Mollie, of Yucaipa; one son, Marion B. Jr., of Jefferson City, Mo.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held today at 2 p.m. at Hughes Funeral Chapel in Yucaipa.

Services also will be held Wednesday at Freeman Mortuary and Chapel, Jefferson City, Mo. Interment will be made in Riverview Memorial Park, Jefferson City.

John Sidebottom

POMONA — John Sidebottom Sr. of 1461 W. Mission Ave. died Thursday in a local convalescent hospital following several months of illness.

Mr. Sidebottom was born Aug. 20, 1900, in Hoboken, N.J. He came to California in 1946 from Massachusetts and lived in Ontario prior to moving to Pomona in 1950. He was a member of Pomona Lodge 246 F&AM.

Besides his widow, Florence, he is survived by a son, John Jr. of Chino; seven daughters, Mrs. Barbara Cooper and Mrs. Elizabeth Whismeyer, both of Grants Pass., Ore., Mrs. Ethel Bagwell of Ontario, Mrs. Florence Pore of Pomona, Mrs. Edith Lindsay of Pittsfield, Mass., and Mrs. Margaret Venema and Mrs. Marjorie Vos, both of Chino; 26 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Services will be held Monday at 10 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. The Rev. Robert Downey, pastor of the South Euclid Baptist Church, Ontario, will officiate, and Joseph Bellot of Pomona Lodge No. 246 F&AM will conduct a ritual. Entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Jake Bosch

CHINO — Jake Bosch of 12400 Cypress Ave. died Thursday while vacationing in Evanston, Wyo., following a short illness.

Mr. Bosch was born Dec. 1, 1907, in Holland City, Mich. He came to Chino from Bellflower 16 years ago. He was a feed representative for United Dairymen for 15 years. He was a member of the Chino Valley Reformed Church.

He is survived by his widow, Gertrude; a daughter, Mrs. Jane Druins of Riverside; three sons, Alvin of Chino, Tuny of Bellflower and Randy of Pomona; two sisters, Mrs. Jeanette Norris and Mrs. Henrietta Van Wyke; a brother, Peter Bosch; and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p.m. at the Chino Valley Reformed Church with the Rev. Robert Van Earden, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made in Crestlawn Memorial Park in Norco.

Griffith Mortuary in Chino is in charge of arrangements.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Multiple Sclerosis or Cancer societies.

Charles Smith

MONTCLAIR — Charles (Bud) Smith of 4753 Kingsley Ave., Apartment B, died Friday at the Los Angeles County USC Medical Center after a long illness.

He was born March 7, 1912, in Muncie, Ind. He had been a Montclair resident for the past four years. He was a retired polisher and buffer for a metal plating company.

Besides his widow, Cecile, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Ann Sciortino of Upland and Mrs. JoAnne Noriega of West Covina; three sons, William C. of Chino, Lewis F. of the U.S. Army and Michael P. of Montclair; one brother, George W. of Pomona; and 11 grandchildren.

He was a member of Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church, Claremont.

Rosary will be recited today at 7:30 p.m. at Draper Chapel, Ontario. Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Monday at Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church. Burial will be in Bellevue Cemetery, Ontario.

Ina Thompson

POMONA — Mrs. Ina M. Thompson, a resident of Pomona for 48 years, died Friday in Park Avenue Hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Thompson was born Aug. 19, 1879 in Texas, came to California in 1925 from Colorado, and had lived in Pomona since that time. She was a member of the Trinity United Methodist Church.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Ed Lee Nolte of Laguna Hills.

Services will be held Tuesday at 11:30 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Dr. John W. Black of the Trinity United Methodist Church will officiate. Private entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Father Damien gave his life

A Belgian missionary priest, Father Damien, was a missionary to Hawaiian natives at the time he requested a transfer to the leper colony on Molokai. He spent the rest of his life there and labored among the lepers until he, too, died of the disease.

Teacher picked the wrong girl

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UPI)—Lawrence Pojeski Jr., a member of the school board, contends it isn't fair or legal for teachers to discipline students by lowering their grades.

School Superintendent Philip E. Runkel agrees the practice is illegal and will be stopped.

Pojeski said he could cite several cases but was interested in one in particular which he said "involved my daughter."

Riding academy will open in Claremont

Myers plans to use a new tool for teaching horseback riding — closed circuit television.

Myers, founder of the academy, said that "under our methods of instruction, students learn to ride more quickly because they can see their mistakes with our instant replay television system and can correct them quickly."

A staff of six advanced instructors has developed 12 different curricula for the 12 opening classes, which are two-hour sessions and meet three times a week. Each session will consist of an hour of class and an hour of actual riding instruction.

Myers has built two large riding rings, a quarter-mile race track, and installed lights for night classes and private lessons.

The academy's faculty of six riding instructors includes in the English school Suzanne L. Brooks of Los Angeles; Pamela G. Daugherty of Encinitas; and Susan M. Miller of Portland, Ore., a graduate of the Prolock Vale Riding Academy in England; and Pat Hightower of Pomona; Susan J. Ochoa of Salt Lake City; and Cheryl A. Parker of Rollings Hills and Corona, teaching the western style of riding.

Pupils go bananas over filbert trees

They expect to have about 2,000 pounds, which they will dry and sell for 50 cents a pound at the annual Surrey Downs Filbert Festival. The proceeds will be used to pay for school activities.

The filberts come from 280 trees which are on school property. Everyone from kindergartners to sixth graders armed themselves with sacks, boxes and wastebaskets to gather the nuts as they were shaken from the trees.

Once long on power, the Northwest now in pinch

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) —In the early 1930s, when Grand Coulee Dam on the Columbia River was being proposed, the major question asked by critics was: What could the Northwest possibly do with all that power?

Now, 40 years and nearly twice that many dams later, the Northwest is faced with a power shortage that Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Norton recently said "could be a disaster."

Some industry has been forced by power cutoffs to curtail production since October, 1972, and a major campaign is underway to conserve enough power to prevent further industrial curtailments with their inevitable loss of jobs.

So far more than 1,000 jobs have been affected, mostly in metals plants. Up to 10,000 more jobs are threatened.

The Northwest —Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana—is particularly vulnerable to a shortage of electrical power. Construction of federal dams, beginning with Bonneville in the early 1930s and continuing into the 1960s, created a pool of cheap power that encouraged large use of electricity in homes and drew to the region major electricity using industries, notably electro-process metals and chemicals.

Kilowatt use high

With the cost per kilowatt about half the national average, use in the Northwest is about 15,000 kilowatts per home per year compared to a national average of 7,700, according to the Bonneville Power Administration (BPA), the federal agency which markets power from the federal projects and coordinates the Northwest power distribution system.

Don Hodel, BPA administrator, says the region is likely to be 15 billion kilowatt hours short of enough power to meet its firms' needs during the next 20 months. He has urged a 7.5 per cent reduction in power use.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon declared a power emergency in August and the state utility commissioner, Richard Sabin, ordered utilities to submit plans for curtailments when the shortage hits. Plans from Pacific Power & Light Co., and Portland General Electric Co., range from voluntary turning down of home thermostats and taking fewer baths (to save hot water) to rotating blackouts.

In Washington state, Gov. Dan Evans was given authority by the legislature to set power use priorities in an emergency shortage.

Evidences of voluntary conservation efforts already are showing.

Kill-A-Watt program

The BPA building, once a glowing landmark on the Portland night scene, is dark these nights except for the floor on which the round-the-clock dispatch and computer operations are located. Cleanup crews that formerly worked at night are now sweeping in the daylight.

In Seattle, Mike Sharar, community affairs coordinator for Seattle City Light Co., said cooperation in the utility's kill-a-watt program "has been fantastic." City Light set an example by cutting its own power use 16 per cent.

Seattle First National Bank, whose 50-story building is Seattle's tallest, aimed for a 10 per cent reduction by turning down its combination heating-lighting system, turning off some elevators at off-peak hours and turning off some decorative lighting.

Many shopping center parking lots throughout the region are dark these nights and [illegible]es have turned off window display lights and advertising signs.

On Oregon highways every other light has been turned off and in state office buildings handles have been removed from hot water faucets.

Why this year?

PP&L spokesman Barry Richardson said it had effected a 30 per cent saving in power use at its own installation in six states.

Why is the Northwest faced with a shortage of such drastic proportions this year? The answer lies in the weather and the Columbia River and its tributaries.

The rivers, fed by melting snows and rain, provide the major share of the region's power. The season started with a snowpack only 70 per cent of normal. It has since been suffering from the most severe drought in nearly 50 years with rainfall in some places the lowest on record and half the normal amount.

By the end of August the reservoirs which hold the water that will turn the turbines power until next spring were only two-thirds full.

Aggravating the situation are delays in construction of dams and additional power houses at existing dams and in building nuclear plants.

"The growth in regional population and our burgeoning appetite for electricity have gradually caught up with the capacity of the river system to produce hydroelectric power," Hodel said.

The highest ski lift in the world is in Bolivia, at 18,300 foot high Mt. Chacaltaya.

Wind power produces dependable electricity

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) —A team of scientists here has developed a new type of windmill which they believe will help ease the world's worsening energy crisis.

One of the windmills is already working and can supply enough electricity for five family homes, including heating.

"The old protest against windmills as a means of producing electricity because they stop when is there is no wind is not really valid," said Walter Schoenball, a 45-year-old West German from Paderborn who heads the "Geneva Group of Scientists."

"Weather statistics show that in most parts of the world there are only three days a month, on average, without any wind at all. And in any case the power generated on windy days can be stored."

Schoenball, a population expert with the United Nations in Geneva, is confident that the new windmill is perfect for supplying energy to remote districts and villages far from urban electricity sources.

Team effort

"Old-fashioned windmills trapped an average of 10 per cent of the wind and a maximum of 30 per cent," he said. "Our windmill makes use of 70 per cent of available wind and even as much as 80 per cent."

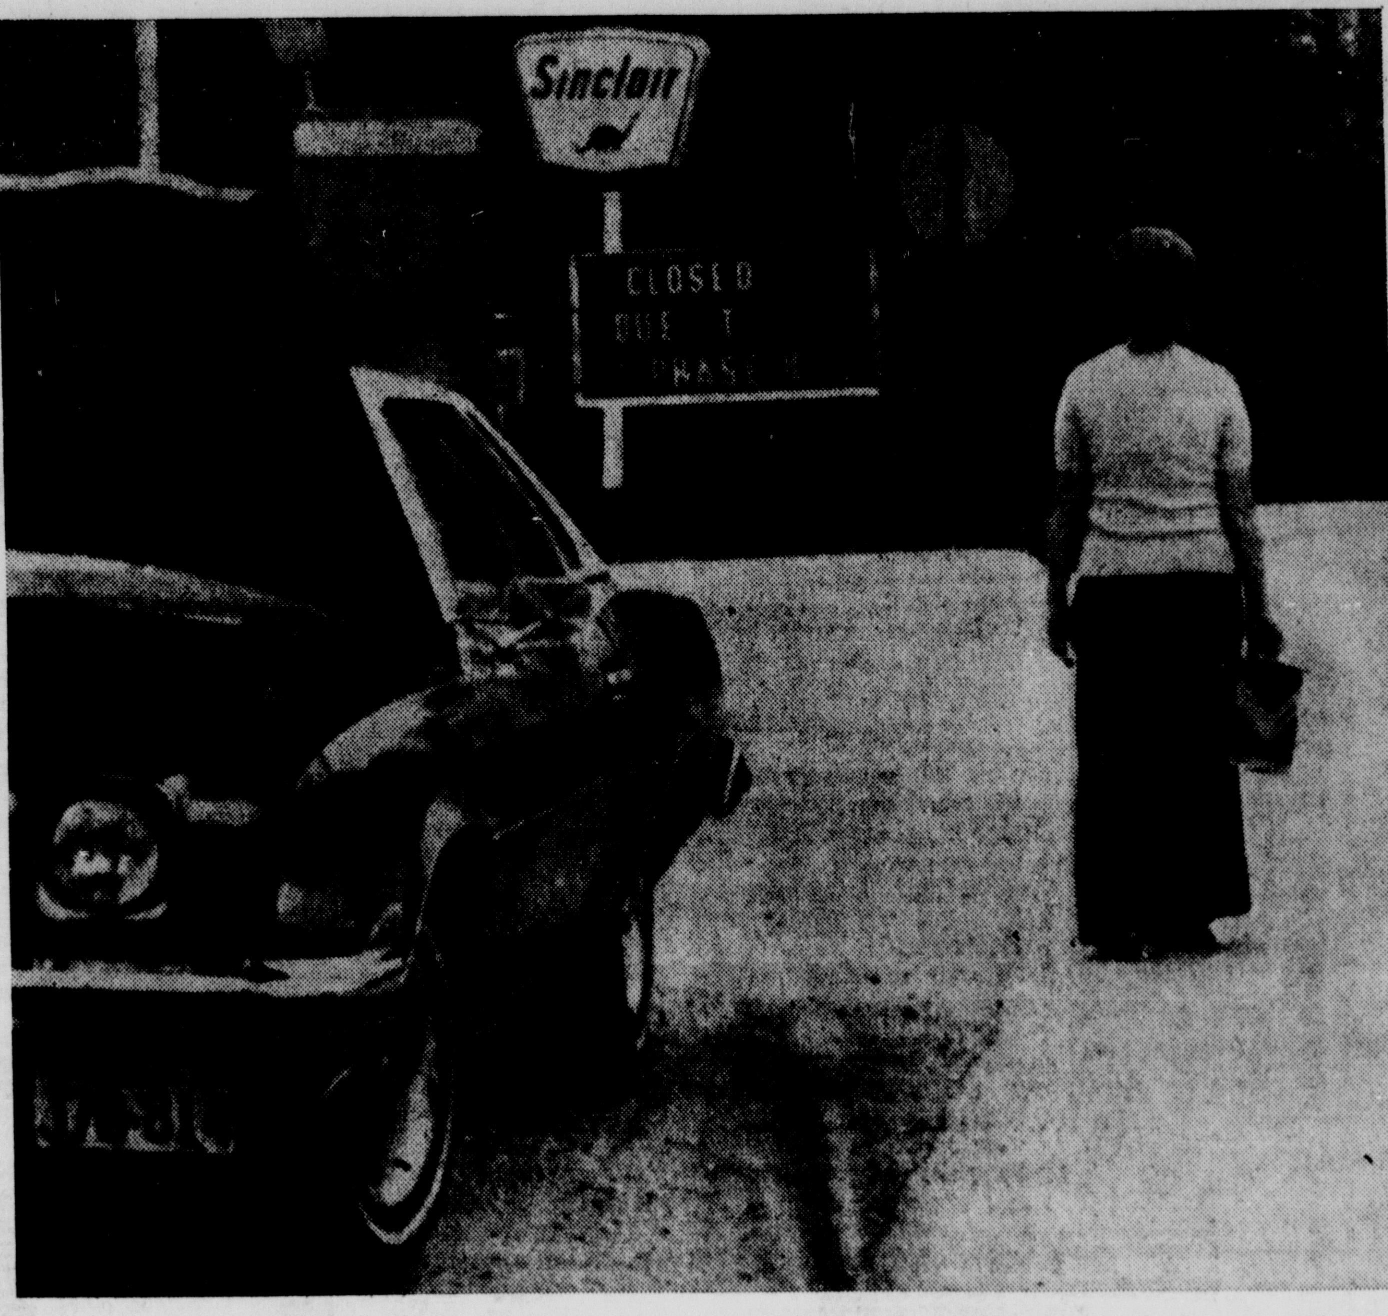
Schoenball, who had the original idea, called on engineering friends to help develop and build the windmill. The generator was designed by Prof. Marcel Jufer of Lausanne University in Switzerland, the electronics system was the work of Jacques Dufournaud of Paris University, the rotor blades were designed and built by Hans Goslich, a German engineer in Solingen, and the hubwheel was made by Maruice Schindler, head of a Geneva engineering firm.

"The world population increases by 80 million people a year and there will be 6.5 billion people in the world by the year 2000," Schoenball said.

"The world's supplies of coal, oil and natural gas will be exhausted within the foreseeable future. Oil in particular will disappear from the earth's upper crust between 1980 and 2000."

Schoenball said he believes nuclear energy from fast breeder reactors will not be available for another 20 years at least and by 1980 only four per cent of world energy needs will be supplied by reactors.

"But one source of energy which always will be available is wind," Schoenball said.



ST. LOUIS GOES DRY — A woman motorist faces a possibly long walk in a search for gas to fill her tank in St. Louis, Mo. Nearly half the 1,500 service stations in St. Louis are closed on a six-day strike in protest of Phase IV rollbacks on the prices of gasoline. Motorists hearing the word scurried to their nearest open stations, and off-duty police were called out to control the traffic jam.

Erma Bombeck

There isn't a family in the world that at one time or another hasn't had a live-in neighbor child.

He's the kid who sleeps in the woodwork, materializes each morning at your breakfast table, spends the entire day with you and the next thing you know you can't really remember where he lives or who he belongs to.

We were sitting around the breakfast table one morning when my husband asked, "How many children do we have?"

"Three," I replied.

"We have four at breakfast," he tallied. "Which one isn't ours?"

I was stumped. One had my eyes, another the same color of hair as my husband but the other two we both could have phoned in.

"Okas," I announced, "will the real Bombecks please stand up."

They exchanged glances dramatically. One slid back his chair like he was going to stand up but didn't. Slowly, the other three rose to their feet.

"If that doesn't tear it," I snarled, looking at Tim who was still seated. "I not only thought he was mine, I just got him toilet trained."

I have often wondered about the mothers of these children who disappear for five or six years to play. Do they ever wonder what they look like? How tall they are? Do they rent out their rooms or keep them available? Do they feel guilty when the list them as a deduction on their income tax?

I think it's flattering when a child joins your family, but there has to come a time when you send him home.

A neighbor child has been with you too long when you postpone your vacation because you can't get anyone to sit with him.

He's been with you too long when his teacher wants to have a parent conference with you.

He's been with you too long when you punish him by sending him to his home.

He's been with you too long when you call his mother and she says, "Huh?"

He's been with you too long when he appears with all of you on your Christmas card.

Tim has been with us too long. The other day a car driven by his father picked him up. Before I realized what I was doing, I was calling the police to report a missing child.

LIVING CHURCH — On the local level, at least, the Russian Orthodox Church is as vital as the church in Rome. Weekday services are well-attended, while on Sundays the churches in Moscow overflow.

Oregon has jitters over new 'soft' pot penalty

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) —Oregon law enforcement officials are nervously awaiting the arrival of Oct. 5, the effective date of a new marijuana law that drastically reduces the penalty for possession and use of the drug.

Under the bill passed earlier this year by the Oregon Legislature, persons caught with less than one ounce of marijuana (enough for about 20 cigarettes) will face a maximum penalty of a $100 fine.

The offense will no longer even be a crime, but will be treated as a violation —the same legal category as a traffic offense.

The 1971 legislature reduced the marijuana penalty to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine, but the new law goes much further and gives Oregon the lightest penalty of any state in the nation.

At the other end of the spectrum are states such as New York where a tough new law sets a maximum penalty of seven years for possession of one ounce of marijuana.

An Assembly-passed bill to lower the penalty in California, where the potential but rarely-invoked sentence is 10 years, died in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The proposal was to lower the penalty to a six month jail sentence and-or a $500 fine.

At its annual convention, the Washington State Bar Association voted in favor of removing criminal penalties for "the simple possession of marijuana by users."

In reducing the penalty for possession of small amounts of marijuana, the Oregon legislature made a clear distinction between the casual user and the persons who grow, process or sell the drug. A 10-year, $2,500 penalty faces those in the latter category and adults who furnish marijuana to minors under 18 years of age face a 20-year prison sentence.

Just being the state with the lightest marijuana penalty would be enough to make law officers and politicians nervous, but the problem is compounded by flaws that were discovered before the new law even went into effect.

The legislators intended the reduced penalty only for marijuana possession, but a second look at the bill after it passed both houses showed that the language was not as precise as it should have been.

Attorney general Lee Johnson advised Gov. Tom McCall that the way the measure was written the term marijuana applies to all forms of marijuana, including hashish, a highly concentrated form of the drug that has a more powerful effect on the user.

Another problem results from the fact that the legislators forgot to change a law which makes it a misdemeanor to remain in a place where drugs are used. Technically, it will be possible for a person caught smoking a marijuana cigarette to receive a $100 fine while a nonsmoker caught in the same police "bust" would face up to a year in jail.

The hashish problem is the more serious, however, and almost caused McCall to veto the bill.

Instead, the governor signed the bill and said he will ask the lawmakers to correct the defect during a special legislative session being called early next year. Between Oct. 5 and the special session there will not be time for hashish distributors "to accommodate their activities accordingly," McCall said hopefully.

Some police officials fear the new law will greatly increase the drug problem in Oregon. Others welcome the change.

"We should devote our time and resources to apprehending and convicting burglars, rapists, murderers, hard drug pushers and the like, not incidental and casual users of marijuana," said one district attorney when the bill was under consideration.

The people using marijuana are not the "black leather jacket crowd," he said. "They are your neighbors and mine and our neighbors' kids."

'Third Rome' flourishes

Moscow's churches can't hold the reverent many

EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer was UPI's Vatican reporter in Rome for four years before he was transferred to Moscow three months ago.

By BARRY JAMES

MOSCOW (UPI) —It was 7 a.m. on a Tuesday at the Russian Orthodox Church of the Resurrection, near the Kremlin.

A service was in progress and the church was full.

It was the same in a dozen other churches I visited on a recent weekday. Every service was well-attended.

A couple of smaller churches were overflowing.

After four years covering the Vatican, I wanted to take a look at the church in the city that used to be known as "The Third Rome."

Church Still Vital

I arrived expecting the church here to be just barely alive after 50 years of atheist propaganda.

To my surprise, it seems—on the local level at least—as vital as the church in Rome.

I cannot think of any church in Rome that could pack in a congregation every day of the week the way some of the backstreet churches do in Moscow. But it must also be noted that Rome has 500 churches for three million people, while Moscow has only 45 working Orthodox churches for seven million. Before the revolution, there were more than 400 functioning churches here.

You would have to go to parts of Spain or Latin America to see the degree of outward piety found in Moscow's Orthodox churches, where women not only kneel but prostrate themselves on the floor, where people are openly moved to tears and where parishioners seek a blessing from their priest as eagerly as many Roman Catholics seek one from a cardinal.

I visited one of the village churches that have been surrounded by the concrete apartment blocks and highways of suburban Moscow. This was as crowded as any of the central churches. The congregation, although poor, has taken care of the ikons and other church decorations. And the music provided by a small choir from hand-written sheets was as good as anything I heard in a Roman church.

Elaborate Ritual

Russians appear to like a show when they go to their candlelit, ikon-filled churches. Orthodox priests say they would not dare cut any of the elaborate ritual or impressive finery from their services, which hardly ever last less than two hours.

The priests dedicate most of their time to providing rich services and doing what little pastoral work they can. Unlike priests in the West, they are barried by law from teaching and social work. As far as the state is concerned, they are no more than licensed liturgists.

The church is strictly controlled by an avowedly atheistic state. Church leaders support Kremlin foreign policy as a price of survival. One Vatican prelate once told me they suffer a "martyrdom of prudence." And Nobel prize-winning author Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn has accused the Orthodox leadership of treading too softly.

But churchmen privately recall the bitter persecutions of the past and they say the heroism that Solzhenitsyn is urging on them would cause them to lose the gains they have built up in recent years.

Shackled or not on the political level, the church is at least functioning on the parish level. There are now 80 diocesan bishops, compared with four at the beginning of World War II. The church's four seminaries are insufficient to accomodate all who would like to enter the priesthood.

Official Atheism

Some Bibles are being printed and the church is again manufacturing crucifixes and religious medals for private use.

If the church itself has achieved a degree of safety, individual believers often have to practice their faith at the cost of ostracism and personal danger, churchmen say.

Even so, on weekends congregations include men and young people.

Pioneer News gets the 'inside' stories at prison

CHECKING IT OVER

L. T. Rogers, left, assistant city editor of the Progress-Bulletin, and Dennis Blum, inmate-editor of the Pioneer News, a monthly publication at the California Institution for Men, discuss articles in the prison newspaper. Stories written by the Pioneer staff appear from time to time in the Progress-Bulletin. Rogers is journalism instructor.

By MAXINE YEE

(Miss Yee is a United Press International reporter who wrote the following story on a classroom project conducted by L. T. Rogers, Progress-Bulletin assistant city editor, at California Institution for Men.)

CHINO — The office of the Pioneer News looks like any other newspaper office—the desks are old and the typewriters well-used. The paper is understaffed and inexperienced, but what it lacks in manpower and knowhow, it makes up in enthusiasm.

The monthly newspaper has a circulation of 3,000. About 350 copies are sent to persons on a mailing list. The rest are picked up by persons living in a small, homogeneous community located one mile southeast of Chino. It is the California Institution for Men—a prison without walls.

About 2,400 men live within a barbed wire compound of 2,600 acres in the southwest corner of San Bernardino County. Built in 1941, thousands of men have called it home.

Little is known about what goes on behind the wire enclosure except for the stories families bring out with them after visiting hours. But in the past year, items of human interest have found their way to the general public through the staff of the Pioneer News.

It all began when L. T. Rogers, assistant city editor of the Pomona Progress-Bulletin, began teaching a journalism class at CIM, where a good part of his teaching duties includes providing professional guidance to a seven-man newspaper staff.

It was in the capacity of "teacher" that Rogers hit on the idea of giving the staff extra incentive by having the best articles reprinted in the Progress-Bulletin.

His suggestion was accepted by editor Joe Gendron, who said articles accepted by his paper should be "worthy of publication." He also said it would be an opportunity to pick up human interest stories that "develop in a prison community—just as they do in society."

It was in this vein that readers have been able to glimpse the lives and activities of persons living in CIM.

In a year's time, Cuthbert Hoffman, Dave Cadwell, Dennis Blum and Alan Wayne have written articles "worthy of publication."

Hoffman, serving time for grand theft, wrote about a 45-year-old bachelor inmate who credits children for helping him realize life has a purpose. The inmate, William Kogan, is a playground supervisor for children who come to the prison to visit their fathers. He greets the youngsters with a "fast draw" arm movement and is affectionately called the "Pied Piper."

"The bird man of Chino" was the subject of a feature written by Blum, an inmate who wants to be a newspaperman.

Edward Louis Stephens is the "bird man" who became "parent" to a tiny wild bird after he found it "helpless and uncared for" in a bush while walking the prison yard. He dug worms for his small pet, named Junior, and even broke bread with it.

Another human interest article was written by Wayne, who told readers about a group of elderly inmates who repaired toys for Christmas.

Wayne painted a picture of greying men, afflicted with the pain of arthritis, but whose main concerns were trying to repair toys for other men's children. Tears glisten and fingers tremble as imprisoned grandfathers apply their full energies to fixing toys.

Unlike the other articles, Cadwell wrote a news story. An attorney before he entered CIM, Cadwell's article reflects his background. He wrote about law libraries installed in each of the three complexes in CIM.

Cadwell quotes Abe Oppenheim, CIM librarian, as saying, "A comprehensive law library such as we now have is a revolutionary concept, and none of us know to what extent it will be utilized by the inmates."

Being a newspaperman in prison has its disadvantages. Rights ordinarily accorded free journalists are denied imprisoned journalists. But these cub reporters take the restrictions in stride.

The content of all the papers must be approved by either the suprintendent of correctional instruction or the administrative assistant and information officer.

What is Hoffman's attitude toward this "press control?"

"I'm in prison, arent't I? I've learned to accept control. It exists, and that's the way it is."

He believes the paper should serve as a "liaison between the staff prison authorities and the yard inmates," and that it should not be an arm to proclaim inmate rights, but rather a tool for education.

"We're not interested in fighting causes," Hoffman said. "We're here to do time, so why should we cause controversy?"

Cadwell said he would like more freedom on the paper, but is also aware of a policy against printing controversial articles. But he too accepts the restrictions.

"You can't accomplish any reform in prison," Cadwell said. "There's no general public in an institutional setting. You just make yourself feel better by letting off steam."

Clarification of plaza Yule ruling sought

POMONA — Robert L. Davis, chairman of the Cultural Arts Commission, will go before City Council Monday at 4 p.m. to question an opinion by the city attorney that religious themes be kept out of Christmas holiday decorations in Civic Center Plaza.

"Our question is, does the city attorney's legal opinion preclude the use of religious symbolism in the lighting and displays?" said Davis.

Davis said the commission had been informed that the city attorney based his opinion on a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that tax money could not be spent on religious displays.

Davis said the commission agreed that holiday decorations and lighting should be installed in the plaza to foster civic pride.

"The commission is most enthusiastic about the general concept and will recommend to the council that a lighting display be rented and set up between Dec. 8 and 26," Davis continued.

Commissioners agreed the decorations should appeal to children and selected "The Night Before Christmas" as a theme to recommend to the council.

In keeping with the city attorney's advice, the commission accepted the opinion that the law "seems to indicate the displays should not contain specifically religious symbols," said Davis.

"The community, however, should be asked to participate in terms of music performances, using whatever themes they wish."

The Cultural Arts Commission met Wednesday night and during a two-hour session heard points of view from members of the city staff, citizens of the community, the chamber of commerce, the Downtown Business Associatin, the Pomona Valley Ministerial Association and a representative from an outdoors advertising firm.

Educator, writer, editor, author

DR. DANIEL BELL

Dr. Daniel Bell, who introduces America and the Future of Man as an accredited college degree course for Progress-Bulletin readers, has a long and distinguished career as educator, writer, editor and author.

Since 1969 a professor of sociology at Harvard University, Dr. Bell was a staff writer for the periodical The New Leader as early as 1940 and became its managing editor a year later.

There followed a literary career climaxed in 1948 with his selection to the editorial board of Fortune Magazine, a post Dr. Bell occupied for 10 years. His literary efforts were interrupted for three years beginning in 1945 when Dr. Bell served as a social science instructor at the University of Chicago.

A graduate of City College of New York in 1939, Dr. Bell received his Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1960, while he was serving as associate professor of sociology there. Later he was named professor of sociology at Columbia until 1969, when he accepted the Harvard professorship.

Dr. Bell began to turn his literary talents to the writing of books in 1955 with the publication of The New American Right. Since then he has written such works as The End of Ideology, an analysis of what the author called "the exhaustion of politicial ideas in the fifties;" The Radical Right, The Reforming Of General Education, based on the Columbia College experiment in its national setting; Marxian Socialism in the United States; Toward the Year 2000, and The Coming of the Post-Industrial Society, among others

Law penalizes seller of cigarettes to youngsters

In one of the valley's late evening carry-out shops, recently, I was drinking coffee and reading the Prog when four boys congregated around the cigarette vending machine.

They were between 10 and 13 years old. They were a bit worried about the police but inserted some coins in the machine. One stuffed the pack of cigarettes inside his shirt.

Two patrolmen walked in a moment later and told the boys that it was past 10:30 p.m. and they should go home. The patrolmen evidently had not seen the encounter with the cigarette machine. After the police left, one of the boys returned to buy another pack of cigarettes.

I remained silent throughout the episode but since I was reading Action Line at the time, it occurred to me that you could answer several questions:

What is the penalty for minors who purchase cigarettes from machines? Is a warning against such purchase to be displayed on the machine? (This one had no warning.) What would the police prefer to have onlookers do, given this situation. Should it be called to their attention? — G.B., La Verne.

Since you live in La Verne, although you didn't say in which community the incident occurred, we asked Acting Chief of Police J. L. Baker of La Verne to answer your questions.

He says that Section 308 of the State Penal Code prohibits the selling or furnishing of tobacco products to persons under 18 but does not prohibit the minor from buying or possessing such products.

The only law he knows which deals with possession by a minor of tobacco products prohibits such possession on public school property. The law is part of the education code.

Penalties for selling or furnishing tobacco to a minor range from $25 to $100 fine or not more than 60 days in jail for the first offense to $100 to $300 fine or not more than six months in jail for the third offense.

Failure of a seller to post conspicuously a copy of the law may result in a small fine.

Chief Baker inspected several machines in La Verne and found one machine which did not have a warning posted on it. The owner was contacted and correction made immediately.

"If an obvious minor is observed using a machine, I would surely advise the merchant of such action," states the chief. "If he refuses to accept his responsibility, I would not hesitate to call the local law enforcement agency."

He adds that the tobacco machine in the lobby of the La Verne Police Department was removed some time back due to the problem of trying to supervise its use.

I have a large amount of sheet music that dates back to the early 1900s an some that goes into the late 1890s. I have been told that what I have may be very valuable and not to discard it. Most of the music is that of Irving Berlin.

No one has been able to tell me where to go to find out if I have something of worth or not. Do you have any ideas on the subject? — Mrs. R. M., Ontario.

Acupuncture down on the farm

Sick animals improve with needle

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — Acupuncture, the ancient Oriental art of medicine, is being used effectively on horses and small animals in a clinic conducted at the Rex Ellsworth Ranch.

Dr. Alice De Groot, a veterinarian for several years at the Ellsworth property in this West End area, was approached in March by members of the National Acupuncture Association. The nonprofit group asked if she would be interested in the experimental treatment of animals by acupuncture.

The affirmative response led first to the treatment of horses on the Ellsworth Ranch, but has since spread to animal owners throughout Southern California. One horse was brought from as far away as Ojai.

Dr. Sang Hyuck Shin, clinical acupuncturist, coordinates the team that comes to Chino each Friday morning. He is assisted by Gene Bruno and John Ottaviano. The organization, headed by William Prensky and Dr. David Bresler, a faculty member of the department of anesthesiology at UCLA's Health Services (formerly UCLA Medical Center), has existed for three years. Human beings are also treated.

Those seeking the acupuncture treatment include John and Gladys Bendowski who heard of the clinic and traveled from South Pasadena with their 19-year-old pony Violet in the back seat of their car.

Mrs. Pendowski explained that Violet suffered from a chronic ailment that causes fever of the feet. She had experienced the painful condition for more than five years.

"We found out about it in the Los Angeles Times article. That very day I got so excited, I called right away. We were giving her pain killer. She had to have that in order to get around. She hasn't had any pain killer for two weeks now and this is her third treatment. Her appetite has improved and she enjoys everything so much more," said Mrs. Bendowski.

Opinion

U.N. is delving into world corps.

The sun may never set on the British Empire, but it never goes down on scores of multinational business empires like Mitsubishi, General Electric and Volkswagen.

ITT, for example, has more overseas employes than the State Department, noted Lester R. Brown recently in the National Observer. Standard Oil's tanker fleet is half again as large as that of the Soviet Union. General Motors' sales exceed the gross national product of Switzerland.

In a combined list of 100 countries and corporations according to gross national product and gross annual sales, 59 are nation-states and 41 are multinational corporations.

Small wonder then that the United Nations has launched a year-long inquiry into the multinational phenomenon with the aim of devising some form of monitoring system over the giant enterprises to make them more accountable to governments in countries where they operate.

(Significantly, the initiative for the probe came from the now-deposed Marxist government of President Salvador Allende of Chile, who charged U.S. companies with attempting to subvert his regime.)

Domestically, multinationals are on the defensive against allegations from some union leaders and congressmen that they are exporting Americans' jobs.

Actually, the multinational phenomenon is new only in degree, not in kind. In 1861, 10 years after it was founded, Singer sold more sewing machines overseas than in the United States. It still does.

On the other hand, Dow Chemical Co. did not make its first substantial move into the international field until the early 1950s.

The story of how one company, Clark Equipment, went multinational is revealing.

After World War II, explains board chairman Walter E. Schirmer, Europeans began purchasing replacement parts for Clark lift trucks left behind by the U.S. Army. As Clark's reputation overseas grew, so did its sales. Then local competition appeared and governments began enacting protective tariffs. To protect its market, Clark began to license foreign manufacturers of its products.

Schirmer estimates that one out of every nine of Clark's 20,000 employes in the United States holds a job because of the company's export business. He blames "economic illiteracy" for fears and suspicions about multinationals.

Dow has similar figures: One out of every six of its U.S. employes owes his job to Dow's international business; export sales provide some 15,000 additional jobs in the U.S. for people who supply products and services to Dow and its employes.

Today, however, few multinational companies are truly international; they are still tied in many ways to their home governments. But as they become more and more transnational, the effect on life in the 21st century may be profound. As national companies have contributed to higher living standards throughout the United States, the companies which know no boundaries will do the same throughout the world.

The chief reason many governments and their citizens are disturbed by multinational companies, says Walter B. Wriston, chairman of First National City Corp., is that they represent "today's visible agents of change."

Change is always disturbing.

Everybody wins?

In the light of comments made since the Legislature finally agreed to roll back the unnecessary sales tax increase, everybody won the battle that had been going on between the legislative and executive branches.

The taxpayers certainly did. Governor Reagan got the rollback he had been seeking. And legislators who had at first opposed him now are happily certain that although they had to do an about face on the actual sales tax issue, they gained points in their fight against the Governor's tax limitation measure on the November ballot.

The arguments pro and con are to the average layman somewhat complicated, as political maneuverings can frequently be. But both sides seem confident. The Governor's opponents feel the rollback measure provides complicating factors that will generate public opposition to his reform measure. He, according to aides, is quite confident to the contrary.

One sure winner, so far at least, is the taxpayer.

A harum-scarum campaign

WASHINGTON — The two correspondents who doubled as Nixon spies provided the White House last year with a fascinating, running account of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign. Their confidential reports would make a book, which might be called "The Making of a Fiasco."

Under the code name "Chapman's Friend," Seymour Freidin and Lucianne Goldberg dictated reports sometimes twice a day to Nixon aide Murray Chotiner. He distributed copies to White House Chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and campaign director Clark MacGregor.

Freidin followed the McGovern campaign until Sept. 5, 1972, when Goldberg took over as the new Chapman's Friend. We have obtained their reports and checked them with sources close to the campaign. Some say the spy reports are accurate; others claim they are distorted.

But the secret pair gave the White House an account of a harum-scarum campaign, which Freidin called "McGovern's flying circus" and Goldberg described as a "disorganized disaster." Here are typical excerpts:

Almost comic

August 23: "By the end of the Midwest tour, McGovern was saying privately that the operation must be tightened up . . . Some of the strategy sessions were almost comic — in a knot of twos and threes in the fairgrounds at Springfield was an example. Spot decisions were being made on walk-tours . . . It was something of a reminder of the 1968 early swings of (Hubert) Humphrey — bad scheduling, poor crowds and disorganization . . . The liaison between (running mate Sargent) Shriver and McGovern was gossamer at best; nonexistent at worst . . .The entourage is too busy with its own delicious thoughts and wisecracks. It should be carefully noted that jealousies keep growing and some intramural upheavals should not be excluded."

August 29: "The McGovern for President headquarters (in Washington) is a worse firetrap than when it was a citadel for (Sen. Ed) Muskie. It's eight floors of a ramshackle building fit to be condemned; has two wheezy elevators — signs urging people to walk down if descending — and floors that are carved into dozens of tiny cubicles."

August 30: "When the media shows — as it does increasingly — that it does not take McGovern too seriously, his top people get furious. Thus it would seem that scoffing at McGovern's suggestions rather than treating them, point by point, with gravity is a useful tactic."

Brain trust

September 1: "The operations may be summed up in the observations of Dr. Henry Meyers, a scientist who has been asked to prepare national security papers, ideas . . . from the top foreign affairs-disarmament brain trust of McGovern. Meyers told me that he received a paper yesterday—'The collective brainpower of this operation,' as Meyers put it. 'It was 30 pages, single-spaced. It was impossible. Everybody and his brother put his ideas into it, and this was given to me to whip into shape. Then, some of the guys who appealed to me to get involved went home at 4 p.m. — to go swimming.' "

September 6: "After the speech (in Dallas), Chapman's Friend asked some businessmen why there weren't any big Democrats present. One answered: 'Not even a dog catcher would be out there, because he would not be a dog catcher after the next election.' "

September 8, 12:15 a.m.: "The newspapers tell about McGovern's visit to NASA in Houston. It should be noted that astronauts always say 'sir' every other sentence, but they didn't say 'sir' to McGovern . . . Shriver got hell from McGovern for missing a dinner with the Ohio labor leader. It seems he was taking a shower when he was supposed to be eating with the labor leader."

Resignations

September 8, 5:30 p.m.: "Chapman's Friend was standing in the hall when someone said that Gordon Weil had resigned . . . (Press aide Richard) Dougherty forgot himself momentarily and replied: 'You know what the senator said this morning? Every time he hears of another resignation, he feels like he's an astronaut up in a spacecraft and the guy below in charge of oxygen keeps pulling the plug.' Someone said: 'Is this going to keep up? Dougherty: 'Oh hell, if this keeps up, the next one to resign will be George McGovern' . . . In direct contrast to the press plane where a good time is had on trips, McGovern's plane is reported to be like a flying coffin. Occasionally he gets up and walks about half way back to talk to the press but loses his nerve and goes back and sits down."

September 14: "Chapman's Friend reports that there is hard-core disenchantment with McGovern among the press traveling with him because it is such a lackluster campaign. The pool reports have started to refer to him as McGoon."

September 15: "Chapman's Friend had a conversation on the plane with John Gage, a long-time McGovern supporter, who . . . is typical of the extremely well educated, articulate young pople around McGovern. His attitude was that of disillusionment — not so much because of vascillation but because the man had no personal charisma; that he said things that read well in print but when he said them it put you to sleep."

Senator's cold

September 26, 12:30 a.m.: "With the hectic pace of the campaign trail, little sleep, changes in weather, etc., many of the traveling group have been plagued with colds and illnesses for the past week. It has now reached the top. The senator like everybody else has a cold."

September 26, 6:45 p.m.: "During the delivery of his usual speech, McGovern commented on the Nixon pickets that have been turning up. 'Let them send them around,' he said. 'We are happy to have them. We would rather have Nixon paying pickets than to have Nixon pay people to spy on us.'"

October 12: "While in Boston, McGovern did the Jerry Williams Show. As he was leaving, Williams handed him a tape of a Vietnam veteran . . . . On the airplane between Boston and Minneapolis, McGovern put the tape on the loudspeaker and played the voice of this young man. It was a very emotional tape. He talked about going into villages where the napalm burned bodies so badly that they could not be distinguished from animals . . . . McGovern had tears in his eyes when the tape was over. He simply turned around and went into his cabin and laid down."

November 7: "The atmosphere is that of good-humored resignation on the part of McGovern's staff. He has had his whole family and a dog named Upset with him. A newsman from the New York Daily News posted a page from the Harvard Lampoon on the plane . . . which simply says: 'Defeat.'"

Gossip for today

In this enlightened era, sex segregation is being declared illegal with ever increasing frequency. Already the Supreme Court has ruled that mixed sun bathing in the nude is legal if it is done in out of the way places. As a result of that decision three times as many men and women have been running around nude on our out of the way beaches this year than did last year.

Any day now you can expect some judge to rule that signs over the doors leading into public rest rooms should be changed from HIS and HERS to THEIRS. Already this giant step forward in sex desegregation has been taken in one important area. Aboard U.S. Coast Guard ships, separate bathrooms are no longer required for men and women.

Day by day in every way our sense of propriety is becoming increasingly liberated. And if the Supreme Court keeps on making rulings, in a short time there will be little if anything left of a thing called old fashioned morality. — Which is a downright shame because it works a hardship on our young folks. They are finding it cause it works a hardship on our young folks. They are finding it increasingly difficult to find things to do that will shock their elders.

Speculators control prices of foodstuffs

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — On the face of it, growing and marketing farm products seems a fairly elementary exercise . . . something like "to market, to market, to buy a fat pig."

Only it isn't the way it seems. Sow bellies and soybeans, and other commodities, seldom go from farmer to packer to consumer, at least not right away. Food speculators, who never see the goods, intervene; gambling millions that they will hit it right and be able to guess when their commodity will take a sudden price hike on the market.

These speculators, who have tremendous influence over the economic flow of farm goods, have caused U.S. farm prices to fluctuate wildly.

Further, according to some reports, the government agency responsible for protecting the public from boom or bust price trends, has a long-standing habit of looking the other way.

To offset some of this criticism, the Department of Agriculture's Commodity Exchange Authority (CEA) has been busily investigating its way through the summer in an effort to uncover and eliminate possible price manipulations of corn and soybean futures.

Crackdown comes too late

CEA has managed some successes with its hurry-up crackdown. However, as noted by Agriculture's Office of Inspector General (OIG), the damage has already been done and the snowballed inflation of food prices is evidence to that.

OIG has concluded that CEA "did not make adequate analysis, inquiries and conclusions" on trading where strong indications of price manipulation were shown.

In defense of CEA it is necessary to note that the agency is responsible for regulating a business that during the last fiscal year generated $268.3 billion worth of trade. And CEA only has 160 employees.

By comparison, the Securities and Exchange Commission, with 1,656 people, regulated a volume just over $195 million for the same period.

But even when CEA has come up evidence of manipulation, punishment has been lightly applied, or not at all.

One of the nation's largest grain trading companies was found guilty in 1963 of price fixing wheat futures. More than 7½ years later, CEA decided to place the company's top officials on probation. CEA could have banned the company from trading, altogether.

What does all this mean to the consumer? Plenty!

In testimony before a congressional committee, a Missouri farmers association official told legislators that "excessive paper trading" in soybeans contributed to the killing of pregnant sows and the smothering of baby chicks.

Why would farmers destroy their obvious means of support? Because excessive speculation had shot the price of soybeans — the principal feed ingredient — from $7 a bushel to $12.90. Farmers could not afford to bring baby livestock to market size at those prices.

In another example of socking it to the public, OIG uncovered a scheme where one contract for a carload of November potatoes was sold and resold 35 times on the final trading day by three brothers for ever increasing prices. This was done right under a CEA agent's nose, who later reported trading was done in "an orderly fashion."

With prices for everything inflated, it is necessary government agencies keep the lid on exorbitant manipulations, where possible. A prime target is the price of food and CEA should be beefed-up or dressed-down to get it on track.

"It had disrupted the proper flow of motor senses to the brain," said Dr. DeGroot. "And its bladder and bowel control had been disrupted. This is his second treatment and already he's showing a marked improvement. He has only had one bowel accident since treatment began. I really didn't think this dog would respond, but he has very nicely."

Dr. DeGroot explained that Dr. Shin has "got involved in this because his father is a veterinarian in Korea. He was very interested in getting acupuncture treatment for animals."

Dr. Alice is convinced of the worth of the treatments because her Irish wolf hound, Quill, lame for several years, had lost his limp.

After steadying a horse for treatment of an injury to the right hind leg, Bruno explained the Oriental technique.

"Most of the written records available are from China, but there are many from the Maya culture and ancient Egypt. Acupuncture deals with the third vascular system," he said.

Dr. Shin noted that the system consists of 12 meridians, each of which corresponds to a different organ system. Among these, he said, are the small and large intestinals, heart, kidney, bladder, gall bladder, lung, triple warmer and circulation sex, stomach, spleen and governing vessel of conception.

The acupuncturists have treated animals for emphysema, arthritis, liver toxemia, gastroid intestinal problems, facial paralysis, skin allergies, dysplasia (damaged hip joints) and limb injuries.

Dr. Alice reported that "improvement has been excellent" in all cases.

The association is operated by donations. Although there is no charge for the service, a small contribution is requested.

Parent education unit to hear psychologist

CLAREMONT — Dr. Thomas Gordon, a licensed clinical psychologist, will speak on parent effectiveness training Oct. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at Taylor Hall, 1717 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

The lecture will be sponsored by the Committee on Parenthood Education. Admission is $1 a person.

Dr. Gordon is president of Effectiveness Training Associates, and has written two books: "Parent Effectiveness Training: The No-Lose Program for Raising Responsible Children," and "Group-Centered Leadership."

His rapidly expanding program on parent effectiveness training is a basic course on how to raise children and has been called "revolutionary" because it shows parents why she should be neither strict nor permissive.

COPE is a nonprofit corporation organized to help parents deal with the challenge of raising physiologically and psycholigically happy, healthy and productive children by providing current child development information and a contact with other parents.

Meals program gains $350, 35 volunteers

POMONA — Meals on Wheels is richer by $350 and 35 volunteers as a result of an opening meeting at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

According to Jim Kuhn, chairman of the Pomona MOW, the donations from individuals and groups ranged from $5 to $100. The money will be used to purchase equipment for the packaging and delivering of complete noontime meals to shut-ins and invalids in Pomona.

An additional 35 volunteers signed up to help with the delivering of bulk meals from the hospital, where they will be pepared, to the First Pesbyterian Church where they will be packaged into individual servings. Other volunteers will deliver the meals to the families. Recipients will pay only the actual cost of the meal.

A tea is planned on Oct. 14 to further interest the public in the program.

November 5 has been set as the kick-off date for the program if enough volunteers and equipment are ready. Persons wishing to receive the meals or those wishing to assist as volunteers may call 623-0010 for additional information.

Youth program

Pomona recreation classes will start

POMONA — The Pomona Park and Recreation Department's fall youth instructional program for boys and girls will begin Monday.

Tap dancing will be offered to all children of kindergarten age and older. Classes will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. and will be taught by Miss Joan Edwards. The fee will be $1. Classes will meet at Washington Park on Monday, Diamond Point School on Tuesday, Arroyo School on Wednesday, Kingsley School on Thursday and Westmont Park on Friday.

Baton twirling, also for kindergarteners and up, will be held at the same hours and will be taught by Mrs. Debra Cahill. Classes will meet at Golden Springs School on Tuesday, Montvue School on Thursday, Lexington School on Friday, with an additional class at Ganesha Park Community Center on Saturday at

Hawaiian dance for girls 8 and over, and Tahitian dance for girls 12 and over will be taught by Mrs. Diane Ito Warner. Registration will be taken from 3:30 to 5 p.m. at Westmont Park on Thursday and at Washington Park on Friday. A $1 fee will be charged.

A hand-sewing class, the Merry Stitchers, for girls in the fifth and sixth grades, will hold registration each day from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. this week. Registration will be taken Monday at Arroyo School, Tuesday at Madison School, Wednesday at Lexington School, Thursday at Hamilton School and Friday at North San Antonio School.

America and the future of man

2 centuries see flight from farms to factories

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is professor of sociology at Harvard University. Herein he discusses population and the social costs of new members.)

By DANIEL BELL

Copyright, 1973,
Regents of the University of California

In 1789, when George Washington was inaugurated as the first President of the United States, and the Constitution that still guides our life had just been ratified, there were less than four million persons in all the thirteen states of the Union.

Of these, 750,000 were blacks, nearly all of them slaves, and could not participate in political society.

It was a young population: The median age was sixteen, and there were only 816,000 males above that age. The overwhelming number of persons were farmers; 95 per cent of the population was rural. Few persons lived in cities.

In all, 200,000 individuals lived in what were then defined as "urban areas"—places with more than 2,500 inhabitants. New York, then the capital of the country, had a population of 33,000.

Because America was a small country, members of the political elite knew each other well. But for most persons, life was vastly different. Living, isolated, in small communities or in sparsely inhabited areas, people seldom traveled great distances, and a visitor from afar was a rarity.

News meant local gossip, and the few news sheets concentrated on parochial events. The ordinary citizen's image of the world and its politics was exceedingly circumscribed.

By 1900, there were 75 million persons in the United States. Almost nine million, or twelve per cent, were blacks. The weight of the country was changing, but the balance was still rural and agricultural. Of the 75 million, 45 million, or 60 per cent of the population, still lived in rural areas.

And of 29 million persons at work, 11 million were in agriculture, the single largest category, and another million in mining, fishing and timber. Only six million persons worked in manufacturing, and of these a goodly number were artisans and craftsmen.

But the westward expansion of the country had come to a halt. The lands that remained for homesteads were limited and often marginal. Industrialization and urbanization were quickening their pace.

Yet, by the turn of the century, there were no automobiles, no radios, no motion pictures. And only 6.5 per cent of the youth finished high school—a figure which itself was double the percentage of only a decade before.

By 1970, two-thirds of the way through the century, there were 205 million persons in the country (25 million of whom were blacks and other non-whites), and of these, 150 million, or 73.5 per cent, now lived in urban areas.

Of about 80 million employed, a little more than 3 million were farmers (a decline of 50 per cent in the decade). The single largest employment was manufacturing, with 20 million persons, but 15 million persons were in trade and 12.5 million in government.

With industrialization and urbanization, an entire new pattern of transportation and communication had appeared. There were now more than 80 million automobiles in the country, and 82 per cent of all families owned at least one (30 per cent of families owned two or more), and 95 per cent of the households had a television set. These had transformed the life-style of the society. But equally striking was the advance in the level of education.

By 1970, more than 78 per cent of youths had graduated from high school, and half of these now went on directly to college. The major feature of the decade was the explosion in higher education.

In 1970, more than 8 million persons were enrolled in colleges, more than 4 million of whom were full-time students in four-year colleges.

So far, I have concentrated on numbers rather than on the character of the people, the nature of the political institutions, or the quality of the productive economy, yet it is growth in number which, in the first instance, provides the primary set of problems for the management of change in the society. And without understanding this fact, there can be little realization of the nature of the social strains we have endured—and face.

Since the end of World War II, there have been three major demographic changes in the United States:

One might be called the population explosion, the second the population implosion, and the third the racial transformation of the central cities of the metropolitan areas.

In the quarter of a century from the end of World War II to the present, more than 90 million children were born. In the single decade from 1950 to 1960, almost 30 million persons were added to the population—a figure as large as the entire population increase in the seven decades from 1790 to 1860.

People required few services in those years. Today "infrastructure" services — roads, sewerage, water, schools, etc.—for a new population cost $18,000 per person. If one multiplies this figure by the population increase, one gains a sense of the magnitude involved in meeting the social costs of new numbers.

But with this population explosion has come a second change as well.

In the nineteenth century, added growth could be absorbed in the segmental expansion of the country. In the last quarter of a century, that growth could only be pyramidal, i.e., piling up on top of existing areas and increasing the density.

For, there was a contraction of agriculture in that same period of time, and 25 million persons left the farms and moved to the cities. Thus, the population implosion has been an ingathering of the American population concentrated in a few places.

And with this transformation — particularly with the expulsion of southern black sharecroppers from the land—we have had a vast migration of blacks to the North. In the last decade, the non-white population of the central cities increased by 25 per cent.

Blacks already constitute a majority in Washington, D.C., in Newark, in Atlanta, and in Gary, and before long seven more major cities in the United States—Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland, St. Louis, New Orleans, Memphis and Philadelphia — will be predominantly black.

What I have been illustrating here is what sociologists call a structural change in the framework of society. The transient and the tumultuous engage our curiosities and our passions, they absorb us in the present, but they also blind us to deeper underlying elements that are reshaping the contexts of the society.

In addition to the demographic changes, there are three major structural changes underway that are reworking the fabric of the society.

First is the fact that, in the past thirty years, we have become for the first time a national society.

We have always been a nation, in the psychological sense of possessing a coherent national identity, but not until now have we been a national society. Technological evolutions in transportation and communication have made the social and political shocks of the society, which once were relatively isolated and insulated, register in every part of the society at once.

Television coverage of police dogs snarling at Martin Luther King in Birmingham, Ala., made him a national figure and led to 10,000 persons joining him twenty-four hours later in a march of protest.

The creation of a national society poses the need for national institutions. In the 1920s, we became for the first time a national economy, and the Roosevelt administration had to fashion national mechanisms—in labor relations, regulation of securities and financial markets, fiscal and monetary policy—to manage a national economy.

Today we are struggling to create national mechanisms to meet the needs in health, welfare, and education.

Second, we have become a communal society. This development has taken two forms. One, because of the growth of numbers and the increasing "spill-over" of side effects, we have become aware of dangers to the environment and of the need to regulate air pollution, water resources, solid waste disposal, recreational spaces, and the like. These are tasks, necessarily, for government, from the federal to the local level.

And, in a different dimension, we are more aware of the claims on the community by disadvantaged groups—the poor, the aged, the culturally deprived, the racially discriminated—for redress of their grievances. For these reasons, the role of government has become enhanced.

Third, we are becoming a post-industrial society. We are no longer a manufacturing economy.

It is the simultaneous convergence of these four structural changes—the demographic transformation, the creation of a new, tighter-knit national society, the development of a communal society with new claims, and the emergence of a post-industrial society with new educational requirements — that have posed management problems for the society.

Out of these changes has come the large "youth bulge" of the 1960s, with its strains—the huge migrations, the expansion of the suburbs, the racial transformation of the cities, and the attendant conflicts that have come in their wake.

And on top of these problems was a difficult war that had, for most Americans, a morally ambiguous character.

Can all these problems, simultaneously converging, be managed? It is at this point that the character of the people, the flexibility of the institutions, and the quality of leadership become the decisive questions. And these are the questions for other essays in this series.

National realty group:

Nixon's housing policy supported

CHICAGO — President Nixon's housing policy recommendations recently submitted to Congress has received support from J. D. Sawyer, president of the National Association of Realtors.

"The President's proposal to provide immediate relief to the hard pressed home mortgage market should alleviate an extremely serious threat confronting the home building industry," he explained.

Nixon announced the government would move shortly to allow saving and loan associations to provide an additional $2.5 billion in mortgage loan commitments.

Such credit has been virtually shut off since June because of the diversion of savers' funds into high interest bearing U. S. Treasury bills and other investments, said Sawyer.

"Under the Administration plan, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board will provide forward commitments to saving and loan associations, guaranteeing that money will be available to them at some future date to cover present home loan commitments they could not otherwise make," he explained.

Sawyer also welcomed the Administration's announcement of an attempt to attract $3 billion in private funds into the mortgage market for new housing construction.

"This move will involve a revival of the so-called Tandem Plan of the Government National Mortgage Association, under which the government buys mortgages at prices favorable to the seller, then sells them back to the originator or other investors at discounts sufficient to provide a fair market yield.

"The effect of this strategem is to provide money for FHA-insured mortgages at interest rates below the market level," he noted.

Sawyer said both these steps can be taken by the Administration immediately to help the housing credit squeeze, without waiting for Congressional action on other phases of the Administration's housing plan. Such actoin is not expected before next fall.

"These measures are necessary in the short run," the real estate industry spokesman said, "to help relieve conditions caused by the unprecedented rise in interest rates. Taking a longer view, however, we are especially pleased to see reflected in Mr. Nixon's proposal our recommendation for a plan to provide direct cash assistance to low income families to permit them to choose their own homes, rather than forcing on them new housing, with its inevitable housing project sitgma. We believe this will not only provide more decent housing for those who cannot otherwise afford it, but will have the added virtue of effectively utilizing the nation's supply of existing homes.

"Also welcome is the President's intention to seek legislation which would update and improve the existing laws governing mortgage credit by permitting homeowners to pay fair market rates on FHA and VA insured loans. We believe that such legislatoin would have the effect of helping to prevent wild fluctuations in mortgage rates, while insuring that home buyers would have an adequate supply of mortgage credit payable at reasonable rates. The National Association of Tealtors, has long advocated the enactment of legislation permitting realistic interest rates on government-insured mortgages," Sawyer said.

In commenting on the Administration's announced intention to seek legislation aimed at encouraging more financial institutions to invest in residential mortgages by establishing a sliding scale of tax credits on such loans, Sawyer noted that a National Association of Realtors' spokesman had advocated such a measure earlier in testimony before the Housing Banking and Currency Committee.

Sawyer also strongly backed the President's reaffirmation of his Administration's intention to vigorously pursue a wide range of efforts to enforce fair housing and equal opportunities laws enacted by Congress in 1964 and 1968. In endorsing these government policies, Sawyer noted that the National Association of Realtors has formulated an official Code for Equal Opportunity, pledging its members to "offer equal service to all clients or prospective clients without regard to race, color, religion or national origin, and to refrain from any activity which has the purpose of inducing panic selling."

Realtors elect new officers

SAN DIEGO — C. Larry Hoag of Downey has been elected new president of the California Real Estate Association, which has 70,000 members.

He will succeed Richard C. Van Valero of San Jose, effective Jan. 1.

Other new officers include Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, first vice president; E. Thornton Ibbetson, of Bellflower, treasurer; and Zan L. Beckstead of Chatsworth, executive vice president and state secretary.

The elections occurred during the realty group's annual convention here.

Hoag is president of The Hoag Co., Inc., a real estate brokerage firm, which has divisions in residential, investment, commercial, industrial, property management and insurance fields.

He has been involved in CREA work for the past 20 years and served this year as first vice president.

Mrs. Raiguel has been a salesman with the Wheeler-Steffen real estate firm in Claremont for the past eight years. She is a charter member of the Pomona Valley Real Estate Toastmasters Club.

Mrs. Canfield is associated with her husband's real estate firm, Charles L. Canfield Real Estate. Their two sons, Charles and Rob are also connected with the firm.

Mrs. Canfield is program chairman for the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors, a member of the Pomona Redevelopment Commission, and a member of the Toastmasters Breakfast Club.

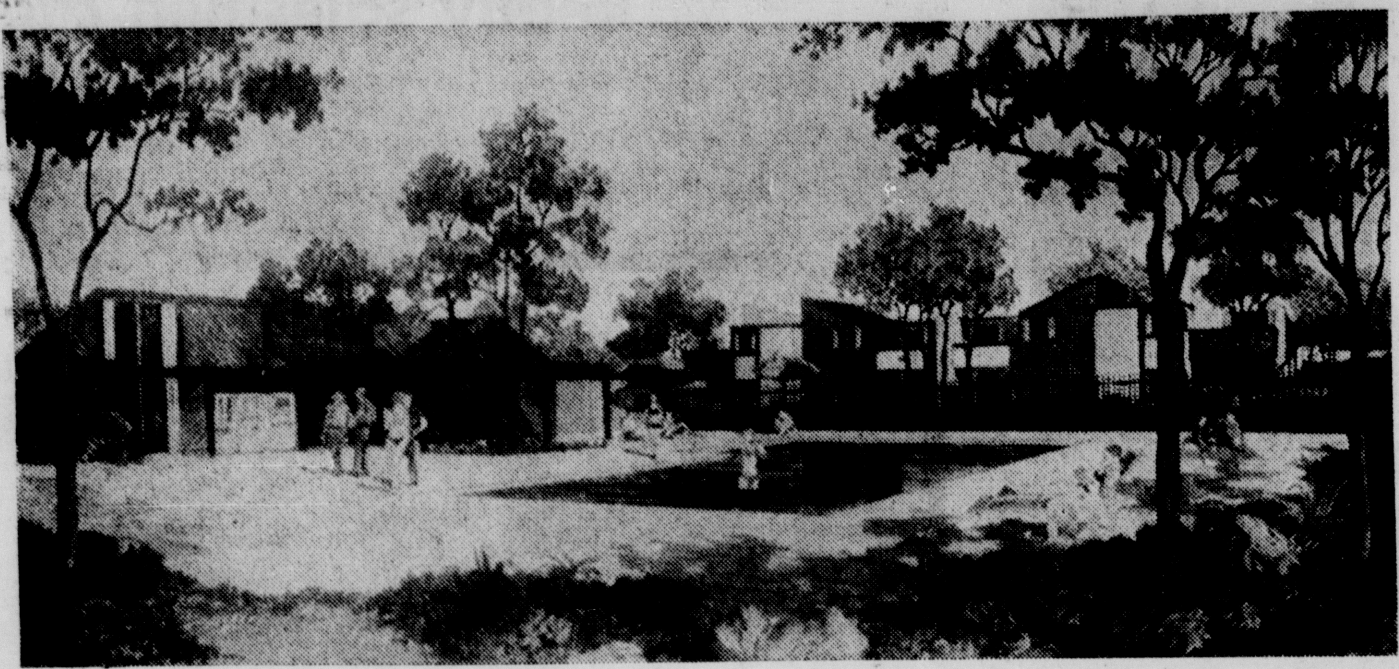
grand opening



SPRING HILL — This luxury rental townhouse complex is holding a grand opening today. The $1.5 million development is located at 410 S. Indian Hill Blvd., Claremont.

64 family apartments

New Claremont townhouse has grand opening today

CLAREMONT — A $1.5 million rental townhouse complex at 410 S. Indian Hill Blvd. is holding its grand opening today.

The development, with 64 family apartments, was built by the American Housing Guild of San Diego.

"Our concept for Spring Hill was to develop rental townhomes offering residents luxury as well as practical features," said Nancie Larimore, director of consumer marketing.

"We feel we have accomplished our goal by incorporating the most luxurious built-in conveniences for our residents while providing them a totally maintained environment featuring a host of appealing amenities."

The project has a heated pool, outdoor gas barbecues, landscaped grounds and "tot lots."

"One outstanding convenience for mothers is our special closed circuit television system located in our tot lots," said Miss Larimore. "Mothers merely turn their television to a pre-determined channel, which is connected to the closed circuit system, thus allowing her to keep an eye on the youngsters without ever leaving her apartment."

The Spring Hill townhomes offer three floor plans, which include two, three and four bedrooms. They range in size from 1,100 square feet to over 1,400 square feet. The models include:

— The Morninglory, with two bedrooms, 1½ baths and upstairs private balcony off the master bedroom; Wildflower, three bedrooms, 1½ baths, separate dining room, family room, and large dressing area in the master bedroom; Poppy, three bedrooms and den, two baths, fireplace, private patio and dressing area in the master bedroom suite.

"One feature receiving enthusiastic support is the enclosed washer and dryer space located in each unit," said Miss Larimore. "For those residents who don't have a washer and dryer, arrangements can be made to rent them for a monthly fee."

The kitchens include ranges and ovens, dishwashers, luminous ceiling lights, serving counters and large pantries in most models.

The living area has shag carpeting, drapes, wood paneling, drop-beam ceilings, built-in book shelves and fireplaces in some models.

Other features include forced air heating and air conditioning, separate dining and family rooms, enclosed patio areas and garages.

Spring Hill is composed of 10 buildings. The rustic appearance is created by the use of beige stucco, highlighted with contrasts of dark stained rough sawn wood for patios, balconies, decks and fences.

Princess has houses for all families

CHINO — Prospective buyers can find a home that best suits their family size, budget and lifestyle at Princess del Rancho here, said officials.

They have 17 exterior elevations and nine floor plans from which to choose. The three and four bedroom single family homes are priced from $26,950. The homes are located on Mountain Avenue south of the Pomona Freeway.

Features include wall-to-wall carpeting, two bathrooms, and kitchens with ranges, ovens, dishwashers and disposals. The homes also have extra storage cabinets, master bedroom suites with private bathrooms and large wardrobes, concrete patios and two car garages.

The development is close to schools, parks and a shopping center. Furnished model homes are open daily. Colwell Properties, Inc., is the sales agent.

ORCHARD LANE — Among the quality features found in the Orchard Lane condominium development in Upland is a compartmentalized bath, featuring separate cultured marble lavatory with pullman cabinet.

Ready for any financial deal

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four call girls arrested in a downtown hotel when they met four policemen posing as businessmen were equipped for any financial transaction.

Capt. Gerald Shaughnessy said the girls entered the officers' rooms Tuesday and carried machines which were to be used for credit cards.

Home size is popular at Carriage

UPLAND — The size of homes at Carriage Square West is a popular feature with visitors, said Dale Ostendorf, sales agent for Key Realty.

"Every home has four bedrooms and two or two and a half baths and a minimum size 2,290 square feet of living area," he added.

"That means every room is large, and there is plenty of room for individual privacy."

The homes, available in one and two story plans, are priced from $45,450 to $47,950. The lots have a minimum of 10,000 square feet, which provides room for swimming pools.

Features include central air conditioning, forced air heating, insulated exterior walls and ceilings, nylon shag carpeting, interior laundry areas, and underground utilities.

Tusks give walrus name

The generic name of the walrus is odoebenus, meaning "He who walks with his teeth," referring to the long tusks. These tusks are used for fighting, climbing and digging food. A walrus can capsize a boat by hooking the tusks into the side of the boat.

So many walruses will climb on one ice floe that the floe will tip and throw them all into the water. A walrus can attain a speed of up to 15 miles per hour while swimming.

Reno reporting linen shortage

Bob Easton of American Linen Supply said Thursday that textile exports to Japan and China have created a shortage and driven prices up 400 per cent.

"Our problem is trying to conserve the linens we have," Easton said.

He added that he has advised casino hotels to regard linens as more precious than money.

Land titles on convention agenda

LOS ANGELES — Problems and progress in protecting land titles will be discussed today through Wednesday when the American Land Title Association holds its 67th annual convention.

The group is a national association of abstract and title insurance compnaies who search, review and insure land titles to protect home buyers, mortgage lenders and other real estate investors Nearly all title insurers are members.

Speakers will include Edwin O. Guthman, national editor for the Los Angeles Times, and Julian H. Taylor, Bank of America vice president. They will review the state of the conomy.

Members will consider in convention sessions the latest developments in federal efforts to regulate real estate settlement costs and practices. They will also hear presentations on state rating bureaus as regular tools.

Other discussions will deal with joint title plants as means of improving efficiencey and standard forms that provide uniformity in title insurance coverage.

Dr. Norman B. Sigband, of the USC graduate school of business, will conduct a workshop on employee motivation.

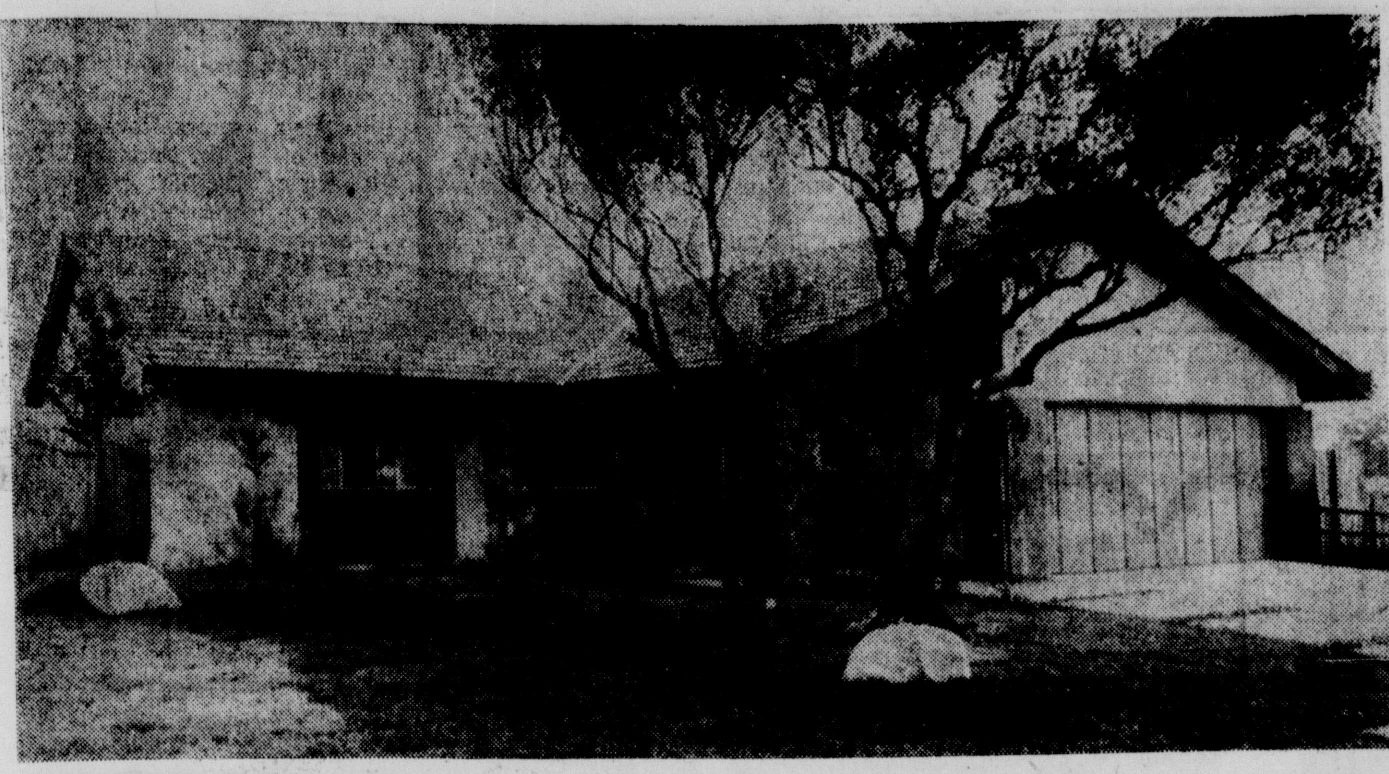
ANOTHER PRESLEY COMMUNITY



MARLBOROUGH COUNTRY — The Aspen is a three bedroom home with adjoining living and family rooms to maximize living and family areas. This home features vaulted ceilings and double door entry.

Marlborough visited by 500 persons

"Advance sales plus visitors on opening day indicate a great acceptance for the kind of homes that Marlborough has developed in Chino," said Ron Carl, vice president of sales and marketing for Marlborough Development Corp.

The homes, priced from $30,990, feature air conditioning, double door entries, vaulted ceilings, carpeting in the living room, hallways and master bedrooms, separate family rooms and fireplaces with gas outlets.

Some kitchens are located on the rear patio for easy access to outdoor living, said Carl. Front yard landscaping plus rear and side yard fencing are provided.

The four model homes — called Aspen, Beechwood, Tamarack and Willow — each have three exterior elevations. A total of 240 homes are planned for the development located on Walnut Avenue near Ramona Avenue.

Platinum image

Platinum, one of the most expensive metals used in jewelry making, was once regarded as not valuable in Russia. Poor people fashioned it into crude buttons for their clothing.

No ladies man

He runs a pack of wolves

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Almost 13 years ago, Joe Beagin, a balding engineer with a gleam in his eye was discussing girls on a morning television talk show here.

Afterwards, Raqual Welch said, "You ought to do something about it," and the International Society of Girlwatchers was born. Miss Welch, then Raquel Tejada, was the TV station's weather girl.

"At Raquel's urging, we held a one-time meeting in October of 1960," Beagin said. "We held a series of seminars on watching. A group of stewardesses told the girls what they were doing wrong, and we selected a queen—Jodie Hocking."

The 127 persons who attended the meeting refused to let it die as a one-time shot and Beagin spent much of his spare time making up eyeball lapel pins, membership cards and conducting "watchable" contests. In 1964 a convention attended by 250 men was held and professional girl watching techniques were demonstrated.

Beagin has long since left his engineering post and now conducts lectures and demonstrations throughout the country as well as making television appearances. Jewelry, shirts, ash trays and other items bearing the "watching eyeballs" insignia are on the market for both men and women, and a women's auxiliary is taking shape.

The remark he made which spurred Miss Welch's comment was: "I think the girls in San Diego are great but there are some that don't belong downtown in capris and iron spikes. Some are outright unbecoming."

Now the goal of the society is "to compliment and call attention to well groomed appearances everywhere and make every man a professional girl watcher."

Beagin claims 20,000-30,000 members throughout the world. Most of these come to bouts where Beagan and his girlwatching demonstrations have proved popular.

Members receive kits which amount to pocket-size wallets containing rating cards, watchable awards and an instruction book.

The cards contain 12 rating categories ranging from "lovely" and "M-M-M" to "cold." Most are complimentary but a few are not.

The watchable awards are about the size of a half-dollar and have a sticky back for pasting on the girl's clothing. They read, "presented as a sincere compliment for your lovely well groomed appearance."

The instruction book contains techniques such as "how to watch girls when you're with your wife or girl friend," the wristwatch "watch," and "the shoelace tie."

Among the words of advice on the latter is "timing is of the utmost importance. Be sure to shake the foot with the loose shoelace three or four times in order to set the stage for the full watch."

Periodic contests are held in various areas for the most watchable shopper, sports fan, bowler, bikini wearer and best legs. The prizes are worthwhile but many of the contestants seem to enter primarily for the fun of it. In some cases, such as shopper and sports fan, they don't even know they are entered as they are judged surreptitiously by girlwatchers members.

The society also selected the most watchable woman in the world in 10 categories each year.

"There's always the perennial beauty contest entrant," Beagin said. "What happens to the other girls who are just as attractive and smart looking? Our idea is to seek them out and give them their compliment."

Beagin said there has never been a complaint from the women and no frontal assault from "women's lib."

"We're not doing anything to hurt their cause," he said. "In fact, we're in sympathy with them but we'll fight to the last nailhead against claims that women are not for men to admire and adore.

"That was planned long before we got here. Man is going to be attracted to women and women to men."

TIMELY ART — With women becoming more concerned about masculine observation, Joe Beagin has found a way to scope the scene without blowing it. The founder of the International Society of Girlwatchers demonstrates the "wristwatch watch" at a recent convention.

Business exec sees more U.S., China trading

SEATTLE (UPI) —The board chairman of Boeing thinks that U.S. trade will increase with the People's Republic of China.

T. A. Wilson, just back from a 10-day visit to China where two 707 jetliners were delivered, said Thursday there were no significant business discussions with officials during his trip, but he added:

"We operate under the assumption there will be following orders."

He was speaking of additional sales of Boeing planes to China, which bought 10 model 707s last year in a $125 million deal.

"They are a meticulous, thorough customer," he said. "They are thorough in technical acceptance of the airplane."

It's kid stuff

Mosquitoes hit by new poisons

FRESNO (UPI) —Big, buzzing mosquitoes are a painful fact of life in the San Joaquin Valley.

Because of the vast amount of irrigation and inevitable waste of water, billions of mosquitoes can be produced in a few days in one carelessly flooded pasture.

These mosquitoes (aedis nigromaculis), while not disease carriers, are severe biters and can cause weight loss in livestock and secondary infections in humans and animals scratching the bite.

They become a real nuiance when they move into urban areas, but there is hope a revolutionary type of insecticide may help alleviate the problem.

The compound is a synthetic copy of the juvenile hormone (JH) naturally produced in growing mosquitoes, and a JH insecticide trade named Altosid has been under testing in the San Joaquin Valley for the past three years. Dr. Charles Schaefer, University of California entomologist and head of the UC mosquito control research laboratory here, thinks Altosid may prove an immensely effective tool for mosquito abatement districts in the valley.

The traditional method in insecticide research has been to find toxic materials which would kill a particular insect faster than surrounding life forms, but hormones have presented researchers with exciting new, ecologically sound alternatives.

Scientists who first isolated insect hormones in the late 1960s found that massive doses of natural or artificial insect hormones applied to insects would throw their biochemical systems out of kilter. But surrounding life forms with different hormonal setups remained unaffected.

Altosid is the first synthetic hormone insecticide in history to go from research to testing to preliminary approval for limited public use by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Mosquitoes pass from egg to larvae to pupa to free flying adult in five days, and in order for Altosid to work, it must reach the insects in the middle of this process.

Dr. Schaefer explains how it works:

"At the time the larvae is ready to transform into the pupal stage, if we introduce a large amount of juvenile hormone, or a closely related compound that would cause the same type of activity, the normal transformation of a larvae into a pupa doesn't occur. The larvae transforms into an abnormal pupa and that pupa then dies."

Mosquitoes caught in the pupal stage will also be transformed into abnormal adults and die, but JH compounds are so specific they have no effect on adult mosquitoes.

Schaefer and his associates have been testing Altosid for three years and hope to get full EPA approval and registration for it by next year.

It has proved more than 95 per cent effective on larval and pupal mosquitoes but Schaefer hopes mosquito abatement districts will not immediately adopt its use on a wide scale.

Schaefer says the way to solve the mosquito problem is to eliminate places where mosquitoes breed and he says abatement districts are beginning to tighten regulations against wasting water and letting water accumulate in stagnant pools where mosquitoes can breed.

Senate votes Rickover to 4-star status

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate voted Friday to elevate Hyman G. Rickover to four-star admiral. Congress moved on its own to promote him in absence of a recommendation by the White House.

The action came two days after the Senate voted, 49 to 47, to allow the Navy to speed up development of the Trident, latest nuclear submarine designed by the 73-year-old Rickover who has spent more than a quarter century nurturing the nuclear Navy.

Rickover has made many friends in Congress for his candor while at the same time creating considerable opposition to him within the service.

Customarily, such promotions as Rickover's are proposed by the President on recommendation of the appropriate service. In this case, Congress acted without receiving any nomination.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the Navy had agreed to support the promotion. The House previously approved it.

Jackson said the one-star rise in rank was "in recognition of the vital contribution of Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover to the national defense and his invaluable guidance in developing the nuclear submarine."

Folsom closes solitary unit labeled unfit

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Folsom Prison's maximum security solitary confinement unit has been closed following a report describing it as "unfit for human habitation."

Word of the closure came recently from the Assembly Select Committee on Prison Reform and Rehabilitation. Committee Chairman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, called the action a "progressive step in humanizing our prisons."

Karabian said he hoped the action would be followed by a similar move at San Quentin Prison where he called the situation "even more urgent."

The committee recently released a highly-critical report of the two cell units, saying they were "rodent or insect infested cages, unfit for human habitation."

The closure will not mean an end to solitary confinement at Folsom, however. A committee spokesman said prisoners will be moved to other facilities on the grounds.

The five official United Nations languages are English, French, Chinese, Spanish and Russian.

Formal dedication

Ceremony charted

Formal dedication ceremonies for two sculptures will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Carolyn Bartel Lyon Garden at Pomona College, Claremont.

The sculptures are "Joie de Vie," the commissioned work of Robert I. Russin, a University of Wyoming art professor, and "Cross Form 1964" by John Mason, a former member of the Pomona College art faculty.

The Russin sculpture depicts two female forms. It is centered in a fountain and pool which, along with the landscaping, is the gift of Mrs. Gladys K. Montgomery of Los Angeles. The garden honors the wife of Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, president of Pomona College from 1941 to 1969.

The dedication ceremonies have been arranged by the Pomona College Rembrandt Club which will meet at 2:30 p.m. in Lyman Hall of Thatcher Music Building on the campus. Mr. Russin will lecture on sculpture.

The dedication will open with remarks by Dr. David Alexander, Pomona College president. Mrs. Montgomery will formally present the Russin sculpture to the college and Mr. Russin will respond.

The presentation of the Mason sculpture will be made by Norman P. Hines, assistant professor of art.

Six viewing and study benches being placed in the garden at the same time are gifts to the college, three from the Rembrandt Club and three from the Women's Campus Club. Mrs. Jo Ann Gardiner, president of Rembrandt Club, and Mrs. Graydon F. Beeks Sr., past president of the Campus Club, will make the presentations.

The afternoon program will conclude with a reception and tea sponsored by Rembrandt Club members. Mrs. Richard M. Sheirich is tea chairman.

Mr. Russin is best known for his Lincoln Monument, a bronze bust of the Civil War president which is mounted on a massive granite structure near Laramie, Wyo. He frequently travels to Europe to select marble for his statues and to work at Italian bronze foundries.

The sculpturer is also widely known as a lecturer and as the author of numerous articles on sculpture techniques. Mr. Russin, designed two fountains at City of Hope Medical Center, one of which, "The Spirit of Life," has become known as the symbol of the center.

The Mason ceramic sculpture, which weighs nearly three tons and is 15 feet long and eight feet high, consists of a series of contiguous panels structured within a modular framework. The centered image of Mason's "Cross Form 1964" is cruciform in shape and has large, chunky masses of spatulated clay poised against an intricate background.

A member of the Pomona College art department from 1960 through 1967, Mr. Mason has had numerous one-man shows across the nation and has executed a number of major commissions in the Southland.

Wine-tasting

Party set by league

Asay's Power House will be the setting for the National Charity League Juniors, Foothill Chapter, annual wine-tasting party to be held Oct. 6 from 5 until 7 p.m.

The power house on the grounds of the Asay home, was the first in the area to generate electricity by using water.

Wine and hors d'oeuvres will be served by the members of the organization and their husbands. Wine will be provided with the compliments of Thomas Vineyards and Joseph Filippi Vintage Company.

Mrs. Joel Gillingwators is chairman for the event. She will be assisted by Mmes. John McCallum, William Tangeman, William Lee, Edward Soehnel Jr., Howard Theurer, Fredrick Weis and Gary Wild.

The organization is actively concerned with the problems of a growing community and is especially interested in the welfare of underprivileged children in the area. Members are presently working to help support the Bethel Day Care Center in Ontario. Proceeds from the event will enable members to continue support of their philanthropy.

Garden plot requires care

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — University of Tennessee experts say it is easy to use too much fertilizer on garden plots and that such nutrients should be carefully measured.

With the growth of novice gardening, some people are finding problems measuring fertilizer for small plots. So UT specialists suggest a way to do the job without special equipment.

Where the fertilizer rate is recommended at 100 pounds per acre, the gardener should measure out one-half cup of fertilizer for each 100 square feet of garden. Other proportions can be figured from this formula.

Foothill Committee to meet

Henri Temianka, founder and conductor of the California Chamber Symphony, will preview a concert when he addresses members of the Foothill Philharmonic Committee at their first luncheon meeting of the new season Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Clarence T. Stover.

The speaker will demonstrate and discuss works by Vivaldi, Varese, Harris and Beethoven which will be performed the following night in Bridges Auditorium by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. This special concert is underwritten by the Foothill Committee to encourage new audiences.

Mr. Temianka is a noted violinist, conductor, author and professor of music at Cal State, Long Beach. He is particularly interested in young people and is the founder of an orchestra series called Concerts for Youth.

The Foothill Philharmonic Committee includes women from West Covina, Pomona, Claremont to Ontario and is an affiliated committee of the Southern California Symphony — Hollywood Bowl Association. It reached a fund-raising goal of more than $12,000 for the orchestra last year.

Mrs. Lawrence C. Hamilton, Claremont, will introduce the speaker.

College finances suffer

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nine of every 10 Chicagoans questioned in a survey feel that inflation and other economic ills directly are affecting the financing of college educations.

The quarterly survey by Continental Bank samples the attitudes of 500 Chicago-area families about their personal finances, business conditions, and how they manage their money. The survey report shows record low levels of consumer confidence about personal finances, current business conditions, and the future economy.

NOW reacts to tennis win

Women score athletic victory

TODAY'S
Women

NEW YORK (UPI) —Does Billie Jean King's victory over Bobby Riggs the other night mean someday there will be females on your favorite baseball or football team?

Does it guarantee little girls will get a turn at bat in Little League and their bigger sisters can be on a coed varsity track team in high school? Or a coed football, swimming, golf team.

Billie Jean, a feminist and on the advisory council of the New York chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW), battled Bobby as much for the women's liberation movement as for anything else.

She had to after a bigmouthed Bobby put down Margaret Court.

For answers to such questions I talked with Muriel Fox, chairman of the national advisory committee of NOW. Also: Judy Wenning, National Coordinator of the NOW Task Force on Women in Sports. And Gloria Steinem, an editor of MS. The magazine some months ago featured Billie Jean on a cover. The cover, prophetic, said —"Billie Jean Evens The Score."

Ms. Fox, a vice president in one of the nation's top public relations firms, said the victory was emotionally thrilling.

"A smart woman athlete bested a smart man athlete," she said.

"Not all women have Billie Jean's physical abilities but women do have brains that deserve bigger pay and better jobs.

"With this victory, people may think of things in the women's movement more important than tennis. The important thing is not how we play tennis but that we've got brains. Billie Jean won with her brains, too. Don't forget that."

Ms. Fox said the thing about the woman's movement is that the name of the game is not tennis.

"It is jobs," she said. "While Billie Jean is the first woman athlete to say loud and clear, I'm a feminist, the main playing field is the office where the women's world and the men's world is segregated.

"The gap can be bridged when the only thing that matters is brains and aggressiveness—traits Billie Jean displayed."

Doesn't luck figure in such success, in tennis or in the office? "No," Ms. Fox, wife of a doctor, said. "I always feel you make your luck with your brains and aggressiveness. And courage—the kind Billie Jean showed in that match."

Ms. Wenning, a former physical education teacher from Greensburg, Ind., and now a psychologist and therapist in New York, sees the victory meaning several things.

"It represents or symbolizes the hard work that Billie Jean King and several other women athletes have done over the last several years to show that women deserve the recognition, the status and the monetary rewards awarded to male athletes," she said.

"It also demonstrates that there is great public interest in the performances given by outstanding athletes who are women.

"The American public has been interested in the kinds of performances that Billie Jean King and other athletes can present but television, radio and newspapers have not presented the events all that much.

"I hope one result will be that more women's events will be covered on television and there will be more women sportscasters and sportswriters covering these events.

"The other thing I think will result ... is that girls and women are becoming more aware of sports as an important part of their lives and are going to be demanding that the programs, facilities and coaching be made available to them in schools, communities and amateur and professional programs—including Little League."

Ms. Wenning believes Billie Jean's efforts demonstrate that sports can be a way for women to enjoy and develop their bodies.

"That is true in whatever sport they choose to participate," she said, "And regardless of whether or not that sport is individual or group, competitive or noncompetitive."

About that coed high football team? Or that baseball team of yours going coed? Ms. Wenning said there is no way of predicting just what the physical capabilities of women will be and whether or not sports will be segregated.

"For a while it will be necessary to make sure programs are provided that will give women a chance to develop the skills and the knowledge that has not been made available to them.

"Some time in the distant future maybe we will be able to have sports based on ability classification rather than sex."

There are women in many fields who might compete with men. Swimmers, tennis players, golfers. Ms. Denning said that among those who have completed the swim across the English channel, women have had the best times.

Ms. Denning said NOW is very much going to bat for girls who want to play in Little League and the organization is supporting a bill before congress—HR 8864, proposed by Congresswoman Martha Griffiths, D-Mich. It calls for the changing of the wording in the legislation creating Little League.

The wording would be changed by adding "and girls" to the sentence now containing the phrase "for all boys."

Ms. Steinem agrees that the victory shows women can withstand pressure. The significance of the televised event, according to Ms. Steinem, is that women, and maybe very young women, saw a woman, a very capable woman under pressure ... performing very well.

"Some of these young women could identify, perhaps, and maybe someday may try to do that well, too," she said.

Ms. Steinem didn't think Billie Jean really matched the "offensive" tricks Riggs hurled before the tennis event.

"The effect of this event," Ms. Steinem said, "is also that it began to take women athletes out of the realm of a joke.

"We are moving to the day when such battles will be between persons and not of the sexes. It will take a long time."

Wilma Scott Heide, president of NOW and a behavioral scientist from Vernon, Conn., put her reaction to the victory in a telegram to Billie Jean.

"Congratulations. Stunning

"Glad you noted to millions on television the benefits of the women's movement to all."

Claremont Travel Series

"Bali" opens 20th year Friday

Claremont Travel Film Series will open its 20th year with two presentations of Chris Borden narrating an outstanding picture, "Bali," Friday at 2 and 8 p.m.

A long time favorite of the Claremont audiences, Mr. Borden recently sold his modern radio technique school to devote full time to the production of travel-adventure films. In only a few years he has made 22 films for nationally syndicated television. He was a cameraman on the CBS series, "Animal World," assisted actor Victor Jory in two major documentary productions, produced films for business and industry, and completed five feature-length films of his own.

CHRIS BORDEN

His film, "Bali," has among its highlights warrior-like dancers performing the Kupu Kupu Tjurum dance, the rice fields on the way to Mt. Batucow, Denpasar's market, carabao races, a temple procession, Monkey Forest at Sangeh, temples, Klungklung, a Balinese wedding and the world's wildest funerals as the Balinese prepare their dead with joyous celebration.

The Claremont Travel Film Series is sponsored by the Mt. Baldy Council of the Women's Campus Club of Pomona College and is a benefit project for the Development Fund of the college.

Chairman of the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner. She is assisted by Mmes. Wesley Leighton, Roy Miller, Alfred Ambrogi, Charles Gill, Earle Jones, Jackson Niebrugge, Jules Plaut, Cass Arthur Reed, Stuart Wheeler, Walter Whitney and Miss Esther Ballew.

Season tickets for the entire series, as well as single tickets for this presentation, may be purchased at the box office at Garrison Theater, setting for all the films.Courtesy coffee will again be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance.

What's Going on At Griswolds

Cisto Holquin, our master craftsman of Griswold's Danish coffee cakes, discussed bakeries with me. He said "I've worked in small bakeries and huge shops like Wonder Bread, etc. and I prefer to work in a small shop where I can get my hands in the dough. Then I know what I produce and how it looks. The big shops are mechanized . . . you push buttons and keep machinery going. The breads and pastries are mechanically handled. Here at Griswold's I enjoy seeing my work and I like it when the customer appreciates it".

The newest item in the bakery is DILLY BREAD, made with sour cream, cottage cheese, dill seed, onion and butter. MMM.

Pilgrim Auxiliary sets program on Tuesday

Pilgrim Congregational Church Women's Auxiliary members will hear a talk by Mrs. Jackson Niebrugge on her impressions of the British Isles when the group meets Tuesday. Title of her talk is "People and Places."

Devotions will be given by Mrs. Ralph Rieger, program chairman and the program will be opened with music by Mrs. Charles Weck.

The auxiliary board meeting will be held in the Randleman Room at 9:45 a.m., with the business session scheduled at 11:30 a.m. in Pilgrim Hall.

The luncheon will be prepared by Pilgrim Guild and will be served in the gymnasium at 12:15 p.m. The group will return to Pilgrim Hall at 1 p.m. for the program.

Harvest theme set for OES

"Harvest Hoedown" is the theme for the Tuesday meeting of Claremont Chapter 324, Order of the Eastern Star, at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Miss Maxine Shurtz, worthy matron, will preside when officers for 1974 are elected during the business session.

Mrs. Azalea George will receive special escort and be welcomed into the chapter in an affiliation ceremony. The chapter will also honor Mrs. Hetty Pollock who will be presented her 25 year certificate of membership by the worthy matron.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served in the dining room by the hostesses, Mrs. Sidney Hopkins, Mrs. Vincent Folonis and Mrs. Eva May Hall. There will be a miscellaneous shower for the associate matron, Mrs. Gerald Zimmerman, who will be the official chapter representative to Grand Chapter in Sacramento.

Mrs. Dori Hart has planned decorations and pins-ons in keeping with the theme.

OES chapter to welcome new member

"Harvest of the Heart" will be the theme for the Star of the West Chapter 468, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday at 8 p.m. at the Pomona Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Betty Clabby, worthy matron, will preside during the election of 1974 chapter officers.

A candiate for membership, Mrs. Pamela Gustafson, will receive the degree of the order. Presiding during the initiation ceremony will be Claude A. Houck, worthy patron.

Special escort will be accorded to deputy grand matron of the 58th district, Mrs. Harold Goodpasture.

Mrs. Eva Middaugh, general chairman of the evening, and her committee will serve refreshments in the dining room at the close of the meeting.

Big payoffs

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Americans received $18.6 billion in payments from life insurance policies and annuities in 1972. That total was 8.1 per cent greater than in the previous year. So reports the Institute of Life Insurance in its latest fact book.

Buffet, fall show scheduled

A buffet and show of fall fashions will be held Saturday at Casa Colina Hospital for the Women of St. Ambrose Episcopal Church and their friends.

The novel setting will highlight the link between the hospital and the community.

Casa Colina Auxiliary helps support a nursery school for children in orthopedic care by putting on luncheons and showing the latest fall fashions from their boutique.

Clothes may be purchased from the boutique in the hospital west wing any week day from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Luncheon reservations may be made by calling Ann Morelli, 593-1159.

Make necklace

Make your own necklaces out of string or leather or chains. All you have to add are great buttons or beads.

Interior decorating series set

A series of free interior designing sessions on home decorating is scheduled to begin Tuesday at the Pomona Public Library. Sponsoed by the Pomona Valley YWCA, lecture-demonstrations will be presented by guest speakers who are experts in their fields.

All but one of the programs will be held in the library's public conference room, and they will all be on Tuesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

This Tuesday Charles Stillinger of Stillinger Interiors, Pomona, will give a presentation on color sensitivity and how it is used and seen in interior design. He will demonstrate with slides and a "light box" how color is affected by different textures and light sources.

Gerald McMahon of Town and Country Carpets will be the speaker Oct. 9.

Arenas-Oliveros vows said in Chino church

Miss Barbara Lynn Oliveros and Phillip Jose Arenas were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Chino.

The Rev. Francis A. Frankovich officiated at the double-ring rites uniting the daughter of Jack Oliveros of Fontana and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose A. Arenas of Chino.

A gown of embroidered silk organza fashioned with an empire waist was worn by the bride. It was accented with a high neckline and long sleeves encircled with ruffles. Deep ruffles edged the gown and the cathedral-length train.

A band of lace and pearls held the bride's veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, roses and baby's breath.

Miss Susan Bernal was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carmen Bernal, Miss Antonio Castillo and Mrs. Vera Rodriguez, sister of the groom.

Cousins of the groom, Kathy Reyes and Richard Barbosa Jr., were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

The groom's cousin, Steve Arenas, was best man and ushers were Mike Arenas, a brother, Tony Flores, a cousin, and Myron Moreno.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony.

Subtle textures

SECRETARIAT ANCESTOR? — This representation of a horse drawn on a cave in Lascaux, France, is one of the works of British-born Douglas Mazonowicz which are on display at the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College. The artist will speak on "Cave Paintings" in the Humanities Center auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and at 11 a.m. Thursday. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m. daily.

'Spongy' artist tells technique

CLAREMONT — Artist Ed Ramstead Jr. of Mt. Baldy will demonstrate a sponge technique in acrylic painting at the meeting of the Pomona Valley Art Association at the Claremont branch of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The public is invited to attend. A $1 contribution is requested from members and guests.

Ramstead, born in Alaska, majored in fine arts at Eastern Washington College, and also studied at the University of Washington and Los Angeles State. An illustrator for General Dynamics, he has done work for the U. S. Navy, including paintings of the Alaskan fishing fleets and numerous boats. His paintings hang in the Pentagon, foreign state offices, and many private collections.

He has worked mainly in watercolor, but is currently exploring the possibilities of acrylics.

The program will begin with a slide prersentation of his assignments and commissions, followed by a discussion period. He will then give a demonstration of acrylic sponge technique, which he believes offers many possibilities to the artist.

The Art Association has hug its largest exhibit of all time in the Boiler Room and breezeway of the Graber Olive House at 315 E. Fourth St. in Ontario. Phyllis Small of Claremont, last year's gallery director, supervised the displaying of more than 400 items entered in the show.

Oils and watercolors predominate, but many other media are represented. There is a section for graphics, including etching, reduction prints, wood cuts, lino cuts and others. Metal sculpture is being shown by Ray Bonilla, new member from Glendora. Macrame hangins and accessories by Vera Tyson of La Verne and Eula Mellon of Azusa, and stitchery by Claire Dewey of Claremont are on display. Ceramics, stained glass and other crafts are shown.

Perhaps the most unusual items are the wood inlaid plaques by Ina Penner of Claremont. The designs are worked out in different colors of natural wood veneers, which are painstakingly cut and fitted and attached to a wood backing. This demanding craft, which is more common in southern Italy, is rarely practiced in this country.

The exhibit will continue through Oct. 20. Visitors may also see the Graber Museum of historical local artifacts. Tours showing the processing of olives are available. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily including Sundays. Admission is free.

Chaffey hosts exhibits from 26 artists

ALTA LOMA — The works of 26 professional Southern California artists will go on exhibit today at the Chaffey College Museum-Gallery. The exhibition continues to Oct. 18.

A public reception will be held for the artists from 1 to 5 p.m. today, hosted by the Museum-Gallery Auxiliary.

Show coordinator is Ontario artist Gene Gladfelty whose work will be also on display.

Twenty of the professionals are represented by a diversity of oils, water colors, temperas, acrylics and etchings. They are Ronald Brown, Lester Bonar, Don Langford, Ken Eberts, Lola Ades, Ralph Baker, June Walton, Francis Woodahl, Norma Jay, Carl Valente, La Vere Hutchings, Carolyn Humphreys, Sanford Day, Darwin Duncan, Claire Jones, Gladfelty, Val Samuelson, James Hewitt, Lloyd Mitchell and David A. Hallbach.

The other six remaiing artists are sculptors: Betty Davenport Ford, Richard Myer, George McCann, Harold Pastorius, Gene Von Hans and Guy Pullen.

Regular gallery hours are 1-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. week days, and 2-5 p.m. weekends and holidays.

"My Ulcer & Arthritis Are Well Now"

Says Mr. D. Rosa: For a whole year I took all kinds of remedies and pills, some which aggravated my stomach yet my arthritis was not better. I got tired of fooling around and getting no help so made up my mind to fly to L.A. and see Dr. Wing. Today my stomach and shoulder are both well without the use of drugs, surgery, shots or hospitalization. I am in fine shape and eating again.

"ULCERATION COLON GONE"

Says T. L. Henson: "I had ulcerative stomach and colon trouble as shown by X-rays. I went to several doctors but did not receive any help. I went to Dr. Wing for 5 weeks and was better. After two months, I went to another doctor. The X-rays showed the ulcerative colon and stomach was cleared up. DR. WING D.C., FAMOUS CHINESE DOCTOR, 1429 S. Vermont, Los Angeles. POMONA, 900 E. TEN-FOOT FLUTE — This 4x10-foot study of a flute player by Whittier artist Stan Sennett is one of his two works on display through Oct. 15 at the Pomona public library. His other painting is a 6x7-foot portrait of a young man. Sennett holds a master's degree in art from Cal State Fullerton.

Mexico seen in artworks at museum

LOS ANGELES — "Mexico's Mexico," an exhibit of works by artists of Mexico and the United States, is now on view at the California Museum of Science and Industry, Exposition Park. It continues through May.

Capturing the richness of the Mexican scenery and the wealth of the Mexican character are the works of Raul Esparza, Mexican painter from Torreon; Adolfo Quinteros, wood engraver from Puerto Vallarta; Ruben Guerrero, jewelry maker from Puerto Vallarta; and Vic Herman, American artist from Southern California.

Raul Esparza will make a large ceramic tile mural reflecting Mexican culture. All artistic aspects of this project, including the modeling of the mural, the firing of individual pieces, and the ceramic coloing, will be done by the artist during the early months of "Mexico's Mexico".

Ruben Guerrero M. Will demonstrate the art of jewelry making.

Pomona library hangs Whittier man's works

POMONA — Two huge paintings by Whittier artist, illustrator and teacher, Stan Sinnett are on display through Oct. 15 at the Pomona public library.

Sinnett, who recently received his master's degree in illustration and design from Cal State Fullerton, is quite pleased with the response his works are receiving from library patrons and words of praise from other artists.

"I had been working small, but for my master's, I wanted to do something big—like bilboards," he said. "These are the smallest big ones I've done." His other works measure up to 8 x 30-feet and are too large to fit in the library.

Sinnett has had a number of recent exhibitions in area group shows, including "The New Masters" held at Syntex Corporation in Palo Alto. He won honorable mention in a show at the Downey Art Museum and second prize for a watercolor at Fashion Square in Santa Ana.

Having worked as a professional illustrrator since 1963, Sinnett teaches adult education classes in drawing and painting for the Whittier School District. He also teaches courses in magazine and advertising illustration for the Hollywood Art Center School.

The exhibit is open for public viewing Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and starting Oct. 7, Sunday, 1-5 p.m.

Second art fair benefits Free Clinic

WEST COVINA — The second annual East Valley Benefit Art Fair will be held at Wickes Furniture, 301 S. Glendora Ave., from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. next Sunday.

The Art Fair is a benefit for the East Valley Free Clinic, providing funds for free counseling and medical services to the community.

Artists working in a wide variety of media will exhibit and sell their works, contributing part of the proceeds to the clinic.

Meetings continue

Religious services at Merion, Pa., near Philadelphia, are still held regularly in the same meeting house where William Penn once attended.

National Dog Week reminder for owners

NATIONAL DOG WEEK — It's here. Your are due to read and hear plenty about keeping your dog well, smart and happy, plus a good bit about keeping your neighbors happy by making sure your dog respects their sidewalks and yards, for example. A week a year isn't enough to get all of these ideas across to many people. For a few, every day of the year wouldn't do it.

These people, who shouldn't own dogs in the first place, fall into one or more of the following categories:

(1) They don't maintain their dogs' proper vacination schedule or pay much attention to their health generally.

(2) They overfeed their dogs or they half starve them or they feed them mostly garbage.

(3) They breed their bitches as fast as nature will allow them because "the world deserves to have her puppies."

(4) They have never trained a dog in their lives and don't intend to start now.

(5) They turn their dogs loose — because it is the dog's "right" — occasionally to menace, or more often to mess or to be "messed up" themselves by other dogs — or to be injured or killed by wheels in the street.

Fortunately, most dog owners don't fit anywhere in the above categories. For those who do, we can at least hope that Dog Week is a useful reminder that man's best friend can use a little human help and consideration throughout his life.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Out of not too idle curiosity — we've seen both of them on our hikes — which would be worse, a skunk bite or a fox bite? — E.D.

Dear E.D.: As far as bite wounds themselves are concerned, the fox would do more damage. As far as potential danger is concerned, I'd consider the skunk bite more dangerous. Certainly, under any normal conditions in the wild, you wouldn't be bitten by either one. If, by some happenstance, however, you cornered a fox, it would, in defense, bite. The skunk, on the other hand, would normally tend to use chemical warfare first. Now, both species are well known as carriers of rabies. The skunk with rabies would be more likely to bite than spray. Additionally, if both animals had rabies, the saliva of the skunk is more efficient in transmitting rabies virus than that of the fox. The wisest choice of all, of course, would be to go to whatever length might be necessary to avoid being bitten by either one should you someday encounter an aggressive (and therfore, very possibly, rabid) specimen.

Hank goes for Babe's record today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron remained alive in his race to break Babe Ruth's career home run mark before the season ends Sunday when he drilled his 713th homer Saturday night to help the Atlanta Braves defeat the Houston Astros, 7-0.

The 39-year-old slugger connected off southpaw Jerry Reuss in the fifth inning with two men on base to move within one homer of tying Ruth's career mark. Aaron has one game remaining this season Sunday when he goes against Houston's Dave Roberts, off whom he hit his 712th homer exactly one week ago.

The home run was the second this season and third lifetime off Reuss, and it was the Braves star's 23rd at Atlanta Stadium. The blast was Aaron's 40th of the year and enabled the Braves to become the first team ever to have three players with 40 or more homers in one season. Dave Johnson, with 43 homers, and Darrell Evans, who hit his 41st in the first inning, preceded Aaron into the select circle.

Aaron, who collected three hits in the game and also drew a loud applause with a shoestring catch in the eighth inning, singled in the first and walked in the third before unloading against Reuss in the fifth.

With runners on first and third Aaron drilled Reuss's first pitch on a line over the leftcenterfield fence about 395 feet away.

As soon as the ball was hit the crowd of 17,836 rose to their feet in anticipation and when the ball cleared the fence they erupted like a volcano into wild cheering.

Aaron's father, Herbert, and Bill Bartholomay, the Braves' chairman of the board, led the cheering for Aaron along with former National League president Warren Giles. Aaron's father jumped from his seat and waved both hands in the air excitedly while Bartholomay moved toward the Braves dugout and joined in the wild applause.

The crowd cheered for nearly two minutes and before the game could continue. Aaron came out of the dugout and waved his appreciation to the fans. He had a broad smile on his face.

The homer so unravelled Reuss that Dusty Baker, the next hitter, followed with a long home run to straight away centerfield. Reuss then hit Johnson with a pitch.

Aaron had one more last chance to bat in the seventh inning against reliever Larry Dierker and on a 3-2 pitch he dumped a single into short leftfield.

Carl Morton benefitted from the Braves' heavy hitting to win his 15th game of the season against 10 losses. Morton allowed only six hits.

Roberts' win prepares him for race today

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Correspondent

ONTARIO — Kenny Robert's was installed as the consensus favorite for today's $87,000 250-mile main event in the Champion Spark Plug Classics at Ontario Motor Speedway earlier in the week, and he played his role to the hilt Saturday.

Roberts all but dominated the second day of the three-day meet by first finishing second in a five-lap qualifying heat, and then easily capturing first place in the afternoon's 125-mile Expert-Junior Combined lightweight race.

Roberts, who has already clinched the American Motorcycle Association's Expert championship, has achieved his spectacular success at the tender—as far as racing goes—age of 21.

Finishing second to Roberts in the Expert-Junior was teammate Kel Carruthers, who will probably be competing in his last professional race this afternoon.

Roberts gave Carruthers the lion's share of the credit for the youngster's success after the race. "He's taught me everying I know up to this point," Roberts acknowledged sipping a soft drink in the OMS press box. "We were just about even last year . . . and he's not getting any slower."

Roberts' final margin of victory was seven seconds—after going as high as 17 during the race. "We were afraid we were going to run out of gas," Kenny confessed.

Don Castro, after hanging close to Carruthers most of the race, was caught in traffic late and settled for third place finish.

The victory gave Baumann the pole position for today's race, starting on the inside of the five-bike first row, Roberts will start next to Baumann in the number two slot on the first row.

Placing third to Roberts was the popular Canadian rider Yvon DuHamel on a Kawasaki. DuHamel will start in the middle of the first row.

With all that was going on at Ontario Saturday, Roberts couldn't stay in the spotlight all day.

Perhaps the best show was put on by a trio of riders in the second five-lap Expert qualifying race.

Cliff Carr of Arlington, Me., managed to catch Gary Nixon at the wire to win the heat by less than one wheel-length. Carr and Nixon, both on Kawasaki's, had been involved in a tight duel with Baldwin Park's Gary Scott, piloting a Triumph. Scot placed third — one second or so in back of the leaders.

For bringing up the rear in the three-bike battle, Scott was awarded the inside of the second row for today.

Hurley Wilvert, riding a Kawasaki, gets seventh for his fourth place finish in the second race. Steve Baker, fourth in the first race, will be in the middle of the second row. Paul Smart, defending Spark Plug Classic champ, finished fifth in the second race and will start from the number nine position.

It was also a fairly successful day for one of the AMA's "future riding aces, Wes Cooley.

Cooley, who hails from Placentia, has already earned enough points this AMA's "middle" step—next year.

Cooley won the final race of his Novice career Saturday, a 76-mile lightweight event, on a Yamaha. Cooley also won the second qualifying race for Novices earlier in the day. Keve Stafford, another young Yamaha rider, finished second to Cooley both times.

Sandwiched in between the other Junior 80-mile race, which will precede the big race.

Try for two costly

Broncs tied by CSLA

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Cal Poly turned down an opportunity for a near automatic PAT late in the third quarter, and that eventually cost the Broncos the win as they had to settle for a 34-34 tie with Cal State Los Angeles, Saturday night at Kellogg Field.

Poly scored a TD late in the third period to give them a 34-26 lead over the Diablos. Head coach Roy Anderson elected to try for two points rather than one.

The decision was somewhat surprising since Poly's place kicker, Klaus Trettin, had made good on 10-of-10 PAT attempts in the first three-and-a-half games.

Instead, a pass attempt on the try for two fell incomplete and the Broncos had to settle for an eight-point advantage rather than the nine they may have had.

The Diablos came back to make the score 34-32 with 6:19 to play on a 15-yard scoring pass from Rick Holubeck to Ray Jolla. CSLA skipper Foster Anderson, had no choice but to go for two points and hope for at least a try.

His decision was successful and Holoubeck found Jolla free in the corner of the end zone for the two—and a 34-all deadlock.

This game-tying score was set up by Mike Effler's recovery of a Zorn fumble on the CP 39. Eight plays later Holoubeck hooked up with Jolla for the score.

The game began with the teams exchanging touchdowns on successive plays.

Following the opening kickoff, Poly's quarterback Jim Zorn hit flanker Joe Fabian for a 79-yard touchdown pass with Trettin adding his first of three PAT's.

On the ensuing kickoff, former Ontario high star, Claudie Watson returned it 89 yards for a score. CSLA's pass for two fell incomplete leaving the Brocs a 7-6 margin.

Following a fumble recovery by CP's Vince Dell' Aguila on the Bronco 46, Zorn lofted an aerial which Fabian gathered in completed a 56-yard scoring play. The extra point made it CP 14, CSLA 6.

The Diablos then mounted a drive that ended with halfback Gary Hoskins bolting over from the eight. CSLA's try for two again fell short. Midway through the second period a Bronco march of 80 yards on eight plays was capped off by Zorn's 49-yard TD run to give Poly a 21-12 lead.

But the Diablos came right back with Hoskins scoring from the one to climax a 67-yard drive in seven plays.

CSLA's Holoubeck reciprocated the favor by scoring on a 61-yard scamper around right end to keep the Diablos close. CSLA trailed 28-26 with 12:37 left in the third period.

Singer collects No. 20 after going 11 innings

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)— Winston Illenas singled with the bases loaded and two out in the bottom of the 11th inning as the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 4-3 Saturday night.

California pitcher Bill Singer, who went the route, became the 12th pitcher since 1900 to win 20 games in both the American and National Leagues.

Singer, who won 20 games for Los Angeles in 1969, allowed the Twins 11 hits in becoming only the third pitcher since World War I to win 20 in both leagues. Cy Young was the first to accomplish the 20-win feat. Gaylord Perry turned the trick last year with Cleveland after winning 20 with San Francisco.

Singer joined teammate Nolan Ryan as a 20-game winner this year and completed his 19th game, a career high. He became the fifth California pitcher to win 20 games in a season and the 12th in the A.L. this season, a league record. The Angels, meanwhile, clinched fourth place with the victory.

Singer, who had trouble with his control all night, was hurt by his wildness in the third inning when Rod Carew led off with a walk, advanced to second on a groundout and scored on a bad hop single over short by Craig Kusick.

The Angels came back with three runs in the last of the third on a leadoff single by Dave Chalk, a hit batsman, a sacrifice, an intentional walk and Bob Oliver's three-run double. The Twins tied it in the sixth on Glenn Borgmann's two-run single to center.

Five-way tie still possible

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's still a longshot but if the results of seven games break the right way in the next two days, there will be a five-way tie for first place in the National League East.

This is what has to happen for the tie to occur:

Chicago sweeps four games from New York on Sunday and Monday.

St. Louis loses to Philadelphia on Sunday.

Montreal beats Pittsburgh Sunday.

Johnson's touchdowns pace UCLA

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Senior halfback Kermit Johnson ran for three first-half touchdowns Saturday, building a commanding UCLA lead that held up for a 34-21 victory over Michigan State.

The Bruins scored only once in the second half but claimed their second victory in three outings, both over Big Ten teams.

Johnson, UCLA's leading ground-gainer going into the game with a 7.5-yard per carry average and total output of 169 yards, also lost the ball on fumbles three times.

It was a close game until midway through the second quarter, when Ray Burks scored on a 48-yard pass from quarterback John Sciarra, an impressive stand-in for starter Mark Harmon. The touchdown put UCLA ahead 13-10 and the Bruins never gain trailed.

On the ensuing kickoff, Michigan State's Tyrone Wilson fumbled on his own 18-yard line and UCLA scored on its first play from scrimmage, with Johnson going around left end for 18 yards.

With the exception of a 37-yard field goal by Michigan State's Dirk Kyrt, there was no scoring in the second half until late in the fourth quarter.

With less than a minute to play, UCLA defensive back Jim Bright intercepted a Charlie Baggett deep in his own territory and returned it 73 yards to the Michigan State 2. Harmon carried it in on the next play.

Then running Spartan back Mike Holt, playing in his first game of the season after recovering from a shoulder separation, received the kickoff and scored on a 95-yard run with seven seconds remaining.

Michigan State's first half scoring consisted of a one-yard run by Wilson and a 44-yard field goal by Kyrt. The Spartan record is now 1-2.

USC settles for 7 - 7 tie

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES—USC won't have a perfect football season in 1973.

But the Trojans are still undefeated. For that, they should be thankful.

A speedy Oklahoma team, using the game as a crusade because of its runner-up spot behind USC in the final 1972 pools, gave the Trojans all they could handle before 84,016 fans at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Saturday night in a 7-7 tie.

Oklahoma won everything but the game and completely dominated the statistics, rolling up 339 yards total offense to USC's 161. As excpected, O.U. stayed with its Wishbone offense in running for 330 yards in 63 carries. Quarterback Steve Davis completed only one pass in six attempts for nine yards, but the Sooners really don't need to throw to roll up the yardage.

To show how Oklahoma dominated the game, it had 69 offensive plays to USC's 53. Fullback Waymon Clark, who was voted the Offensive Player of the Game, led the Sooners with 126 yards on 26 tries while Davis had 102 on 21 and speedy Joe Washington contributed 84 on 12, an average of seven per play, in a spectacular performance.

USC clearly showed it isn't the offensive power it was in 1972. The Trojans gained 102 yards on the ground on 37 attempts, with quarterback Pat Haden completing seven of 16 passes for 59 yards. Anthony Davis, who ran only one play in the first half because of a slight injury, ended up with 57 on 14 tries.

Ex-Bonita High star Allen Carter made his first appearance in the season for the Trojans, returning a kickoff 12 yards and catching a pass for minus five.

The visitors had to be content at snapping USC's 14-game win streak. The Trojans, who are bound to drop from their No. 1 spot in the weekly rankings, still had the honor of having not been defeated in 20 outings.

"A tie is a tie," USC coach John McKay said after the deadlock. "You can't win football games if you don't cadence and can't count correctly. We did not play well offensively . . . some of the credit has to go to them and some of the fault was of our own making."

The Trojans were guilty of numerous off-sides penalties in a sloppy performance for the defending national champions.

"The tie leaves us with a sort of empty feeling," Oklahoma's rookie coach Barry Switzer said. "Those were the national champions out there that we tied. I believe we gave them their touchdown and we earned ours."

USC certainly had its chances to grab an early command of the game, recovering two Oklahoma fumbles deep in Sooner territory in the opening minutes of the contest.

But the Trojans couldn't cash in despite getting the ball on the OU 33 and 42 yards lines. That served as an early indication things were going to be tough against the Big Eight visitors.

It was then time for Oklahoma to be frustrated.

The Sooners drove 72 yards on 10 plays later in the first quarter to the USC 15 only to have Rick Fulcher's 32-yard field goal try go wide.

USC scored its touchdown with 9:57 left in the second quarter when Haden passed 15 yards to high school buddy John McKay Jr. in the end zone four plays after Tom Bohlinger recovered Clyde Powers' fumble on the Trojans' punt at Oklahoma's 25 yard line. Chris Limahelu's kick made it 7-0.

Oklahoma, who failed on a second field goal attempt later in the second quarter, quickly tied the score on its first offensive series of the second half when Steve Davis climaxed a 70-yard drive with a two-yard run around the left guard for the first touchdown against the Trojans this season.

Fulcher's extra point made it 7-7 with 7:18 remaining in the third quarter.

Neither team was able to even get within field goal range the rest of the way.

But it appeared USC might pull it off late in the fourth quarter after defensive end James Sims caught Davis for a key loss when it appeared Oklahoma might march into Trojan territory. After the punt, Haden drove USC 27 yards to the Oklahoma 45, but hope died when Haden was tackled for a five-yard loss on a third-down play, forcing SC to punt with 2:28 left on the clock.

Oklahoma celebrated the tie by running out the final minutes with the ball ending up on the Sooner 37 when the gun sounded.

Vikings pick up first win of '73 season

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

RIVERSIDE — Garey High wound up with more heroes Saturday than Wyatt Earp had notches on his six-shooter. In upending Ramona 22-6 for their first win of 1973, the Vikings got key performances from very nearly the entire squad.

The final score is a little misleading, as the contest was a tight defensive struggle most of the way, with the first score coming late in the third quarter. Garey held off the most serious threat in the first half, after Ramona had penetrated to the Viking 15 with less than a minute left in the half.

The Viking secondary broke up two pass attempts by the Rams quarterback George Dickerman, and a hurried field goal try with 10 seconds showing fell short, the two teams going into the locker room knotted at 0-0. Earlier, Viking John Jones had made a crucial fumble recovery on the Garey 15 to turn away a first quarter Ramona threat.

The Viking passing attack, which sputtered in the opening half with a minus five yards net, came alive and put Garey on top in what proved to be the key play of the game late in the third quarter. Quarterback Scott Roque found running back Stanley Webster open over the middle and hit him with a short pass. Webster did the rest on his own, darting, twisting and finally blazing his way 76 yards to pay dirt. The Vikings clicked on a two-point conversion, as Dana Hutchison blasted into the end zone, the 8-0 lead was one Garey was not to lose this night.

Ramona made things interesting for a while early in the final quarter, as Dickerman and Don Reese connected on a 33-yard TD toss. But defensive back Marcus Thomas made a key stop on Dickerman on his two-point try to tie things up, and the Vikes were never again threatened.

Cougars run past Sagehens, 45-25

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Manpower. According to the dictionary it is "personnel available and competent to serve.'

It is something that wins football games and it is something that Azusa Pacific has in abundance while Pomona Pitzer definitely lacks it.

As a result, the Cougars were able to roll to an easy 45-25 victory Saturday over the host Pomona squad as Azusa breezed to a big 31-7 lead at the half.

The big key to the Azusa Pacific attack this season is its ability to strike both through the air and on the ground. Going with the running game first against the outmanned Sagehens, AP found this so successful that quarterback John Tully only attempted six passes in the first half, three in each quarter.

The biggest roar for the Cougars was supplied by UCLA transfer Jim Farmer who carried the ball 11 times in the opening 30 minutes of play, netting a huge 169 yards, including a 42 yard scamper at the end of the first half for the fourth AP touchdown.

The Cougars scored the first two times they had the ball as former Garey High star Keith Hartley booted a 38-yard field goal in the opening two minutes and then Tully plunged over from the one, four minutes later.

After Pomona crawled to within three late in the first period on an 8-yard scoring scramble by reserve quarterback Steve De Windt, Azusa Pacific put the game away with a 21 point explosion in the second quarter.

The second half was a battle of Larry Cenotto's arm for Pomona against reserves for Azusa Pacific and Pomona showed that it is not going to be completely out of any game this year, thanks to Cenotto's passing.

The Sagehens' junior leader threw the ball 36 times Saturday, completing 19 for 294 yards and two touchdowns when the Cougars were in a pass prevent defense.

But Azusa more than countered with its strong running attack which netted 330 yards as Farmer, playing only the first half had 169, Dennis Koupal 126 and Richard Woods 63 to lead the way.

Owls, Panthers fall in conference tests

San Bernardino and Saddleback remained in contention in the Mission Conference football race Saturday night with victories over Chaffey and Citrus Colleges.

San Bernardino ended a two-game losing streak with a 31-9 victory over the Panthers at Chaffey Stadium, recovering five fumbles, and finding holes for running back Tim Cunningham, who gained 195 yards rushing on 29 carries, including a 63-yard TD run that broke Chaffey's back in the third period.

Dennis Farrell netted 109 yards on 25 carries for the Panthers, and quarterback Mark Tundis added a third quarter touchdown to Mike Jakobic's 37-yard field goal in the first quarter, but it wasn't enough.

Citrus lost the ball four times on interceptions and twice on fumbles as Saddleback emerged as the team to beat in the Mission, 17-0.

Aundre Holmes led Saddleback on the ground with 161 yards on 19 carries, including an 87-yard touchdown run.

An 18-yard field goal by Dan Brennan, and Joe Jones five-yard run accounted for the rest of the scoring.

Owls quarterback Bill Strycual threw all four interceptions, while completing only 6 of 17 for 123 yards.

Specialamente scores upset

POMONA — Longshot Specialamente raced to a two length upset victory in the $32,950 Pomona Handicap Saturday as the 14-day season at the Los Angeles County Fair come to an end.

Rudy Campas, who last year lost the mount on the Pomona Handicap winner Easter Hero, because of a suspension, was aboard the C & D stable-owned four-year-old who sprinted clear on the far turn and held his advantage to the wire.

As the second longest shot on the board, Specialamente returned $39.00, $13.00 and $4.80. Specialamente, claimed for $25,000 last May, boosted his earnings for his current owner to $39,655 and boosted Hector Palma to the top of the trainer standings.

Balcony's Babe, lone mare in the field, was second a nose in front of Knightlander. Harbor Prince, winner of the Afflerbaugh Handicap last Saturday and favorite in the Pomona Handicap, finished last. Balcony's Babe paid $5.40 and $3.40, and Knightlander returned $3.80.

Although their Balcony's Babe had to settle for second in the Handicap, Mr. and Mrs. Eb. and E. W. Johnston completed their most successful meeting ever at the County Fair. Their horses won two stakes, earned parts of the purse in several others, and banked a record total of $50,920. The Johnstons were winning the owner title at the Fair for the eight time.

THE UNBEATEN Golden State Warriors used a balanced scoring attack to roll to their fifth straight pre-season victory, a 127-77 crunching of the Los Angeles Lakers in the second straight game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader Saturday night.

THE LOS ANGELES Kings defeated the Minnesota North Stars, 2-1, Saturday night in an exhibition Hockey game at the Kings' training camp in Victoria, B.C It was the first time in 21 games between the two teams that the Kings have defeated Minnesota.

Leos score slim victory

By TOM FAHEY

LA VERNE — The La Verne Leopards used the running of Curtis Frick and a stingy defense to post a 16-15 triumph over the U. S. International University Saturday night at Bonita High.

The Leopard defense was dominating in the first half allowing only three yards to the U.S.I.U Westerners. However one play proved too much for them to handle.

Leading 7-0, the Leopards had the Westerns backed up to the Westerner five-yard line. On third down and 15, Kerman Machado hit Vince Zarkovich on a screen pass and he promptly ran it 95 yards for the tying touchdown.

La Verne scored the first points of the night about midway through the first quarter. The drive started on the Westerner 35, and Jeff O'Connor had returned a punt 15 yards.

On the second play of the drive, it looked as if Leopard quarterback Marty Mercurio would be dropped for a big loss when he was forced to scramble all the way back to his own 25.

However, he was able to get away from the rush and connect with end Ralph McDaniel for a 14-yard pickup. Two more first downs put the ball on the one-yard line.

Mercurio failed to score on first down, but Frick then scored on a plunge on the second down.

Frick played an outstanding game, picking up vital yardage when it was needed. On the night he totalled 77 yards on 25 carries, with most of the yardage coming in the second half.

The Leopards took the lead at the end of the first half on an 18-yard field goal by John Karns with one second remaining on the clock.

The field goal was set up by 79-yard drive after the Westerns missed a 60-yard field goal attempt.

The big play of the drive was when Mercurio faked a punt and hit Joe Edmonds with a [illegible] strike to keep the drive alive.

The Leopards ran four straight times for the score, with Mercurio going in from the six with the winning touchdown.

The Westerners attempted to come back with a touchdown at about the eight minute mark of the final stanza. Collie Cann scored it from the one after he had earlier in the drive scampered for 34 yards.

La Verne outgained USIU in the yardage department [illegible] Westerners halfback Cann played a brilliant game in a losing effort, rushing for 194 yards on 16 carries.

Dodgers end season with 3-2 victory

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Rookies Jeff Zahn and Greg Shanahan paired up to pitch a four-hitter and Tom Paciorek stroked a two-run homer as the Los Angeles Dodgers closed out their 1973 season with a 3-2 win over the San Diego Padres Saturday night.

The Padres, whose future residence is still to be decided, have a make-up game with Pittsburgh hanging should a contest be necessary to determine the National League's Eastern Division title.

The Dodgers' winning run came in the sixth on a walk to Willie Crawford, successive singles by Bill Buckner and Steve Yeager and an error by centerfielder Ivan Murrell.

Zahn, making his first major league start, worked the first five innings to gain his initial win. Shanahan finished up to gain his first save.

Dave Roberts and Dave Hilton both hit homers for San Diego's scores.

Roberts' homer in the fourth inning was the first inside-the-park homer ever hit in San Diego Stadium.

CO, Tigers suffer narrow setbacks

Covina edged Charter Oak, 13-12, and Mater Dei exploded in the third quarter to hand Chaffey a 38-26 loss, in two non-league high school football games Saturday night.

Covina and Charter Oak battled evenly on the ground, but two missed touchdown conversions on runs proved to be the deciding factor in the Colts' victory on their home field.

Tailback Nick Howard carried 25 times for 132 yards and both of Charter Oak's touchdowns on short runs of five and eight yards.

The Lancers had to play catch-up from the outset as running back Bob Waldusky returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown for Covina.

John Erwin took over from there, netting 98 yards rushing on 21 carries, and the deciding TD on a one yard plunge.

Chaffey scored two quick touchdowns in the second quarter to narrow the deficit with Mater Dei to 19-14, but short yardage runs by Steve Martindayle and Jim Gardea pushed Mater Dei into an insurmountable lead in the third period.

Martindayle carried 17 times for 108 yards and three touchdowns in the victory, outdueling his counterpart at quarterback for Chaffey, Mike Scanlon, who carried 10 times for 71 yards.

Stags stun Whittier, 28-0

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — It was one of the greatest days of John Zinda's life and, by comparison, one of the most diasterous of John Godfrey's.

The Stags, upended 35-7 by San Diego in their opener, scored with 35 seconds left in the first half and added three more in the final quarter to complete the rout over Godfrey's Poets.

"I think this is one of my most satisfying wins ever and certainly the biggest since I've been here at Claremont-Mudd," said Zinda with a big grin.

"It was a tremendous team victory, especially since we had some guys quit," he continued.

Zinda hesitated to single out any individual for honors because so many were outstanding.

To name a few, there were sophomore quarterback Jaime Opatrny, kicker Tony Bailey and fullback Mike Graber on offense. Sam Reece, Brian Buchanan, and Naaman Haynes led a great defense and both lines did a terrific job on the Poets.

Graber was the workhorse with 34 carries for 100 yards and a touchdown. Opatrny, who completed only two of 10 for 14 yards last week, hit on seven of 16 of 120 yards and a touchdown and ran for another.

Reece, the 6-0, 190 pound defenseve end, was credited with 11 tackles and a fumble recovery. Buchanan, 6-2, 215 pounds of hungry tackle, had six tackles, two assists, and recovered a Whittier fumble in the end zone for a touchdowm. Hayes came out late for football this year.

Bailey, a junior from Los Angeles, kicked all four extra points and did yeoman work on kickoffs.

Whiitier, perhaps overconfident after rolling to victores over Azusa Pacific (16-6) and La Verne (20-7), made its first mistake by electing to kick to C-M after winning the coin toss at the beginning of the game.

The Poets had had intercepted seven passes and recovered five fumbles in their first two games and obviously felt they could handle the Stags.

Although the Stags didn't score until the half was nearly over, it meant that Whittier, trailing 7-0, had to begin the second half by again kicking off to Claremont-Mudd.

And it was the Stags who were the defensive giants this day. Quarterback Jim MacDonald, who was the leading passer among conference quarterbcks with 23 completions in 46 aattempts for 300 yards, hit on only eight of 24 for 93 yards, but was intercepted five times.

Jim Root, who gained 100 yards in 16 carries against La Verne last week, was held to a paltry 17 yards in seven carries.

C-M drove 75 yards in 11 plays for the first score with Opatnrny going over from the Whittier three for the score. During the drive, Opatrny had completsion of 13 and 26 yards to Jon Begerow and Jon Warren.

The score came with 35 seconds left in the half. After Bailey's kick, the game remained 7-0 until 55 seconds in the fourth quarter when it was Haynes' chance for heroics.

Jim Webster's punt from the 33 yard line went right through the hands of Pat Barnhittis hands at about the four and rolled into the end zone where Haynes fell on it for a touchown.

David Perez' intercepted a MacDonald pass at the Whittier 24 and returned it to the 22. Opatrny passed to Warren at the 13 and on the next play Graber went around right end for the TD.

After taking a Whittier punt on the Poet's 47, Optarny need only two plays and a 15 yard personal foul penalty against Whittier to score the final touchdown.

Graber lost six yards. With a second and 16 at the Whittier 38, the 6-2, 195 pound sophomore from Pales Verdes rifled a pass to Begerow at the Whittier eight. The 5-9, 155 pound sophomore end scooted the rest of the way for the score.

Aztecs play tonight at San Diego Stadium

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two of the nation's unheralded powers, San Diego State and Kent State of Ohio, tangle in a rare Sunday night game at San Diego Stadium.

Kent's Golden Flashes are 2-0 on the season, including a 35-7 victory over Ohio University last week. San Diego's Aztecs opened their season last week with a win over Utah State, also by a 35-7 count.

Quarterback Greg Kokal directed Kent to the Mid-American Conference title last year as a sophomore. In fact, the club featured sophomores, including Olympic sprinter Gerald Tinker, who has snared nine passes for 189 yards.

San Diego was the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champ and scored a 14-0 win over Kent State, but most of that team has left, along with Coach Don Coryell.

Under Coryell, the Aztecs were noted for their passing. New coach Claude Gilbert has patterned his offense after the University of Houston and relies on big-yardage, first-down plays to set up passing opportunities.

Bertelsen, McCutcheon lead Rams attack against 49ers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Jim Bertelsen and Larry McCutcheon spearhead a potent Los Angeles Rams running attack today against the pass-oriented San Francisco 49ers in a NFL West showdown.

In past seasons, the 49ers have usually been favored but lost. In their first 1973 meeting, the 49ers again are slight favorites.

The reorganized Rams, under new coach Chuck Knox, wasted no time this season in vaulting atop the NFL West with an impressive 2-0 record including a 31-0 shutout of Atlanta last week. Meanwhile, the 49ers have been struggling with a 1-1 record following a 36-34 win over the Denver Broncos.

But whenever the Rams and 49ers collide, past records are usually of no consequence. Since 1968, the Rams have compiled an 8-1-1 record against the 49ers and in a preseason mismatch this year, Los Angeles prevailed 38-10.

Knox has built a potent running attack around Bertelsen, McCutcheon and Larry Smith. They have helped the Rams net 487 yards rushing in two games. In contrast, the 49ers have 229.

San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan has been drilling his defense all week on ways to stop Bertelsen and McCutcheon. But that leaves Rams quarterback John Hadl, who has a flock of top-flight receivers in Harold Jackson, Jack Snow, Bob Klein and Dick Gordon, in addition to his backs.

This marks the 1973 home opener for the 49ers. The game is a sellout and will be televised locally.

The game marks the 49er debut of newly acquired receiver Danny Abramowicz, who was obtained earlier in the week from the New Orleans Saints. He will team with Gene Washington and tight end Ted Kwalick as the prime 49er receivers.

Nolan said John Isenbarger will start at flanker but Abrmowicz would see lots of action.

"In all the years I was with New Orleans, I never played in what you could call a crucial game and here in my debut I'm already involved in a big one," said Abramowicz. "I don't think we're going to lose Sunday. This 49er team is really fired up."

Jack Youngblood and Merlin Olsen are the cogs in the Rams' defensive line which also contains Larry Brooks and Fred Dryer.

"I have a score to settle with Youngblood," said 49er tackle Cas Banaszek. "He beat me a couple of times in our preseason game and I'm anxious to make amends."

Poly wins twice in water polo

Cal Poly University claimed water polo victories over Cal State Hayward and Pomona-Pitzer Saturday afternoon.

The Broncos defeated Hayward, 9-5, in the Poly pool as John Roche led the scoring with three goals. Later at Pomona-Pitzer, Poly erupted for a 21-5 victory as Doug Swancoat scored six goals. Bill Edwards accounted for three for Pomona.

The Broncos return to action next Friday at UC Santa Barbara. They take a 3-2 record into the match.

Only the Buckeyes have an easy time

College Football Roundup
By United Press International

Nebraska, Ohio State, Michigan, Penn State, Notre Dame and Tennessee all remained unbeaten in college football action Saturday but of that top 10 group only the Buckeyes had it easy.

Second ranked Nebraska had to rely on a touchdown by Tony Davis with only 2:48 remaining in the game to subdue suprisingly stubborn Wisconsin 20-16, while Michigan struggled past heavy-underdog Navy 14-0, Penn State eased Iowa 27-8 and Notre Dame scrambled to edge Purdue 20-7 before a national television audience.

Only in Columbus, Ohio, where Woody Hayes' Ohio State Buckeyes were waltzing to a 37-3 rout of TCU, did a top 10 team look the role. But the Buckeyes' victory was dimmed by the loss of workhorse fullback Champ Henson, who suffered a knee injury and will be out for the season. Still, the Buckeyes got a 68-yard touchdown gallop from Archie Griffin and a pair of TDs from quarterback Cornelius Greene.

And in the feature game among the day action, Tennessee finally delivered a victory over Auburn to its coach Bill Battle. The ninth-ranked Vols, sparked by defensive men Hank Walter, a linebacker, and Eddie Brown, a safety, prevailed 21-0 over the 13th ranked Tigers. Walter scrambled 38 yards for one TD and Brown's interception set up another in the key Southeastern Conference showdown.

Fourth ranked Michigan got touchdowns from Chuck Heater and Ed Shuttlesworth in downing Navy. The wet field conditions hampered the Michigan attack, but also may have cost the Wolverines their lofty rating.

Penn State, cruising along to its third win of the season, was also a heavy favorite against Iowa. But after quarterback Tom Shuman threw a pair of TD passes in the first quarter and fullback John Cappalletti ran for another, the Nittany Lions were content to coast the rest of the way against the winless Iowans.

Notre Dame, which routed Northwestern 44-0 in its season opener a week ago, had a far more difficult time of it against Purdue. Trailing 7-3 late in the second quarter, the seventh-ranked Irish broke into the lead for good when soph Art Best scored from nine yards out. Best, who set up Notre Dame's first TD with a 64-yard gallop off the first play from scrimmage, wound up with 126 yards for the day.

Posting the biggest rout of the week was Oklahoma State, which fired home 35 points in the third period alone and then went on to slaughter thoroughly outclassed Southern Illinois, 70-7. Fullback George Palmer scored two of the Cowboy touchdowns and eight other teammates divided the rest.

Elsewhere, 15th (tie) ranked SMU belted Virginia Tech 37-6, 15th (tie) ranked Missouri defeated North Carolina 27-14, 19th (tie) rated Miami (Fla.) edged Florida State 14-10, Arkansas nipped Iowa State for its first win 21-19, UCLA whipped Michigan State 34-21, West Virginia upset Illinois 17-10, Georgia Tech topped Clemson 29-21, Georgia held off North Carolina State 31-12 and Pittsburgh bested Northwestern 21-14.

Monzon wears down Bouttier for victory

PARIS (UPI) —Carlos Monzon of Argentina floored JeanClaude Bouttier of France three times in the last three rounds Saturday night to carve out a unanimous 15-round decision over the Frenchman and retain his world middleweight boxing title at the Roland Garros Stadium.

Displaying a shrewd blend of aggression and ringcraft, the 31-year-old Argentine wore down his challenger as the fight progressed.

Monzon allowed Bouttier to carry the fight to him for the major part of the contest.

Then when the Frenchman began tiring, Monzon turned to the offensive, hammering Bouttier with short punches, especially right hooks—the most fearsome weapon in his arsenal.

It was the Argentine's eight successful defense of his title since he won it from Italy's Nino Benvenuti in November, 1970.

Monzon paced the fight superbly. Conserving his strength, he allowed Bouttier to stalk him around the ring, frequently using the ropes to weave out of trouble.

Even when the Frenchman did land, his blows scarcely ruffled the cool, tough Argentine.

Secretariat beaten by Prove Out

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prove Out, owned by the same Hobeau Stable that beat Secretariat with Onion in the Whitney Stakes, humbled the Triple Crown winner at Belmont Park Saturday as he overtook the champion in the stretch and pulled away to win the $108,200 Woodward Stakes by four and a half lengths.

Secretariat, starting for the first time since he set a world record in winning the $250,000 Marlboro Cup two weeks ago, took the lead from Prove Out shortly after reaching the back stretch. It was at about the same spot that Secretariat went to the front in the Belmont Stakes and went on to become the first Triple Crown winner in 25 years.

Once in front Secretariat appeared to have the race at his mercy. He had been bet down to 3 to 10 and coasted along in front until the field swept around the final bend and into the home stretch.

There Prove Out, responding to the urging of Jockey Jorege Velasquez, ranged up to challenge Secretariat on the inside and Secretariat gradually fell back in the run for the wire.

Prove Out a 4-year-old son of Graustark, steadily pulled away to finish the 1½ miles in 2:25 4-5 over a sloppy track.

His time failed to threaten the track record of 2:24 set by Secretariat in winning the Bemont Stakes by 31-lengths but it was fast enough to get the job done and reward his backers with a $34.40 payoff. There was only win betting.

Because of the sloppy track trainer Lucien Laurin scratched Riva Ridge. West Coast Scout also was withdrawn, reducing the field to five.

Cougar 2nd was third but wasn't even close. The cat was 11 lengths behind Secretariat. Amen 2nd was fourth with Summer Guest fifth and last.

Onion came off a track record performance to beat Secretariat in the Whitney Stakes early in August.

In his last race at Belmont Park Prove Out equalled the 1:40 2-5 track standard for 1 1-16 miles. Since then the colt finished a poor seventh in the Chesapeake Handicap at Bowie a week ago. But Prove Out hit the fence in that race and trainer Allen Jerkins decided the colt deserved another chance.

Those who bet on Prove Out were backing Jerkin's judgment more than anything else. For Prove Out but never before had won a stakes race and his first was worth $64,920. The purse topped the $55,903 Prove Out earned in his 30 previous races.

Recreation

The Pomona Baseball Commission holds their regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the Arroyo Elementary School auditorium. Chairman Dick Babineau will rap his gravel at 7:30 p.m.

A baseball meeting in October may not seem important; however, such is not the case. Even though the youth baseball season is over six months away, many of the successes or failures for 1974 will depend on progress made in the fall and winter.

Two of Pomona's youth baseball organizations are faced with financial woes. One may have to close their doors to over two hundred youngsters. These are a couple of the matters to be discussed Tuesday.

Pomona's new and growing semi-pro baseball organization is asking for membership on the Commission. The group provides baseball for a large number of the area's young adults.

Victor Carrasco is the president of the semi-pro organization and will make the presentation. He will be supported by Bob Duran and Tom Encinas.

The most pressing business before the Commission is the plight of the Northwest Little League. Outgoing President Frank Nava and a small band of hard workers have kept the league together the past couple of years.

Parental support needed

The league's problems are simple. They have plenty of kids who want to play, most of the sponsors, but little parent support. Those who have carried the load either want out or at the least more help.

The main reason for holding the meeting at Arroyo School is the Northwest League's situation. Executive committee members are hopeful that those interested in perpetuating the organization will find the meeting easy to attend.

Unless new support is found, the league will fold. The decision on that is to be made in November. Hopefully Tuesday evening's attendance will eliminate that possibility.

Each league has two representatives on the Baseball Commission. There is also a five-man Executive Committee that is elected every January. The regular meetings are on the first Tuesday of every month.

A myth has been allowed to develop that says only those representatives and Executive Committee members may attend the meetings. That is simply not true.

The Commission is open to the public and specifically the baseball enthusiast. It's a plain fact the larger the attendance, the more accomplished.

Volleyball leagues organize

The organizational meeting for the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department's fall volleyball leagues takes place Thursday evening at City Hall. Interested players and team representatives will meet in the Boards and Commissions room on the second floor at 7:30 p.m.

There are are three divisions; six man, six woman, and coed. Players must be at least 16 years of age or a sophomore in high school.

Both the six man and six woman leagues will play on Tuesday evenings in the Palomares and Simons Junior High School gyms. The coeds, composed of three men and three women, play on Thursdays at Palomares.

The entry fee is $16 per team. This covers the cost of officials and awards. Fees will be accepted Thursday with a deadline of Oct. 8.

This is a great program for a club, neighborhood group or a small company. It is good physical activity and most of all fun.

Aussie women field hockey team at Poly

POMONA — The Australian national anthem — along with the Star-Spangled Banner — will be heard on the playing fields of Cal Poly Tuesday when the Australian women's national field hockey team meets the number one team of the Los Angeles Field Hockey Association (LAFHA) in a 3 p.m. match sponsored by the LAFHA and the Cal Poly physical education department.

The area of play is located on campus between the football field and the tennis courts.

Two Cal Poly physical education faculty are in the starting 11-woman LAFHA lineup — Judith Brame and Carolyn M. Lewis, both assistant professors in the department. Dr. Mary Jo Oliver, also assistant professor of physical education, is in charge of match arrangements.

The Aussie women's team, which has been touring Europe and the United States, is of international calibre, according to Dr. Oliver, and the teams in Tuesday's match will not be of equivalent strengths. But, she believes, it will be a good show, with the coup d'etat coming if the LA team can score against the Australians.

Dr. Oliver calls field hockey "the ultimate in endurance in women's sports." The game, played on a 100-yard field, is divided into two 35-minute halves, with a five-minute break between, and no time outs and no substitutions.

Cal Poly's physical education curriculum includes a class in women's field hockey, taught by Dr. Oliver, which constitutes the university's field hockey team. Although the team competes with other schools, the games are considered class projects rather than intercollegiate competition.

Coryell wins with '50s style weapons

By United Press International

Don Coryell, a man who's supposed to be behind his time in pro football, may actually be ahead of everybody else.

Coryell, the new coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, is a man who doesn't seem to understand pro football, 1973 style.

This is the era of cautious, conservative, don't-make-a-mistake, grind-it-out-on-the-ground football. It may make for dull football but it's the trend these days.

Coryell, though, seems to be right out of the '50s when pro football used to be called "basketball on grass" because of the emphasis on passing. He believes in throwing the football and trying to outscore his opponents instead of trying to give up fewer points than his opponents.

In Coryell's first two games as a Cardinal coach, his defense has given up 50 points. Imagine, 25 points a game! No contending team can afford to do that.

But, take a second look. There are the Cardinals with a 2-0 record and they're challenging the Dallas Cowboys today with first place in the NFC Eastern Division at stake. The winner of this division has gone to the Super Bowl for three straight years.

When the Cards outscored the Eagles 34-23 in their opener, not too many eyebrows were raised. After all, that was against the Eagles. But last week, the Cards went against the Washington Redskins. George Allen's Redskins. The Redskins who allowed 20 points in three playoff games last year.

The Cards played the Redskins' game for a half, battling to a 7-7 deadlock. But in the second half, the Cards exploded for a 34-27 triumph. Jim Hart, the quarterback who's long been the target of the boo birds in St. Louis for erratic passing, completed 17 of 28 passes for 286 yards and a touchdown.

Maybe Coryell is starting a new trend all by himself.

Dallas is 2-0 but the team escaped with a victory over Chicago only because a fourth down gamble by Bears' coach Abe Gibron backfired. The Cowboys' second victory was a lackluster triumph over New Orleans but it's difficult to get up when you're playing a team that was bombed in its opener.

Besides St. Louis and Dallas, only three other clubs—Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles—have perfect records after two weeks of action.

Pittsburgh is almost a sure bet to make it 3-0 when the Steelers go against a Houston team that has lost its first two games.

But both Minnesota and Los Angeles have rugged games coming up against the defending champions in their respective divisions.

Unitas will hit another milestone

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — San Diego Chargers quarterback John Unitas needs only two yards against the Cincinnati Bengals today to pass the 40,000-yard career passing mark but Coach Harland Svare feels Unitas must do better than that or the Chargers are in trouble.

San Diego's running game, its prime weapon last year, has been sputtering this year as fullback Cid Edwards first suffered from a sore foot and then a severely bruised shoulder. If he should not play, San Diego will have to go with Robert Holmes, picked up only recently as a free agent.

Unitas passed for 175 yards in three quarters against Buffalo as the Chargers were ineffective on the round.

"Our running game just hasn't come around," Svare said. "It's a combination of a lot of things and we're constantly working on them."

The Bengals have had no trouble moving the ball as Essex Johnson is averaging 8.5 yards a carry and 245-pound rookie Booby Clark has been effective both running and receiving in short-yardage situations.

Quarterback Ken Anderson has passed for 372 yards and has only been intercepted once.

The Chargers have the home field advantage, but the Bengals should be tougher with field goals. Horst Muhlmann is a proven kicker while the Chargers have yet to make a field goal this season.

Putting title goes on the line today

ANAHEIM — Another battle of the sexes, a la Bobby Riggs-Billy Jean King, may be shaping up at the National Open Putting Championships this weekend on the 12,000 square foot putting green at Disneyland Hotel Golf Center.

Although there has been no hint of bitter argument leading up to the championship competition, former PGA champion Jerry Barber figures to be top contender in the pro phase of the tourney which also includes Bernice Kramer, LPGA pro at Disneyland Golf Center.

Since male and female pros will be in competition against each other in the same tournament, 5-foot-10 Bernrice could wind up battling for the title against Barber, five-foot head pro from Griffith Park Golf Course.

The putting championships are being held in conjunction with the four-day National Golf Show and Seminar which started Thursday at the Disneyland Hotel Convention Center.

A field of 100 finalists will be eligible to participate in today's 36-hole final round for the title.

In addition to the pro phase of the tourney, there also will be amateur flights open to both men and women and a flight for blind golfers. John Pitcher, winner of the Orange County Putting Championships, will be one of the contenders for the amateur title.

Net proceeds from the golf tournament will be earmarked for installation of putting greens for the blind and to aid the National Recreation Fund for the Blind, according to Eaton.

Miss Tynar wins amateur title again

WALNUT (UPI) — Pam Tynar of Ontario shot a five-over-par 79 Thursday to capture her second straight Southern California Women's Amateur golf tournament with a 54-hole total of 237.

The 21-year-old Cal State Fullerton senior finished two shots ahead of Gail Chow of Montebello and 16-year-old Terri Heacock of El Toro.

Miss Tynar's other rounds at the Pomona National Golf Club were 81 and 77.

'Faraday and Company'

What will they have left when the gimmick's gone?

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —The gimmick of NBC-TV's new "Faraday and Company" series, a periodic 90-minute private eye entry that arrived Wednesday night, is this:

Private detective Frank Faraday (Dan Dailey), escaping from a Latin American jail after 28 years of wrongful imprisonment, returns to the United States where he must deal with a modern world he has never known and which includes a 27-year-old son he didn't know existed.

Well, all right, let us consider what we had in the Wednesday premiere, and what the gimmick can do for the series as it goes along.

First of all, Dan Dailey is always a pleasure to have on screen—a very versatile performer: Fine actor in drama, melodrama or comedy, and, from way back, a nifty singer and dancer as well. He doesn't sing or dance in "Faraday and Company," so far as I know, but it wouldn't hurt, what with private eye variations hard to come by.

Anyway, in the debut, Dailey makes his escape from that jail, sporting a shaggy beard that would be the envy of Rip Van Winkle—and, by the time he arrives back in the U.S.A., he is clean shaven, with a trim haircut, snappy suit—and he is all ready to pursue his consuming dream of 28 years: To find the killer of his partner.

The U.S. government, checking him out, has managed to bring him together with his son (James Naughton), who, of all things, is a private eye too. The mother, it seems, was Faraday's secretary and girlfriend (Geraldine Brooks), and she is still around too, and still looks pretty good, and everybody wants to know why Faraday just doesn't forget the past and the killing of his partner, and enjoy himself. But if he did that, NBC-TV wouldn't have a series, the cast would have to be out looking for other jobs and the world would be deprived of another private eye television entry.

So he goes after the villains, and of course he flushes them out, and all those people who have been telling Faraday to just go and enjoy himself have begun to respect him and maybe understand him.

Indian show scheduled at Great Western

LOS ANGELES — Two fine lines of American Indian pottery, the Nampeyo and Santa Clara Black, will be featured at the American Indian & Western Relic Show at Pow-Wow at the Great Western Exhibit Center Oct. 12-14.

Marie Tafoya, a Santa Clara Indian, born on her tribe's Santa Fe, N.M. reservation, and one of the most talented of Santa Clara Black potters, will demonstrate her skills at the show, also exhibiting some of her newest creations.

A Los Angeles resident for the past 12 years, Mrs. Tafoya has the raw clay (mixed with white sand) dug from her native Santa Clara Canyon and sent to her in Los Angeles, where she molds the jars into various shapes and sizes. She returns the pottery to Santa Fe, where it dries for three days, then after careful sandpapering, polishing by pumice stone and painting, it is ready for firing. This is done over an open fire of twigs from the pima tree, which gives the finished product its deep, mirror like black coloring.

The Nampeyo pottery, produced in limited quantities, is made by the female descendants of Mampeyo Vesco Loma, a Hopi in Arizona. In 1873 Nampeyo, wife of John Loma, ran across some beautiful pottery excavated from a prehistoric Hopi dig. Entranced with the designs and qualities of workmanship, she developed a style of decoration, using many of the motifs and elements from the wares that had been unearthed. Her six daughters, Fannie, Nellip Elva, Tonita, Iris and Neva, are carrying on her work, with excellent results. The methods of making the Nampeyo pottery are well-guarded family secrets.

Naples, Fla., was planned as a winter resort since its founding in 1886.

UCLA plans 2 evenings of Bartok

LOS ANGELES —UCLA will devote Oct. 13 and 14 to the life and music of 20th Century Hungarian composer, Bela Bartok.

Bela Bartok Jr., oldest son of the composer, and Gyorgy Sandor will hold a concert-dialogue in Royce Hall at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 13. In Schoenberg Hall at 8 p.m. Oct. 14 an all-Bartok concert will be given by pianists Michael Zearott, Ralph Grierson and Irma Vallecillo, violinist Stanley Plummer, and percussionists Kenneth Watson and Robert Winslow.

Eskimo film set for Montclair Theater

MONTCLAIR — "The Legend of Amaluk," a true-life adventure film, opens an exclusive limited engagement at the Montclair Theater Wednesday.

The movie tells the tale of an Eskimo youth bent on proving his manhood in order to win the hand of his sweetheart and the respect of the elders of his tribe.

Lorne Greene unfolds the tale of the young Eskimo who faces tremendous odds and experiences incredible adventures against the awesome ice-bound Arctic.

Over three years in the making, the production has been photographed in color by Frank Whaley and Jack Steely on location in Alaska.

Leo S. Rosencrans' script demanded authenticity, so director James P. Connor used real Eskimos as actors. Produced by two-time Academy Award Winner Jerry Fairbanks, "The Legend of Amaluk"' is a tribute to the hardy, resourceful Eskimo people.

Largest seals from Africa

The largest fur seal is the South African or Cape fur seal. The male measures up to 9 feet in length and his weight varies from 450 to 700 pounds, depending on the season. It can consume over 20 pounds of fish at one meal, but the average is about 3½ pounds.

Blaze damages Hacienda home

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — An electrical short was blamed for a fire Thursday which did $3,500 damage to the garage of the home of James Bailey here at 2580 Turnbull Canyon Road. The fire, which was doused by firemen within 10 minutes, was confined to the garage but some heat damage was done to the house. The blaze was shortly after 4 p.m.

LUTE VIRTUOSO — Morris Mizrahi, guitar and lute artist, will present a recital in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. The young musician, a former pupil of Pepe Romero, is also a teacher and a collector of old lute manuscripts. He will perform on both the lute and the guitar.

Lute, guitar recital slated at Bridges Hall of Music

CLAREMONT — Morris Mizrahi, guitar and lute virtuoso, will present a program of music spanning more than four centuries at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College.

This will be the first of some 50 concerts presented by the Pomona College music department during the 1973-74 season. Admission is $1 for adults, and 50 cents for students.

Mizrahi will divide his program between guitar and lute. The lute portion includes music by such great Renaissance lutenist composers as Francesco da Milano, Anthony Holborne, and the Elizabethan John Dowland, as well as a presentation of the perennial favorite, variations on "Greensleeves."

The guitar segment will feature works by J.S. Bach; Fernando Sor, known as "the Beethoven of the guitar;" Issac Albeniz and Francesca Tarrega, Spanish virtuosos' Claude Debussy, and Hector Villa-Lobos. The scheduled Debussy work is "The Maid With the Flaxen Hair."

Mizrahi has studied with Pepe Romero, Alirio Diaz, and Oscar Ghiglia. He divides his time performing both in the concert hall and movie studio, teaching, collecting Renaissance lute manuscripts, building such instruments as his own harpsichord and dulcimer, and studying Eastern philosophy.

Debt wiped out

The Treaty of Versailles ordered Germany to make damage payments to the Allied Nations in the amount of $33 billion at the end of World War I. Only a few payments had been made by 1929 when the amount was reduced to $16 billion. In 1934 the debt was canceled completely.

Antiques seen as investment potential

PARIS (UPI) —Investors seeking a profit haven from the world monetary crisis and rampant inflation have turned to buying antiques and sent prices soaring by as much as 100 per cent on European markets.

The booming demand for antique paintings, furniture, statues, books and curios is a reaction, dealers say, to the current uncertain situation, with most currencies bobbing up and down and widespread inflation taking an average seven per cent chunk out of investment capital.

Gerald Schuur, a French specialist, cited "the precarious position of the dollar and concern about European currencies" as the chief factor in rising antique prices.

"More and more people are realizing that antiques are immutable and impervious to inflation," said one dealer on the Quai Voltaire, site of some of Paris' fanciest shops. "I have been able to get for most articles 25 per cent more than they would have brought last year."

At this summer's Florence, Italy, Antique Biennale, prices were up "at least 50 per cent and even 100 per cent for good items," reported Francine Rheims, antique correspondent for a Paris newspaper.

"This hardly believeable rise in prices," she added, "has not at all slackened demand. On the contrary, lack of confidence in the falling dollar and lira has only spurred Italian buyers on."

The clincher is London, the acknowledged mecca for international antiques sales. The auction house of Sotheby reported gross sales of 44 million pounds ($110 million) for the season ended last July. This represented an increase of 76 per cent in volume over the preceding year.

The same was true of another major London firm, Christie's, which saw its turnover rise by 70 per cent over 1971-2.

"Apparently, everybody is betting on continued price rises," said Paris dealer Samy Chalom. "Otherwise, there wouldn't be takers at some of thse prices."

Why arbutus?

Arbutus blossom were used on carvings for bridal and engagement rings because arbutus was believed to mean "Thee only do I love."

Blue chips show upswing

NEW YORK (UPI) —Wall Street, optimistic about the continuing decline in short-term interest rates, extended an advance through a second consecutive week on the New York Stock Exchange with heavy trading marked by an outpouring of institutional funds.

The advance carried the Dow Jones industrial average ahead by 19.20 points to 947.10. That increase, coupled with last week's jump of 41.54, gave the popular index of 30 blue chips its biggest upswing of the year.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was ahead 1.23 to 108.43 for the week, and the NYSE index gained 0.78 to 58.51.

Buying covered a wide range, as it did the previous week. Steels, motors, chemicals and oils were the favored issues, again at the expense of the glamor issues.

Advances outpaced declines by an almost 3-to-1 margin, 1,356 stocks gaining and 478 declining in value. There were 1,991 issues traded.

Trading volume continued heavy, reflecting institutional interest in adjisting portfolios for the end-of-quarter report to shareholders. Turnover for the week totaled 102,109,830 shares, close to the previous week's 105,783,060 that was the heaviest trading in more than a year and a half. The same week last year, volume was 69,635,800.

"It's still an institutional market," said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. "It's not a speculative market."

Gordon described the market's upward momentum as "anticipatory action" toward an eventual relaxation of the Federal Reserve's monetary restraints. Other analysts agreed. Investors were encouraged during the week by a decline of about 1.5 percentage points in U.S. Treasury Bills, a major indicator of the course of short term interest rates.

A small St. Louis bank and a banking group in Michigan cut into the prime rate category late in the week, each chopping fractions from the prevalent record 10 per cent. None of the major banks followed their example, however, and both analysts and leading bankers generally described their action as premature and insignificant for the time being.

"But the major factors remain interest rates and federal (monetary) policy," said Gordon. "The other complex factors such as Watergate, the money exchange rate and even —to a degree —the inflation rate have peeled off as major influences."

A 6.17-point decline Friday in the Dow, its first setback after seven consecutive advances, was attributed to profit taking after the averages had hit 953.27 the previous day. That weekly high marked the first time the Dow had closed above the 950 level since May 8.

The decline Friday, said an analyst, "should not be interpreted as meaning the market has lost or is losing its momentum."

DuPont, advancing on expectations of sharply higher earnings, recorded the biggest net gain of the week. It moved ahead 11 ¼ points to 183 ½. Monsanto gained 2 ⅝, Dow 2 ⅛, Allied Chemical 2 and Union Carbide 1 ¼ in the sharply higher chemical group.

Eastman Kodak, a glamor leader of the chemicals, was off 2 ½ to 130 ¼.

Other glamor issues also fell back. Corning Glass was off 5 ½, Xerox and Honeywell 4 ⅛ each, and Walt Disney 2 ½. Avon Products fell 9 ½ to 100 in the week's biggest net loss. After the close Friday, the company said it expects slower sales in the United States and is doubtful about increased earnings.

Coastal States Gas was the most actively traded issue, even though it did not resume trading until Thursday after a 3 ½-month suspension. The issue opened on a block of 400,000 shares at 8 ⅛ and ended the week at 12, up 4 ½ on 1,688,800 shares.

The Securities and Exchange Commission had suspended Coastal States in early June to investigate its statements on natural gas reserves and its ability to fulfill contracts. On Friday, a Coastal States unit received a recommendation for a rate increase from the Texas Railroad Commission.

Federal National Mortgage Association was the second most active issue, moving ahead ¾ to a high for the year at 22 ¾ on 1,192,700 shares. Gulf Oil Corp. was third at 25 ⅜, gaining 2 ⅛ on turnover of 1,049,000 shares.

Poisonous problem

Cattlemen howling over coyotes

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Coyotes do more than howl at the moon in movies about the Old West.

Livestock men report they kill an estimated $1.5 million worth of sheep and lambs each year. They want a ban on poisoning coyotes lifted.

Animal protectors contending the "slaughter of the coyote" amounted to 84,000 of the wolflike beasts in seven western states last year, believe that the sheepmen are exaggerating.

The object of their dispute was described a century ago by Mark Twain as "a long, slim, sick and sorry-looking skeleton, with a gray wolfskin stretched over it, a tolerably bushy tail that forever sags down with a despairing expression of foresakeness, and misery a furtive and evil eye, and a long, sharp face, with slightly lifted lip and exposed teeth. He has a general slinking expression all over."

They range through Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, and parts of California, Nevada, Kansas, Idaho, Oregon and Missouri.

The dispute over how many sheep they kill has prompted one University of Nevada-Reno researcher to become a shepherd living with the flocks and performing autopsies on any dead animals. He's still in the field without any conclusive findings.

Marcellus Palmer, president of the Utah Woolgrowers Association, said there's no question about coyote kills, citing a Utah State University study taken two years ago which showed losses of 48,000 head a year.

"A lot of people will argue with those figures, but no one will refute them," Palmer said.

Hal Perry, a field representative for the Humane Society of the United States, said it was "hard for us to believe there is as much of a problem as some people say there is.

"There were 84,000 coyotes killed last year in the seven western states," Perry said. "How could we need to kill more?"

Larry Decker of the Interior Department's Division of Wildlife Services said that while the number of kills seems to be down in some areas, "we feel the total losses are up."

Since President Nixon banned the use of poisons in predator control in 1972, it has been harder to control coyote populations in sheep-raising areas, Decker contented.

He said steel traps snares and aerial and ground hunting are effective, "but a handful of men with toxic chemicals could do just as well."

Perry said Missouri has controlled its coyote population for some time without the use of poisons, and questioned whether statistics from other states showing the growing number of predator kills among sheep flocks were based on hard evidence.

The poison dispute has turned recently to a device known as the M-44 cyanide pellet gun —a small pipe set in the ground with a trigger device attached and cyanide inside. When the coyote pulls on bait attached to the top of the pipe, the cyanide is fired killing the animal.

Rep. Wayne Owens, D-Utah, sponsor of a bill which would legalize the pellet guns, argued that the device is selective— killing only canines.

Environmental groups favored other means to control coyotes.

Tom Garrett, Washington representative of Friends of The Earth an environmental group says special insurance and more sheepherders could be more effective.

He said sheepmen have cut back on the number of shepherds since predator control programs have been developed.

"With more sheepherders, the flocks would be better tended and there would be less need for absentee controls," he said. "We think the federal government should take a role in this."

Garrett said a federally sponsored insurance program would allow sheepmen to better absorb losses during bad years and would lessen the need for large control programs.

Coins as an inflation hedge

By MORT REED

In a rapidly-expanding economy, coins are becoming more and more attractive as insurance against inflation. At such a time, publication of a comprehensive guide is particularly useful.

In "COINS: An Investor's and Collector's Guide," I have brought together four internationally known coin experts to provide the collector-investor with proven formulas for long or short-term investments.

This collective approach is a departure from conventional publication practices, but I have long felt that such a multi-view directory was necessary. Since the represented authors are each experts in their respective fields, the reader is provided with an aggregation of the best-qualified opinions in the field, rather than a sigle author's viewpoint. In the world of coins, there simply is no single, ultimate authority.

The 403-page book is clearly written and includes 817 illustrations to assist the reader in identifying each coin discussed.

Part I concerns the mechanics of coin collection — for fun, for fun-profit and for profit alone. It further distinguishes between single-coin collecting, consecutive-series collecting, and the modern concept of type collecting.

The investment activities of individual coins of each type are traced over the past 20 years. The entire United States commemorative coinage issue for the same period is profiled and problems of storage and handling usually faced by the inexperienced collector discussed.

"The Economics of Coin Collecting," Part II, includes a range of critical topics by recognized experts. James F. Ruddy writes about coin grading. Q. David Bowers writes about how to invest successfully in rare coins. Max Humbert provides guides to investments in modern-world--proofsets and commemorative issues and David W. Akers provides information about investing in gold coins.

Besides these distinguished experts, I received full cooperation from the Bureau of the Mint, the U. S. Secret Service, COINage Magazine, COIN WORLD, the Numismatist and Presidential Art Medals, Inc.

If any apologies are due from me, as the author, it would have to be not for any lack of expertise but for waiting so long to put this work into print.

Numismatist vs Coin Collector

Technical differences do exist between numismatists and coin collectors, although one is rarely challenged in his use of either term. Occasions do arise, however, when the distinction does prove useful.

Numismatics is simply the science of coins and medals. We apply the word "coin" to those pieces struck for circulation as money while the word "medal" signifies a piece not intended for a circulating medium but struck in commemoration of a person or event of national importance.

For that reason, one may be numismatist without owning as much as a single penny, just as a coin collector may find fulfillment in the hobby without scientific or mechanical support.

If Agnew's untouchable, Waldie mulls impeachment

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Rep. Jerome R. Waldie will seek impeachment proceedings against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew if the courts rule the vice president cannot be convicted while in office or if Agnew uses legal tricks to delay any possible trial.

The California congressman, who is seeking the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said Thursday he would have "overwhelming" support for an impeachment resolution if either of the circumstances arise.

If the courts rule Agnew is legally untouchable while in office, Waldie said, the only recourse would be impeachment. The same would be true, he said, if Agnew used legal maneuvers to delay court proceedings for an undue amount of time, effectively avoiding prosecution while in office.

If the grand jury in Baltimore returns an indictment, the case should be settled in the courts within six months, Waldie said. Any legal actions extending that amount of time would be inappropriate, he added.

FOR ABOUT WHAT IT COSTS FOR RIDING LESSONS, WE CAN SEND A KID TO COLLEGE.

If you can afford to give your children the best, and often most expensive, things in life, you're lucky.

Take riding lessons. A two-year-old gelding, stable fees, riding habit, and lessons can easily cost $2,000. And that blue ribbon at the horse show would probably be worth every penny it cost.

But there are some families that aren't so lucky. Families whose incomes are so low that meat on the table is a rare luxury. Families who watch their children approach college age with the certain knowledge that there will be nothing for them after high school but marriage, babies, and forty years of labor.

Barring a miracle.

The United Negro College Fund is trying to make the miracle happen. We support 40 private, predominantly black colleges that help 45,000 students break out of the urban ghettos and rural backwaters of this country and into 20th century America.

We know there's a place for them. We know we can help them find it. All we need is money.

$2,000 will turn a kid into a crackerjack rider. But it will also send a kid to college for a year.

Please. Send a check for $1.00, $20.00, $100.00 to the United Negro College Fund.

A Mind is a Terrible Thing to Waste.

Give to the United Negro College Fund.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, in Room 383 of the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple Street, Los Angeles, California, 90012, until 9:00 o'clock A.M. on October 23, 1973, on which date they will be publicly opened and read, for the planting of trees and the furnishing and placing of tree well covers together with non-metallic pipe, concrete removal, cast in place porous concrete and other incidental and appurtenant work, including plant maintenance. This work will be authorized by the County at intervals during the contractual period by means of several "Notices to Plant". Said notices will be issued for planting of twenty (20) or more trees. This project is estimated to cost less than $22,000.00, all in accordance with the provisions of the Plans and Specifications and Instructions to Bidders therefor which are filed in Room 383.

Proposal must be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for the purpose, which may be obtained at the Information Desk in the lobby of the Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 1540 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90033 at which office bidders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus Sales Tax per set, not refundable. A mail address and a phone number must be left at the aforementioned office which the prospective bidder agrees is sufficient to reach him.

Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guaranty that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department and are included in the contract specifications available at the Road Department.

The rate of compensation for any classification not listed in the schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate and in accord with the rates specified for similar or comparable classifications or for those performing similar or comparable duties.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination of location of the proposed work and by such other means as they may prefer as to the actual conditions and requirements of the work, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done. The contractor to whom this contract is awarded will be required, before execution of the contract by the County Board of Supervisors, to file with the County Board of Supervisors surety bonds as follows:

"A Faithful Performance Bond" amounting to 100% of the total contract price is required for all contracts.

A "Payment Bond" (labor and material) amounting to 50% of the total contract price is required for all contracts which have a total contract price in excess of $10,000.

By order of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

Dated September 25, 1973.

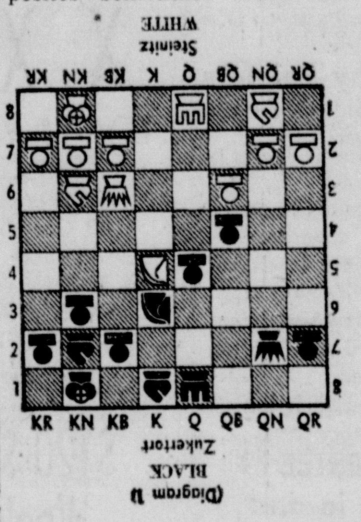
Chess 'hustlers' teach a lesson

By SHELBY LYMAN

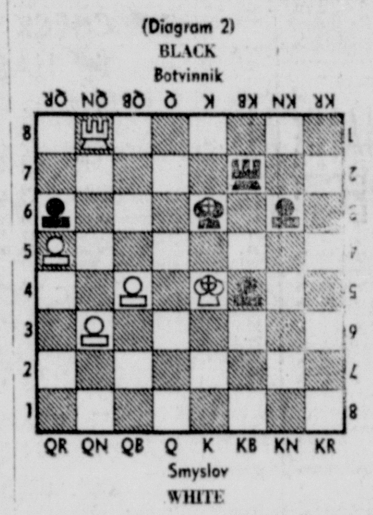
Chess is a great leveler. Class, race, age and even sex may recede into relative insignificance as two persons engage over the chessboard.

Yet, the juxtaposition of opposites sometimes leads to the dramatization of psychological quirks, as "background' differences assume central importance.



For example, the impoverished chess expert will "hustle" an eager and more affluent "patzer". The expert will not only pick up a wager or two but will take pleasure in demonstrating a superiority over his higher status adversary who has wandered into his domain.

The "patzer" on the other hand, though he may lose money, will occasionally win a game and has many near misses which spur him on masochistically to new encounters with his nemesis.



The person who is hustled has a rare experience in his firsthand knowledge of a usually unapproachable chess talent. His familiarity teaches him or deludes him to think that he too would be a stone's throw from greatness if he were to make the effort.

Those not given to such extravagant pleasures may enjoy a milder form of conceit, i.e., second-guessing world champions. Here are four positions in which a famous champion "blunders." Try your luck at seeing what they missed.

(Diagram 1)

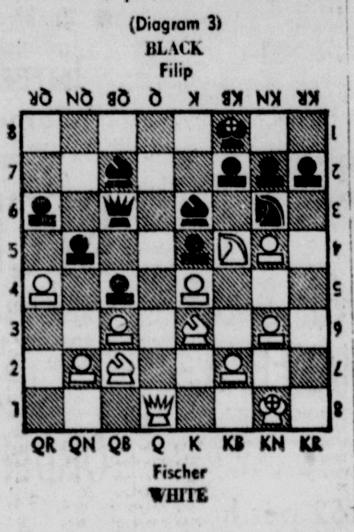
In 1886, the great Steinitz, playing Zuckertort, made the move 1) NxQBP?? thinking the black queen pawn was pinned. What is black's reply? Answer: 1 . . . PxN!. which simply wins a piece. For if 2. QxQ, . . . RxR mate follows. While 2. RxR allows . . . NxR defending the black queen.

(Diagram 2)

In 1958, Botvinnik, playing Smyalov played 1 . . . K-Q3? After white's 2. R-N6 check, black played 7 . . . K-B4. He intends, now that his king is safe from checks by the rook, to push his pawns. But he had to resign after Smyslov's next move. What is it? Answer: 3. K-Q3, threatening 4. P-N4 and checkmate.

(Diagram 3)

In this position from the 1959 Candidates Tournament, the young Fischer could have won a pawn. How? Answer: 1. Q-R5. Black's . . . K-N1 does not work. Why? Answer: QxN! followed by a knight fork.



(Diagram 4)

Perhaps the worst blunder of all is by Taimanov against Fischer in 1971. Here Taimanov played 1) FxP? ??? to the astonishment of all. What's Fischer's reply? Answer: Q-Q5 check (double attack). Taimanov resigned as he shamefacedly realized that Fischer would meet . . . R-B2 with 2. R-R8 check which wins the rook.

Lymanism

If it is true, as Fischer has said, that with proper training he should be able to beat the Chinese at ping pong because of his longer arms, then it is most likely also true that sitting closer to the board, they should win over him at chess.

Girl friend falls in love with his father

By JEAN ADAMS

DASHING DAD: (Q.) At first Donna and I got along great. Then after we had been going out for about two months, she wanted to meet my parents.

I didn't want her to because they sometimes act sort of stupid. Finally I made a deal with them for the four of us to go out to a restaurant. That was wrong. My father is not very smart, but he is very good looking and can really sweet-talk girls and women.

The minute Donna saw him she fell in love with him.

On every date she asks about him. She wants to know when we are going out with my parents again. My father thinks it is all kinda cute. So does my mom.

To me it is horrible. For two months Donna loved me. Now she loves my father. Help! — Ugh in Utah.

(A.) Is Donna going out on dates with your father? No, she is going out with you. Is she kissing him goodnight? No, she is kissing you.

She admires your father but YOU are her boy friend.

Let her see your parents now and then. She will get used to them and they will get used to her. Matters will fall into place. She may continue to have a high regard for your father, but she will still be your girl friend

TWO FAITHS: (Q.) I am 15 and Timothy is 16. He is of one faith and I am of another. His faith forbids him to marry me and mine forbids me to marry him. We don't want to marry. We just want to be friends.

But my mother is very nervous when he comes over to my house. We have to sit in the living room with the light on bright and I can't go outside to tell him goodnight. What should I do? — Miriam in New Jersey.

(A.) Don't just sit. Circulate. Take Timothy into the kitchen and fix a snack. Invite your mother and father to join you. Encourage them to get to know Timothy better. Familiarity breeds tolerance. We are less afraid of anyone we really know.

No United States president has been an only child.

Unless you mean business . . . We are now considering qualified applicants in your area to become a working part of our National "Hot Food" Distributor System. You are not applying for a job! You are applying for a very high profit business of your own. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY—NO SELLING INVOLVED. This business can be started part time—no need to quit your job. Can be expanded full time with company financing. We need people we can depend on. Our products are nationally famous "Hot Food" items made by Heinz. We have over 36 varieties of Hot Soups and Hot Entrees, such as Beef Stew, Chicken & Dumplings, Chili & Beans, and on and on. We have all of America's favorites. All these delicious products are sold from the latest in automatic vending equipment. Your route will be established and installed by us. Your age is not a factor, if you qualify. Perfect for a nice couple to operate as a family business.

CASH INVESTMENT REQUIRED AS LOW AS	$1,557.00

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

YES, AND ON TOP OF THAT TRACY SHAVED OFF HIS MUSTACHE AGAIN! WHAT A WEEK!
In the interrogation Room
HOUSEKEEPER? NO, I'M JUST A GLORIFIED MAID IN A CHEAP HOTEL, MR. TRACY. BUT IT WAS TAKE THE JOB OR STARVE.
WITH TWO KIDS IN SCHOOL-
THAT MORNING I WAS ORDERED TO SWEEP UP DEBRIS FROM PACKING CASES NEAR THE FREIGHT ELEVATOR.
"EXCELSIOR AND CRUMPLED PAPER AND BLACK STUFF ON THE FLOOR-LIKE DIRT."
ON THE VERY FIRST PUSH OF THE BROOM, THIS MASS ALL BURST INTO FLAME, MR. TRACY.
MEANWHILE—
THESE 2 BROOMS, LIZZ, WERE RECOVERED FROM 2 DIFFERENT TORCH JOBS.
"IN THIS CASE THE JANITOR WHO WAS USING THE BROOM DIED IN THE FLAMES."
FROM MY TARGET PRACTICE DAYS AND NAVY EXPERIENCE, I SENSE A FAMILIAR ODOR —GUNPOWDER.
GUNPOWDER? AH, COME NOW, GROOVY?
I THINK THE CULPRIT IN EACH ARSON CASE, LIZZ, WAS THE BROOM.
THE BROOM?
BROOMS. THAT START FIRES!!

THE FAMILY CIRCUS
DADDY MISSED AGAIN! THAT MAKES ELEVENTY-SIX!
IS IT OUT OF BOUNDS WHEN YOUR BALL GOES ACROSS THE STREET?
I KNOW MOMMY'S WINNIN' 'CAUSE SHE'S THE ONLY ONE SMILIN'.
COULD I GET A JOB HERE AS A CADDY?
I'M GONNA SWING REAL HARD LIKE ARNOLD PALMER.
TELL DOLLY TO STOP RUNNING AROUND THE PATHS. HER FOOTPRINTS ARE BOTHERIN' EVERYBODY.
AFTER THE TENTH HOLE I DON'T KNOW WHICH ONE IS NEXT 'CAUSE I RAN OUT OF FINGERS.
MOMMY! MY BALL LANDED IN THAT POND--CAN I GO WADING?
IS THIS WHERE YOU COME FOR YOUR GOLF LESSONS, DADDY?
IS THE WINNER THE ONE WITH THE HIGHEST SCORE OR THE LOWEST SCORE?
I WISH THEY HAD GOLF CARTS HERE SO WE COULD RIDE.
I DON'T LIKE THE 18TH HOLE 'CAUSE WHEN YOU SINK THE BALL YOU CAN'T GET IT BACK.
HURRY UP, DADDY--THOSE PEOPLE BEHIND US DON'T LOOK SO HAPPY.
TALK IN A LOW VOICE, JEFFY--LIKE THEY DO WHEN GOLF IS ON TV.

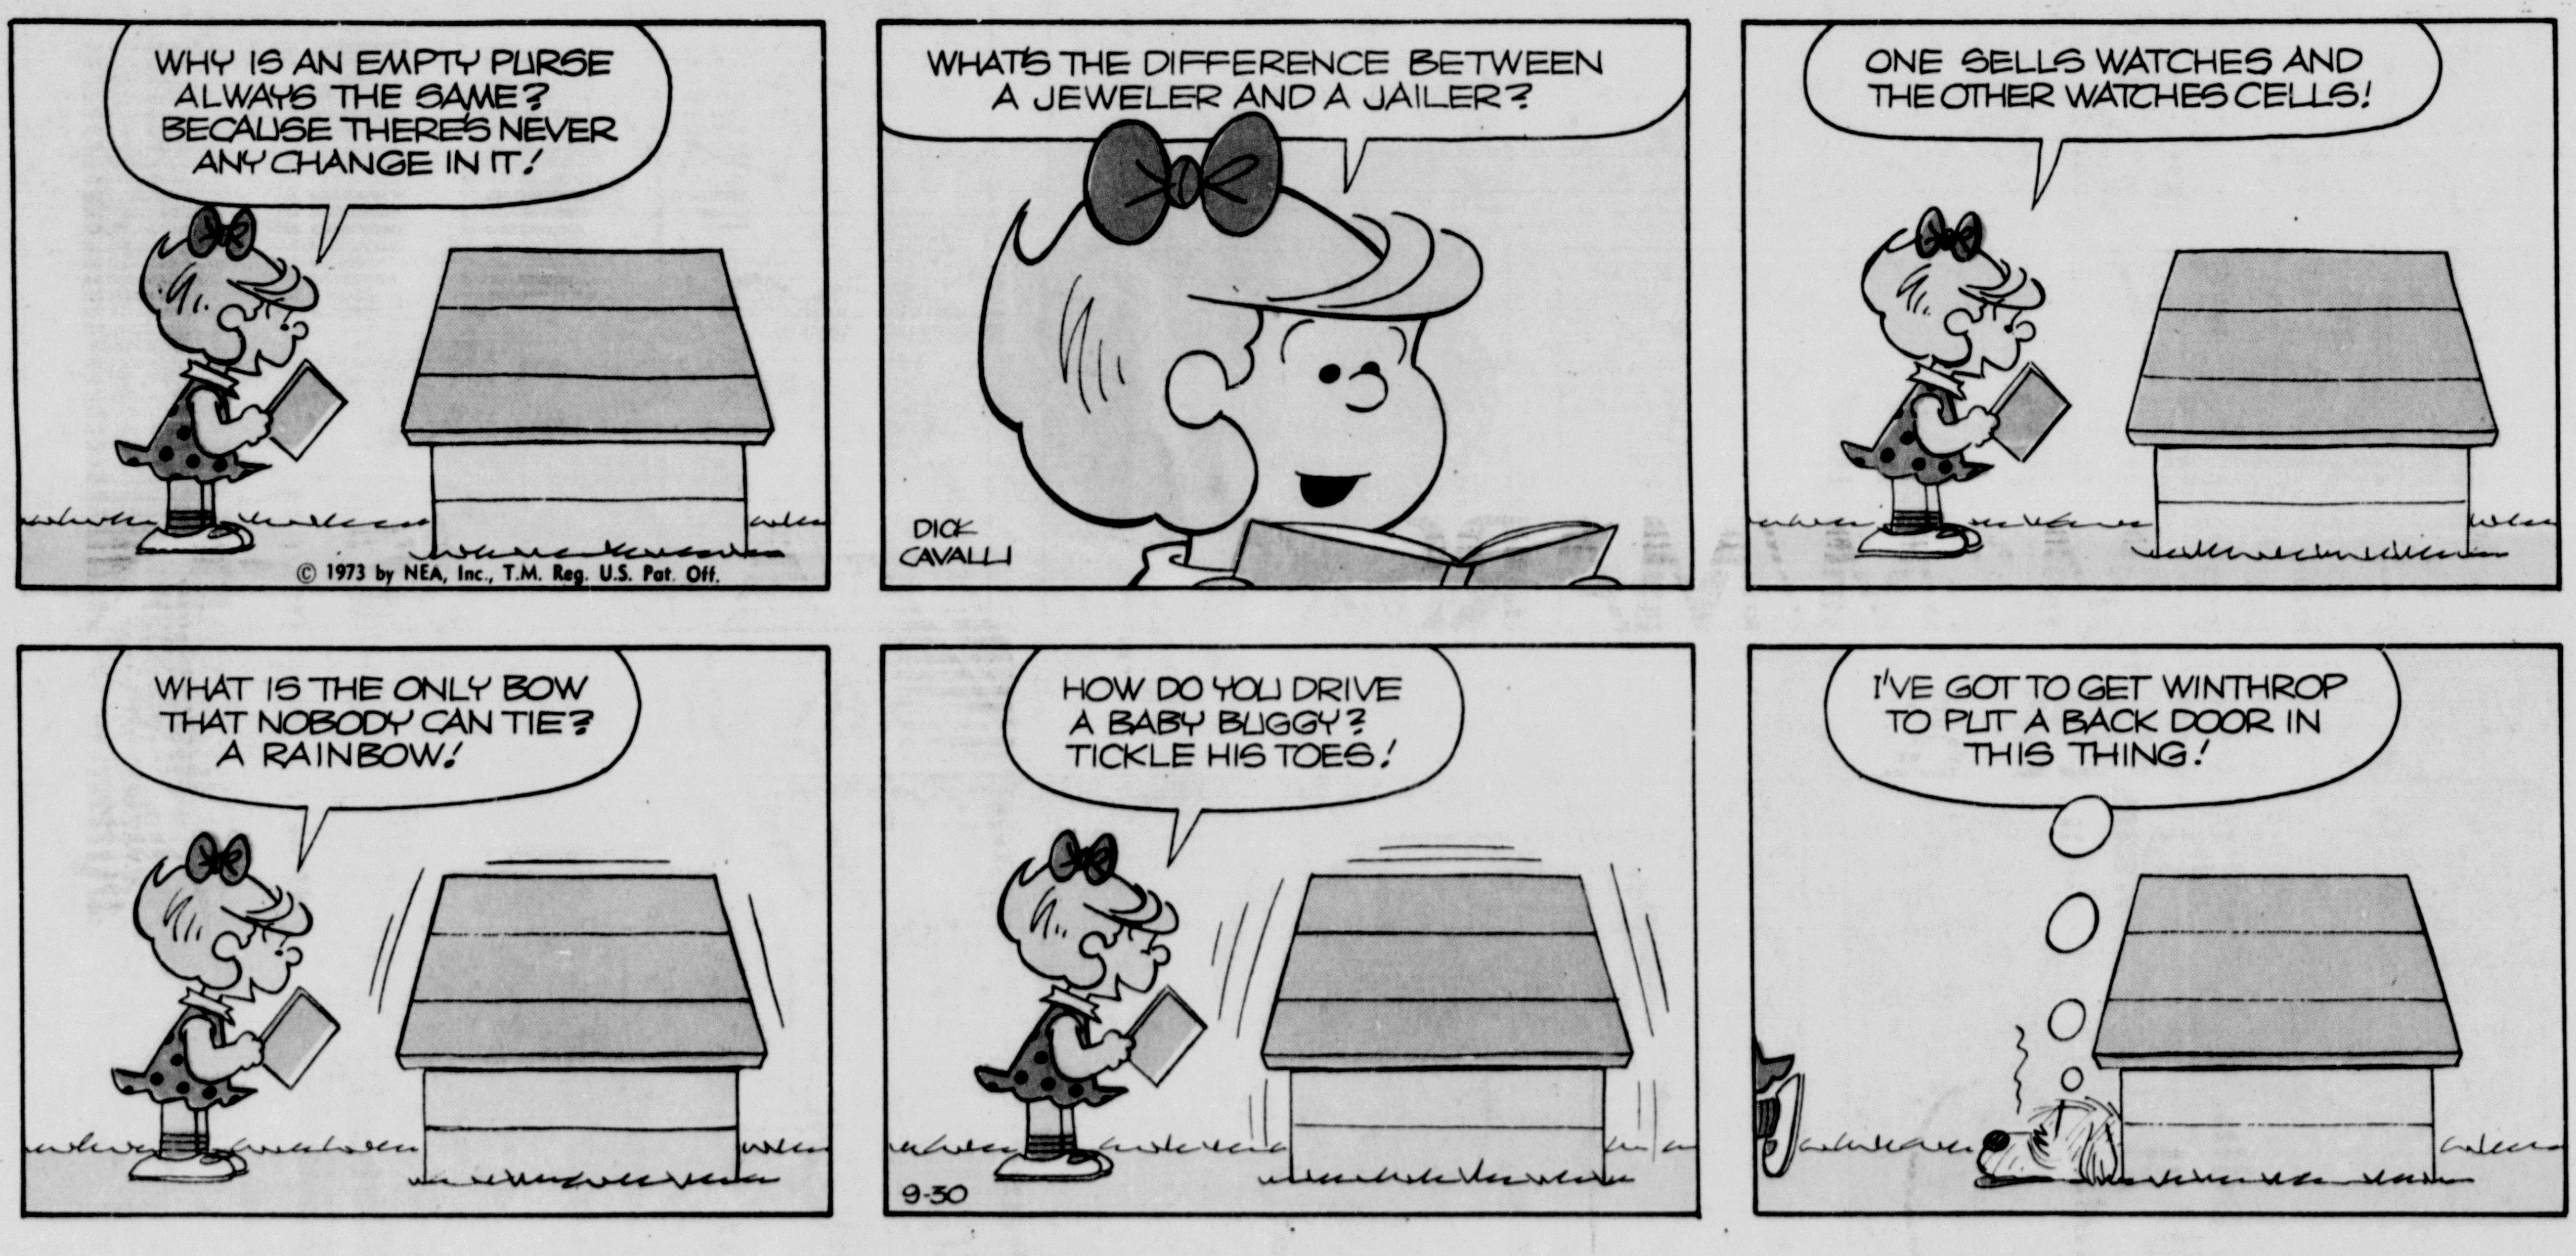
WINTHROP

BY ... DICK CAVALLI



WHY IS AN EMPTY PURSE ALWAYS THE SAME? BECAUSE THERE'S NEVER ANY CHANGE IN IT!
WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A JEWELER AND A JAILER?
ONE SELLS WATCHES AND THE OTHER WATCHES CELLS!
WHAT IS THE ONLY BOW THAT NOBODY CAN TIE? A RAINBOW!
HOW DO YOU DRIVE A BABY BUGGY? TICKLE HIS TOES!
I'VE GOT TO GET WINTHROP TO PUT A BACK DOOR IN THIS THING!

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — I keep a plastic holder with a squeeze top filled with salad oil to use when a squirt is needed for greasing a pan or when only a teaspoon, or tablespoon or two is required. This holder stands in a small jar top so there are no drips down the side to soil the shelf. — RUTH T.

DEAR POLLY — We use those tubes the new-style potato chips come in as holders for silverware to be taken on a picnic or a camping trip. — FLOSSIE.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I use a tiny paintbrush and bright-colored enamel to "dot" the spots where my sewing machine is to be oiled. I do not have to look for the places each time and then wonder if I have missed one. — KAREN.

DEAR POLLY — My four-year-old loves to practice writing numbers on an old calendar. Those with large squares for each date are particularly good. There is more room below the printed numbers for the child's own numbers. He has his model numbers pre-written and this is a great way to make use of old and extra calendars. — SUSAN

DEAR POLLY — When lifting a thumbtack from the wall or elsewhere, slip a paper clip under it as a lever for lifting. This is great when short or delicate fingernails are a problem. — LARRY.

DEAR POLLY — Girls who are tired of spending hours getting the tangles out of their hair could use a wig brush as I do. The bristles are long and strong and remove the tangles like magic. — HEIDI.

DEAR POLLY — Labels so often fall off of medicine bottles. I run some clear nail polish around the edges of each label. They stay on and are easier to read, too. — P. C.

DEAR POLLY — Rather than simply granting a set weekly stipend as an allowance for each child, we've changed to piece-work wages for household chores done. I have the projects and prices paid worked out so the least-desirable jobs pay the most. During the three years we have been doing this we have seen some get nothing at all and others get all the pay because they did all the work. Now the children seem to be doing the work in accordance with their abilities and foresight. — MR. J. E. W.

I'D SAY THAT WAS A PRETTY GOOD 'BACHELOR' MEAL MYSELF···
NOW, WE'LL POP THAT FROZEN PIE IN THE OVEN AND···
GOSH, DAD, THE PIE BROKE IN A MILLION PIECES!
TELL ME SOMETHING I DON'T KNOW, WILLIS!
YOU MEAN YOU'RE GONNA BAKE ALL THOSE LITTLE PIECES?
CERTAINLY! THIS IS THE ONLY DESSERT WE HAVE···
BESIDES, WHAT'S WRONG WITH A BITE-SIZE PIE?
KEEP AN EYE ON IT, WILL YOU, SON?
WHEN IT'S DONE, TAKE IT OUT TO COOL!
SURE, DAD!
YOU PUT THE PIE WHERE, WILLIS?
ON THE PORCH, DAD! IT'LL COOL FAST OUT THERE!

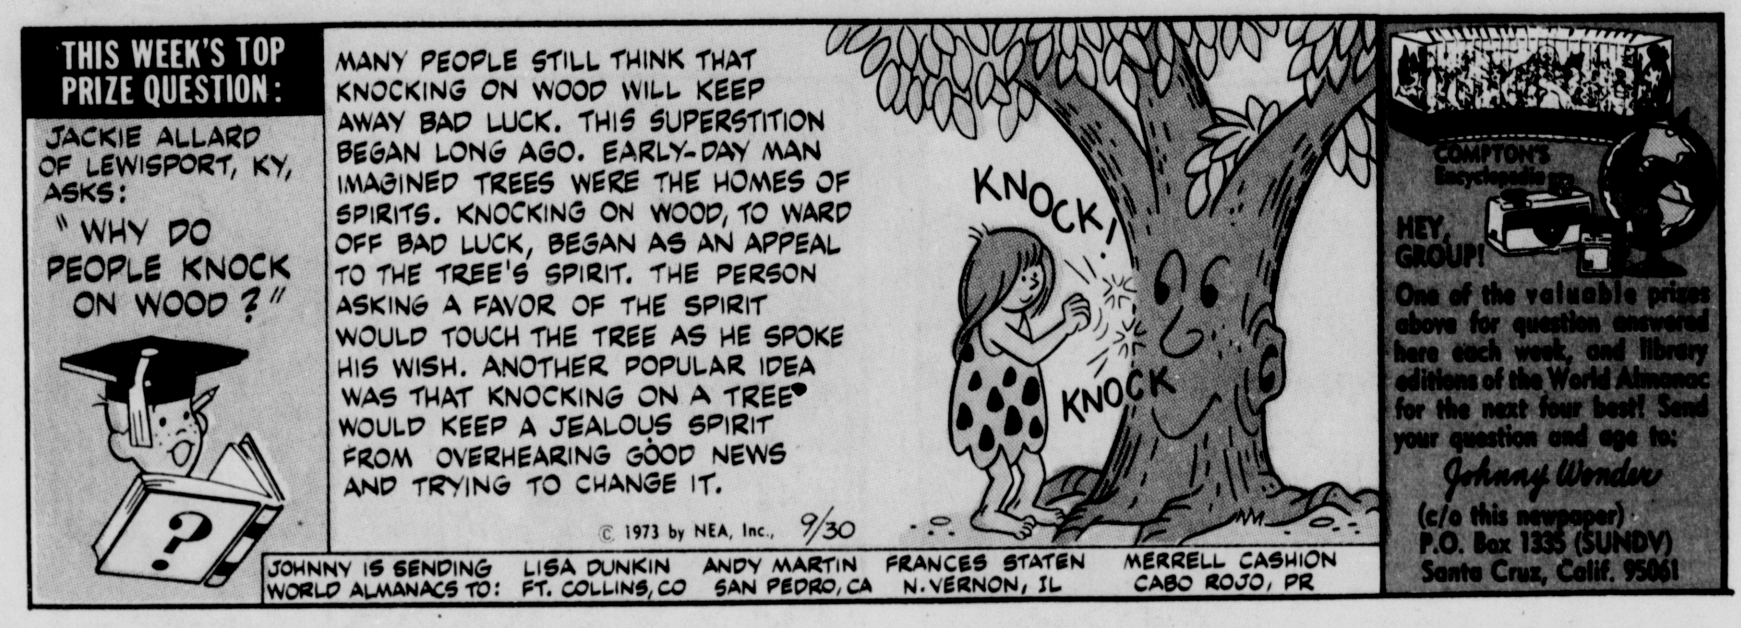
BUTTERFLIES
COLOR THE MONARCH BUTTERFLY YELLOW OR ORANGE.
NO ONE KNOWS EXACTLY WHY BUTTERFLIES ARE NAMED "BUTTERFLIES." SOME PEOPLE THINK THAT THE NAME CAME ABOUT BECAUSE SO MANY HAVE THE BRIGHT YELLOW COLOR OF BUTTER.



THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
JACKIE ALLARD OF LEWISPORT, KY, ASKS:
"WHY DO PEOPLE KNOCK ON WOOD?"
MANY PEOPLE STILL THINK THAT KNOCKING ON WOOD WILL KEEP AWAY BAD LUCK. THIS SUPERSTITION BEGAN LONG AGO. EARLY-DAY MAN IMAGINED TREES WERE THE HOMES OF SPIRITS. KNOCKING ON WOOD, TO WARD OFF BAD LUCK, BEGAN AS AN APPEAL TO THE TREE'S SPIRIT. THE PERSON ASKING A FAVOR OF THE SPIRIT WOULD TOUCH THE TREE AS HE SPOKE HIS WISH. ANOTHER POPULAR IDEA WAS THAT KNOCKING ON A TREE WOULD KEEP A JEALOUS SPIRIT FROM OVERHEARING GOOD NEWS AND TRYING TO CHANGE IT.

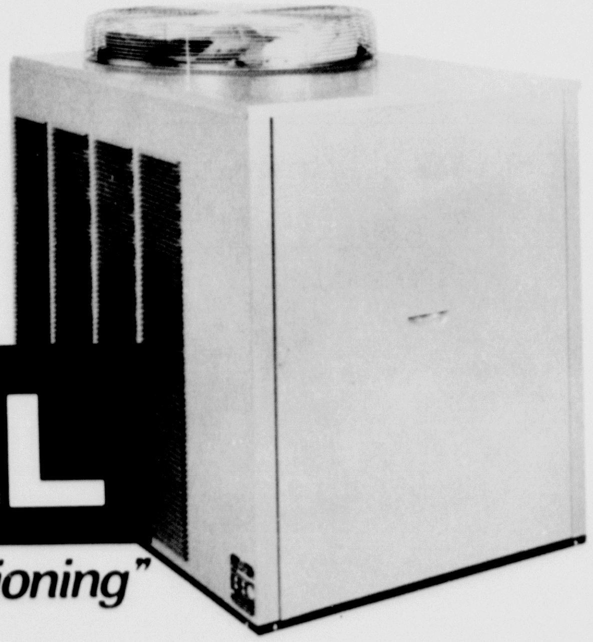
SERVEL

THE BARGAIN THAT COSTS A LITTLE MORE!

Servel air conditioning IS a bargain—a bargain that costs a little more. You save in the long run. Because Servel builds only quality heating-cooling systems you can purchase one with the assurance that it will last with a minimum of maintenance. AND THAT'S A REAL BARGAIN!

For All-Year® comfort, a Servel heating-cooling system has important benefits that you should expect from quality equipment. It helps extract moisture, dust and pollen so the air you breathe seems fresher. And it maintains temperature settings and circulates air quietly and efficiently.



Servel is the only
manufacturer to offer a 10-year warranty
at a slight additional cost.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'SERIOUS COMEDY'

Adam's Rib, a sparkling new romantic comedy about present-day marriage airs Fridays at 9:30 PM on ABC. The starring roles of Adam and Amanda Bonner are played by Ken Howard and Blythe Danner, both of whom won Tony Awards in 1970, and who also played husband and wife (Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson) in the film musical "1776."

The half-hour series, which is based on the memorable Metro-Goldwyn Mayer motion picture with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn released in 1949, concerns two attractive and successful young people. They are both attorneys; he is an assistant D.A. and she is a junior partner in a respected law firm. Both Ken and Blythe are great admirers of Tracy and Hepburn but emphasize they are not trying to pattern their performances after the famous pair.

About Tracy, Ken Howard told TV Week: "I saw him in everything. He's my favorite all-time actor, a brilliant performer, but that doesn't mean I'll attempt to duplicate his interpretation of the part."

In answer to her feelings about Hepburn, Blythe asks, "Who could ever fill those shoes?" She hopes fervently that viewers won't compare her and Ken with the famous stars of the film. "They were incredible and I don't think we'll see the likes of them again," she says.

Peter Hunt, who produces the series as well as alternating direction with Gary Nelson, says he likes the term 'romantic comedy' to describe the series, "because it evokes the quality of such great filmmakers as George Cukor and Billy Wilder. "Also," Hunt adds, "our aim is to make Adam's Rib in the tradition of those unforgettable movies 'The More the Merrier,' 'The Awful Truth' and the original 'Adam's Rib'."

Peter Stone, who wrote "1776," created the teleseries based on the motion picture by Ruth Gordon and Garson Kanin. Stone's many other credits include the film "Father Goose" for which he won an Academy Award. A unique aspect of the series, according to Hunt, is the fact they deal with serious subjects in a light, humorous fashion. "But," he states, "we never belittle them in any way. We intend to deal intelligently and humorously with controversial subjects as they are germane to society in 1973-74."

Hunt stresses the fact that Adam and Amanda, who are deeply in love, are very much in favor of the institution of marriage which has come under attack during recent years. He believes it does have to undergo some changes, however, particularly as it concerns the new liberation of women. With equal force, Hunt emphasizes that Adam's Rib is not a women's lib show. "Women and men have come up against certain problems and I think we are just at the beginning of a number of changes in the country and a re-evaluation of conditions. Not having either a routine job, nor being 'the little woman waiting at home," Amanda is a threat to Adam both on a professional and a masculine level. He is baffled at times," says Hunt, "but only because he, like most men, has been conditioned to look at women in a particular way."

Adam and Amanda will sometimes oppose each other in court—and sometimes at home—but their differences of opinion will not affect the love and respect they have for each other.

Adam's Rib is the first television series for Hunt, Blythe and Ken but their paths have all crossed before. Hunt worked with Ken in summer stock and with Blythe in an off-Broadway play. Ken and Blythe first met when they both won Tony Aards in 1970—Ken for his work in "Child's Play" and Blythe for "Butterflies Are Free."

The cast of talented supporting players includes Dena Dietrich (known to millions of TV commercial watchers as Mother Nature) as Amanda's secretary, Grace; Ron Rifkin as Roy, another assistant D.A. associated with Adam; Edward Winter as Amanda's law partner, Kip Kipple, and Norman Bartold as the District Attorney.

An unusual facet of the series is that more than 50 per cent of its writers are women. Says Hunt: "Women in some ways are more serious than men and Adam's Rib is a serious comedy. We establish a serious base and then treat it lightly."

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

As I have stated many times, rarely do I review movies. I simply don't feel anyone is qualified to tell the public what he thinks is good or bad. In most cases film reviewers are arrogant and often misinformed. Worse yet, they are writers with little or no knowledge of what it takes to make a film. Since I started in the motion picture business as a child actor in 1935 and have written scripts, produced several unimportant films, directed one short subject and spent over 15 years in a film editing room (the place where a movie is literally made or broken), I think that I, more than most reviewers, have the ability to give a sound, honest review. Since reviewing is part of our culture, the following is what I think about a certain picture.

THE NAKED APE, produced by Universal Studio and Playboy Productions, is one of the most interesting and exciting films I have seen in many a day. A very difficult picture to make, APE maintains pace, humor and poignancy and is intellectually stimulating on several different levels. Johnny Crawford and Victoria Principal play the leads. They are such an attractive couple that they remind one of the good old days when Van Johnson played opposite Phyllis Thaxter or William Powell did his thing with Myrna Loy.

THE NAKED APE is a motion picture that traces man's development from ten million years ago to tomorrow, nailing down his basic relation to the animal kingdom, his sex habits, and his territorial instincts to finally show him as a sexually motivated, naked, hunting ape. The photography, by John Alonzo, and the editing, by Robert L. Wolfe, are flawless and the portions of the film done with animation more effective than anything I've yet seen created.

After the credits and main title rolled by I started to get the feeling that the film was going to be confusing, but before three or four minutes had passed I was completely oriented and, for the first time in many years, I didn't find myself squirming and looking at my watch. It seemed the film was over almost before it started.

I've read some reviews of this film that weren't terribly flattering or complimentary. I don't like to disagree with my colleagues, but I'm wondering if some of them viewed the picture after maybe downing a couple too many. Or, possibly, some of them just aren't as smart as I've always believed them to be. Oh, well, it really doesn't make a hell of a lot of difference. As I said at the beginning of this column, no one has the right to review anything because a review, after all, is only an opinion. It's just too bad that opinions can very often make or break a movie.

JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR, a Norman Jewison-Robert Stigwood-Universal musical production, has launched an earthly superstar in Carl Anderson, who portrays Judas. This Carl Anderson is so dynamic that he makes Jesus (Ted Neeley) more gentle and believable!

Carl Anderson lives in Washington, D.C. One of four sets of twins among eleven children, he is single—a Pisces with a water bed and into photography. An Air Force communications technician for two years, until he won a world-wide Air Force Talent Contest which provided him the opportunity to communicate by singing. Anderson is quite vocal against all ideas (if offered) to become, per se, another superfly SHAFT fat cat.

"Well, would you like to do another musical?" I asked. His reply was candid. "Yes, but I wouldn't want to be typecast as a singer." "Speaking of typecasting," I said, "how could you identify as Judas with a white Christ?" "Race had nothing to do with it. Norman Jewison cast me as Judas because he thought I was the best Judas who auditioned. Both blacks and whites auditioned for the part. He didn't cast a "black" so to speak, he cast Carl Anderson."

Anderson has the potential to transcend labeling. However, he bears striking resemblances that make you envision another Ira Alderidge, the famous Shakespearean performer of about a century ago. In fact, the first thing to pop into my mind when I saw a few frames of JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR was "Belafonte, move over!" When I told him this, Carl laughed heartily. "That's why I grew this beard and longer hair. Often in Washington, D.C. I was chased, or mistaken for Belafonte." I sighed. Just as Black Moses Isaac Hayes turned on fashions, Carl Anderson is sure to open more chests than Dr. Barnard!

Actress Barbara Rush: "I've Always Wanted To Be Independent!"

"At Home"—Ideas For Your Bedroom And Family Room

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR REP. PETER RODINO (D-N.J.), sponsor of a bill to keep Attorneys General from taking part in presidential-election campaigns*

Charges of illegal activities aside, why all the fuss over former Attorney General John N. Mitchell's work as a Nixon campaign adviser? Didn't Bobby Kennedy do the same thing for his brother?—M. O'Dell, Teaneck, N.J.

● Yes, and when the late President John F. Kennedy appointed Bobby Kennedy as Attorney General, some members of the bar expressed doubts about the wisdom of that appointment. In recent years, there has been a growing tendency for our nation's top law-enforcement officers to view themselves as the Attorney General of the President and of the President's political party. This tendency is a dangerous one, no matter who is President.

FOR JACQUES COUSTEAU, underwater explorer*

I have often wondered why you didn't include a search for the fabled Loch Ness monster among your many searches. Do you have any plans in this direction?—Dorothy Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● No, because I don't believe there is such a thing as the Loch Ness monster.

FOR BARBARA EDEN

I read that you lost your baby under tragic circumstances two years ago. Is that true?—S. K., Council Bluffs, Iowa

● Yes—and it helped me learn how very dear life is. It was a hard experience: My baby died in the seventh month, but I had to carry it a full month more before the doctors would terminate pregnancy. The death came about because the umbilical cord collapsed. I hadn't even known such a thing was possible. Since then I've heard of other cases.

FOR HOPE LANGE

I have always admired you for your ladylike quality. How have you managed in a business that is known to be tough? —B. E., Prescott, Ariz.

● I think everyone has his own concept of what being ladylike means. If you are referring to a quiet, timid sort of attitude, then you are very wrong—I probably have the foulest mouth around! I find using four-letter words a marvelous relief for pent-up tensions and anger. However, I would never use such language around anyone I didn't know.

FOR SEN. CHARLES H. PERCY (R-Ill.)*

I see you're sponsoring bills to "improve" our prisons. Isn't it time to get tough instead?—F. S., Marion, Ind.

● If we're serious about trying to alleviate the crime problem, then it's time we take a long look at the system, which is producing failures seven times out of ten. I think we should reshape our approach to criminal justice. Both the "soft on crime" and "hard line" approaches are just traps. None of these approaches has worked or will work.

FOR REDD FOXX, TV star*

I have heard you mention the name "Elizabeth" several times on your "Sanford and Son" show. Who is Elizabeth?—Martin Piotrowski, Mt. Morris, Mich.

● The Elizabeth that I refer to is supposed to be Fred Sanford's late wife. I took the name from an old friend, now deceased. She was Elizabeth Cobb, who was married to saxophone player Arnett Cobb, a great friend of mine.

FOR ANN CORIO of "This Was Burlesque"*

How do you explain the fact that so many women want to see burlesque shows?—Mrs. J. J., Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Women make up 70 percent of my audience, and the reason is pretty basic. These women never went to burlesque shows before. They had heard about them from their husbands, but they were not allowed to go. When I brought burlesque to theaters in the round and made the show respectable, they began to come. Now they are beating the men to the front seats.

FOR JEANE DIXON

What do you think will be the outcome of the gas shortage? —Cheryl Chesebrough, Merced, Calif.

● I feel that the gas shortage is going to continue to be a problem. At the moment it is a manufactured shortage, but we will have an energy crisis for real later on.

FOR CURT GOWDY, sportscaster*

I have heard that Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins, who is in the six-figure salary bracket, regrets he never graduated from high school. True?—John Davidson, Green Bay, Wis.

● Yes, and he's going to school right now in order to get a diploma.

FOR R. BUCKMINSTER FULLER,
architect, inventor and author*

Where did you come by the words "livingry" and "killingry"?—L. L. S., Chicago, Ill.

● There is a word, "weaponry," covering lethal weapons of humanity. I found no word covering the inventions in support of human living, so invented the word livingry. I also invented the word killingry as the negative of livingry, feeling that the word killingry is a little more dramatic than weaponry—it makes the idea of arms manufacture a little less attractive.

OPINION by Dr. Frank G. Slaughter

> "The union was flooded with bills for elective operations—until a requirement was added that every preoperative diagnosis must be confirmed by another physician. After that, here's what happened: Hemorrhoidectomies dropped 35 percent, appendectomies 60 percent and hysterectomies 75 percent."

U.S. Medical Care: What's Wrong?

Dr. and Mrs. Frank G. Slaughter in the garden of their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

With 52 published books, all but five of them novels, and sales of over 50 million copies in 20 countries, Dr. Frank G. Slaughter of Jacksonville, Fla., is one of the most prolific authors of our time and probably the most widely known writing doctor in the world. An honor graduate of Duke with an M.D. from Johns Hopkins at 22, he holds the coveted Diploma of the American Board of Surgery, is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the AMA, and was surgical chief for one of the Army's largest hospitals at Camp Kilmer, N.J., during World War II. In his first novel, "That None Should Die"—a world best seller begun in 1938 and published in 1941 by Doubleday—he envisioned universal medical care provided by private group clinics through health insurance for three population groups, as follows:

(A) Low Income Group — Medical care taken care of by local and state governments by paying the clinics at average cost rates for each patient treated . . . (B) Medium Income Group —eligible for a system of health insurance collected from their incomes (as in a tax) and turned over to an insurance commission in each state . . . (C) High Income Group—will receive whatever accommodations they wish to pay for at the clinics. The patient may arrange insurance himself. Dr. Slaughter's newest novel, "Convention M.D.," will be published by Pocket Books in October.

In the third quarter of the twentieth century, medical science in America has reached a peak of quality never before attained by any country. Characteristically, too, we spend far more on health than any nation, roughly $83 billion in 1972, or 7.6 percent of the Gross National Product. With that, plus a standard of living unequaled in history, we should be the healthiest nation on earth. Yet judged by nearly a dozen indexes, the U.S. ranks below many nations that spend less than five percent of their GNP on keeping well.

What's wrong with America's health-care delivery system? A lot of people are asking that question. Fortunately some have not only diagnosed the trouble but also prescribed a promising form of treatment.

The ideal goal of a medical-care delivery system has been described by Dr. William G. Anlyan of Duke University as "medical care within a maximum of one-hour availability for every American." The record of the present non-system is far below this ideal, however, and since the Depression, commission after commission, both private and governmental, has sought ways to improve it. Almost all came up with the same answer: The product is superb, but the delivery vehicle is a one-horse shay that has changed but little—and not all of that for the better—since Colonial days.

The answer to the basic problem of medical-care delivery was blueprinted 35 years ago by this author in a novel called "That None Should Die," and it was blueprinted again in mid-April of this year by the prestigious Committee for Economic Development in a report titled "Building a National Health Care System."

Briefly stated, here are the problems:

- The U.S. is saddled with too many hospital beds that aren't needed, but has too few doctors to serve the beds that are necessary.
- Too many scalpel-happy surgeons are charging high fees for operations that aren't necessary.
- Too many doctors have located themselves in cities where they aren't needed but where the financial rewards are very good indeed, and too few live in other places where the pay is low but the opportunity to save lives and alleviate human misery is unlimited.
- Too many days of unnecessary hospitalization have increased health-insurance rates but done little to increase the availability and the quality of vital emergency care—the kind of care that gives serious-accident patients from the nation's highways less chance of survival than were given to a soldier wounded in Vietnam.

Traditionally, medicine in the U.S. has always been, and still is to a large degree, a "cottage industry." "Solo practice," "free-choice-of-physician" and "fee-for-service," the cornerstones of this long-since-antiquated structure, have become millstones, threatening to drown the nation's third largest industry in a flood of exorbitant cost, inefficiency, over-duplication of services and wasteful use of both manpower and equipment.

Strong words? Yes. But no stronger than the medicine needed to cure a sick medical-care delivery system.

Doctors have their share of blame but much of the waste and inefficiency in the national medical-care structure can be laid at the door of American hospitals. By the 1960's there were already enough hospital beds to care for every U.S. citizen who needed hospitalization. The generosity of the federal government through the Hill-Burton Act and the desire of congressmen to see that each one's district got a lion's share, however, caused America to be dotted with hospitals–enough hospitals to hold five people per 1,000 population by 1970. Actual occupancy is 3.3 persons per 1,000. Even worse from the standpoint of medical-care efficiency, hospitals today tend to compete with each other, often ruinously, by putting in equipment that is rarely used and then not always properly.

> "The cornerstones of this long-since-antiquated structure have become millstones, threatening to drown the nation's third largest industry in a flood of exorbitant cost."

The Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease Resources found in a recent study that for professional staffs to maintain their skills, a hospital should be used for no fewer than four to six open-heart operations a week. Yet hospital after hospital over the country has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on equipment for open-heart surgery, deep X-ray and cobalt-therapy machines, scanning units for nuclear medicine, and other sophisticated instruments. The truth is that one center could handle all the traffic for that area. In fact, if the average businessman ran his business as the community hospital is run, he'd go bankrupt.

Still another area of unnecessary expense and, deplorably, sometimes unnecessary death, is the operating room, the heart of any hospital. A long list of operations is posted every day but nobody asks if a particular operation is necessary, probably because between one-fourth and one-half of them are not. Only after a patient has died does the Death Committee, which all hospitals should have, try to fix the blame.

Do you doubt me? Then listen to this.

English cities average roughly half the number of surgeons that are found in American cities of the same size, yet the quality of English medicine is widely acclaimed. In the Kaiser Foundation prepayment group clinics, the largest of the type in this country, roughly half as many operations are performed as in the average community hospital in the same area. And when the United Mine Workers instituted a prepayment health-insurance system with "fee-for-service," the union was flooded with bills for elective operations–until a requirement was added that every pre-operative diagnosis must be confirmed

PROSPECTOR

by world-renowned master engraver H. Alvin Sharpe
The first one-ounce PROOF INGOT ever to be struck by The Hamilton Mint in .999 Pure Silver and Solid 24 Kt. Gold on Pure Silver

This is the first ingot in a dramatic new series—"Profiles of the West"—and only those who subscribe now will have rights to purchase all future issues.

The Hamilton Mint is privileged to offer a rare masterwork of original medallic art, commemorating one of the most familiar figures in American Western folklore. Titled "The Prospector," this is the first ingot ever created by H. Alvin Sharpe, the only master intaglio engraver working actively today.

One of the foremost living engravers, Mr. Sharpe's works are appreciated and eagerly sought after by numismatic collectors worldwide. His international reputation and popularity, coupled with the fact that this is an historic "first" in his long career, will undoubtedly result in an unprecedented demand for "The Prospector" among the thousands of collectors who see this announcement. And only those who act promptly will be able to take advantage of this exclusive opportunity.

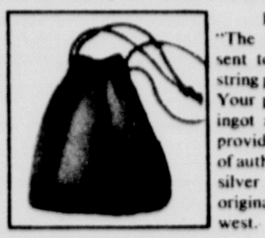
An Original Limited Edition Masterpiece

Each proof ingot will be struck directly from the original hand-engraved die, superbly conceived and executed by Mr. Sharpe expressly for The Hamilton Mint. "The Prospector" will be struck in proof finish—the finest quality of minting available—in two strictly limited precious metal editions: just 10,000 ingots in .999 Fine Silver (the purest obtainable), and only 5,000 ingots in Pure 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Silver. Only one individual proof ingot will be minted per customer, and once these limited editions are fully subscribed, Mr. Sharpe's original die will be donated to a leading museum of Western art for permanent exhibition. Because medallic works of art created by Mr. Sharpe and The Hamilton Mint are in constant demand by collectors all over the world, it is imperative that you order today—to insure yourself an opportunity to obtain this first ingot and the charter subscriber option to secure the others to follow in this series. "The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost.

Guaranteed Purchase Price

As a subscriber, your ingot will be struck exclusively for you, and will be accompanied by a signed Certificate of Authenticity from The Hamilton Mint attesting to its limited-edition status. Despite the fact that prices of silver and gold have doubled in the last few years in the International Metals Market—and will continue to soar, according to leading economists—The Hamilton Mint has established a guaranteed purchase price of just $10.00 for the .999 Pure Silver ingot, and just $17.50 for the 24 Kt. Gold on .999 Silver ingot . . . and because The Hamilton Mint has committed for a sufficient quantity of Silver and Gold in the current market to fully cover each subscription, these prices will also be maintained for the remaining ingots in the "Profiles of the West" series.

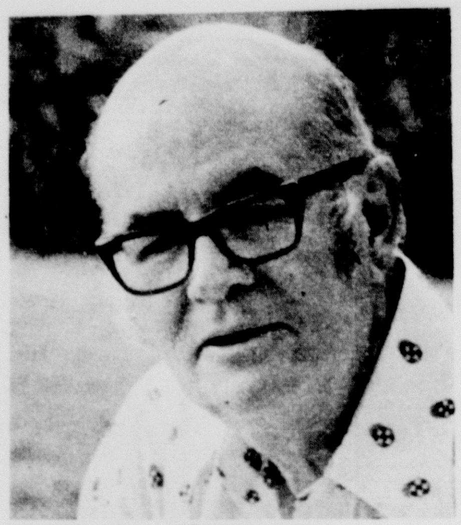
Please act promptly. Once the total number of ingots in "The Prospector" issue have been subscribed, no further applications can be accepted by the Mint. Because of the enormous anticipated demand on the part of collectors for Alvin Sharpe's work, we urge that you complete and return the subscription form today in order to avoid disappointment!



INCLUDED FREE
"The Prospector" ingot will be sent to you in a genuine drawstring pouch, at no additional cost. Your pouch serves to protect the ingot against damage as well as providing you with the same type of authentic container for valuable silver and gold as used by the original Prospector's of the old west.

U.S. Medical Care: What's Wrong?

Continued



Dr. Slaughter: "Groups are increasing rapidly, from 400 in 1946 to 6,300 in June, 1973, a clear trend that will no doubt accelerate."

by another physician. After that here's what happened: Hemorrhoidectomies dropped 35 percent, appendectomies 60 percent, and hysterectomies 75 percent. At the average community hospital in the average American town, the only license a doctor needs to operate is a license to practice medicine.

Besides sending patients to hospitals more often than they should, many doctors also allow them to be kept there longer than is necessary, increasing substantially the already exorbitant cost of medical care. On a typical day in 1970, 3.3 persons per 1,000, roughly 600,000 persons all told, were hospitalized, at an average cost in 1970 (higher now) of $81.01 for the day. But if each of those patients had been discharged one day earlier—as is the case in Kaiser Foundation hospitals—the saving in medical-care cost would have been over $48 million.

Does America need to spend more money on health care, as several bills before Congress propose? The evidence says not.

The annual bill of $88 billion for medical care of all kinds adds up to about $400 per person, $1,200 for a family of three. Yet the Johns Hopkins Institutions are providing care of the highest quality to the residents of Columbia, Md. This is done through a prepaid university group clinic—at a cost of $65.55 per month for a family of three or $786.60 a year. This figure is only about two-thirds of the present per capita national expense for health care and disease prevention. The truth is that Americans are already spending too much for medical care and getting too little for their money. Moreover, the man in the street is beginning to realize this bitter truth.

National polls taken in 1971 and 1972 showed that three out of every four people were dissatisfied with the present system, although out of a total 1970 census of roughly 205 million, 181.5 million are covered by some form of medical insurance. Polls and most analytical studies also show that the health-insurance-buying public prefers group medical practice to solo practice. So it isn't surprising that groups are increasing rapidly, from 400 in 1946 to 6,300 in June, 1973, a clear trend that will no doubt accelerate.

Most people polled also said they wanted a doctor of their own at the clinic that took care of them. The number of doctors who are listed as general practitioners declined from 66.10 percent in 1940 to 16.3 percent in 1970. But in the ideal clinic, each subscriber's family is assigned to a family-practice physician designated as a "Primary Health Care Agent." And since about 75 percent of the subscriber complaints can be handled on an ambulatory basis by this specially trained physician, the medical-care system could thus be streamlined remarkably. Then the 25 percent who have more serious complaints can be directed to the specialist—usually in the same building—best able to treat them.

> "If the average businessman ran his business as the community hospital is run, he'd go bankrupt."

The clinic family-practice physician can fill an even greater need, too, by virtue of his training in the science of "predictive medicine." A color photograph of the eye, magnified 200 times, not only reveals arteriosclerosis and impending glaucoma but can identify a tendency toward diabetes as much as ten years before a coronary attack develops, and the new science can also discover many other possible causes of later disability.

Yes, the medical-care delivery system is sick with a chronic illness of long standing, but the diagnosis is clear now. And since they are the very heart of the system, it behooves the doctors of America to present a new application of Luke 4:25, "Physician, heal thyself."

KRAFT

Squeeze it for speed and convenience in the kitchen. It's great for cooking. For sautéing, basting, measuring.

Squeeze it because it's high in polyunsaturates. If you're on a low cholesterol diet, Squeeze Parkay really makes sense.

Or, just maybe, squeeze it because you like to squeeze it.

Super Solutions For Bedrooms and Family Rooms

In this section, Women's Editor Rosalyn Abrevaya looks at two very important parts of the house. She says, "Although we spend a third of our lives in bedrooms, they always seem to be the rooms we decorate last. And as for family rooms, too often they're still a junk depot for furnishings that have lost favor in other rooms." How to change all that, and not have it cost a fortune? Study these room settings.

Solution: Bedroom as a Retreat

This kind of room, which invites you to shut out the world, is a well-functioning entity. The bed, outfitted with a Simmons mattress, is tucked under a wall-hung upholstered headboard. The floor-to-ceiling units house stereo speakers or provide storage. Decorative catalysts: the bold meld of flower-printed fabric by Bloomcraft and Wunda Weave nylon carpeting, both Scotchgarded. Stereo by Magnavox. At the window: hairpin-lace Roman shades you can make yourself. Send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope with 25 cents in coin to: Coats and Clark, Inc., Box 495, Dept. FW 9-73, Fair Lawn, N.J. 07410.

Solution: Built-In Seating Makes Room for People

Here's a family room where the fun never stops. The carpeted step-up seating eliminates furniture, with the exception of two étagères for stereo equipment and bric-a-brac. The focal point is the printed carpet by Jorges. Used wall-to-wall or as an area rug, it's a board for 16 games, from checkers to backgammon. (A game-components kit, with instructions and pieces, is available where the carpet is purchased.) The rug, of soil-hiding Antron nylon with high-density latex foam-rubber backing, also sets the scene for TV and musical background magic by Magnavox.

Who needs furniture in this bright, come-alive room, a haven for snacking, lounging and games galore?

Now—An Elegant Place To Take Off Your Shoes!

Once called the rec or rumpus room, to which you relegated the kids, and perhaps locked the door in the process, the family room has since come of age. Technology is the reason. Easy-care materials and multipurpose furniture have made possible elegant environments that adults can revel in. Ideally, a family room should be a spot not only for music-listening, TV-watching or hobby work, but be a successful entertaining room. Its design should be cheerful, versatile in function, easy to keep orderly and comfortable. It also can give family members a chance to express their personalities—by displaying artwork, other hobby creations or personal sports pictures and trophies.

Design a convertible family room that's all fun and function—with easy-to-move-aside furnishings for more floor space.

Solution: Room for All Ages

For those who are not inclined to have a separate family room, why not revamp the living room into a multipurpose area to serve all generations equally? As a playroom, games pull out of storage built into textured Masonite wall paneling. Durable vinyl asbestos tile flooring, "American Sampler" by GAF Corporation, resists paints, crayons, even scuff marks. When adults get priority, Monopoly makes way for TV or chess. Light, easy-to-move furniture regroups for charades, sweeps away for dancing. Remodeling of this 12' x16' room (for four paneled walls, new floor and matching fabric) was under $200. Room designed by Edmund Motyka.

Let your teenager plan a bedroom for more than just sleeping.

Solution: A Living/Sleeping/Dining Environment

A teenager who wants room to entertain friends in his own quarters might choose to have his bed built aloft. This practical project is simply a sophisticated version of the bunk bed. (Restless sleepers should not overlook adding a removable side railing or panel.) The room's "early attic" charm blends a butcher block table, rattan furniture and a well-traveled trunk. Nostalgic barn-siding paneling by Evans shows off a series of old advertisements and a collection of license plates. The richly colored carpeting is of Enkaloft filament nylon from Jorges.

How to divide a room for kids who have to share it.

Solution: Privacy with a Colorful Divider

Even sisters who are close want a part of the bedroom they can call their own. A room divider of Plexiglas and painted wood might be just the answer, with shelving below to stash books and toys. Bright-red headboards, cut from acrylic sheet with a simple hand scribing tool, double as memo boards (crayon doodles wipe clean with a tissue). And storage abounds in open-ended cubes and wicker trunks.

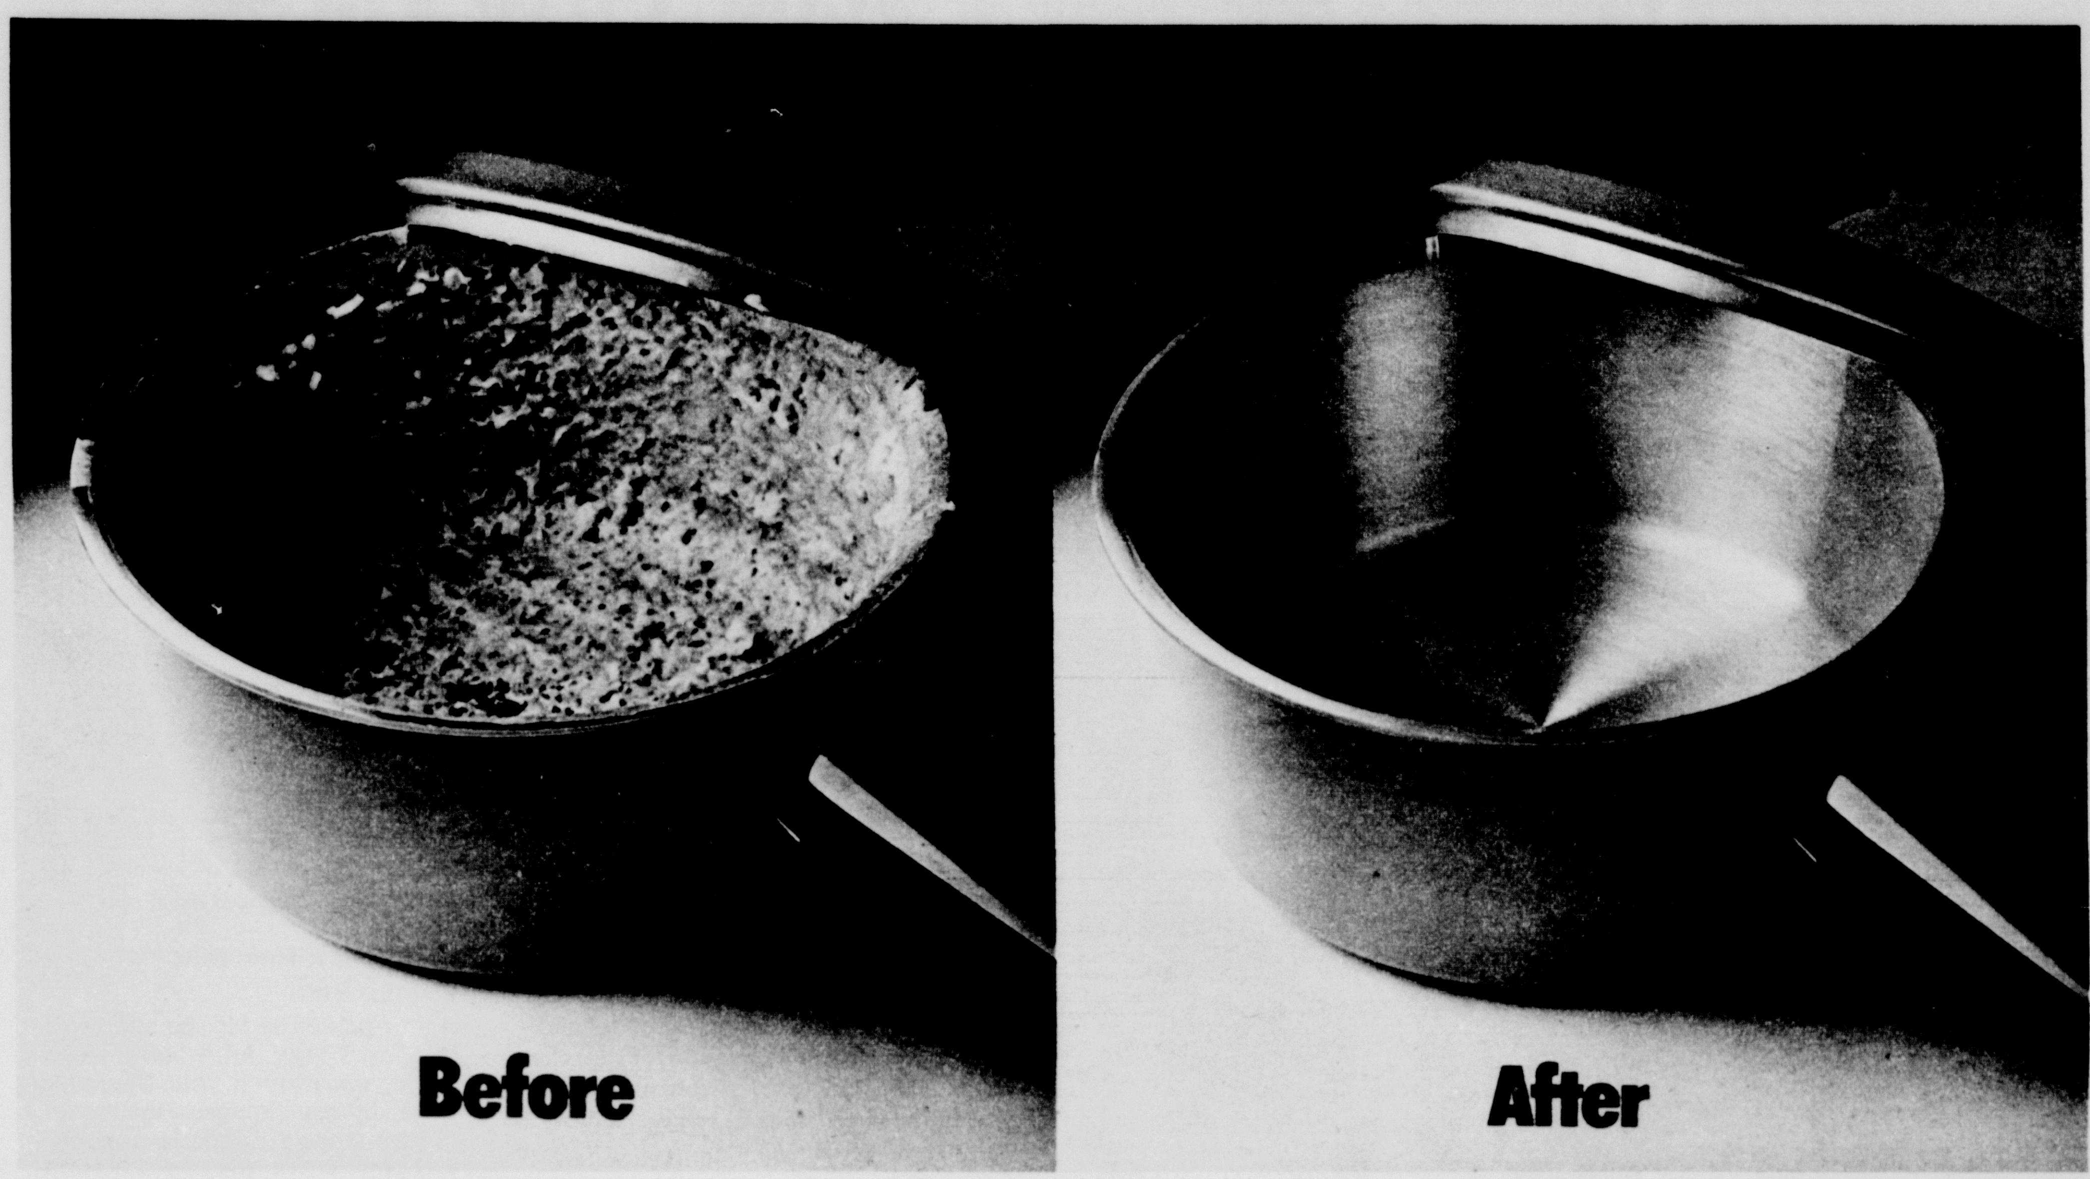
A General Electric Potscrubber dishwasher is guaranteed to do this. Or we'll take it back.

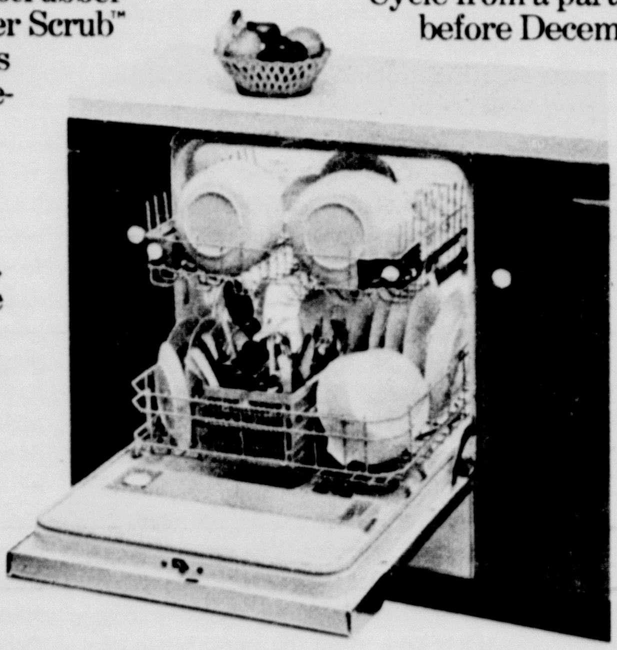


The pot on the left has the remains of the morning's oatmeal.

The unretouched picture on the right is the same pot after it has been scrubbed with the brushless water action of one of our Potscrubber dishwashers with Power Scrub™ Cycle. Nothing else was done to this pot. No prescraping. No rinsing. We washed it along with a full load of 88 other dirty dishes, glasses and silverware.

You'll get the same results as we have if you'll follow our simple loading diagrams for different sizes and types of loads.

Instructions are provided with every Potscrubber we sell.



That's why we can give this guarantee:

"Buy any one of our Potscrubber* dishwashers with a Power Scrub Cycle from a participating GE dealer before December 31, 1973. If you're not fully satisfied with its performance (and you'll be the judge) notify the dealer within 30 days of your purchase. He'll take back the dishwasher and refund your money. No questions asked."

In addition to pots and pans, you can also safely wash fine china and crystal.

We make a line of Potscrubber models to fit into a lot of different kitchens. Three built-ins. Three front-load convertibles, portable now, can be built in later.

These are some of the reasons why more people use GE dishwashers than any others.

We also have a quality feature just as dependable as our Potscrubber. Customer Care... Service Everywhere.™ This is our pledge that wherever you are, or go, in the U.S.A., you'll find a qualified GE serviceman nearby. Should you ever need him.

The incredible Potscrubber dishwasher... another reason why GE is America's #1 major appliance value.

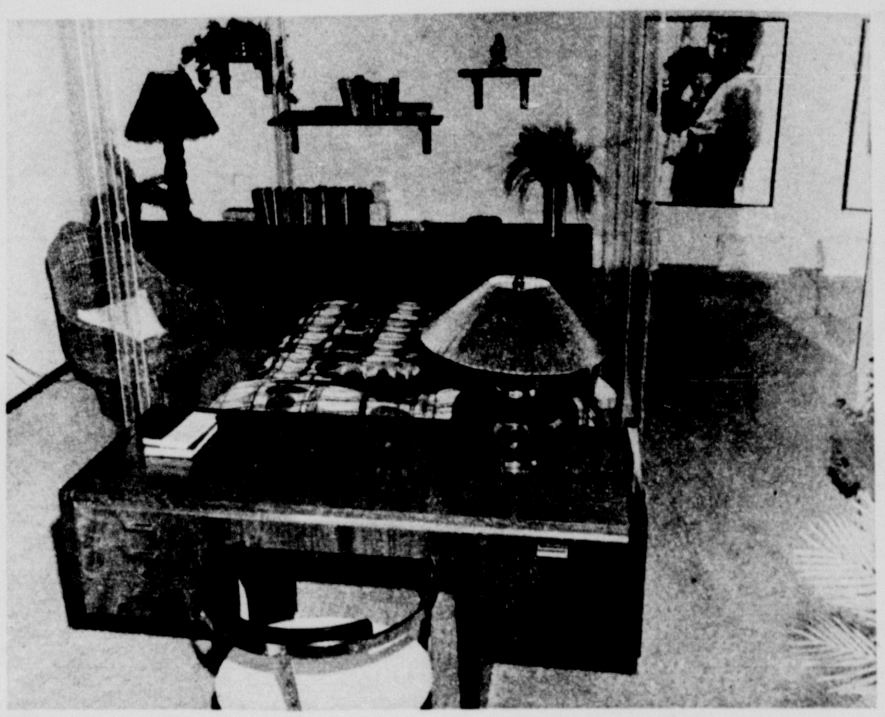
Wake Up to These Bedrooms!



Rules are meant to be broken—as in placing a bed in the center of the room.

Solution: A New Place to Put the Bed

A four-poster bed in the middle of the floor? Why not, when it frees the space around you. Designer Carol Jensen—in one of the model homes in Palm Coast, a new development in northeastern Florida—departs from the traditional approach of positioning the bed against the wall in this 14′x17′ bedroom. The Lucite posts in a canopy frame make the bed a conversation piece—while a desk is utilized as the headboard. In the far-right corner, a cozy reading nook is established with two carpeted steps shown at right angles to the mirror.

The bedroom is a room apart—private, designed for the relaxing, quiet pleasures of reading or listening to music. Bedrooms can be among the most attractive rooms in the house, but too often they are left to the last in decorating because of the idea that guests are not likely to see them. But we spend one-third of our lives in our bedrooms, and they should offer the most in physical comfort and visual charm, according to the individual tastes of their occupants.

If the room is shared by husband and wife, choose a color scheme both can live with. Arrange the furniture to make sleep restful: If you can't stand a trace of light, try not to have the bed face a window. Plan to include a comfortable chair, a good reading light, bedside tables of adequate size—within easy reach.

Colors in the bedroom can be lighter, more delicate, since traffic is minimal. The decor may be highly personal, even a bit fanciful. A special touch of drama is added to the master bedroom when the bed is king-size (besides the enormously added comfort) or a four-poster with modern or traditional leanings.

Don't overlook the importance of good-quality bedding. It's like trying on shoes. The only way to judge is to lie down and stretch out on the mattress—right in the store.

If you're thinking of revamping your bedroom and tossing out some pieces, or starting from scratch, you have other options besides buying a matching "set." There are many dresser and nightstand substitutes to be discovered in campaign chests and armoires, étagères, semainiers (seven-drawer chests) and other case goods, such as wicker or a painted piece, that provide ample storage space and more character.

In determining how to outfit the children's room, your surest bet (if they're at least age six) is to listen

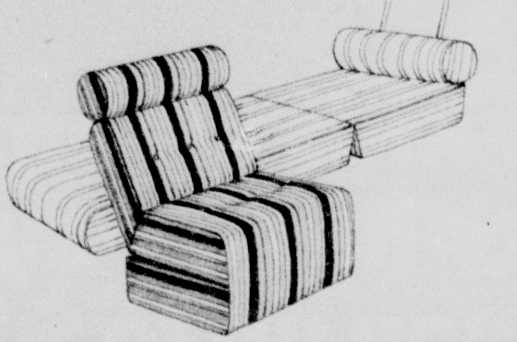
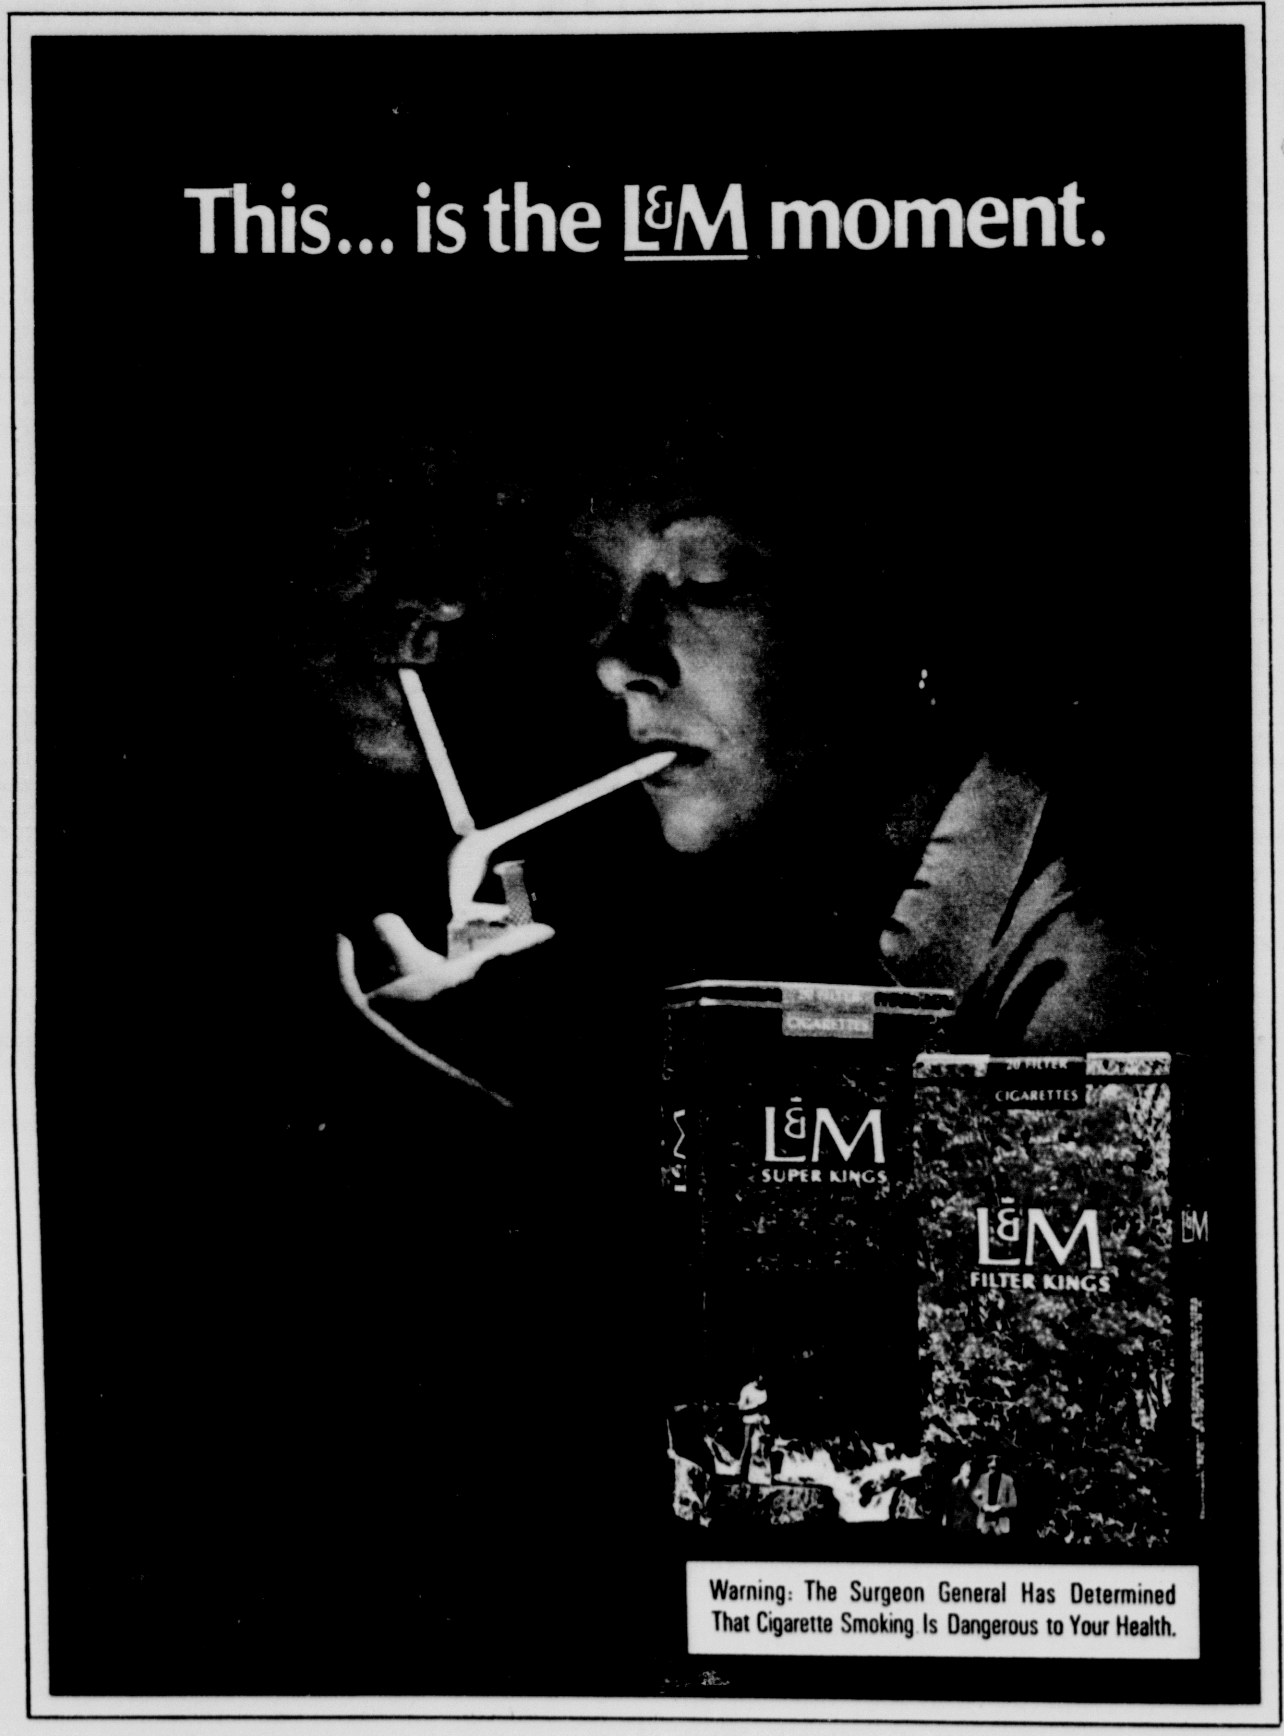
Good Buys for Your Home

Settle back. This is an armchair guide to some of the best buys you will find in home furnishings this season. What is a "best buy"? We believe it's money well spent for what you get in return, not calculated on price alone. Whether you're looking for occasional furniture, an accessory, or a major piece, Family Weekly's experts have culled the market for you, presenting the best in each category.

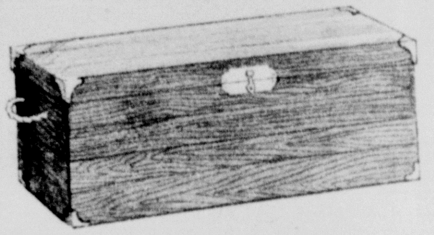


It Leads a Double Life

This versatile chair-bed is a boon for the unexpected overnight guest or when the children want to have their friends sleep over. Folded up, the contemporary chair—with its foam inner core — provides ample seating and is lightweight enough to move about for conversational regrouping. Folded down, the pillow headrest adjusts automatically on the chrome frame to convert into a comfortable daybed. "Nap-Sack" by Domani. Under $130.

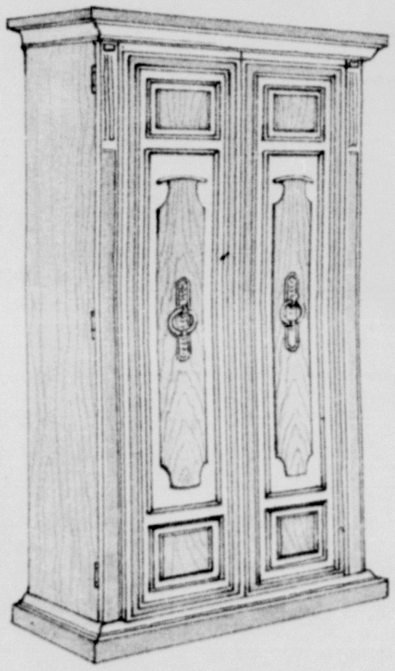


Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.



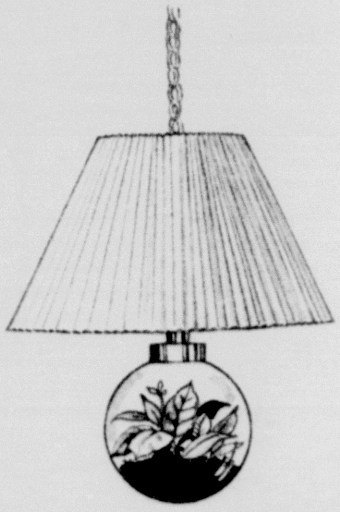
Sea Captain's Chest

Why not a chest as a coffee table or at the foot of the bed, like this design adaptation of an old sea captain's chest? It's pine finished on pine veneers and solids with brass-tipped corners and latch, and authentic rope pulls. Its interior is finely finished. Bassett. Under $130.



Storage Solved with Style

Knights of old had their storage problems, too. The armoire was originally designed as a cabinet to house their armor. This trimmer style, rescaled for modern-day living, is fitted with two large shelves (one of which has a removable center divider to accommodate a TV set or stereo), three shirt compartments and two tray drawers. It's ideal as a bedroom unit or for linens in the hall. It measures 40″x 20″x70″, and is available in a sable tone or antique white with umber and salmon striping. Basic-Witz. Approximately $288.



Terrarium Lamp

Why didn't someone think of this before? An enclosed planter benefits from the light of this smartly designed lamp, topped with a white pleated-vinyl shade. Each unit comes complete with a booklet of instructions, a two-quart Black Magic dry-planter mix, a bag of charcoal for drainage and decorative white gravel. Watering is at a minimum. Sunset Lamps. About $40.

Elegantly Appointed

The classic tufted Tuxedo sofa is one of today's most wanted styles because it mixes so well with other furnishings. Traditionally it is covered in leather or suede, making its cost prohibitive. This version, 92 inches long, with luxuriously tufted seat and back and deep cushioned arms, is made in easy-care vinyl. (A love seat, 67½ inches long, is also available.) Berkline. About $385.

to their ideas. Children are less interested in how the room looks as a whole and more interested in how each part works. For example, a teenage girl will almost invariably ask for a bed that can be set against a wall, with bolsters and pillows to convert it into a sofa so she can entertain her friends. Do remember children's needs change rapidly. If you're careful and use a little sophistication in the basic color and design treatments for their rooms, you'll avoid a yearly redecorating problem.

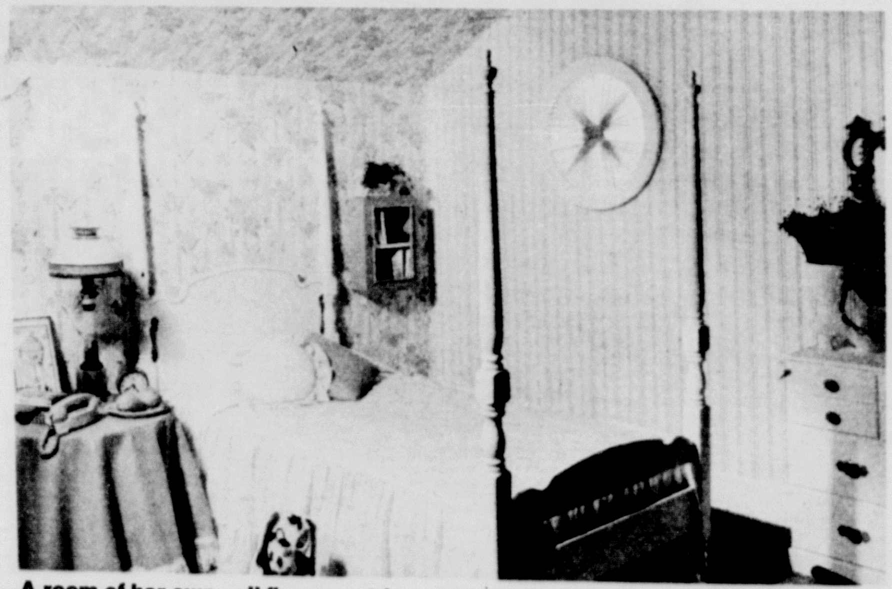
Solution: Mix Bold Patterns with Quiet Textures

A conventional master bedroom charges to life with the addition of striking geometrics—not wall covering, but sheets stapled to the walls! Further catalysts: coordinated window shades, a solid-color textured rug and sleek, low bedroom furniture of vinyl veneer laminate around recycled wood particleboard. The stain- and heat-resistant furniture is by Sierra Permaneer. The sheets and bedspread are designed by Yves St. Laurent for Fieldcrest.



A room of her own—all flowers, stripes and eyelet—carved out of the attic.

Solution: Create a Room at the Top

To a teenager, a bedroom of her own is a necessity—even if just to keep the tranquillity for the rest of the family. This airy attic is a colorful, yet practical, niche, whose design aim is to work with the architecture of the room, not to camouflage it. Birge fabric-backed vinyl wall covering is easily installed up one wall and over the ceiling to balance the adjacent stripe. This pattern is strippable to accommodate teenagers' changing whims, scrubbable to compensate for grimy fingers. Do-it-yourself bull's-eye window is of sheer fabric stapled into place and fastened with a velvet bow.

We will rush your first set of 28 Recipe Cards — SEASONAL FAVORITES — and four blank cards for your own recipe discoveries . . . PLUS the Recipe File and Divider Cards, for 14 days FREE examination. You may return the cards within 14 days and owe us nothing. Or you may pay only $1.00 plus a small charge for postage, handling and local tax for the set of Recipe Cards. Either way, the Recipe File, a $5.00 value, will be yours as a GIFT, without obligation.

In the following two months you will receive your second and third sets of recipe cards for the same low price of just $1.00 each plus postage, handling, and local tax. If you are completely satisfied, you will thereafter receive three sets of recipe cards a month for the next seven months, until your 24-set library is complete. You will always be billed at the same low price of $1.00 per set plus postage, handling, and local tax, and the sets are in every case sent to you on approval. You may also cancel the entire arrangement at any time. When your Betty Crocker Recipe Card Library is complete, you will have more than 1,000 recipes at your fingertips to meet every home and entertainment need.

Offer may not be repeated this season in this publication.
Offer limited to one per household. Available in Canada—priced slightly higher.

*Recipe given

GLORIA'S EASY COMPANY CHICKEN WINGS

½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon paprika
1 cup (2 sticks) margarine, melted
1 box (8 ozs.) salted cheese crackers, finely crushed
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground black pepper
3½ lbs. chicken wings

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Line two shallow 15x10½x1-inch pans with aluminum foil.

2. Stir garlic powder, instant minced onion and paprika into melted margarine.

3. Combine cheese cracker crumbs, salt and pepper in heavy paper bag.

4. Dip chicken wings first in margarine mixture, then in cheese cracker crumbs, coating completely.

5. Place chicken wings on prepared baking pans and bake for 40-45 minutes, until golden brown.

Makes 6-8 servings

SIMPLE CHEESE TARTS

1 pkg. (8 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs
12 vanilla wafers
1 can (21 ozs.) cherry, pineapple, blueberry or peach pie filling

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Line 12 medium-size cupcake cups with fluted paper baking cups.

2. In medium bowl with electric mixer blend cream cheese, sugar and eggs. Beat well.

3. Place a vanilla wafer in bottom of each paper cake cup. Fill each with about 2 tablespoons cheese filling. Bake 10-12 minutes. Filling will be firm.

4. Cool for 45 minutes on rack. Spoon pie filling on top of each tart. Refrigerate.

Makes 12 tarts

Why do you smoke?

With what you've been hearing about smoking these days, you probably wonder sometimes why you smoke at all.

Yet you enjoy it.

Because smoking a cigarette can be one of those rare and pleasurable private moments.

And the chances are you don't want to give up any of that.

Which brings us to Vantage.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who don't entertain the idea of giving up cigarettes because they find cigarettes too entertaining.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who have come to realize that most cigarettes that give them the flavor they want also give them a lot of the 'tar' and the nicotine that they may not want.

Vantage is the cigarette for people who've found that most low 'tar' cigarettes don't give them anything at all.

The thing that makes Vantage special is that its filter is based on a new design concept that gives smokers the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine.

Now we don't want to suggest that Vantage is the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette you'll find.

It isn't.

But it sure is the lowest one that will give you enjoyment.

And that's why you smoke. Right?

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Barbara Rush: "I've Always Wanted to Be Independent!"

"I don't think I suffered any more than any other girl, but I have been hungry and I have had to work."

We met at her elegantly furnished Beverly Hills home. She looked as beautiful as she did when she first came to a dinner party at my house 20 years ago. Her life has never been easy; she's now married to her third husband. And she's never really made it to the top of her profession, never quite reached stardom. Yet she seemed better adjusted than most women in Hollywood.

Family Weekly: You have worked with some of the top names in films, and you have a reputation for being one of the most competent actresses in Hollywood – yet you've never really been a star. Do you mind?

BARBARA: No, I don't. In this business it's the breaks that count. I still don't know why some girls become stars and some don't. Besides, I like the English approach, where Laurence Olivier doesn't mind doing bit parts. He once said there is no such thing as small roles, only small actors. What's more, I prefer television to the movies nowadays. I make more money doing guest shots and leads in TV films than most movie actresses do.

FW: What do you look for in a movie script?

BARBARA: One good scene. Or at least one really good moment. I call it the magic moment—that one scene, no matter how brief, that I can do something with. Which is why I took the lead in Disney's "A Son-In-Law for Charlie McCready." It has what I was talking about. In fact, it offers more than one good moment.

Barbara Rush: "I don't spend in a whole year what I used to spend on one dress . . ."

FW: How many children do you have?

BARBARA: Two. My son Christopher, who is 22, from my marriage to Jeff [the late actor Jeffrey Hunter] and Claudia Lynn, who is 11, from my marriage to Warren [publicist Warren Cowan].

FW: Do they live with you?

BARBARA: My son doesn't—he goes to school and works in a restaurant, and occasionally comes to see his mother! Economically he is very independent. He doesn't want anything from me.

FW: Did he inherit this independence from you?

BARBARA: Certainly. I've always wanted to be independent! I think every woman should be.

FW: When did you first feel that way?

BARBARA: It dates back to my childhood. I don't think I suffered any more than any other girl, but I have been hungry and I have had to work. The one thing my father insisted on was that I get a good practical education, which included shorthand and typing. My father taught me to be self-reliant. And I agree with him. That's all that you really have in life—yourself.

FW: Have you had to rely on yourself through your life?

BARBARA: A good part of it. Like when I went to college, I worked for a lumber company, a real estate company, and a lemon-packing company in Carpenteria.

FW: Did you have to pay your own way through college?

BARBARA: Sort of. I had a scholarship to the Pasadena Playhouse that took care of my tuition and books only. For room and board I lived with a doctor's family and took care of their baby. The Playhouse gave me five dollars a week for clothing and sundries. I learned to survive on breakfast and dinner, and walked three miles each way from home to the Playhouse to save on carfare.

FW: You are married now to sculptor James Gruzalski. Have three marriages disillusioned you about marriage, or the way of life in Hollywood?

BARBARA: I don't even know what the Hollywood way of life is. I suppose it is parties, seeing

If you use a laxative more than once a week...

Here's real relief from constipation

If you've been taking magnesia, salts, oils or harsh chemical laxatives once a week or more and you're still not satisfied—here's a better way to end constipation worries. Take gentle, effective Serutan. It's different!

Unlike other laxatives that may cause irritation or griping, Serutan, taken daily, forms a soft gel which moistens food wastes and shapes them into a well-formed stool. Serutan produces the proper amount of bulk needed to help bring peristaltic stimulation to your sluggish colon. This is utterly different than forcing your system with harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out. You can take gentle Serutan every day because it is a pure vegetable hydrogel and contains no harsh roughage, no chemical laxatives. Take Serutan every day to get regular—and keep regular.

Delicious Fruit Flavor

Serutan is available in delicious fruit flavor. Get Serutan fruit flavor or unflavored powder, or toasted granules. When you read Serutan backwards, it spells "natures." And nature's way is best.

Barbara Rush with her husband, sculptor James Gruzalski, at a benefit.

Barbara Rush

Continued

the same people over and over again. If it is, I don't do that any more. I used to, when I was married to Warren. Today I have a much more normal family life–like baseball games, and football, movies and friends. I work hard, and I like to look at television. I enjoyed the Watergate coverage, for instance.

FW: Do you still believe in marriage?

BARBARA: Not any more. I think a lot of the new ideas are sensible. The time when a woman should be married by age 23 is over. I think the final emancipation of women has come.

FW: What happens to the woman who has children?

BARBARA: I think the social pressure is off that as well. It's healthy. I know a lot of normal men who have never married, and today there are a lot of normal women who don't want to get married either.

FW: Do you think this emancipation is based on sexual liberation only?

BARBARA: No. I think it has a great deal to do with economics. Today a woman can support herself. Even getting married to give a child a name is gone, as far as I am concerned. It is interesting to see how many fathers are raising children as well.

FW: Then what do you think is the important thing in life today?

BARBARA: To grow, to develop. You don't stop when you are 20.

FW: And how do you go about that?

BARBARA: By reading. By educating yourself. By becoming more tolerant of other people. A lot of my friends have stopped doing that, which is one reason I don't like to see them any more. That is also the reason I'd always like to act–to get better in what I like to do, what I think I am good at. I am very lucky to have a job I really enjoy. Everything else, like clothes, cooking, is just a hobby. If I had a choice, next to acting the most important things would be reading and music.

FW: You once said that this was not a time to raise children. What did you mean by that?

BARBARA: The family unit is so split today, it is hard for parents to control their children. There are too many outside pressures. When I grew up, the kids always came along for dinner when the parents were invited. Today this hardly ever happens. The kids have their own activities. A lot of their values have changed. In Beverly Hills it is hard to get them away from a materialistic attitude. And, worst of all, the kids are constantly exposed to drugs.

FW: Did you have a drug problem with your children?

BARBARA: Yes, with my two stepdaughters and my son. But they got over it.

FW: How do you feel about drugs?

BARBARA: I don't approve. As a result, sometimes I've gone to certain parties in Hollywood where I've felt like an outsider. I don't like to see people all spaced out. I think it's a waste of life.

FW: Do you believe in any form of escape?

BARBARA: Not artificial escape. That's why I don't drink or smoke. I have never had a drink in my life.

FW: How do you feel about clothes?

BARBARA: I got them out of my system when I was married to Warren. We used to go to Paris every year and see all of the collections and waste a lot of money. Today I dress simply, comfortably and inexpensively. I don't spend in a whole year what I used to spend on one dress when I was married to Warren.

FW: Is there anything, aside from acting, that you still want to do?

BARBARA: I love traveling. I wanted to become a spokeswoman for Pan Am, but Pan Am decided they didn't need a spokeswoman.

FW: Why was that so appealing?

BARBARA: Because I thought I could travel for nothing, or for a discount.

FW: If you could live your life over again, would you still become an actress?

BARBARA: If I lived my life over, I would become an airline stewardess for a couple of years so I could travel all over the world. But at least in that respect I've been lucky in my career because I've had a chance to travel quite a bit!

Death Row

"We have halted capital punishment for even the worst kind of criminal; yet, this year, we will execute 17,000,000 innocent animals whose only crime was being born unwanted."

--Belton P. Mouras

This is the final day. If these pets aren't adopted by four o'clock they will be put-to-sleep . . . forever.

WHY? They're surplus. Excess. They must die by four o'clock because there are more pets than there are homes. Five out of every six puppies and kittens born die in one tragic way or other. MILLIONS are destroyed in pounds; more millions are abandoned to starvation, disease and highway slaughter. And on top of the terrible toll paid in animal life, it costs you, the American taxpayer, $500,000,000 annually just to keep from being overrun by stray cats and dogs.

WHAT'S THE ANSWER? Planned pethood. Animal birth control. Until veterinary science discovers a pet "pill," the only sure way to keep pets from breeding unwanted litters is a spaying operation which some people can't afford. There's a desperate need now for low-cost spaying clinics—and accelerated pet contraceptive research.

Something must be done. The consequences of doing nothing are horrifying: bigger-and-bigger pounds to kill more-and-more animals, and restrictive laws banning pets from cities. Who wants to contemplate the future day when pets are outlawed—when man has no other animal companion but himself?

YOU can change this grim forecast. Join us to halt surplus breeding NOW.

It's almost four o'clock.

Formula for relief of Bronchial Congestion,
Bronchial Asthma.

Helps rid lungs of excess phlegm.

Helps clear air passages, restore free breathing, relieve distress
...coughing and wheezing.

This clinic-tested preparation is called Bronkaid®. In one tablet, Bronkaid combines an expectorant and bronchodilators to attack the two major causes of congestion and wheezing.

Bronkaid Tablets quickly start acting to soften and loosen excess phlegm. The direct action helps rid your air passages of sticky, stringy phlegm. At the same time, Bronkaid helps relax tightened bronchial muscles and eases the distress that results from stagnant air trapped in the lungs.

With Bronkaid Tablets, you enjoy amazing two-way help in one combination tablet. Bronkaid helps you cough up phlegm, clear clogged air passages, restores free breathing. You cough less; you breathe more freely, easily.

For rapid relief of coughing and wheezing of bronchial congestion and bronchial asthma, for relief that lasts for hours, get Bronkaid Tablets today. No prescription required. Available at your local drugstore. Drew Laboratories; Div. of Sterling Drug Inc., New York, N.Y. 10016.

This child has a devoted mother, good clothes, balanced meals —and Pin-Worms!

A tormenting itch in the rectal area, nose-picking and fidgeting are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms. It can happen to anyone in any family—young or old, rich or poor. It's so common, medical authorities say that 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, have Pin-Worms without knowing it. And because Pin-Worms bring on itching and fidgeting, they can distract children and affect their school work!

What's more, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

What can you do about it? Fortunately there is an easy-to-take medication that gets rid of Pin-Worms. It's called Jayne's® P-W® tablets. Ask your pharmacist. He'll tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that gets Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

PETE STRUDWICK
Runner without feet

"I'm the only man alive who has run marathons over mountains . . . and does it without feet!" So says Pete Strudwick, 41, born with stumps for hands and feet as a result of German measles. In his four years of running he has conquered Mt. Kennedy in the Canadian Yukon and Mt. Williamson in California. But his toughest race was up and down Pike's Peak—27 miles of muscle-ripping trail with 15,000 feet of altitude change. One-third of the 229 entrants dropped out. Pete got to the top, but it took him 45 minutes longer than permitted. The judges ruled him ineligible to run back down. Pete argued with them for 20 minutes, and finally just took off, coming in at the finish line after 8 hours and 14 minutes of running. Pete didn't win Pike's Peak, but even in losing, he explains, "Running is an act of living for me. It's kept me from feeling sorry for myself. And this encouragement is what I call out to other runners around me. This reaching out to others has made me stronger."

Are persistently fat women different from other people? According to some studies by the Obesity and Metabolic Research Program of TOPS, a nonprofit weight-control organization, they are definitely different. Though they think of themselves as outgoing and sociable, they actually feel lonely and rejected, dissatisfied and tense. Their mothers, they think, are much more productive than they are, yet they seem to reject emulation of their mothers' achievements. Long-term fat women see themselves as quite feminine, but they don't feel attractive to men because of their size. One researcher, Dr. Raymond J. McCall of Marquette University, adds that "often the girls' eating is not so much a response to appetite as a response to emotional tension. They eat to tranquilize themselves." His solution? Physical exercise. "It's just as good a tranquilizer as eating, and, for overweight people, a much healthier one."

MICK JAGGER
Like a very little kid?

The Rolling Stones, close-up: "You felt their isolation; it encircled all of them in a whirl of light and noise. It was like a soreness in the corners of their eyes that made them appear to be in need of coddling, Jagger especially. He always seemed as if just about to cry. Really break down and let loose like a very little kid, and he never really did, and you knew he never would, wouldn't like you seeing him that way, though maybe with his friends he was different, though you doubted that. The only tender moments I observed were between members of the band. Their wives and girl friends were mommies and they treated them accordingly, with distance and contempt. . . . But they seemed to know each other much too well to put up with anything less than respect, regard, and awareness of each other's needs. They shared in an attitude that one notes in convicts or reform school boys." From "Uptight with the Stones," by Richard Elman (Scribners, $5.95).

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

COLLECTING MY WITS

My wife is a splendid accumulator,
In fact, I believe there is no one who's greater.
Some collect stamps, whereas some collect pottery,
Some collect tickets for any old lottery.
Some collect photos to show they've been places.
Some collect paintings, and some collect vases.
My wife collects everything—that includes wrappings,
Old letters and string and all manner of trappings.
With all she collects, our poor home is a clutter,
And I have been known on occasion to mutter.
But wait just a moment, that's not quite correct;
She's not a collector—no, things just collect.

To
Mr. Anthony Quinn
Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Mr. Quinn:

You are my favorite Actor. Can you send me Rod Steiger's picture to put on my desk?

Yours truly,
Bertha M_________

It may be frustrating, but on the other hand, aren't you glad you're not getting all the government you're paying for? —Lucille J. Goodyear

A husband complains: "It's terrible to grow old alone—my wife hasn't had a birthday in four years."
